THE ANDOVER NEWS.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, - EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., Nov. 11, 1891.

The United States and England have agreed on terms of arbitration of the seal-fishery disputes.

The question of which party will control the next Legislature will not be determined until the contests from some of the Districts are decided. The majority either way will be very small.

Col. Charles E. Walker, late Democratic candidate for Senator from this District, has entered protest against counting the votes cast for F. D. Sherwood, the Senator-elect. This probably means that the fight will be maintained to the end. The political complexion of the next Senate is so much in doubt that the seating of Mr. Sherwood might change the control of that branch of the Legislature. The chances, however, are in favor of Mr. Sherwood.

The Supervisors have appointed a committee to receive bids for publishing the county canvas. The work is to be done by two papers of opposite politics, which means that one-half the papers in the county are barred out of the competition. This shows great business shrewdness (?) on the part of the Supervisors. They might as well restrict the insuring of the county buildings to agencies representing certain religious denominations!

Notwithstanding the election of Franklin D. Sherwood as Senator from this District (!) the Board of Supervisors yesterday took the first step toward consolidating the county seat. A resolution was adopted to the effect that hereafter Belmont shall be the county seat of this county, and all the courts shall be held there. The supervisors from Angelica, Birdsall, Allen and Granger voted against the resolution, all the other members, except two absentees, voting for it. This resolution must be adopted next year by the Board of Supervisors, and afterwards ratified by the voters of the county, before it can become operative. When all this shall be done, the "half-shire nuisance" will be abolished. If last year's Board—which was called a "consolidation Board"—had adopted this resolution the matter would now be one year farther along than it is at present.

"C C Supper."

There will be a C C Supper at the Baptist church next Wednesday evening, Nov. 18. The bill of fare is as follows:

Cold Carved Creature.
Cereal Compounds.
Country Cousin's Comforts.
Cordial Cheer.

Churned Cream.
Canned Compounds.
Cuisine Compounds by Competent Cooks.

Supper served from 6 to 8 o'clock. Price 10 cents.

At the same place you will find various articles, both useful and ornamental, for sale. Come and see them, even if you do not wish to buy. You will be surprised to find out how much you can buy for a very small sum.

Knights of St. John and Malta.

As we stated a few weeks ago, an effort is being made to organize an Encampment of Knights of St. John and Malta in Andover. The Order embodies many good features, prominent among which is the insurance. The members of this Order carried an insurance during 1890 on nine assessments, which is remarkably low.

A charter list is now being secured here, which already contains the names of many prominent citizens. The list has been left with W. B. Bundy, cashier of A. M. Burrows' bank, with whom applications for membership may be left. It is expected to institute the Encampment the latter part of this month.

INDEPENDENCE NEWS.

Mr. and Mr. Giles Frair of Little Genesee attended the Bassett-Bloss wedding last week.

Mr. Henry Kenyon and family were visiting friends in Richburg last week.

Comrade Sidney Crandall is happy over his election as Superintendent of the Poor.

Hon. Wm. Cobb of Spring Mills who has been in poor health for several months past, is said to be rapidly improving.

The Alliance people of this place intend to have an oyster supper at their hall, Thanksgiving night. Come over and wrestle with the slippery bivalves.

Comrade Nate Cowan of Whitesville has purchased a snug little one-story house of Comrade James L. Chase, moved it farther up street, and will use it as a shoeshop.

Dea. and Mrs. W. S Livermore returned from their visit to friends in Belmont and Andover last Friday.

Mrs. R. S. Jacobs is slowly convalescing.

Mrs. Charles F. Potter has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be able to ride out and call on her friends.

News of the death of Prof. Walter Hutchinson of Bolivar reached here last week. He was the son-in-law of your townsman, Mr. George D. Rosebush, and much sympathy is felt and expressed for his grief-stricken wife who recently mourned the death of her mother.

SOME GUMPTION.

Democratic Celebration.

Last Saturday evening the Democrats of Andover celebrated their recent victory by firing guns, having a torch-light parade through the streets and a big bonfire at the corner of Main and Greenwood streets. A number of residences were handsomely illuminated and the band played inspiring music. Fireworks also added to the brilliancy of the occasion, and the affair was entirely satisfactory—at least to the Democrats. Republicans could only "see the procession go by."

Rheumatism Can Be Cured.

ALFRED CENTRE, N. Y., May 17, 1889.
Hart Rheumatic Remedy Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

GENTLEMEN: One year ago this month I was suffering from Rheumatism of the stomach, and had been affected with it more or less for about three years. Your agent induced me to try a bottle of your Remedy, which I took according to directions. It is with not a little pleasure that I inform you that I THINK IT REACHED MY CASE AND SEEMED TO ENTIRELY RELIEVE ME, and I have not been troubled in that way since. I would not take the trouble to write you if I did not believe that others suffering as I did can be relieved by your Remedy.

Respectfully yours,
A. A SHAW, Jeweler.

Wandered From His Home.

William Cole, an old resident of Tip Top Summit, who has had several attacks of mental aberration during the past year, left his home on Tuesday and wandered about all night on the hills west and south of his home. During the storm of Tuesday night he visited the houses of Arnold Collins and W. J. McAndrew. He was quite violent in his language and demonstrations. A fire which on Monday night had burned over a large portion of what is locally known as "Marsh Hill," is believed to have aggravated the unsettled condition of his mind. Friends and neighbors went in search of him, and he was found on Wednesday by A. W. Collins and W. E. Baker, in Elm Valley.

