A great many city papers are making complaints that the census enumeration is not correct. Elmira, Buffalo, Chicago, St. Louis, and in fact almost every city of any size has been undercated, these papers claim. If the government should offer a reward of $10,000 for the name of a city that had complained because the figures had been placed too high you wouldn't hear a peep. It is possible that a few names were omitted in some of the larger cities, but the probabilities are that the official return will be as nearly correct as it is possible to make them. Some cities want to grow too fast.

Fred. Wiggins is still on earth, and still follows his trade of foretelling disagreeable improbabilities. His latest venture is in regard to the cholera. He says there is some danger of the disease appearing in America the present year. Cholera, he observes, appears every 18 years, the time of Saturn's node and Jupiters conjunction, and as the disease showed itself in Canada and carried off its victims in 1854, he fears that after the lapse of eighteen years the disease will be more, especially as it is already in Europe. As the disease is at epidemic and volcanic, it is impossible to prevent its arrival by any quarantine regulations. Nobody believes this fellow knows anything about it.

WOMAN'S COLUMN.

More than fifty Nebraska editors and publishers have agreed to fill space in their regular news and editorial columns to be filled with known falsehoods and preverted statistics in favor of the liquor traffic.

I have had 22,000 prisoners through my hands since I have been the governor of this gaol, but though I have inquired, I have not discovered one teetotaller among them.—Gov. of Canterbury Gaol.

The Stone City Patriot declares that the Joliet branch of the Illinois Steel Company, with a capitalization of $3,000,000, employs at least 1,500 men while, according to their advertisement, the five Chicago brewers recently consolidated with a capitalization of over $10,000,000, employ less than 300 men. In other words, an equal investment in the steel industry gives employment to over 15 times as many men as that of beer.

It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless true, that alcohol regularly applied to the thrifty farmer's stomach will remove the boards from his fence, let the cattle into his crops, kill his fruit trees, mortgage his farm and sow his fields with wild oats and thistles. It will take the paint off his buildings, break the glass out of them and fill them with rags. It will take the gloss from his clothes and the polish from his manners, subdue his reason, arouse his passions, bring sorrow and disgrace upon his family and topple him into a drunkard's grave. It will do this to the artisan and capitalist, the matron and maiden, as well as to the farmer; for, in its deadly enmity to the human race, alcohol is no respecter of persons.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

The international Sunday-school convention at Pittsburg, last week, made an important change concerning temperance lessons. Memorials and resolutions from various state conventions, together with petitions and memorials from many societies and individuals, asking that four Sundays each year be especially set apart for the teaching of temperance in the Sabbath schools, the international committee to furnish appropriate lessons, were presented to the convention, largely as the result of the indefatigable labors of Miss Lucia E F. Kimball, superintendent of Sunday-school work for the National W. C. T. U. Miss Willard also made a strong plea in behalf of the memorials and a stirring debate was had. The discussion resulted in the setting apart of two Sundays to be exclusively devoted to temperance teaching and of two other Sundays for which both a temperance lesson and a missionary lesson are to be provided, leaving it optional with schools to use either. The executive committee further recommended to the publishers of lesson helps throughout the United States and Canada that the expositions and notes on temperance lessons be made as full as on other lessons of the quarter and also that the subject of temperance be especially emphasized in all lessons whenever practicable.

Gen. John C. Freemont, the first candidate of the Republican party for president, died at the home of his adopted daughter, the wife of Col. H. M. Porter, (Miss Fremont), at 49-West Twenty-fifth St., New York, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

We elect a Congress in November which does not enter upon its duties until thirteen months after it has been elected. Meanwhile an old Congress continues to sit, enacting legislation along lines which the people may have distinctly declared abhorrent. This anomalous and absurd feature of our machinery ought to be abolished. The Congress elected next November should become forthwith the actual legislature. The President should be inaugurated immediately after the opening of Congress.—Chicago Herald.

City Men as Farmers.

Just at this time of the year there is always a number of city men who get an itching desire to be farmers—not farmers for health or pleasure, but farmers for profit. Now, farming is a grand occupation; but to the average city business man who gets into it for profit it holds out nothing but failure. The city farmer, for example, never considers as does the wise and knowing farmer, that there may be disappointment in crops. He thinks whatever he sows will come up and yield profit. Even a stupid turnip knows a city farmer as soon as it sees him. Narrow-fat peas fairly rattle in their pods with derision as he passes. The fields are glad to impose upon the novice. Wandering too near the beehive with a book on honey-making, he gets stung in three places; his cauliflowers turn out to be cabbages; the thunder spoils his milk; the grass-butter that he dreams of is rancid; the taxes eat up his profits; and drought consumes his corn; the rust gets in his wheat; the peaches drop off before they ripen; the rot strikes the potatoes; expecting to surprise his benighted city friends with a present of a few early vegetables he accidently hears that they have had new potatoes, green peas and sweet corn for a fortnight, the bay mare runs away with the box-wagon; his rustic gate gets out of order; his shrubbery is perpetually needing the shears, it seems almost impossible to keep the grass out of the serpentine walks; a cow gets in and destroys the vase of flowers; the hogs destroy the watermelons, and the gardener runs off with the chamber-maid. Everything goes wrong and farming is a failure. It always is a failure when a man knows nothing about it; if a man can afford to make a large outlay for his own amusement and the health of his family, let him hasten to his country purchase. But no sensible man will think to keep a business in town and make a farm financially profitable.—T. De Witt Talmage, in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Ladies' Home Journal.

