Strikes and the usual violence attending them are a great menace to our government and people. Combination of labors for their mutual benefit is proper and desirable, but if they are to be accompanied by the crime of murder and arson and the wanton destruction of property then they are defeating the purposes of their organization and a menace to themselves. The main reason that their lawlessness has been tolerated so long is that law-makers do not wish to offend the labor vote. Labor organizations themselves should put down lawlessness in strikes.

Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

"God who registers the cup
Of mere cold water for His sake
To the disciple rendered up,
Disdains not His own thirst to slake
At the poorest love o'er offered."

Those lines from Browning are made the key of a fine editorial in The Continent, a real religious newspaper. The editorial teaches a truth strangely disregarded by the ordinary christian,—a recognition of the fact of how intimately God's life is related to the life of every human being, from highmost in his sunway, to uttermost in his darkway.

It was Lyman Abbott, who said: "If God loves He suffers;" a most true saying—that brings God down from untouchable thrones into humblest homes and poorest workshops and wretchedest of the gutters.

If God doesn't suffer He is no like us. We have thought Him like ourselves, made in our image, only magnified in infinite diameters of understanding and compassion.

Jesus' figure, "the cup of cold water," shows the peculiar joy God takes in the most humble gift—even in gifts (like a cup of water) that costs nothing. If His mighty heart is stirred by this elemental courtesy, what must be the joy of God when He beholds His children at work at the task of making Him and others (especially the uttermost others) good friends and comrades. Is it to be wondered at the news of our sinner's hometurning runs like wild-fire up and down the streets of heaven. Well it's fine to be friends with a God of this qualify, fine to "do things" for one whose "thirst is slaked" when one of the "least" is befriended by our gifts.

What a tremendous spur in the thought that God is so near.

He adventures along all paths of dream, climbs up the slopes of hope, sits brooding in the solitude of plan and project, climbs with the climber, takes blow with the oppressed, sits in the captive' chains, thirsts and hungers in our want and death, adventures the desert places, is beaten on the rocks of shame. There's not an experience that God is not partner in; no fall so far that he does not descend, no star so high that he does not reach .... Though we made our bed in hell He is there.

In Him we live and move and have our being. In us He lives. What a reason for keeping our hearts pure and hands clean in this, that by so doing we fill God's cup of joy. What fine courtesy of ours to have a mind for the joy of our Father.

Sin hurts God more terribly than we may imagine. We force Him to take the hurt of the cruel word with which we lash a human being, the chafe of the load our injustice lays upon others, the tears our iniquities cause to fall from innocent eyes. He suffers in our refusal to use His gifts of power and talent.

I think we may make Jesus our Friend. His Father suits us; His law of life stirs my imagination, appeals to my sense of right ness; His estimate of my valuation reassures me; His fine courtesy draws my admiration: A gentle man, certainly, for He had a min for the "least."

I would rather strike out on the Long Road home in company with a gentleman who understands all about us, who compassionates, than with an Angel. Jesus is like homefolks, puts me in mind of my father who I know would carry my loads. An Angel would be a stranger. Yes, comrade. God was very kind in showing His exquisite courtesy in giving us a Friend who understands who is by his performance of a divine function, made evident as the brightness of God's glory, the express image of His person.

If God is glad for the cup of cold water—let's make Him glad der.

Good morrow, comrade.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Rev. Chas. Collins, Pastor

Next Sunday will be the opening day of the two week's special evangelistic services in this church. At 10:30 the pastor will preach on the great topic, "King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba," showing how as the Queen of old came to Solomon with her "hard questions" and was amazed at his glory and his wisdom and went away declaring "the half had not been told." So men and women to-day are bringing their hard questions and perplexing problems to one greater than Solomon and find the only sufficient answer in Him.

In the evening the pastor will preach especially to young men and women. Subject, "When Sinners Entice." A sermon dealing with such matters as intemperance, impurity, idleness, etc. A straight from the shoulder message that all should hear. Federated service.

Evangelistic services next week, evenings at 7:30 in main body of the church, afternoons at 3:00 in the lecture-room. Everybody invited. No meetings on Saturdays or Mondays.

INVESTIGATE GASOLINE PRICES

Official government figures disclose the fact that in face of raising prices of gasoline, production of crude oil was greater in 1915 than 1914 dispite the fact that production was "purposely retarded as far as possible," that reserve stocks of crude petroleum now being held in the country are the largest ever recorded, and that exports of gasoline, to which the rise in prices frequently has been attributed, were in the last ten months of 1915 less than the exports during the corresponding period of the two years previous.

Both the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission are preparing to investigate gasoline prices.

WAR UPON PAIN!

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Solster, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping Around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I as as good as new."

The well advertised store is necessarily, a partly-new store every day. Changes take place in stocks quickly—the new crowd out the old at every turn.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

A prospering store makes the most of its advertising material—its service, its price-concessions, its exclusive stocks. A store that does not have plenty of "advertising material" will, of course, not do much advertising — nor much prospering.

EVERY INTELLIGENT PERSON SHOULD LEARN HOW TO WRITE!

More than a million people are employed in the publishing business in the United States, and all of them "had to begin." They are dropping out every day, and some one must take their place. There must be writers for

They pay more for the same class of service than most of the professions. With a table, a chair, paper and a typewriter you can begin now; and you do not need to give up your present occupation or employment. Even if you do not wish to take up journalism as a profession, there is no better mental training than learning to write.

The mon or woman who writes is automatically thrown in touch with the big people who are shaping the destiny of the state and the nation, and with the big things that are taking place in the new development of the country.

The fundamentals are carefully and simply arranged in our Correspondence Course of Instruction. A Washington correspondent, who has written for every class of publications during the past twenty-five years, has arranged the work, and is in charge of the course. Money back if you are not satisfied.
