It would seem that divorces were easy enough to get now. But in Cleveland, O., they have formed a club, the object of which is to help parties in divorce cases. This new organization, which is to be officially known as "The Concatenated Order of Has-Beens and Will-Bes," is to be composed of men who have been divorced and those who have divorce suits pending, the latter being honorary members until they are legally freed from the ties that bind. The initiation fee will be two dollars and the dues one dollar per month. Seventy-five per cent. of the money so raised will be used to help the "Will-Bes" pay the attorneys' fees and costs in getting their divorces. The remaining 25 per cent. will be used to purchase a handsome diamond and gold medal, which will be presented to the common pleas judge who grants the most divorces in a year. One of the features of the proposed club rooms will be a scrap book in which the reports of divorce cases will be kept. Once a month there will be a lecture by some attorney well up in divorce laws. It is safe to say that the members of this queer club are men who have helped to make marriage a failure.

Has-Beens Organize.

The American "young fellow" is a very agreeable subject to behold, startlingly announces the Boston Herald. He has the advantage over the French youth of his age of looking much fresher. The well-bred French child is a charming creation, but the French youth at the end of his teens has the air of having exhausted life instead of being about to begin it, and presents a sharp contrast to the alert and eager young American. The distinction may be noted with the more confidence since it has struck so observant a Frenchman as M. Paul Bourget, in his remarks upon the aspect of the undergraduates of Harvard. Innocence is no part of the French ideal of young manhood, and it is still an important part of the American ideal.

A teacher of an Indian school declares that the descendants of Lo are gifted with logical minds. "One of my Indian boys," says this teacher, "asked the meaning of 'miss.' 'To miss,' said I, 'is the same thing as to fail. You shoot at a bird or at a mark and do not hit it; you miss it. You go to a tailor for a coat and your coat fits badly; it is a misfit. You hope to enter the middle class next year, but you cannot pass the examinations, and so you miss the promotion.' His face wore a puzzled air, and he shook his head. 'Then,' said I, 'there is another meaning of the word. We call a married lady madam, but an unmarried lady miss.' His face brightened; he smiled and nodded. 'Ah, I see,' he said, 'she has missed her man!'"

A German surgeon recently cut off a patient's second toe and sewed it to the stump of a missing forefinger, and it is proving a very good substitute. The gentleman should be cautioned to avoid the wearing of too tight gloves, remarks a facetious contemporary, or he may be called upon to nurse a very painful corn on that toe-finger.

It is said that the largest orchard in South Dakota is owned by a woman, Mrs. Laura A. Alderman, of Harley Turner county. She has 150 acres planted with 8,000 fruit trees of various kinds, two acres being of plums. There are also 1,000 gooseberry bushes, 1,000 currant bushes, 500 grape vines and three acres of strawberry plants.

The present area of the United States, including Alaska and our three new island colonies, is 3,846,140 square miles. So large a portion of the ground's surface cannot be accurately measured without the use of compass. The extent of our country is 30 times that of European France, and 40 times that of Great Britain.

Change of Party Affiliation.

To whom it may concern:

Having heretofore been allied with the Democratic party, always working within its ranks, and being unable to longer subscribe to its principles as advocated by Bryan and the Kansas platform, I feel it my duty to publicly express my intentions of voting at the coming election for McKinley and Roosevelt.

In coming to this conclusion, which has not been a hasty one, I am influenced by the fact that I firmly believe that the principles advocated by the Republican party are safer for the country, and will best subserve the interests of the American people.

The thriving success of my own business during the past three years, and the prosperous conditions, which exist to-day among all classes of people, lead me to believe that it is for my interest and the interest of the great masses of people that the present administration be continued in power. I am willing to let good enough alone. I am glad that I am able, in this contest, to lay aside my own prejudices and place patriotism and my country's welfare above partisanship, and vote, as I believe to be, not only for my own interest but for the interest of others.

In thus stating clearly my own position, I hope I may not offend my good Democratic friends who cannot believe as I do in the present campaign.