Every story, article and poem in The Ladies' Home Journal for July has an outdoor flavor, and a better magazine for summer reading has never been prepared for women. A beautiful illustrated article "A Day with Ida Lewis" the Grace Darling of America, is the first authentic description ever published of the home life of the famous heroine who lives alone in Lime Rock Light House, and has saved so many lives. It is a fascinating article, and is followed by one on "Amateur Photography for Girls," which every girl who has or intends getting a camera should read. Mary T. Holmes gives a lovely "Moonlight View of Naples," while Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, the noted physician, furnishes a most practical and timely article on "Hints for Summer Tourists." Anne Sheldon Coombes has a dainty story on sunny Italy, beautifully telling of "An Untold Love," while Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Kate Upson Clark and Maud Howe each furnish parts of their novels. A bright Vassar girl tells of "A Girl's Life at College;" Dr. Talmage writes of summer pleasures and dangers; Edward W. Bok gives some "Helps to Literary Success;" The Duchess tells how she wrote her first novel; Mrs. Mallon has five pages of most practical styles in women's dress, and then follow a dozen more large pages each replete with something entertaining, useful or helpful for women. The Ladies' Home Journal is only One Dollar a year, and is published at 433-436 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa.

REMARKABLE RESCUE.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill, makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle, and to her delight found herself benefitted by the first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this great discovery at Brainard's drug store, large bottles 50c and $1.00. 2 wastes or gives away during the year more or less kitchen grease, each pound of which can in a few minutes be converted into two pounds of the PUREST SOAP, far better than can be found on sale. The only expense for making ten pounds of this soap, with five and one-half pounds of grease or oil, is the trifling cost of one can of BANNER LYE, to be found at nearly every grocery store.

Dissolve the contents of one can of Banner Lye in three and one-half pints of cold water, and pour slowly into five and one-half pounds of lukewarm grease, stirring from the start, until it thickens into a mushy condition; then pour into any kind of mould to harden—a child can make it, and full directions are to be found back of enchlabel.

A can of Banner Lye will do the work of twenty-one pounds of washing soda, and besides its value for scrubbing purposes, the cleansing and disinfecting of Sinks, Closets and Waste Pipes, destroying the Filth and Disease arising therefrom, makes its systematic use one of the greatest boons the housekeeper has fallen heir to.

On Tuesday of last week Dr. O'Donnell of this place removed a scirrhus (stony) tumor from the breast of Mrs. D. A. Smith of Alfred. The patient is only 24 years old and Dr. O'Donnell has treated her for some months, finally advising her to submit to an operation as the surer means of preventing future trouble. The operation was entirely successful, and upon examination last Sunday the doctor found the healing process progressing to his complete satisfaction.

The Belmont correspondent of the NEWS, County Clerk Green, was in Andover Sunday and picked up a few items for publication, in this paper. The only one we dare publish as containing a true statement is the following: "W. H. Church attended church last Sunday." Mr. Green didn't leave any explanation with the item, consequently we must leave our readers to judge whether remarkable fact in the item is that Mr. Church went to the house of worship, or whether the fact that Mr. Green saw him there is the occasion for comment.

Tuesday, August 12, has been decided upon as the Society Day at the Cuba Temperance Camp. Good Templars, Juvenile Templars, Sons of Temperance and Royal Templars are all expected to unite in the effort to make it an important occasion in the interest of all the societies of Allegany and Cattaraugus counties. Each one of the organizations should secure a tent to accommodate their members and friends The County Lodge of Good Templars in this county have ordered a large tent for the use of the order.

The Stearns Will Case Settled.

The controversy over the will of the late John Stearns of this place has been settled satisfactorily to all parties. The dissenting heirs are to receive a farm of 250 acres in Alfred, with the stock thereon, and another farm of 50 acres. This will give them considerable more than they would have received under the terms of the will, but not as much as they demanded in the contest, each side making concessions in order to come to an agreement. The will is to be admitted to probate on Friday of this week, and the executor, E. F. Stearns, will go ahead and settle up the estate.

Of course Mr. Burrows is glad to receive the four dollars, even though he doesn't draw interest on the loan, but he is in a quandary as to whether he should keep the whole sum or divide with his late partner, W. Perhaps the writer of the above letter could furnish the information. At all events this person is entitled to credit for his or her honesty in returning the money.

The admission of the new states in the Northwest, with their total of 19 votes in the Electoral College, may lessen the importance of New York in the next Presidential election. The State will be as essential as ever to the election of a Democratic President; but with the new states voting, as they probably will, for the Republican candidate in 1892, it will not be indispensible to Republican success. One of the most gratifying signs of the the rapid growth of the West is that it will be likely, within many years, to decline the political preponderance of New York in Presidential elections.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

A Pretty Old Eagle.

A German paper states that in Lapland an eagle was shot, and "around its neck it had a brass chain, to which a tin box which contained a time tin box was fastened. The box contained a slip of paper, on which was written in Danish, "Caught and set free again in 1792."

A remarkable longevity for an eagle is possible, but it is quite certain that the tin box around this particular eagle's neck, would have rusted and rotted to pieces in ten years.—London Tid-Bits.
