Letter to C. F. Davis.

ANDOVER, N. Y.

Dear Sir,—Here is a curious condition in the paint business, but it exists. N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y., owns two houses exactly alike; he painted one with a mixed paint—took 12 gallons. Painted the other with Devoe; bought 12 gallons and had 6 gallons left. Same painter: George Gilbert. Same result, so far as looks go.

As you are not a paint maker, you probably don't understand why a gallon of Devoe lead and zinc contains twice as much paint as a gallon of some of the mixed paints. We'll tell you. A gallon of milk that's half water, isn't a gallon of milk; neither is a gallon of paint that's half lime and china clay, a gallon of paint. The following is the analysis of one of the mixed paints sold in your section:

Lead, zinc and color,	41 per cent.
Lime and China Clay (adulteration),	59 "

This 59 per cent. of Lime and China Clay is whitewash; it is to paint what water is to milk—adulteration; consequently this paint contains only 41 per cent. of legitimate paint material (lead, zinc and color) while Devoe lead and zinc contains 100 per cent.

That explains why a gallon of Devoe lead and zinc contains twice as much paint as a gallon of some of the mixed paints.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.

Another bold fakir is abroad in the land executing a neat, petty swindle wherever he goes.

The Latest in Fakes.

He appears with a pair of white clay pipes and proceeds to explain to the prospective buyer his "great smoke trick, which he sold to Herrmann, the magician, for $500." Then the fakir presents a pipe and asks the man to take a draw on it. The man draws and gets nothing but air. The fakir asks him to draw once more, and as the man does so the former carelessly touches the first pipe with the second one and the smoker gets a good volume of smoke through the stem. The faker then explains that the trick is worked through the presence of ammonia and other chemicals in the pipes, which, when brought together, cause the smoke. If the pipeman can make a sale of a pair of pipes he cautions the buyer not to keep the pipes near together for more than a few seconds at a time and disappears. He has not been gone many minutes before the chemicals have exhausted themselves, and the two smokeless pipes, price 15 cents, remain as souvenirs of the visit.

The funny genius who grinds the good grist of gibes and gaglets that daily appear in the Denver Post gives vent to his gladsome gall in the following attempt at versification:

"O! fly with me!" he eager cried, "my angel; let us fly.
And join ourselves for evermore in wedlock's holy tie.
Let's fly far from this painful spot and from your cruel sire,
Who fain would crush our youthful hopes beneath his dreadful ire!"
"I'll go with you," the maid replied, "if you will call a hack!
I cannot fly, for I've no wing attachments to my back.
And I could never rise from earth without those useful aids!
No girl on earth could fly, you know, with just her shoulder blades!"

The state supreme court of Michigan is called upon to settle a curious case. One Thompson was sent to the penitentiary at Jackson and was put to work for a shirt company as a leased convict. After working 576 days he was discharged on a writ of habeas corpus for the reason that his sentence was clearly illegal. Now he claims and the shirt company refuses to pay the wages for the time he was in prison and forced to work for the contractors. The case will be heard at the October term.

Rev. G. R. Robbins, of the Lincoln park Baptist church, Cincinnati, has evolved an original plan for obviating the difficulty experienced by the mothers of his congregation, who, rather than run the risk of disturbing the meetings by the crying of their babies, remain at home. He has had the gallery of the church fitted up with cots, where babies sleep peacefully, leaving the mothers at liberty to attend the services. Mr. Robbins certainly has a cinch on immortality.

As late as the year 1830 Cleveland O., had a population of only 1,076. The population in that year of Cincinnati was 24,831; Pittsburgh, 12,568; Buffalo, 8,668, and Detroit, 2,222. Cleveland has passed them all, and San Francisco as well. But the race for the future will be an interesting one. The figures for 1890 stood: Cleveland, 381,768; Buffalo, 352,219; San Francisco, 343,782; Cincinnati, 325,219; Pittsburgh, 321,616, and Detroit 285,704.

REV. W. B. WAGONER.

A Brief Review of the Five Years Ministry of Rev. W. B. Wagoner in the M. E. Church in Andover.

Two large audiences assembled in the M. E. church last Sunday, morning and evening, to listen to the last two sermons of Rev. W. B. Wagoner. If the wishes of the church proper and the sentiment of the entire community were to be consulted and gratified, Mr. Wagoner would remain here indefinitely. But he has long ago settled the matter in his own mind to seek another appointment. Andover M. E. church is a desirable society to serve. The next minister will be kindly received with a royal welcome. It is gratifying to note that during the five years pastorate of Mr. Wagoner all the expenses of the church have been met with only once appealing to the public congregation. During his stay in Andover he has made friends. His intercourse with the other pastors in the village has been harmonious in every respect. We shall watch his future movements with interest, and wish him God-speed in any field of labor it may be his lot to enter. We are glad to give the readers of the NEWS this week a fine half tone of the reverend gentleman.

