Entered at the post office at Andover, N. Y. as second class matter.

About ten years ago a young widow with three children went to New York seeking employment. The eldest child, a boy of 15, had been before the mast, and his boyish boast of the different knots he could tie inspired an inventive woman to order of him a screen of tied rope. The effect was so odd and beautiful that a paying industry in ropework resulted. By the combined efforts of the family, one daughter has been enabled to study art in Paris, the other has lately graduated from Cornell, and the boy is a civil engineer of much promise in the government service. "My resources are what we ourselves can do," said Frederick the Great to his discouraged generals. The dictum is no less applicable to each inquirer to-day.

A Bucyrus (O.) dentist had a peculiar experience the other day. A man called at his office and requested the loan of a pair of forceps, saying he wanted to draw his wife's teeth. The dentist refused to lend his forceps, but the man was not satisfied, and, going to a hardware store, bought a pair of common pincers, with which he endeavored to draw the teeth. The woman's face was badly lacerated and her gums were in fearful condition when she called upon the dentist the next day to have the job finished up. The husband's idea was economy.

Maria Mitchell, who has been called the "Mother of the Stars," when professor of astronomy and director of the observatory at Vassar, was an inspiring teacher, and, in spite of her brusque manner and severity, was adored by her pupils. Every spring, just before the commencement, she gave a "dome party" to the girls. Small tables were placed around the large telescope in the observatory, and roses from Miss Mitchell's own garden brightened the atmosphere. Nonsense poems were a feature of these breakfasts, and the astronomer was proud of her skill in writing them. She was not without a keen sense of fun, and in spite of her constant and absorbing studies, as was shown by her dryly consoling observation to an awe-stricken student whom she was leaving one day in charge of the instruments of the observatory. Looking back at the worried face of the girl, Miss Mitchell said: "And remember, if the chronometer stops and the side-real clock stops, the universe won't stop."

A Genial Star Gazer.

Every locomotive that is built in the west nowadays has the new anti-bandit attachment. On all the new engines of one railroad are iron pipes extending along the roof of the cab and connecting with the boiler. Through these pipes, without making a perceptible motion, either the engineer or fireman can send, under 200 pounds pressure, a jet of steam and boiling water that would effectually cook anything living that happened to be on the tender or the front end of the baggage car. The diameter of the pipe is one and a half inch, and a single second would drop any man who attempted to stand before it in action. The steam leaves the pipe at a temperature of about 750 degrees, hot enough to have the toughest of outlaws cooked tender by the time the train could be brought to a standstill. It is calculated to quell the ardor of those gentlemen who make a specialty of holding up engineers from the tender. Tramps are fighting shy of this railroad.

There was a man in Kansas City the other day who told of the following new scheme he has just worked to beat a railroad. "A friend and myself wanted to come from Omaha to Kansas City. He said to me: 'You buy a ticket only to the first station and I will show you a good trick.' I bought the ticket as requested, while my friend bought a ticket for the full distance at the regular fare. We took a seat together in the train. The conductor came around, took up the tickets and put a punched train check in my friend's hat, indicating that he was ticketed through to Kansas City. When the conductor got out of sight my friend took his knife and split the card. He put half in my hat and the other into his own. Both 'splits' looked like a regular check, and I came right on through without paying any more fare. We divided the saving, which was more than two dollars each."

"It was in the English class," notes the Louisville Courier-Journal, "and a new teacher had just been employed. She was from the north, and called all the pupils 'Miss,' at which they marveled greatly. On the first day the teacher told her class that she would not give a regular lesson, but each girl should write down all the slang she knew and bring that to the next day's recitation. That was a 'cinch.' Several girls who possessed brothers and the rest who possessed other girls' brothers set them to work. The result was marvelous. When the class was called next day there was not a girl who could not show two closely-written pages of slang expression. The teacher looked. 'Very good,' she said. 'Now translate them into readable English.' They haven't fooled with her since."

A committee of Danish farmers has sent to the princess of Wales 12,000 boxes of choice butter for the British soldiers in South Africa. She has accepted the gift in the name of the sick and wounded and has returned a complimentary message, which concludes with the phrase: "Especially as it is a present from my native country, Denmark."

A note in a Methodist contemporary relates that a deaconess was holding a revival meeting in a church and being entertained in the pastor's family. A little daughter gazed at her curiously and finally, feeling a lack somewhere, she crept to her mother's side and inquired anxiously: "Mamma, where is the brother deaconess?"

