...Assembly.

...Chautauqua Assembly ...promise of unex... Last year every ...body, from Presi... ...baggage-master at ...with facts and ...there were more people here for a longer time than ever before. But this year beats the record. The original Assembly lasted for three weeks. To-day cottagers have already been installed here for that period who mean to stay until the end of August. The original program comprised a few lectures and entertainments by worthy but unknown men. The program for 1890 embraces the names of several eminent musicians, Congressmen, Federal officials, and Governors of states, an ex-United States Minister, four popular novelists, college professors and presidents, and a late candidate for President of the United States. The original Assembly consisted of a few tents pitched in the grove above the lake; the stockades now enclose an area of 200 acres, covered by more than 600 cottages, several rows of stores, a postoffice, a large hotel, a finely equipped gymnasium, and lecture halls in every style of architecture. The grounds are partly lighted by electricity. There is a telegraph office and a police force, a street cleaning department and a justice of peace; but there is never a strike or a lockout, and subway explosions are unknown.

Besides the Assembly itself, there is that great Chautauqua Reading Circle, which last year had an enrolled membership of 150,000 and a constituency of 60,000 active students, mailing from all parts of the Western Hemisphere and from nearly every civilized nation of the Old World, and which has done more to bring higher education into the homes of the people than ever its founder once dreamed of. Some men are fortunate enough to realize in their own lifetime the fruits of their labors, and among them are the fathers of Chautauqua. Certainly no two men ever saw greater results spring from smaller beginnings within a single generation than have been witnessed by Lewis Miller and Bishop John H. Vincent, and the fact bears striking testimony to the potency of individual effort and persistent energy and enthusiasm. Prof. Boyesen says that Chautauqua is the most American thing in America. It is doubtful whether such an institution could ever have taken root in monarchical soil or flourished in any atmosphere but that of republican fellowship and goodwill. Its originators are not merely philanthropists. They are men of strong practical ideas and shrewd common sense, full of intelligent sympathy with those who lack education and qualified by their own experience wisely to supply their needs. Each is what he has made himself. Mr. Miller began life as a machinist, Bishop Vincent as pastor of a village church. Neither ever passed through a college as a student, and yet it would be difficult to come across two men of wider or more generous views. Both insist on the value of college training. "College training," says the Bishop, "gives a man mental discipline, enables him to take a general survey of the fields of knowledge, and brings him in contact with living minds and active intellects." The "Chautauqua idea" is primarily to give the imperfectly educated the college outlook. The motto of the reading circle is "Look Up and Lift Up," and the spirit of cordiality and comradeship which permeates the whole Chautauqua atmosphere imparts a splendid stimulus to all who breathe it.—Chautauqua corr. New York Tribune.

The Oldest City in the World.

Damascus is the oldest city in the world. Tyre and Sidon have crumbled on the shore; Baalbec is a ruin; Palmyra is buried in a desert; Nineveh and Babylon have disappeared from the Tigris and the Euphrates. Damascus remains what it was before the days of Abraham—a centre of trade and travel—an isle of verdure in the desert; a presidential capital with martial and sacred associations extending through thirty centuries. It was near Damascus that Saul of Tarsus saw the light above the brightness of the sun; the street which is called Strait, in which it was said 'he prayed,' still runs through the city. The caravan comes and goes as it did 1,000 years ago; there is still the shaik, the sea and the water-wheel; the merchants of the Euphrates and the Mediterranean still occupy the streets with the multitude of their wares. The city which Mohommed surveyed from a neighboring height, and was afraid to enter, 'because it was given to man to have but one paradise, and for his part he was resolved not to have it in this world,' is to-day what Julian called the 'Eye of the East,' as it was in the time of Isaiah, 'the head of Syria.'

From Damascus came the damson, our blue plums, and the delicious apricot of Perugal, called damasco; damask, our beautiful fabric of cotton and silk, with vines and flowers raised upon a smooth, bright ground; the damask rose introduced into England in the time of Henry VIII.; the Damascus blade so famous the world over for its keen edge and wonderful elasticity, the secret of whose manufature was lost when Tamerlane carried the artist into Persia, and that beautiful art of inlaying wood and steel with gold and Silver, a kind of mosaic, engraving and sculpture united so called damaskeening—with which boxes, bureaus and swords are ornamented. It is still a city of waters; the streams of Lebanon and the 'silk of gold' still murmur and sparkle in the wilderness of the Syrian Gardens.

