Bible School Lesson

By REV. CHARLES E. DUNN

The Weakness of Esau
Lesson for May 23, Genesis 25:27-34
Golden Text: I Corin. 9:25.

R James Black, of Edinburgh, has called Esau "one of the most charming, kindly, and lovable people in literature." We can easily picture him as a burly athlete, a mighty hunter, a great lover of God's out-of-doors. A happy, good-natured, likeable soul, we are drawn at once to him, and prefer his straight forward, guileless, direct manner to the clever craftiness and wily plots of his twin brother Jacob.

How heatiful was Esau's devotion to his blind father Isaac! Jacob and Rebekah, with a contemptuous disregard for family loyalty and honor, conspired to take advantage of Isaac's infirmity in order to steal the blessing meant for Esau, the firstborn. It was a thoroughly shabby performance, and justly aroused the intense anger of Esau who determined to lay violent hands upon his brother, but not, however, until Isaac had died lest the old man's heart be broken.

To Esau's everlasting credit this vow to kill Jacob was smothered by the healing processes of time. One of the most touching traits of Esau in his magnanimity, his big-hearted capacity for forgiveness. The scene of the reunion of the brothers, after 20 years of separation, Esau running to meet Jacob, then embracing and kissing him, is unforgettable.

Of course in the famous passage chosen for our lesson, where Esau apparently sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, he appears, at first thought, in a bad light, as tho he were a greedy glutton eager to sacrifice a future good for a merely temporary pleasure. But as Dr. Black shows, in his brilliant study of this scene, the bargain was not at all real. It was a "comedy of big children." They were fooling, joking. We can hear Esau's roar of laughter. He could not sell his birthright and did not do so. Jacob never received it. The incident is clearly a "mock auction." Esau here is a big boy having his bit of fun.

The tallest mamal, the giraffe, reaches 18 feet, seven inches in height. It is almost entirely voiceless.

APOLLO CLUB TO PRESENT MISS VICKLAND

The Noted Soprano to be Heard in Joint Recital Wednesday, May 26 at Wellsville High School Auditorium.

An Allegany county native who has won the plaudits of music critics in concert hall and radio appearances and is now recognized as one of the most promising of young sopranos, returns "home" for her first public appearance in ten years when Miss Florence Vickland, New York City, appears as soloist for a joint concert of the male chorus of the Wellsville Apollo Club and the Wellsville High School Acapella choir.

The concert, which is the first formal appearance of the male chorus, altho the chorus contributed to the musical program in connection with the opening of the new David A. Howe library, will take place in the high school auditorium in Wellsville, Wednesday evening, May 26th, at 8 p. m. The chorus is under the direction of Edward Michaeli, formerly director of the Fredonia music festical, and the acapella choir is under the direction of Miss Lillian Crosby, music supervisor in Wellsville schools.

Miss Vickland, who did her first solo singing in Wellsville churches as a high school student, sang leading roles with the Chautauqua Opera Company for two seasons, on one occasion singing the role of Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana" with Charles Kullman, now leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company. She is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music and in 1934 won the Noumberg prize and was awarded a recital in town hall, New York City. At present she is concertizing and doing guest radio appearances. In her radio work she has sung with Gladys Swarthout, James Melton, Margaret Speaks and Nelson Eddy. She studied with Adelin Fermin at Eastman School of Music in Rochester before going to New York.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale at the Andover National Bank and the Andover Market Basket. They may also be obtained from F. W. Burrows, William Lang or J. E. Cannon, members of The Apollo Club.

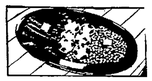
Modern Gas Cookery

Kind To Your Foods

Kind To Your Health

There's nothing like Gas for meal preparation. Gas offers you the exact degree of heat needed for every task. It gives that heat instantly—without delay. And more, too. Economy. The acceleration of speed for greater demands. Healthful foods. Location of heat so that it will do the finest job with minimum effort and expense.

Gas used with a new 1937 Roper gas range brings the culinary art to pleasing certainty. Stop in and look—today.



Roper cooks the "waterless" way, sealing in the delicious healthful juices. It saves on food and fuel bills.

Only over an open gas flame can broiling be done perfectly. With a new Roper broiled foods are simple to prepare.

You can cook a full meal right in the oven. No bother. No fuss. Less shrinkage. More wholesome tasty meals.

Why Do We Have A Poppy Week?

First, we wear the poppy once a year to express the feeling of reverence that is always in our hearts for the men who died on the fields of France and Belgium during the World War. Nothing can symbolize our remembrance of the sacrifices of the World War dead in so fitting a way as the wearing of the poppy.

Second, making the poppies gives employment to hundreds of disabled men thruout the winter, who otherwise would be unable to earn anything towards the support of themselves or their families. By wearing a poppy we help lighten the burden for those who are still undergoing suffering and hardships because of the war.

Third, the dimes, quarters and dollars dropped in the contribution boxes during the sale of poppies remain in the community where they were raised, being expended by the local Legion Post and Auxiliary unit in relief work in the community thruout the year.

These young men gave their health and strength that America might continue to be the land of happiness and opportunity and our happy prosperity would not be ours today if they had not paid the cost of victory in 1918.

We should be very generous on Poppy Week.

THE CALORIC COOKMASTER

The new modern gas range, which creates a new idea for deluxe value in a cook stove. It combines every wanted feature that modern science human ingenuity and over 50 years of manufacturing experience can combine to make a lady's dream-kitchen a reality.

The Caloric Cookmaster is a standard size range, that does not take any more space than other styles, yet it makes it possible to cook a simple meal or a banquet without long tedious work in a hot kitchen. The heat is kept inside the range and does not get into the kitchen. This heat that formerly was lost is now used to save you gas. The Cookmaster gives you the advantages of an eight-top burner ranger, yet it has only six burners and costs no more than a good four-burner.

The outstanding features of this Cookmaster are:

1—The Waterless Cooker—with its sunken utensil, can be used to cook a large piece of meat or fowl, or by using three separate inner pots, it is possible to cook a complete meal in this one container—all done with just one burner. And even more unusual—it is only necessary to heat with this one burner until the boiling point is reached—and finish the cooking with just a wisp of a flame—practically with the gas turned off.

2—The French Grill—a very convenient feature on which you can fry chops, eggs, pancakes, hot cakes without using a frying pan. It also Grill can be replaced with an extra burner top, which is standard equipment at no extra cost.

3—The Broiler—rolls out of the oven into complete view to make it easier to use and protect you from burns.

4—The Auto Flashlighter—automatically lights all 4 main burners. There are two separate top covers, one for each side of the range and the Oven Regulator is included to control the oven temperature and simplify baking.

5—The Calorictop—the heat retaining cooking top is used on all Caloric Ranges. It presents a smooth even surface that makes it a joy to toasts bread deliciously. The French use. Reflector cups encircle the burners, focusing the heat directly on the cooking vessel and prevents heat waste. It is easily kept clean and offers a new standard in gas economy and cooking efficiency.

The waterless cooker fits into a porcelain lined well surrounded with two inches of insulation. When the gas is turned off under the cooker, the back draft automatically closes and retains the heat inside the range, utilizing it for continued cooking, thus saving gas. The cooking pots in the waterless cooker are made of heavy one-piece aluminum—and can be used as desired.

The Caloric Cookmaster is acclaimed the most beautiful and most economical range built. It may be purchased in a variety of colors—including white, ivory, greentone, buffstone or greytone.

Call and see one in actual operation.