A Chicago man shot and killed himself the other day because he feared hyprophobia as a result of a dog bite. So-called cases of rabies among human beings are largely the result of imagination. Tens of thousands of people are bitten by dogs every year without serious effects.

The United States department of agriculture makes many strange excursions in its wide spread pursuit of information. One of these, recently reported to the secretary of agriculture, is a dietary study of the negroes in eastern Virginia, conducted by H. B. Frissel, principal of the Hampton institute, and Isabel Bevier, professor of chemistry at Lake Erie college. They report that the negroes in that section obtain their living almost entirely from the small tracts of land rented by them, paying their rent in produce, the staple crops being sweet potatoes, cotton and peanuts. Their diet consists of side bacon, fish from the neighboring Chesapeake bay, unbolted cornmeal and milk, though some of the families eat frogs, turtles, and snakes at certain seasons of the year. Their drinking water is obtained from shallow surface wells, which are mere holes dug in the swampy land. The exasperating feature of these studies, says the Chicago Tribune, is the discovery that these negroes, who live upon wet cornmeal, fried side bacon, boiled pork shoulder and stagnant water do not seem to be aware there are such things as microbes, and are fiendishly healthy.

Dietary Study of Negroes.

Every new invention excites the word-makers. A few years ago the adoption of the electric chair in place of the gallows for the killing of criminals called forth the ill-formed "electrocute" and "electrocution." After Roentgen made his discovery dozens of attempts were made to construct a word from Greek root to express the process and the result; but popular common sense discarded them all, and Roentgen's own tentative "X-rays" is all that has a vigorous survival. And now Marconi's device for telegraphing without wires is greatly exercising those who would add to an already overloaded vocabulary. "Fleography," "undigraphy," "teleradiography," and other still worse compounds are suggested. The fact is overlooked that "telegraphy" does not signify the use of wires, and is therefore applicable to the wireless system; so that the simple "wireless telegraphy" is exactly accurate. It is, moreover, no more cumbersome than most of the one-word substitutes proposed, and not as cumbersome as some of them. Why not let it stand?

Word-Makers.

When cowardice is described as a leading feminine attribute somebody makes a huge mistake, asseverates the Philadelphia Times. Women do the most daring things on record—take chances which would appall a man.

FOUND A GOLD MINE.

IT WAS IN HIS POULTRY YARD.

Man in Iowa Uses a Compound that Makes His Hens Lay Double the Usual Number Summer and Winter. Secret of His Success.

People in the neighborhood of Creston, Iowa, are amazed at the number of eggs that this man drives to market with. When asked what was the cause of his hens being so prolific, he stated that it was all in a certain compound he was using that kept his hens in good condition and furnished them with proper stimulus to egg production. American Poultry Mixture is the name of it, and is made by American Mfg. Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Every man in the poultry business is interested in the health of his hens and their laying capacity. In the eggs lie his profits. This mixture is guaranteed to increase the production of eggs 100 per cent. or money refunded. It will do more than three times as much as the same amount of any other compound. It is concentrated in form and the result of years of practical experience in the poultry business. There is absolutely no doubt as to what it will do, and you are invited to try it at the expense of the company. Send $1.00 for a sample package and if doesn't do the work you get your money back. This is fair and is made to induce practical poultrymen to give it a trial. It is also a sure preventive of such diseases as the terrible cholera and roup which create such havoc in all parts of the country. It acts directly on the crop and gizzard, and is a thoroughly scientific preparation.

The manufacturers guarantee every package or refund purchase money. If your druggist don't sell American Poultry Mixture, he's behind the age. In that case order direct from American Manufacturing Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

They may jump at the sight or mere mention of a harmless mouse, but they court death several times a year. It is one of the traits which makes feminine nature so puzzling. I have known women who were timid to a degree, under ordinary circumstances, come forth as heroines under the pressure of occasion. A woman who shudders at the sight of a small cut from which blood oozes will often exhibit a marvelous courage in a shocking accident. It is beautiful to think that dependence can be placed upon the sex in times of need, but I wish that a curb could also be placed upon that species of recklessness which leads us into unnecessary trouble.

Stood Death Off.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids digestion, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50c.

A Night of Horrors

"A wild anxiety was felt for the life of the brave General Barnham of Meridian, Miss., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

St. Valentine's day.

County Court is in session.

Easter comes on Sunday, April 15.

There was no school Monday, it being a holiday.

Rev. N. B. Randall is holding meetings in Freehold, N. J.

Monday was Lincoln's birthday, and was a National holiday.

The Bishop case will probably be tried at Belmont next week.

It can be truthfully said of Benham, "He is a much tried man."