Respectfully yours,

P. C. LYNCH.

Do not get scared if your heart troubles you. Most likely you suffer from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and gives the worn out stomach perfect rest. It is the only preparation known that completely digests all classes of foods; that is why it cures the worst cases of indigestion and stomach trouble after everything else has failed. It may be taken in all conditions and cannot help but do you good. Benedict & Van Noy, Andover; E. Breeze, Elm Valley.

ANDOVER, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1900.

I see in last night's Reporter a letter written by my brother, P. C. Lynch, stating that he had left the Democratic party and was going to vote for McKinley. That is all right; I have been a Republican for many years; he can have my place; I am going to vote for Bryan. I think my brother stayed in the Democratic party when he ought to have got out, and got out when he ought to have stayed in. I would have felt prouder of him if he had given some good reason for his change of heart, pointed out some issue with the Democrats on one side and the Republicans on the other, and then said that his convictions were with the Republicans. I am a protective tariff man, and when that was the issue I was a Republican. But that is not the issue now. I should say that the controlling issue was as to the policy of the administration in regard to the Philippine Islands. On this issue I am with Bryan. If the Filipinos should lay down their arms to-morrow and say, "Here we are; take us and do with us as you like," I should not know what to do with them, and I don't believe McKinley would. He would either have to make citizens of them and rule them under the protection of the constitution and as our equals, or we would have to hold them as subjects. To make them citizens would be an injustice to American labor. What would Chinese exclusion and the protective tariff amount to with ten millions of cheap Asiatic laborers right under our own flag, with whom the American farmer and toiler must compete? If we hold them as subjects we must reject all of the teachings of our forefathers. What better are we to govern people without their consent and tax them without representation, than King George? If McKinley's policy is made the policy of the people, will we hereafter read the Declaration of Independence at Fourth of July celebrations? It does not proclaim a single principle we will not have repudiated. And then, after we have gone back on our forefathers and everything that they held sacred, we will have ten millions of unwilling subjects to control by force. This will take a large standing army that will have to be fed and clothed, which is a great burden upon a free people whose principle is to be free according to the constitution of our forefathers. And, if I am not mistaken, when you come to count the vote you will find that the old-country voters have not fled from the mother country to get rid of imperialism and a large standing army and come to this country to vote for the same thing here. They know from hard experience what it means.

Then there is another thing that I don't like McKinley for: I think he has been entirely too familiar with Great Britain to be a good American. He has stood by and seen Great Britain thump the life out of a republic whose only sin was its size—it was small—without a frown. This is the way it looks to me. If President McKinley had spent more of his leisure hours during the last four years with his Uncle Sam, and less of them with his friend Johnnie Bull, it would have been much better for this country, the South African Republic and the Philippine Islands. Yours,

MICHAEL LYNCH, Jr.

The dental parlors of Dr. John Common have been removed from the Opera House block to the room in the State Bank building recently occupied by the Hose Company. They make the doctor typical dental apartments.

Travelers say the hotels of Cairo, Egypt, are the best in the world. They are as good as the best continental hotel, better than the best American hotels, and extremely better than the fashionable London hostelries.

The Hon. John Sherman, who for a period of forty years has occupied a prominent place in the legislative and administrative branches of public affairs in the United States, died on Tuesday of last week of brain exhaustion.

The best lighted church in Allegany county is the M. E. church of Andover, since the putting in of the new burners last week and polishing up the reflectors. One with ever so weak optics can readily read a fine-print Bible or a hymn in any place in the house.

The Alfred sidepath commissioner is headed this way now, having already completed a nice stretch of path from Alfred Station. We wonder when Andover will be able to meet him. This year the sale of tags in Andover amounted to the magnificent sum of $25.50.

Mrs. Naomi S. Bradley, the beloved wife of Justin B. Bradley, died at her home in Bolivar at 5 o'clock on Monday evening, aged 69 years. She had been confined to the house since July 7, and for many days it was known that death was near. Death resulted from chronic hepatitis.

