To Give Stone Barn As Farmers Museum

Stephen C. Clarke of Cooperstown has announced his intention subject to court approval of presenting to the New York State Historical Society, a huge stone barn and adjoining buildings on the Fenimore farm, overlooking Otsego lake, to be used as a farmers' museum.

Altho only a year old, the Farmers' Museum already has about 5,000 farm, household and craft implements, tools, etc., of what has been called the "homespun age" in New York State. This collection is rapidly outgrowing its quarters in the central quarters of the association at Cooperstown.

were all given gum, and instructed to chew it for five minutes. At the end of this time they were given a tooth pick and a card and with the aid of a toothpick they moulded the gum to resemble the name of the animal written on their card.

The table was attractively decorated with black cats, candles, and rosy red apples in a large wooden bowl. The refreshment committee served sweet cider, doughnuts and popcorn.

As the guests departed with fond farewells and thanks for a good time, the girls felt that they had learned their lesson well. AM-WG

Seniors Choose Class Rings

"Don't you like this crest best?" "No, I like this one." How about this stone?" Such ran the conversation at the meeting of the Senior class last Friday, for the Seniors were choosing their rings. After long discussion the ring, "The West Pointer" was decided upon by the group.

The crest of the ring is in the form of an eagle with the letter A and beneath this are the words "High School." The Seniors have their choice of having the letters on a stone or to have no stone at all. There is also to be choice of stones. The stones obtainable are black onyx, mother of pearl and ruby. The Seniors consider themselves very fortunate to be able to have stones in their rings as many companies do not have any stones, since they come from a war torn country. It is expected that the rings will be on the fingers of the Seniors before Christmas. The Senior class pays a part of the price of the rings by raising money with such activities as the Senior play, dances and candy sales. The remainder is paid for by the Seniors individually. It is hoped that the activities will be successful financially, so that this latter amount may be small. DJM

Behind the Scenes With the Editor

This week first place is given to a prominent senior who is editor of the Hi Herald, a member of the Library Council, and a promising candidate for valedictorian of her class.

Jean Button says she would like to raise cattle after her graduation from high school. The bug-bear of her family is the dog. She attended Tip Top school before coming to Andover in her freshman year and she remembers very clearly the day when she fell in the creek during those country school days.

Jean has told this writer that the following (quote) are her favorites:

Song: "My Devotion."
Food: "Anything that I can consume without indigestion."
Book: "Rebecca."
Sport: Horseback riding.
Movie: "Gone With the Wind."
Car: Packard.
Movie Actor: Clark Gable.
Movie actress: Vivien Leigh.
Subject: Chemistry.
Recreations: Reading or listening to the radio. FMM

Pictures Form Science Club Exhibit

Pictures taken by teachers and students of ACS form an attractive and unusual exhibit in the trophy case of Andover Central School.

These pictures will recall to mind the operetta "Jeanie" which was held three years ago, under the direction of Earl Giffin. Others are candid shots of teachers and students.

One might be surprised to see how Andover looks in a blackout. Those who would like to know how it does look may find out by observing the pictures. JB

Mr. Wereley To Drive Bus No. 2

George Wereley, who is an assistant in the Andover News office, has taken over Kenneth Bostwick's position as driver for Bus No. 2.

Mr. Bostwick felt he had to give up this position because he has too much other work to which he must attend.

Mr. Bostwick will be missed by the pupils of Bus No. 2 especially. WG