REV. W. B. WAGONER, FIVE YEARS PASTOR OF THE ANDOVER METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Mr. Wagoner was appointed pastor at Andover by Bishop John H. Vincent, D. D., at the Genesee Conference held in Rochester in October, 1895. In the fall of 1899 the first Methodist preaching place was established in the village of Andover by Rev. Samuel Nichols, who was appointed preacher in charge of a circuit, having Wellsville for headquarters. In the spring of 1840 Rev. Alvin Torry organized the first class, consisting of 11 members, the last of whom was David Davis, who died Jan. 12, 1898. A lot was purchased and church edifice erected on the same ground where now stands the present beautiful and commodious brick structure, which is the third church building erected by the Methodist society, and cost about $15,000. The second one was purchased and is now occupied by the Seventh-day Baptist society. The first Sunday-school connected with the M. E. church was organized in the spring of 1841, with Jason Hunt superintendent. This was the first Sunday-school of any denomination organized in this village. Notwithstanding the losses by death, removals and withdrawals effecting every denomination, the Methodist society has kept up a steady increase of membership, numbering a record to-day of 252. Every minister's pastorate, whether long or short, is usually marked by some special work or event.

Never, in the history of the Methodist church in Andover, occurred as many deaths and removals as during the four of the five years of the present pastorate — twenty-five deaths, thirty-seven removals by letter, not including the number removed temporarily without letters, nor the children, which would increase the number largely. From one to three deaths occurred in one home, changing the condition of whole families. Notwithstanding this declension of membership, there has been a net increase of 28.

Mr. Wagoner has conducted 72 funerals, necessitating the preaching of 68 sermons, only in a few instances using the same discourse more than once. In visiting and burying this number required a travel of over a thousand miles. Their aggregate ages were 4,408, an average of 61 years. The oldest was 93 years and the youngest 3 months. We publish these facts to show that a minister's life is not an idle life.

During the five years pastorate just closing over $8,000 was raised for all church purposes. Church Hymnals were purchased sufficient in number to place two in each pew, thus adding to the singing. A large and beautiful Epworth cabinet organ was placed in the church, the gift of an individual member, secured solely thru the efforts of Mr. Wagoner. A new bell also was purchased and placed in the tower. Other minor improvements were made. He has secured the bequest of $1,000 for Missions, $500 for Education and $200 for the Superannuated Fund, all of which will be available in one time.

Mr. Wagoner has been 22 years in the ministry, 18 of which were served in full term under the preceding laws. This is a rare record. Owing to several attacks of nervous exhaustion and two of prostration he has been seriously contemplating retiring from the active ministry at this Conference session. During his 22 years pastorate he has repaired several churches and paid off many old and troublesome church debts.

Mrs. Mourhess' goods will all be here and opened, ready to show you, on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 3d and 4th.

ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL.

The regular meeting of the Kappa Theta was held on Tuesday evening of this week. A fraternity constitution was adopted and the organization of the society was perfected.

The entertainment course project is well under way. A little over a week remains to complete the canvass for season tickets. The talent is of a high order, and unless the students and citizens in general respond by a hearty support not enough pledges will be secured to insure the financial responsibility. If you have not already signed for tickets, please hand your name to one of the teachers at once.

The young ladies of the High School have organized a literary society to be known as the Delta Zeta fraternity. The following officers have been elected for the present term: President, Miss Catherine J. McKay; Vice President, Miss Pearl Ray; Recording Secretary, Miss Sylvia Hardy; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Emily Brainard; Treasurer, Miss Mary Oatley; Teller, Miss Myra Dolin. The charter membership consists of twenty-two young ladies.

The following program will be given by the Kappa Zeta at the regular meeting next Tuesday evening: Answer to roll call by quotations from a favorite poet; piano solo, Louise Corran; reading, Jennie Chugch; recitation, Catherine McKay; essay, Fannie Ware; original story, Rose Garvin; song, by Society.

Make the Grand Entertainment Course a sure thing by pledging for season tickets at once.

Christopher G. Colegrove Dead.

At the advanced age of most ninety years, Christopher C. Colegrove died at the home of his son, George Colegrove of Costello, Pa., last Thursday, and his remains brought to Andover Saturday for burial beside those of his wife, laid at rest but a week previous, and a daughter, Rev. W. B. Wagoner officiating at the grave. Mr. Colegrove was born in Madison county on the 24 of November, 1810, where he passed his youth and found his loving life companion. They moved to Andover fifty years ago, and were known by every one here. He was a blacksmith by trade, but only worked at the business a few years, preferring to till the soil instead. He was a successful farmer in this town until old age crept upon him and he decided to pass his remaining years with his son. He was a veteran of the civil war. Thus an aged and devoted couple have been called to their reward after 65 years passed happily together on earth. There were born to them nine children, three only surviving. Mrs. George Drackslan of Salamanca, Mrs. S. T. Sheldon of Providence, R. I., and George Colegrove, of Costello, Pa. The last week of Mr. Colegrove's life was passed in a continuous prayer to be permitted to go and join his beloved wife.

The Parker Concert Company.

There is no need for us to tell the people of Andover and vicinity that the Parker Concert Company entertainment given at Prest Opera House last Thursday evening was in every way a splendid success, as their two previous engagements here with us were of such superior excellence that just to say the Parker Concert Co. were again in Andover carries with it a guarantee of its merit. But we do wish to remind the people of the generosity of this company in donating the entire proceeds of the concert to the Andover Free Library, the net amount of which was some $35. This community feel themselves much indebted to them on this account and they will long live in the kind remembrances of Andover people.