Three ladies of Secretary Long's household will vote this November in Colorado. They are his two daughters and their grandmother, Mrs. Glover. This is the first time in our history that a lady of the cabinet ever voted for President, and it marks another mile of woman's progress.

The warm and genial sun of October has ripened raspberries in abundance in this section. Mrs. L. A. Burrows showed us an armful of branches loaded with the palatable ripe berry, Monday night, which were gathered that day just north of the village, up East Valley. Genius loci.

The next meeting of the Allegany County Farmiers' Club will be held in Belmont on the 4th day of December, the meeting for November having been postponed on account of election. It is expected that a meeting of the Farmers' Institute will be held in conjunction with the meeting of the Club.

The following item contains a warning for all who use rubber tubes in connecting their gas stoves: "Edward Ames of Smethport was fatally injured by the explosion of gas, which had accumulated in the building from a leaky rubber tube connected to a small heating stove. He smelled a strong odor of gas, and it is supposed he went to investigate it with a lamp in his hand. He lived only about six hours."

The Erie company is making a concerted effort to prevent tramps from riding on its trains, and, if possible, to drive them from the lines. A large force of detectives is patroling the various divisions, driving the hoboes from trains, and, if they do not remain off, arresting them. It is hoped in this manner to free the Erie lines and the country which they traverse from the many tramps which have of late infested them.

"The Loveliest Women in All America," "The Future of the White House," "The Man Who Wrote Narcissus," "Waiting for the Mail"—a page drawing by A. B. Frost—and "How Aunt Sally Brought Down the House," a short story, are some of the excellent features of the November Ladies' Home Journal. There are numerous other articles and stories of interest, with illustrations in abundance. $1 a year; 10 cents a copy. The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia.

The Allegany Sale and Commission Exchange of Wellsville, John E. Potter, Manager, is filling a gap in Allegany commerce that is being appreciated by buyers and sellers alike. The modus operandi of the company is to bring buyer and seller together to facilitate sales and exchanges between them. A specialty is made of horses, cattle, farms, oil wells and general, merchandise. If you have anything for sale or exchange, they will sell or dispose of it for you, or find you a purchaser.

A law went into effect Sept. 1st, which makes it a misdemeanor for persons in cities or incorporated villages to sell or keep for sale or to dispose of in any way an article known as a slung shot, billy, sand club or metal knuckles, or without authority from a police magistrate to sell or give away firearms to persons under 18 years of age, to sell or give away air guns or spring guns to persons under 12 years of age, or to sell or give away toy pistols for blank cartridges to persons under 16 years of age.

Robert L. O'Donnell arrived home the first of this week with his full force of jokes, stories, etc. Rob informs us he has severed his connection with the George Watkinson Company of Philadelphia and accepted a much more lucrative position with the Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Company of Beacon Falls, Conn., to take effect November 1. Robert is a hustler, and we have always maintained that he has found the particular field for which his natural ability has fitted him. We wish him all kinds of success.

The world-famous Indian Lady Princess Wynima and her company of refined players come to the Opera House Nov. 1st, for one week. The company include the three Rose's Grotesque Comedy Acrobats. These artists carry their own scenery, including one of the funniest Tuck Houses ever seen. Texas Harry, the cow-boy Comedian, Mon's Sella, the Black Face Comeque, the Russell's Sensational Gymnasts, and other first class vaudeville stars. The admission is only 10 cents. Thursday, Nov. 1st, it is entirely free to everybody.

The famous Chicago Marine Band, under the leadership of the great composer, T. P. Brooke, will give one of their grand concerts in Prest's Opera House, Andover, on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 8th, at 2:30. Admission, 35 cents; students of schools, 25 cents. No reserved seats. This band consists of 40 pieces, and ranks above Sousa's or Gilmore's in many of the large cities. This is a chance of a life time. You can't afford to miss it. This organization sells at $100 for its evening concerts, and 75 cents to $1 is usually charged for admission.
