ANDOVER, N. Y., JULY 15, 1891.

Has not the public heard enough about the Itata?

Why is it that the girl who always refuses to accept ice cream and soda water is the most popular with the boys?

If a man can be joked into the presidential chair, "Uncle Jerry" Rusk's chances of becoming President may be considered good.

The visit of Kaiser Wilhelm to England is not calculated to make the Czar of Russia feel more kindly toward either Great Britain or Germany.

Prince George of Greece, who recently passed through the United States, is inclined to be fast, but he doesn't carry a gambling outfit around with him.

Ex-Senator Ingalls is franker than most of the army of "Ex's." He confesses that he is a statesman out of a job, and intimates that he is anxious to resume business.

The suspicion is growing that the first landing place of Columbus was selected before the monument was sent out and erected there, by the enterprising Chicago newspaper.

Sweet is the voice of the political siren when whispered into the ear of a member of any of the industrial organizations, and many are the summer promises made only to be broken in winter.

Readers of the cable news of late have observed that the United States has no monopoly in noisy and unruly legislative bodies. Language and custom may differ, but human nature is about the same everywhere.

The Farmers' Alliance was given recognition on the Iowa Republican State ticket in the nomination of Geo. Van Houten for Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Van Houten is a district organizer and a leading member of the Alliance.

The "schisms" which are constantly being discovered in the Farmers' Alliance by those opposed to that organization do not seem to retard the spread of the Alliance much. Perhaps they only exist in the minds of their discoverers.

It is a matter for regret that a question of veracity should have been raised between Secretary Foster and Grand Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, concerning the recent conference in relation to the seven Knights discharged from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington.

One of our most esteemed contemporaries prints a long editorial under the head, "Why the Chinese are Unpopular." It might have saved space and at the same time have covered the whole subject by saying, "Because they are Chinese." It is the unAmerican characteristics of the race which have made it unpopular with Americans.

If the Hon. Henry Watterson would express the same political opinions in the columns of his newspaper that he did to the literary societies at the University of Virginia, the other day, it might do away with much of the partisan prejudice now existing in his State. He said, in his address at the University: "The issues which divide the parties are trifles light as air compared to those which the last quarter of a century has seen."

Those who do not believe that a newspaper often suppresses more interesting matter than it prints, are referred to the managing editor of the Philadelphia Ledger for proof of the statement that it does. He refused to print an alleged confession made by the thieving ex-Treasurer of that city, because it dragged in the names of men who stood high in the community, and whom he refused to believe guilty on the mere word of a self-acknowledged thief. There is a lesson in this for those misguided persons who believe that editors are always ready to print matter that will make a sensation, no matter whose character may be wrongfully blasted. There may be a few editors of that kind, but to the honor of the profession it can be truthfully said that the great majority of editors are just the opposite, as they are constantly proving to the few who know of the highly sensational and interesting matter that is suppressed because it reflects upon persons who are presumably innocent, or upon those who are struggling, honorably, to live down some past error.

Lady MacDonald as an Author.

Just before her bereavement, Lady MacDonald, widow of the late Sir John MacDonald, completed her first ambitious literary effort in a series of articles for The Ladies' Home Journal, the first number of which will appear in the August number of that periodical. Last summer Lady MacDonald, with a party of friends, traveled in her private car through the most picturesque parts of Canada, and, in a delightfully fresh manner, she describes her experience on this trip, in these articles, to which she has given the title of "An Unconventional Holiday." A series of beautiful illustrations, furnished by Lady MacDonald, will accompany the article.

An exchange says: Keep your eye on the newspaper and see which of the merchants want your custom and are sufficiently courteous to invite you to call. There is much more in advertising than you may think. It is not only to tell of his goods that a man advertises, but it is to invite the people who read—the thinking, intelligent—to pay him a visit and to judge for themselves as to the quality and price of what he offers for sale. People read the advertisements. Don't make any mistake about that. They are just as much interested in knowing where to buy to advantage as the advertiser is in selecting his goods.

Definitions.

