Through all the ages, says Walter Wrooman, president of Ruskin Hall college, Oxford, England, a few determined men and women have shaped the character of each generation, turning the stream of human advancement to the right or to the left, as their irrepressible vigor surged toward a noble or an ignoble ideal. The decaying aristocracy of Europe, the petrified castes of India, the plethoric higher social strata of China—all are made up of the descendants of small bands of such vigorous and purposeful conquerors, who, in the years gone by, as poor boys in their wild outdoor homes, determined to do and to be. There is Amerisan Aristocracy. not an aristocracy in Europe or Asia but is made up of descendants of a small group of bold spirits who, under the most unfavorable conditions, once started a Success club. There are two differences, however, between these old-fashioned Success clubs and those now being formed in America. Their principle was to get on, and then, by establishing special privileges for their children to keep others back. The American Success clubs will be made up of the most vigorous youth of our land, those whose power of will is irresistible, and who, under other conditions and animated by other motives, would become the ancestors of some dynasty or old-world aristocracy. Instead of throwing the ladder back, however, when we have reached the top, we shall establish an aristocracy of merit, ever rejuvenated and strengthened by the best and most aspiring among those who now happen to be below. Instead of building caste walls to keep others down, says this writer, according to Success, the purpose of our life shall be to establish every possible facility to assist others to rise. He who serves most will be honored most. The greatest servant will be the greatest ruler. The highest and most honorable labor will consist in that which most needs to be done. Such will be the twentieth century aristocracy, and all the other aristocracies of earth will be supplanted by it. Here we have a union of self-expansion and moral enthusiasm; a union of two of the mightiest powers of the universe. We cannot fail. The world belongs to us. Young man! Young woman! Who will have the honor of starting the first Success club in your community?

A hundred students of Mount Union college, Alliance, O., all robed in white and closely masked, broke into Ladies' hall one night lately, and then in some way managed to get Prof. Riker's cow up to the third story, where they tethered it. Still feeling funny, they went to the college, overpowered the watchman, upset the stoves and piano and threw portable furniture out of the window. A serenade to the faculty followed and the performance concluded with a grand war dance in the public square. What the penalty will be is not stated, but it cannot be too severe. Festivities of this sort should be discouraged in a rough-handed fashion.

One of the queer things which we hear about America by way of the English papers is a story of some big man who was enlighten ing Kipling the Great concerning the professional women of America. The big man delivered himself after this fashion: "Well, sir, in our country we have a great many female doctors, female lawyers, female journalists, female preachers and females in all classes and professions and trades; but what we want is more female women!"

The passion for football saved an entire class at West Point from doing penance for five months. The second class had been punished by being ordered to do constant guard duty. Then the officers discovered that the football team would be a failure without three members of that class. So the class was pardoned that these might play on the team.

The Buffalo Courier thinks a jag is the following facts: "Five hundred Facts About Hairpins. millions of hairpins! That is what the women of this land annually buy, beg or borrow. Now a hairpin never wears out; it sometimes becomes pale and bent with age, but its avoidupois is all there. What, therefore, becomes of these successive millions? During the last ten years 5,000,000,000 of hairpins have been made and sold. At present there are only about 100,000,000 in circulation. Now, where are the other 4,900,000,000? They have been sown broadcast from Maine to California, and have left not a trace behind. Of course some of them are picked up and restored to their sphere of usefulness, but most women are as shy of adopting strange hairpins as they are of accepting an unidentified toothbrush. The hairpins, therefore, go to make up the flotsam and jetsam thrown out by the tide of humanity and dumped into the waste places of the suburbs." That's what hairpins to them.

The growth of population about the great lakes will be one of the important revelations of the present census. Six lake cities, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago, have added more than 1,000,000 people since 1890, an increase of nearly 50 per cent. The increase is directly related to the growth of commerce of the great lakes, which has doubled in the last five years. The tonnage capacity of vessels passing through the canal at Sault Sainte Marie is now half as large again as that of all the vessels which enter and leave the port of New York, and two and a half times as great as the tonnage which passes through the Suez canal. The great lakes certainly cannot be called "a waste of waters." They are teeming with life and usefulness.

Here is a Georgia boy's composition on the trouble in China, given in the Atlanta Constitution: "China is a land of heathens that would ruther worship a wooden god that grins at you than go to church an' pay pew rent. My pa was a missionary in China. When the Boxers commeneed to box they knocked him out in the first round, an' he lost three fingers an' a bran new hymn book with a bookmark in it. Then he comed home. He has still got 2 legs an' 2 arms left, though the Mission Board told him that he lost his head. He says home missions takes the cake."