WOMAN'S COLUMN.

A Kansas Chautauqua Assembly, in session at Ottawa, Kas., subscribed $3,000 to fight the 'original package' dealers, and passed a resolution providing that a committee be appointed to capture each 'original package' dealer, tar and feather him, and ship him back to Missouri labeled 'An original package from Kansas for Missouri.'

Disembodied opinions, however good, are as useless in this world as disembodied spirits, and must be clothed within some form to reach the evil as we meet it in our political life. The vote of church, therefore, as well as its teachings and opinions, must attack this mighty wrong in our political life.—Mary T. Lathrap.

Mrs. M. V. Taylor, of Washington, Pa., is a dealer in oil well supplies, who has made a fortune through her business sagacity. Left a widow with a child to support, she learned book-keeping and secured a position with an oil firm. Here she became acquainted with oil wells and supplies and the standing of oil firms. Finally she became a dealer in a small way, and seeing that there was a prospect of the supply of well-casing becoming inadequate to the demand, she invested as largely as she could in casing, and sold it later at a large profit. Mrs. Taylor has also transacted frequent profitable dealings in real estate and oil wells; and has invented an improved iron tubing. She is so fully alive to the demands of her business that it has become a saying among oil men that from her store "can be obtained anything necessary to an oil well, from a steam-engine to a tool file."

REMARKABLE RESCUE.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill, makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle, and to her delight found herself benefitted by the first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. wastes or gives away during the year more or less kitchen grease, each pound of which can in a few minutes be converted into two pounds of the PUREST SOAP, far better than can be found on sale. The only expense for making ten pounds of this soap, with five and one-half pounds of grease or oil, is the trifling cost of one can of BANNER LYE, to be found at nearly every grocery store.

Dissolve the contents of one can of Banner Lye in three and one-half pints of cold water, and pour slowly into five and one-half pounds of inferior grease, stirring from the start, until it thickens into a mushy condition; then pour into any kind of mould to harden—a child can make it, and full directions are to be found back of each label.

A can of Banner Lye will do the work of twenty-one pounds of washing soda, and besides its value for scrubbing purposes, the cleansing and disinfecting of Sinks, Closets and Waste Pipes, destroying the Pipes and Disease arising therefrom, makes its systematic use one of the greatest boons the housekeeper has fallen heir to.

A Mother's Brave Deed.

The Elmira Gazette of Saturday says:

"A lady and gentlemen accompanied by a pretty little boy about four years of age boarded the Tioga train which left Elmira at 5:05 o'clock last night. The party had tickets for Lawrenceville and when the train reached that place at 6:30 o'clock, conductor J. L. Judd helped them off and stood by the depot waiting for a freight train to get out of the way so passengers could board and leave the Fall Brook passenger train. Unobserved by the gentleman and lady the little boy walked down by the freight train and just as it started up slowly the woman noticed the child going under a freight car. The other people on the platform noticed him, too, and they were all about paralyzed with fear as they saw the lady drop her wraps and rushing wildly to the side of the moving train, dive under the car after the child. It seemed certain death for both of them, but the one chance in 100 were with the lady and child, and the lady rolled from under the wheels on the other side triumphantly bearing the little boy, and both of them uninjured except for some minor bruises. Several people were made ill by the exciting scene and Conductor Judd was so weak he could scarcely board his train".

A few weeks before the census-takers began the regular census the citizens of Elm Grove, W. Va., thought to enumerate their population, preparatory to incorporating the town. The following is the remarkable result: Number of males over 21 years of age, 146; number of males under 21 years of age, 148; number of females over 16 years of age, 148; number of females under 16 years, 148; grand total, 592.

