All I so he was. I'd nearly forget-ten that he was one of the puests at my wide's party. Clearly, I couldn't get the safe open, and I didn't like to leave the money in my desk, so I put it in my pecket and took it homo, thinking I'd give it to Cousins with reached home; for you see it had been arranged that I was to go up stairs and dress before anybody came; and that then our room was to be made ready for the ladies to take their bonnets off for they were cot ail carriage people. Well, you never saw such a thing! When I got home and crept up stairs to dress—the people had all come, so the servant said—there were six muffs, the servent said—there were six muffi, and four bunners, and five pork-price lists, and half a dozen claudy on the hed, and one haly had left her every day cuts hanging over the looking glass! Upon my word I really didn't like to perform my toilet among all those feminine gear; and my dress-cluthes ware all smothered up among these muffs and things. But I got through pretty well, and had just got one of my legs into my trousers, when hang-strop-dopt such a ratter at the knokerr, and herent my wife centilities own with a label.