Ferris' big wheel as a locomotive round house for some enterprising railroad company is the latest novel purpose proposed for the disposition of that piece of gigantic machinery. The originator of the idea would have it laid over on its side, roofed over in regulation roundhouse fashion, and yet keep to its business of turning, thus receiving 72 locomotives, if necessary, from one single track leading to its periphery. Frogs, turntables and switches would be done away with.

Twenty-one Californians, the advance guard of 500, sailed from New York a few days ago for the Argentine republic, intending to settle there. The delegation already en voyage is headed by four brothers named Ballett; from Los Angeles, each six feet tall, and each having a wife and four daughters. The colony, which has considerable cash capital, will go into cattle raising in the valley of the Platte river.

Judge Miller, of Mercer county, Pa., visited the county fair the other day, and, seeing a big wheel of fortune, took an ax and smashed it to pieces. The other operators of gambling devices departed immediately. Judge Miller says if the local authorities won't stop gambling he will.

Farmers who sustained loss by reason of a break in the levee near Portage, Wis., are preparing to sue that city and Caledonia for damages. A test case will be brought against the latter place, and if it shall be successful many more will follow.

Stakes in an election wager amounting in all to $35 were placed in the hands of one Rogers, of Muskegon, Mich. One of the gamblers owed a coal bill of $21. The coal firm heard of the wager and garnisheed the stakeholder, recovering the whole amount.

It is reported that along the grain belt of the west farmers are seeking wives. The demand is greater in Kansas, where the crops have been even larger than elsewhere.

The convicts in the Texas penitentiary contributed liberally to the Galveston fund. This episode illustrates the fact that no one is wholly and utterly bad.

There was a man in our town
Who thought he'd go to the city,
And then he thought and thought
And thought it would be a pity
To spend that forty dollar pile,
So he kept thinking all the while
And then thought, I'll salt it down,
And keep far from that wicked town.
Oh, no! thought he, with saintly pride,
That forty dollars I'll divide,
So walk up, gents, and get your share,
If you think you've any there.

But don't take it in platiers at 10 cents apiece, which you can buy anywhere at 8 cents.

HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

John Hoxt and Miss Jennie King of Tully were married Oct. 31st.

R. G. Dun, head of the mercantile agency firm of R. G. Dun & Co., New York, is dead.

The barbers of Andover charge 15 cents for shaving Democrats since Nov. 7th, their faces are so long.

Floyd Richardson has been confined to the house the past week by illness, but is much better at this writing.

The California State Council Catholic Knights of America commences a several days session in Oakland today.

The Free Library has placed a nice sign in front of their building bearing the insignia, "Free Library and Reading Room."

The receipts at the depot last month simply for freight exported, amounted to $2,903.38. Who says Andover does no business?

E. E. Clarke came into town with a full-blooded O. I. C. hog, obtained by him from Arkport parties. Good blood or no blood, is his motto.

Two carloads of pipe for the Andover Gas Co. arrived Friday, and the balance to expected soon. Work of laying will be begun immediately.

The Indian medicine show concluded their engagements in Andover by a final "Talk to men only" by the Princess Wymina Sunday afternoon.

Leon Bloss has rented his father's farm at Independence, and is moving thereon this week. Hiram Bloss, his father, will make his home in Whitesville hereafter.

Freman Fuller, of the pusher, says the Republicans may be able to furnish a full dinner pail, but they can't find a lost dinner pail, as he found to his sorrow, Thursday.

Letters testamentary have been issued to Miss Belle C. Rice on the estate of her mother, the late Mrs. Betsey A. Rice of this village. Real estate, $2,000. Personal $750.

We are informed that there is to be a donation for the benefit of Rev. G. M. Janes of the Presbyterian church, next Friday evening, at the residence of Wallace Boyd, on the Greenwood road.

A statue is at last to be erected in honor of Robert Morris, the financier of the Revolution, whose services during the struggle for Independence have been but inadequate recognized.

Miss Agnes Rogers, of the Wellsville High School, having taught the required number of years, has recently been presented with a graduate certificate, which is equivalent to a state license to teach.

At the nearly 5,000 men are at work at the Pan American grounds there has not been as yet a single fatal accident. In view of the extra hazardous nature of much of the work, this is a surprisingly good record.

The city authorities of Buffalo are making a strong effort to wipe out concert saloons. Mayor Diehl has signed the new ordinance abolishing such saloons, but it does not go into effect until May 1st of next year.