Excursion manager J. O. Prescott of the Erie Railway, Buffalo, N. Y., has issued a very neat pamphlet, "Niagara Falls," 68 pages, beautifully illustrated, historical, descriptive and a guide, which will be distributed gratuitously to patrons of the 'Erie's' popular excursion to the falls this season. The little work is quite valuable but Mr. Prescott will mail sample copies on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

The Greenwood correspondent of the Hornellsville Times writes: "About a half century ago, in the earlier days of Mormons or Latter Day Saints, this sect had quite a following among the frontiersmen of this place. They have made this locality occasionally a recruiting ground ever since, and there are still a few people here, who believe in the book of Mormon and that an angel told Joe Smith where the plates containing the original of the same were buried near Palmyra, this state. Several were baptised into the fold of Latter Day Saints last Sunday.

An Experience With Lightning

Mrs. Kirkland of Troy, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. Jesse Snyder and other relatives and friends in this vicinity. She arrived on train 1 Thursday evening. The passengers on this train had an unenviable experience in the storm which occurred that day, and which Andover had small portion of. The train encountered the storm west of Binghamton. The door of the rear car was open, and the passengers in this car, of whom Mrs. Kirkland was one, saw a sight they will not soon forget. A charge of lightning struck the track a few rods behind the train, and ran along the rails for a considerable distance, going in the opposite direction of the train. It wriggled along the rails like a huge snake, raising the track, which the train had just passed over, ties and all a foot or two from the ground, and finally disappeared. Everybody was thoroughly frightened, but fortunately no one was hurt, although the whole train had a very narrow escape.

Drowned While Bathing.

Friday night Clifford Bacon, the bright little three year old son of Dr. A. T. Bacon of Canaseraga, was drowned in the creek at that village. He was at play with his cart near the bank and his mother looking out and not observing him sent an elder brother to find him. He returned and told the anxious mother that he could not find Clifford but that his coat and hat were on the bank of the creek with the cart. Search was immediately made and at about 8 o'clock a neighbor dragged the lifeless body from the water with a garden rake.

Deserted His Family.

O. O. Cooper, a farmer living a few miles from Wellsville on the Knight's creek road, has deserted his family and left for parts unknown. Last week he raised by mortgage on personal property $200. He left his home on Monday of last week, to go to Scio. Not hearing from him in three days, inquiries were made by his family, when it was learned that he had been at Scio and had left a letter there for delivery to his family. Upon opening the letter, which was addressed to his wife, the fact of his flight was made known. No cause can be learned for this strange action on his part, as neither debts nor family troubles were known or believed to be troubling him. In this letter he says: "My darling wife and daughter, I have left you for good; do the best you can. God bless you."

Obituary.

The death of Wm. G. Young occurred at his home on Tuesday, July 15, at the age of 80.

Mr. Young was a native of that portion of Ireland which borders so closely upon Scotland that, on a clear day, one can easily look from one country to the other. In that land he spent most of his life having come to this country only 14 years ago, our centennial year.

In early life he united with the Congregational church, and has ever since been characterized by a firm and steadfast trust in the Redeemer that nothing could shake. Especially was this evident during his illness. Although suffering at times very severely, he was yet able to say repeatedly, "I trust only in Jesus." Death g to live, as he naturally might, for he was by no means an aged man, yet he was willing to die.

The funeral was attended from his late residence on Wednesday, July 16, Rev. G. M. Janes of the Presbyterian church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Davis of the Baptist church. A large concourse of neighbors and friends from the surrounding country, and the village of Andover, were present, and the testimony of all was that a good man had departed.

Mr. Young leaves a very devoted wife and three sons to mourn his loss.

One of the latest accomplishments of the young ladies in this vicinity is hay raking.

B. M. Austin of Lockport, was visiting at S. Mead's last week.

A boarder came to 'stay' at Byron Austin's July 18th. Weight 10 pounds.

J. K. Miller's new house is nearly completed.

W. L. Hartrum is building a new home barn.

Quite a large number from this place were appreciative listeners to the excellent sermon preached by James A. Miller at Andover Sunday.

Dr. W. W. Crandall of Wellsville, was in town last Friday, calling on his patients, W. B. Mead and Miss Rhoda Atkins. Both are reported better.

