The session of the Spanish Cortes began yesterday. Americans are specially interested in the gathering this year because the extraditions, consular and general treaty with the United States that has been prepared to replace the treaties of 1875 and 1877 comes up for consideration. Mr. Bellamy Storer, United States Minister, expects that the Spanish government will have no difficulty in persuading the Cortes to approve, and it is believed the treaty will be ratified before Christmas. Several protests against custom house fines on American vessels and some settlement of the questions arising out of the peace treaty of 1898, are still under negotiation. The Spanish Cabinet manifests a conciliatory spirit.

MOST of the black silks and satins that we have sold for the last 15 years have come from the Haskell Mills in the town of Westbrook, Maine. We have tried other makes and been disappointed in them, but during the whole time mentioned we have had but one claim to make and then it was hardly just, because the lady was very stout and her waist was not lined with strong enough material.

Some manufacturers take advantage of the popularity and consequent demand for their goods, and raise the price, but not so with these people. The prices are no higher than you have to pay for inferior goods.

We show them in Peau dosoie, Rhadame, Duchess, Armure, Surah and Taffeta. We guarantee taffetas same as the others, a thing which is not usually done.

The Cheese Belt.

Showing Old Allegany County to be in the Lead in her Product.

Among the agricultural interests of this state the cheese industry is one of the most important. Not only does it make use of an immense amount of milk, but it puts ready cash into the pockets of the farmers every fifteen days thruout the producing season. This is one reason why dairymen stick to the business, even when the price of cheese barely pays them for the milk and the work done. They are always sure to receive whatever money it brings twice a month, and this comes in the summer time, when crops are growing and little cash is being received from other sources.

The state agricultural department has recently published a list of the cheese and butter factories in the state, giving the amount of their production in 1898; also a map showing in colors just where they are situated. The map is a complete exposition of the subject, and shows at a glance where the cheese and butter factories are.

The map shows there are two great areas of cheese manufactured in the state. One is a broad band reaching from Broome county north to Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties, with an L stretching east thru southern Herkimer and Montgomery counties. The other lies in the southwestern part of the state, and includes Chautauqua, Cattaraugus, Allegany, Erie and Wyoming counties. The cheese factories are most numerous in Cattaraugus and Allegany counties west, and from northern Otsego thru southern Herkimer to Montgomery and northern Oneida, Lewis and Jefferson counties, in central New York. Aside from these two areas, the rest of the state is nearly bare of factories, fifteen of the sixty-one counties having none, while twenty of the others have only from one to six within their borders.

The magnitude of the industry is shown by the fact that in 1898 there were 1,230 establishments in which cheese was made, and that the entire product amounted to 94,078,160 pounds. The average price of cheese that season to factory men was uncommonly low, not quite 7½ cents, but even at that, the total value of cheese produced was $7,000,000. Since that time it has increased at least 25 per cent.—N. Y. Tribune.

Of Interest to Farmers.

From time to time we have had occasion to draw attention to the good work carried on by the College of Agriculture of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. We are pleased to note that an interesting publication has just been issued under the auspices of the Farmers' Reading Course of that institution. This is in the form of a lesson on the tree. Many of us don't stop to think what the parts of a tree are; what each part does in the tree economy, and how the tree is kept in health and vigor. In this pleasant review of the subject, an apple tree is taken as the concrete example or type. The suggestive hints drawn out regarding the care and management of trees are therefore of special interest, and have particular value for the fruit grower. These lessons are free to the farmers of the state, and every advantage should be taken of the opportunity afforded.

Death of Mrs. Mary A. Hamel.

Mrs. Mary A. Hamel died on Chestnut street Monday morning last of cerebral hemorrhage. She had been in her usual health the day before, but about dark was suddenly stricken, becoming unconscious from the first. The doctor was hurriedly summoned, but nothing that could be done for her was of any avail. Death came in the early morning. Mrs. Hamel was born in Ireland 73 years ago, coming to America and locating in Andover 50 years since. She was of that temperament that if she found any one in trouble or distress her sympathies were quickly aroused for them and nothing in her power would be left undone for their assistance. The funeral was held at the house this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A husband and three children survive her.