G. E. Brown's well was completed to-day. It is a good gasser.

A man in Elm Valley has discovered that brandy can be made out of wet elm sawdust. What a discouraging thing that is for the Prohibition party when a man can buy a rip saw and have a drunk out of an old elm rail.

Our fellow-townsman, Jesse L. Grantier, successfully passed a rigid examination for admission to the bar at Syracuse on the 9th ult., and expects to take the oath some time next week, which will give him full authority as attorney and counsellor at law.

An old log hut in the pine woods on the Tonawanda reservation has been taken down, put on flat cars and taken to the Pan American grounds to be used in the Indian village. This old hut will be occupied by an Indian woman said to be 120 years old whose name is Mary Johnson.

The will of the late Hon. John Sherman was written by the statesman himself, and bears date, Washington, D. C., Dec. 22, 1890. It disposes of about $2,500,000, the bulk of it going to six heirs, one of whom—his brother Gen. W. T. Sherman—is dead. Kenyon and Oberlin Colleges each get $5,000.

The Belmont Courier says: It is not official, but comes from a fairly reliable source, that County Clerk Green and his family will remain residents of Belmont for some time after the expiration of his term of office. A vote on the question would be carried in the affirmative by a constitutional majority.

In the hustle after election returns last week we neglected to tell our readers that the insurance office of J. D. Cheesman had been removed from the law office of Crayton L. Farley to rooms of its own in the same building, where you are all invited to present yourselves when in need of any insurance of any kind.

It is said that the jockey, George Taylor, who died from injuries received by being thrown from a running horse in Maryland recently, was the same lad who was thrown from Decker's running horse at the Wellsville Fair last August. Taylor was a native of Scio and his remains were brought there for interment.

The following item was taken from the report of the committee on libraries before the late federation of women's clubs: The Andover free library was founded in October, 1899. At the close of its first year it contains 611 volumes. The number of books loaned during the year was 350 volumes; number of readers 371.

The State of Rhode Island is making preparations to commemorate the heroism of Washington and his troops at Valley Forge. Three representatives of the National Board of the Daughters of the American Revolution have selected a suitable pedestal for a monument to the General, which will be erected at Valley Forge by the state of Rhode Island. The monument will be eight feet in height, and will be mounted on a pedestal of natural granite weighing eight tons.

Mark Houghtling represented Andover at the meeting of sidepath commissioners Monday. It was there decided that the money from the sale of tags from Andover be used in extending the path toward Alfred next year, and that Alfred would build toward Andover. The combined efforts of both commissioners is hoped to complete a good path next season from Andover to Hornellsville. Wellsville is expected to come our way with her efforts next year also.

The Ministerial Convention held at the Seventh-day Baptist church from Friday afternoon to Sunday night was largely attended by delegates and visitors from other churches. The papers presented were very interesting and instructive. Sunday afternoon the audience was pleasantly surprised by the appearance of Miss Susie M. Burdick, a returned missionary from China, who spoke of her work there and of missions in general. A large number of our citizens were sadly disappointed in not knowing of her presence and therefore failing to hear her. It is hoped that she may be induced to visit Andover again not far in the future.

The Allegany County Village Directory, compiled and issued by Charles Latham, now being delivered to subscribers thruout the county, includes the villages of Alfred, Allentown, Almond, Andover, Angelica, Belfast, Belmont, Belvidere, Bolivar, Canaseraga, Caneadea, Cuba, Fillmore, Friendship, Hume, Nile, Oramel, Richburg, Rushford, Scio, Shongo, Stanards, Whitesville and Wellsville, and is very comprehensive and complete. It contains over 300 pages, and in addition to the names of all residents, gives the various organization, and societies of each town.

Much credit is due the property owners on West Center street for the splendid sewerage placed there. The ball was started rolling by A. M. Burrows, as we stated a few week ago. Now those adjoining have gone on with the good work below him until the sewers are laid to the property of the Erie railroad, and we believe if they were only reminded of the condition they would show the same enterprise exhibited by the others, and would continue it across their property into the creek and thus complete a job of sewerage any first-class city might be proud of. It sometimes takes Andover quite a while to get a move on, but when she does, things are finished up right.

The audience gathered at Prest's Opera House Thursday afternoon to listen to the grand treat offered Andover people by the Chicago Marine Band. We establishes the fact, without a doubt, that Andover people will patronize a good thing when they get a chance. All that is necessary here to draw a house, even on a lowery day, is to have the right stuff, and have it well advertised. The people appreciate the effort now being made to give them a better class of entertainments. After all the words of commendation given to the Brooke Chicago Marine Band by the best newspapers of the nation, we can only add our little might to the collection, but we want that little might be counted in this style: It was just grand.