Pupils who learn "by ear," without thought as to the meaning of things, contrive to afford a good deal of amusement to their teachers. Recently a teacher in an eastern grammar school asked one of her boys:

"What is the meaning of 'topaz'?"

"A topaz," said the boy, "is where the mules walk when they're drawing a canal boat."

This was not as bad as another blunder made not long afterward in the same school.

"Define halo," said the teacher to a girl in the class.

"A halo," answered the pupil, "is a kind of rope that the cowboys use out west to catch cattle with."—Youth's Companion.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

Written from Andover—Strong Testimonial for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root.

ANDOVER, N. Y., May 3, 1891.

DR. KILMER:—

Dear Sir: I thought I would write you a few lines and tell you how much we think of your remedies. About three years ago my husband commenced to fail very rapidly with kidney trouble. He lost his appetite and became so weak that the least exertion would cause him to lie down. He could scarcely walk. He doctored with all the local physicians here, but without getting any relief. He gave up and said that he could not live three months. One day we received one of your "Guides to Health" through the mail, and I persuaded him to get a bottle of your Swamp Root and try it. Before he had taken the whole of the first bottle we could see a change for the better. He kept up the treatment for some time, until he was able to do considerable work, and to-day he is so much improved that it is not necessary for him to take the medicine all the time, and he can walk a mile and a half to the village and back.

We have also tried your Indian Cough Cure, and never found anything that could beat it. I noticed in our "Guide to Health" that you would send six beautiful cards and a picture of yourself. We would be very glad to get your picture, as we are certain he would have been in his grave, if it had not been for your Swamp Root. We recommend your medicines everychance we get.

The Illustrated Buffalo Express doesn't appear to be satisfied with far more than the ordinary measure of success. Not content with having the best pictorial features of any paper in the country, it is evidently aiming to give the best reading matter, too.

A law passed last winter says every tramp, upon conviction as such, shall be punished by imprisonment at hard labor in the nearest penitentiary, for not more than six months, and the expense of the imprisonment shall be paid by the state.

A pic-nic was held in George Crandall's grove last Thursday which was largely attended by members of Seaman Post G. A. R., the Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and citizens generally. The Relief Corps had charge of the affair, and everybody who went had a good time.

Somebody drowned a dog in Dyke creek, above the Main street bridge, by putting the dog into a sack, weighting the sack and throwing it into a hole in the bed of the creek. The water got low and a stench arose from the dead animal. There is a better way to kill dogs and dispose of their carcasses than that, if they have got to be killed.

The ball team and business men of this place have arranged for an afternoon of field sports to-day (Wenesday), beginning at 1:30 o'clock p. m. The sports will consist of running, jumping, kicking, bicycle races, &c., for which prizes will be given. At 3:30 o'clock the Bolivar and Andover ball teams will play a game of ball on the grounds west of the village, for which an admission fee of 15 cents will be charged, ladies and carriages free.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Mauch Chunk Lady Badly Injured in a Runaway.

Miss Carrie Leonard of Mauch Chunk, Pa. has lately been visiting her uncle, Mr. F. S. Osborn of Elm Valley. Last Friday Mr. Osborn went out riding, accompanied by Miss Leonard and another lady also his niece, who also resides at Mauch Chunk and is a cousin of Miss Carrie Leonard. They drove to a point near the residence of Mr. F. McGraw, when Miss Leonard was left alone in the buggy, Mr. Osborn having got out and gone some little distance to see a man on a matter of business, and the other lady having alighted to pick some berries along the roadside. In some way a part of the harness became disarranged, the horses were frightened and, turning around upset the buggy and ran towards this place. Miss Leonard was dragged a distance of about 15 rods over the rough ground, and was terribly cut and bruised about the head and other parts of the body. Her eyes were completely filled with dust, as were the cuts and other wounds which she sustained. She was taken to the home of Mr. McGraw, physicians were summoned and everything possible was done to relieve the sufferings of the injured lady. Her injuries were so serious that it was thought she could live but a few hours, but with skillful treatment and careful attention she has survived until the present time, and the chances are now believed to be favorable for her recovery.

Dr. Stillman has charge of the case, Dr. Crandall was called in consultation the evening of the accident and Dr. Baker of Hornellsville saw the patient on Monday.