He Went to Greenwood.

Chas. Bronson had been thinking of going to Greenwood to attend a dance there Thursday evening, all last week, and the anticipation of the good time in store for him among the pretty girls of Steuben county so filled his mind as he stepped into his buggy drawn by his two spirited horses, that the darkness of the night had no horrors for him. It will be remembered by those acquainted with the road, that just before reaching E. B. Rollins' the road turns from an easterly direction to a direct southern route for a few rods then turns back to east again. Now Charlie couldn't stand it to go way around that way, he was in such a yank, and so decided to cut across lots. Filling himself up by a long drawn breath of pleasure, he imagining that his averdepoise would be as naught, and a few cuts of the whip upon the backs of his steeds would make creek, fences, etc. of no hindrance to his plans. As he reached the barbed wire fence that stood as a protection to keep the people from driving off the embankment down an eleven foot drop into the creek, he gave his horses a few extra lashes, and altho the animals truly showed their desire to keep in the road across the bridge, they at last concluded their driver was training them for jumping parashutes for exhibition purposes, and made the plunge! Later a much discomfited Charlie comes home,—no pretty Steuben girls, no nice dance, no more spotless tailor-made clothing just fresh from the clothing artist, no nice carriage, but astride one horse while the other meekly follows behind on threefeet. It's all off now, poor boy! Just then in comes another Greenwood-bent Audoverian, picked up heroic Charlie and tho late the long-for enjoyment is obtained. Is participation as great as anticipation, Charlie?

Special Sale of Clothing

AT CANNONS'.

Owing to the warm weather along back, several manufacturers of Clothing last week made deep cuts in prices in order to move their stocks. We jumped in and got a goodly share, and beginning Friday morning, they're to be offered to you at about what they cost to make. Men's suits, worth $10, at $6 and $7; Overcoats, worth $10, at $7.50; Boys' and Children's Suits, Overcoats and Reefers, in like proportion. This is not to be a sale of shoddy stuff. None but reliable goods will be offered you here. There is variety enough in this lot for all, but you know the choicest are the first to go. So dig in.

White Ribboners Meet.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28th.—Special.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union began a week's session here to-day. On account of the position taken by the Union against President McKinley on the canteen question, it did not have a very hearty welcome. Instead of being hospitably entertained at the residences of the ladies of Washington only good boarding rates have been given the delegates. They are also paying their fares on the trolley cars, which is a novelty, as they have always had free passes. The officers, however, express themselves gratified that they are able to pay their way, and say they will work against the canteen in a livelier manner than ever.

A Royal Time at Hornellsville.

About fifteen members of Andover Lodge, No. 786, I. O. O. F., were the guests of Steuben County Lodge, No. 331, of Hornellsville, last Wednesday evening, Nov. 21st. There were also members present from Canaseraga Lodge, Corning Lodge and Oasis Lodge. The second degree was very impressively conferred upon three candidates. Following the degree work the members of Steuben County Lodge and their guests sat down to a delicious banquet and partook of the tempting viands with a relish and zest that truly indicated the satisfaction of the inner man. The banquet was followed by an excellent program of toasts, Past Grand A. H. Bunnell officiating as toastmaster. Responses in a happy vein were made by various visiting members and brethren of Steuben County Lodge. The program was interspersed by vocal selections and piano solos.

How Many Snakes Have You Swallowed?

Last Saturday morning, Mrs. N. Perkins drew a cup of water from the faucet of the village water works and placed it on the stove to heat. After boiling the water a few moments, she picked up the cup and was about to use the water, when she espied something therein that had the appearance of a piece of thread. Upon taking the supposed string from the cup she became curious to know just what it was, so took it to Dr. Stanbro, who placed it under a strong magnifying glass. Much to the horror of those witnessing it, the thread turned out to be a genuine water snake, the head and form being perfectly portrayed by the power of the glass. The beating of the water was the only thing that had made it possible to have discovered this reptile, cooking changing its color. People using spring water should be more careful to see what they draw before using it.