Arthur C. Sidman and company gave an excellent entertainment at Prest's opera house last Friday evening, to a good house. Mr. Sidman and his entire company are artists in their respective lines, and deserve a large patronage.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon next Sunday. The "entertainment" will begin at 5:35 and close at about 9 o'clock, p. m. At 6:40 the eclipse will be total, and will remain so over an hour.

The Belmont Dispatch has changed hands and is now owned by W. M. Barnum, son of Ex-Superintendent of the Poor Barnum of Angelica. The first number of the paper under the new management gives evidence that Brother Barnum is at home in a newspaper office. We wish him success.

There was a traveling salesman in town the other day who will never set his valise on the top of a barrel again without first ascertaining that the barrel has a top. He was on the depot platform and saw a big barrel standing near by which he thought would make a good resting-place for his grip. He was right about it, only the resting place proved to be at the bottom of the barrel, which was full of water! It was early date, and the traveling man took the shining surface of the water for the head of the barrel.

The Board of Supervisors is in session this week at Belmont.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK.

An Instructive Article by Prof. Armstrong.

To fully comprehend the term "University," the reader must not imagine a series of stately buildings surrounded by a verdant and regularly-arranged campus. He must not imagine walls adorned with costly paintings, a cabinet of geological and other scientific specimens, or a corps of dignified and stately professors engaged in the daily humdrum process of instilling great truths into the minds of listless students. He must take it in a broader, more comprehensive sense. He must imagine thousands of students in our various academies, union schools and colleges, throughout the Empire State, all engaged in pursuing the same course of study under one grand system of education. Then, and only then, can the reader have some comprehension of the true meaning of what the University of the State of New York is, in truth.

It is by no means a modern institution, the idea being first originated by Alexander Hamilton. It was incorporated May 1st, 1784. Its object then—as it has been ever since—was to encourage the higher education in all the union schools, academies and even more advanced institutions throughout the State.

It is governed by twenty-three regents, including the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State and Superintendent of Public Instruction; the latter four being regents by virtue of their office, and the other nineteen elected by the Legislature in the same manner as United States Senators. The regents elect a chancellor—who has a general oversight—a secretary and assistant secretary, who have immediate charge of all the affairs pertaining to the office, which is located at Albany.

The regents issue each year three examinations, if desired, to the schools under their control. These examinations are upon all subjects taught in the various schools of the State. A regular and systematic course of instruction is laid down for the student which he is expected to pursue. When he has passed a satisfactory examination in all the common branches, he is henceforward considered an academic student and, as such, he is entitled to draw money for the school he attends, from the academic fund. This he does in the following manner: When he has passed an examination in the three advanced subjects, physiology, history and drawing, the department issues to him the junior academic certificate, and pays into the treasury of the school where the examinations were passed, the sum of five dollars. If he continues still farther in his course, he is entitled to draw five dollars for every additional ten counts. Thus he draws five dollars for a twenty-count, five for a thirty-count, five for a forty-count; and ten dollars when he has earned his English diploma, or fifteen dollars for a College Entrance Diploma. During all this time he also draws a certain sum, which varies from year to year, from the academic surplus fund, which is apportioned among the various institutions in proportion to the average attendance of academic students. Thus we are led to see that a student, taking the entire course in any of our schools, earns for his school during his course at least $25; not taking into consideration his proportion of the surplus fund, which, beyond doubt, would amount to at least $15 more. The student, at the same time, has earned for himself certificates and diplomas which are good in any of the first class schools of the State.

Another advantage of being under the visitation of the regents is the library fund. Each school is entitled to draw from year to year a certain sum from the library fund. This usually amounts to from $40 to $80 for each school, and whenever a teacher or board of trustees raise $25, independent of taxation, the department, on application of the school board, double this fund. Now some may ask: "From whence does this money come?" It is appropriated each year by the Legislature, and raised by direct tax upon the people of the State.

The requirements for first class schools, such as we have in Andover, to participate in these benefits, are simple. The department simply requires the school to have on hand apparatus and books to the value of $1,000. This may look like a mountain to some and the tax-payers may shudder at the idea of such expense. But let us see how this may be managed. Our Andover school has now on hand books and apparatus to the value of about $350. This will leave $650 to be raised for the remaining apparatus.

Now there are two ways to raise this fund. If the people so desire, they may bond the district for the $650. The school is now in condition to draw from the regent's fund, the first year, at least the interest on this money, and probably twice the interest. The second year it will draw at least $150, and the third year at least $200. At this rate, which is not in the least exaggerated, it will not require close figuring to see that the entire debt will be paid in about five years, without having the tax-payers of of the district pay one cent. The other way is to raise the $650 at once by direct tax and save the interest on the money for the district. This, of course, would be the more businesslike way. The reason that the interest the first year can be guaranteed is that there are now in school at least twelve students who will be entitled to draw from the State fund five dollars each in June.

Now, citizens and tax-payers of Andover, are you ready for this move? Are you willing to place your school on a firm basis, on an equality with other schools of this kind in the State? In this article we have shown you only plain facts. If, as we have shown, your school can have a library and a supply of apparatus worth $1,000—without any outlay on your part—all paid for in less than five years, besides give your school both character and reputation and your students the benefit of a good education at home, will it not be well to make a move in this matter? Ponder it well. Think about it, business men, tax-payers, parents citizens. Don't think this idle talk of no value. See if it is not directly to your benefit to be interested in this matter. Remember that you are to-day paying taxes for the support of the academic departments of the other union schools of the State, as well as your own, without a dollar in return. If you help to place your school under the regents you will have returns, and such returns as will make you rejoice.