The W. N. Y. & P. R. R. has been purchased by the Pennsylvania Co.

The box rents at the Wellsville post office amount to more than $1,000 a year.

Mrs. Wm. B. Bundy entertained 36 ladies at a thimble party at her home this afternoon.

A canvass is being made for a 1900-02 Directory of Wellsville and Allegany county villages.

Rev. W. B. Wagoner will preach at Friendship next Sunday in exchange with Rev. J. B. Arnold:

Judge Hooker has granted Benham a new trial. He has been removed from Auburn to Batavia.

Sealed bids for paving Main street of Wellsville from Depot to State street are being received.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Medbury of Cuba celebrated their golden wedding Saturday evening, Feb. 3d.

A machine that postmarks and cancels 700 letters a minute has been placed in the Olean post-office.

Miss Nina E. Laughlin's name should have appeared in the list passing Regents in Elementary English.

What will Bolivar people do now for excitement? Last week they killed the much-talked-of panther, and shot a man.

Twenty-two members of Mrs. R. B. Burrows' Baraca class of the Baptist Church were present last Sunday afternoon.

If you are a smoker, patronize home industry by smoking 786, an Andover made cigar, advertised in this issue of the NEWS.

The residence of Frank Van Campen at Belmont is open for the accommodation of those attending Court there this week.

Rev. H. P. Burdick of Hartsville delivered an acceptable sermon at the Seventh-day Baptist church last Saturday morning.

Joe Head is carrying his arm in a sling, the result of striking a stick with his arm instead of the axe, breaking a bone.

Walter N. Renwick has been appointed Supervisor of the town of Cuba to fill the unexpired term of E. A. Bartlett, deceased.

Attorney C. L. Earley has purchased L. C. Van Fleet's interest in the 30-acre lot across from the depot, known as Dolson flats.

Remember the revival meetings in the M. E. church every evening. Come and welcome. Bring a friend. Remember, Jesus saves.

One hundred and five persons signed cards during the revival meetings at the Baptist church, many of them men and heads of families.

A fire destroyed Grant Bros. Dairy village of Wellsville Monday, which destroyed the Methodist Episcopal church and a large store.

A cyclone swept over Westfield, Chautauqua county, Friday morning, unroofing barns, tearing up trees, and doing considerable damage.

The Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern Railroad began running regular passenger trains between Smethport and Mt. Jewett one day last week.

An increase of pensions have been granted to Isaac A. Kruzen of Stanards from $8 to $10 and Jared W. Jenkins of Andover from $6 to $8.

W. A. Clarke brought us a bottle of grasshoppers, alive and kicking, picked up Friday afternoon on Ed. Clarke's farm. There're more where they came from.

Assemblyman Litchard's bill providing that state moneys shall not be paid to any Agricultural Fair which permits gambling passed the Assembly on Thursday.

According to the Deposit Courier, the concussion from the glycerine explosion at Fulmer Valley was distinctly felt in that place. The distance is at least 185 miles.

James Fisk, firemen with Engineer Jones on the Andover pusher, met with quite a painful sprain in his ankle this week and was obliged to lay off a day or so.

U. W. Stratton, who had been confined to his house several weeks, we are glad to say, was able to come to this village Friday, although he is not yet able to do manual labor.

Last Friday evening about forty friends of Arthur Poeter gave him a very pleasant surprise. Wellsville, Greenwood and Purdy Creek were represented in the gathering. An enjoyable evening was had.

The Parish Messenger is the name of a monthly just issued from Belmont by Rev. F. LaGrange Smith in the interests of the Episcopal Church of that village. It is interesting and will do much to awaken interest in the church.

The allowance of the new pension law claim of Edward B. Curtis, deceased, payable to Mary E. Curtis, widow, of Wellsville, giving him $12 per month from April 5, 1899, and ending June 28, 1899, date of death, has been granted.

It doesn't seem to make any difference to the Illustrated Buffalo Express where the news events of the world happen; it gets good pictures of the war in South Africa or in the Philippines, just as it gets good pictures of all important events nearer home.

The curfew law is now in effect in Hornellsville, Wayland, Attica, Waverly, Wellsville, Elmira, Corning, Addison, Penn Yan, Batavia, LeRoy, Mt. Morris, Geneva and Friendship, and in all these towns it is considered a good law and gives general satisfaction.

Dr. S. M. Martin, the "Orator of the Golden Gate," closed his evangelistic labors in Wellsville Sunday evening. A very large number of people have been converted, fifty-nine of whom have been added to the Christian Church, for which church he labored.

