Sabbath Restudy!

Existence and Immortality of the Soul.

2 Timothy, 1:10. "And hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel."

There are many questions of great moment to every individual, brought to view in the scriptures. Among these, perhaps, none is greater than man's immortality. That man is not always to live in his present state of existence will not be disputed by any rational individual; and I think no sane person, for a single instant, question the future, eternal existence. And right here comes home the subject in all its magnitude to every individual. Have I an immortal principle in my being, which is to be perpetuated through all the ages of eternal duration? Have I an immortal part, a soul, that in its duration will pass the cycles of eternity, and still live? Am I to live forever and ever? To be as eternal in my soul existence, as God is in His existence? Are these active powers never to become dormant? Are these activities of the soul never to cease? The answer to all these questions must be in the affirmative. All evidences, from every possible source; from nature, from reason, and from the sacred scriptures, answer in the affirmative, that man has within him an immortal principle, termed the soul, or spirit, which must and will exist without end. Man has commenced eternity in his soul-powers, and is stamped with an immortality upon which he can not lay the hand of suicide. But what is the soul? The general definition given, is, that it is the spiritual, reasonable, and immortal substance in man, and which distinguishes him from brutes; that it is that which enables him to think, and reason, and which renders him a subject of moral government. The immortality of the soul is a fundamental article of the Christian system.—Webster.
