There seems to be one great obsticle in the way of obtaining a lot, that is its location, one party favoring one. Its while sunother oppose it, and a few, we are sorry to say, seem: unwilling to abide the decision of the majority. It is agoing to be impossible for all to be suited in the selection of the grounds. There can be nothing clearer than the fact that we must have grounds: for one where, or people must alto go dying, and we can see bal one way to get them, where a community is divided upon the location, for this and that reaso, but to abide the decisation of the majority, and we hope that such will be the case in this matter.