Revival services will continue to be held in the M. E. church every evening of this week and next, except Saturday evening. Afternoon meetings at 3 o'clock. Children's meeting at 4 o'clock p. m. Everybody invited. Rev. J. B. Arnold has charge of the meetings.

E. W. Howe, editor of the Topeka Capital, and Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, pastor of the Congregational Church of Topeka, are to "exchange works" for a spell. The reverend gentleman is to show the world how to run a Christian daily newspaper, and the editor says he will supply the pulpit of the Congregational Church while its pastor is doing it. We'll wager a copper 2-cent piece both will be glad when the time comes to change back.

The people of Alfred and Almond are very enthusiastic over the project to construct a road around cemetery hill in Hornellsville, to take the place of the road over the hill. A proposition has been laid before the Hornellsville authorities, and the prospects are that the road will be built.

C. A. Fuller has gone up the Central office of the several local telephone lines coming into Andover, placing a new telephone for the use of the public in the front room, and fitting up a booth around the same.

The matters of the electric road out of Wellsville are progressing slowly owing to the trouble in securing a right of way. Messrs. Ward and Potter, who have the project in charge, are very hopeful of success, but they must have the co-operation of the entire route.

Allen S. Graves died on the streets of Cuba last week Tuesday. He had been eating a piece of bologna a few minutes previous, and it is supposed a piece stuck into his throat and choked him to death. The deceased is an old resident of Cuba, coming to that village in 1840.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge, in his famous speech in the United States Senate, told one side of his experiences in the Philippines. The other and more personal side—what he saw and heard of the American Soldier in the Field. He will tell exclusively in an early number of the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia.

The best paper between New York and Chicago is the Buffalo Morning Express. It has a fine telegraphic service, and its market, commercial marine and railroad departments make it of especial value. The interests in athletic events is an interesting feature. "Brightest, bravest and best" is well chosen to describe the Express.

The Erie railroad is having built entire new trains of cars which are to be put in service this spring on the company's through expresses. The coaches are to be elegant in every particular, combining all modern improvements. The exterior is to be painted a very dark color, nearly black, and handsomely decorated.—Hornellsville Tribune.

Frank Wright, the proprietor of the hotel at Stanards, who was indicted at the last sitting of the grand jury for violation of the excise law, and who skipped out before the indictment was made, was apprehended last week at his home, by Deputy Sheriff Nobles, and brought to Wellsville and placed in jail. He gave $1,000 bail for appearance at court.

A trunk line side path has been decided upon by the state wheelmen. The route as laid out is as follows: From New York, up the east side of the Hudson river to Kingston, across the Hudson to Rondout, up the Catskill mountains to the headwaters of the Delaware river, to Stamford, across the Susquehanna river to Binghamton, to Oswego, to Waverly, to Elmira, to Corning, to Bath, and thence to Buffalo.

Gabriel Bishop, of Cuba, who is implicated in the dynamite case which occurred at Lake Cuba last summer, visits Belfast weekly to recite lessons to Prof. Gray, preparatory to attending college after the result of the findings of the next grand jury. Bishop appears unconcerned regarding the outcome of the trial, and it is evident that he is of the opinion that he will not be convicted of the crime.—Belfast Blaze.

One week ago last Wednesday morning when the teacher and scholars arrived at the school house on Corwin Hill district, they were shocked by finding the floor covered with feathers and filth. It appears that some unknown parties had entered by way of a rear window, smashing the sash and glass, and made a fire and cooked a chicken supper. Mr. Fingrey missed some of his poultry the next day.

A thoughtless cotemporary having assailed the letter "e," Editor Halsey, of the Tullahomian, up in Tennessee, comes to the rescue as follows: "An exchange says 'e' is the most unfortunate letter in the English alphabet, because it is never in cash, always in debt and never out of danger. It forgets that the aforesaid letter is never in war, but always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no water, no bread, no meat, no life, no gospel, no Jesus, no father, no mother, no brother, sister, home or heaven."

An Irishman bought a return ticket to St. Louis and didn't come back. What did he save? A German saved up enough money to go to Germany, and then bought a schooner and didn't go. What did he save? An Italian bought an eight-day clock with the second hand gone. It gained 55 minutes every hour, how long did it take to let a whole Dago? These problems are easy to figure out, compared to "who sells the best Jewelry, and does the most satisfactory watch work?" One guess is all you've got, and if you guess H. Mourhess, Andover, N. Y., we will do the rest. We are still selling jewelry, watches, clocks, optical goods, etc., cheaper than it was ever sold for in this city.

Did You Know that