ABDUCTION!

A Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Induced to Leave Her Home.

THE SCOUNDREL IS IN JAIL.

And the Girl Brought Back to Her Home---All's Well That Ends Well.

J. J. Johnson, a man about forty-five years of age, has worked at odd jobs in and near this village a portion of the time during the last three or four years. For some time past he boarded with Isaac Smith, a well-known and respected farmer who lives a short distance from this village on the Greenwood road. It is said by some of the neighbors that Johnson has been quite intimate with Zadie, a daughter of Mr. Smith aged thirteen years, often walking with her along the road and spending considerable time in her company. This fact was, however, wholly unknown either to Mr. Smith or his wife, and they had no suspicion that Johnson would seek to make trouble of any kind in the family.

Some little time ago Mr. Smith told Johnson that he did not wish to board him longer, and the man left town. He returned last week and was seen here on Thursday with a horse and carriage. Subsequent events proved that he had come to take Zadie Smith away with him.

Early Thursday evening Zazie went away from home, telling her sister that she was only going to a neighbor's and would soon return. She had not put in appearance at bed-time and her father went to the house where she had said she was going, but to his astonishment learned that the girl had not been there nor could any trace of her be found. Mr. Smith returned home and an examination of Zadie's room showed that nearly all her clothing had been removed. Light soon dawned upon Mr. Smith's mind and the suspicion was aroused that the man whom he had sheltered and fed was responsible for his child's disappearance.

He came at once to this village and messages were sent to authorities in different places describing the couple and the rig and giving a summary of the circumstances. Next day it was learned that the rig belonged at a livery stable in Hornellsville, but that it had been let to a railroad man named Reed and had been returned by him. By this time Reed had gone out on a trip over the Susquehanna division of the Erie, but it was thought that upon his return he might be compelled to divulge some valuable information.

Accordingly when he returned Saturday he received a call from Deputy Sheriff Noble and a Hornellsville officer, who charged him with being an accomplice to the crime of abduction. Reed wilted and confessed that he had hired the rig for Johnson and made the further statement that the parties were then in his house and had been since Thursday night. Reed's wife was away from home and he had not only aided in the escape but had given the use of his house for the parties to secrete themselves in.

He conducted the officers to another room, where the man and girl were found. Johnson was arrested and taken to Almond in this county where he was arraigned before a Justice of the Peace on the charge of abduction. He waived examination and as he could give no bail was sent to Angelica jail to await the action of the grand jury. It is probable that he will do state service for some time before he is at liberty to again indulge in the pastime of luring young girls away from home, and it is hoped the result of this escapade will teach him a few things which he evidently didn't know. It is said that when he was taken through the streets of Hornellsville he was prevented from receiving violence only by the presence of the officers.

The girl was brought back home. She asserts that no improper relations have existed between herself and Johnson; but it may not be until her years are more mature that she will realize what a narrow escape she has had. When she does she will thank God for her safe deliverance.

Overcoats and mittens were in demand early last week; but on Sunday the sun shone hot enough to satisfy the most cold-blooded of human beings.

Comrade J. L. Crittenden moved from Whitesville on to his farm, recently, to keep house for his son, who lately lost his wife; and Mr. John Cline, of Hallsport, has moved into the house vacated by his son-in-law, Comrade Crittenden.

The I. O. G. T. cleared $13 at their festival, last week Wednesday night There were about one hundred present, and the proceeds are intended for the purchase of an organ for the hall.

The following paragraph from the Alliance Leader, date of June 19th, 1891, lately came under my notice, and should be sufficient to drive every true Union soldier out of that party with a rush:

The mothers, the sisters and the daughters of this great nation ought, in justice, to receive its pensions. They staid at home and fought the wolf from the door, while their husbands, sons and brothers shouldered their muskets and went forth to play the fool—to mangle and murder their fellow man! though firing a bullet through a brother's heart would right a wrong!"

The italics are mine, and I wonder what the "Vets." who "played the fool" think of the above rot. To say the least, it smacks of old-time Copperheadism.