A 3-year-old colt owned by Elias Williamson met with quite a serious accident one day last week, catching its foot in a hole in the barn floor and tearing its hoof and part of its leg off.

CORWIN HILL NEWS.

Lewis Bullard, having finished working on Tim Burdick's barn, will help his father during haying.

Mrs. S. M. Austin was visited last week by her brother from Alfred Centre.

We understand that this place is about to lose one of its fair young ladies. Congratulations.

When Philip Corwin came to deliver his wool he found six of highest fleece missing. Phil says he doesn't mind being charitable, but that he would rather distribute alms to his own liking.

Mrs. D. P. Corwin has been sick for a week past with neuralgia and rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. David Davis made some calls in this vicinity Tuesday of this week.

BONNE FOI.

Who are Entitled to Pension.

It is estimated that there are fully 3,000,000 soldiers, widows, parents and children entitled to relief under the pension bill recently enacted. We give the classes who come in under the new law, as follows:

First—Every father or mother of a deceased soldier will receive $12 per month, provided said soldier would have been entitled to a pension had he lived and left no widow nor minor child. All that is necessary to show is that the claimant is now unable to earn a support.

Second—All honorably discharged soldiers, who served ninety days, who are so disabled as to render them unable to earn a support, are entitled to a pension not exceeding $12 per month. This affects them now on the pension roll receiving less than $12.

Third—Every widow of a soldier or an officer, who has no other means of support than her daily labor, is entitled to $8 per month and $2 per month additional for each minor child, without regard to the cause of soldier's death.

Fourth—When the widow of any officer or soldier is dead or remarried the pension is allowed the children under sixteen years.

Fifth—Where the child of a deceased soldier or officer is insane, idiotic or otherwise helpless, the pension is continued during life or as long as the disability lasts. This provision affects all children who may have been placed on the pension roll, and who are now over 16 years of age. Their names can be restored and pension obtained.

INDEPENDENCE NEWS.

Will Wood of Andover, was in ... Sunday.

E. D. Potter took a trip to Ulysses, Pa., the fore part of last week.

Mr. C. F. Polter, the cheese maker, has moved into his new house.

Mr. Ephriam Stillman is still improving, but Mrs. Ruel Hamilton is reported as no better.

Mr. Adrian LaForge of Alfred Centre, is strengthening his muscles in the hay fields of his cousin, Oscar Potter.

Mr. J. C. Bassett and daughter Lizzie, and Mr. George Bassett and family, of Alfred Centre, were at church here last Saturday.

Communion services and a short sermon were held at the S. D. B. church Saturday forenoon, and in the afternoon there was a conference and prayer meeting and preaching by the pastor.

A fire is a real comfort during the prevailance of the cold wave, which struck here last Friday and still continues.

The Misses Lily and Rosa LaForge of Alfred Centre, who were guests of their cousin, Mr. Oscar Potter, several days last week, returned home Friday.

Mr. George Updyke will soon commence the erection of an annex to his house, and I understand Mr. Ransom Fish of Whitesville, will be boss carpenter of the job.

Mr. Leroy Ainsworth, one of Whitesville's oldest citizens, was found dead in his bed Tuesday morning of last week. He resided with his son-in-law, Charles J. Mather, and there was no reason to suppose that his end was so near. His age was 77. He was well known and greatly esteemed. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jared Kenyon last week Wednesday.

Last week Wednesday Ray, the 13 year-old son of J. T. Livermore, had a narrow escape from a serious if not fatal accident. He had started the team after a load of hay and when near the house on his way to the road, which is a down grade, the hay rack slipped forward striking the horses and starting them into a run, but the boy pluckily held on to the lines, though he was bounced about like a rubber ball, and as they reached the road he engineered them straight at an apple tree on the opposite side of the road, and as the horses passed on opposite sides of the tree the pole was snapped like a pipe-stem, the rack commenced climbing the tree, forward bolster was split, one horse slightly cut by the barbed wire fence, and the brave lad "brought up all standing," though uninjured. It was a providential escape for boy, horses harness and wagon.
