Furniture that is not pleasing to the eye is fit for nothing but a barn. Elegance is one thing and strength is another, but there is not the least reason in the world why the two should not go together in Furniture.

To say that a thing is cheap does not necessarily make it cheap. To say that our Furniture is cheap, scarcely does it justice. Take our High Chair as an illustration: We sell them for 90 cents, which is about one-third less than you have to pay at other places for them. An equally forcible illustration of cheapness is our Iron Bedsteads, Mattresses, etc.

After No-License, What?

NUMBER III.

After all of the methods which are employed to violate the law by liquor drinkers and sellers, it should be constantly borne in mind by believers in sobriety that there is a large class of persons who are constantly tempted to drink when there are open saloons, but who rarely drink when there are none. They have no special appetite for intoxicants, but they yield to treating customs and gradually become drunkards. They would remain temperate citizens if there were no legalized saloons. But they are destroyed by the presence of such saloons. The reformation of drunkards is very desirable. But if they will not reform they should not be furnished with open saloons where they can entice sober men to destruction.

The writer has spent thirteen years of his ministry in towns where no license had been the established policy for a generation or more. The results were, that there were comparatively few drunkards in the towns, and a majority of the men were total abstainers. The town of Independence is typical. It has been without license for more than a generation. When license was first denied there were liquor men in the vicinity of Whitesville who were so angry that they refused to have their mail come there. They started the story that small-pox was in the stores of the merchants who took an active part in preventing license. They boycotted the merchants and did all they could to embarrass and defeat the reformation. But the temperance people were persistent. Some parties started a joint, and a committee of citizens gave them twenty-four hours to leave the town. Earnest efforts were made to create total abstinence sentiment. The final results were a practically unanimous sentiment against license. Under the old law neither of the old parties nominated a license excise commissioner, and a man who would consent to run as a license commissioner would brand himself with the mark of Cain. The people, almost without exception, came to regard the saloon as an intolerable plague spot. And the bare mention of the possibility of such a thing would arouse general opposition. Drunkards came there from saloon towns with the avowed object of getting away from temptation, and to-day the citizens of Independence are justly proud of their temperance record.

Allegany County Dentists Meet.

An interesting session of the Allegany County Dental Society was held in this village Monday. Those present were: Doctors Coon of Alfred, Sheerar, Ellsworth and Sparger of Wellsville, Green and Sortore of Belmont, H. Whipple and G. Whipple of Cuba, Wardner of Friendship, Smith of Bolivar, Warner of Angelica and Common of Andover. Dr. Harry Whipple presented a paper on "Capping and Devitalizing Pulps," after which a general discussion of the subject followed.

Mrs. Phebe Barton Spaulding.

Mrs. Phebe Barton Spaulding was born in Valatie, Kinderhook township, N. Y., March 12th, 1820. She was married April 17th, 1850. She was the mother of three children, two of whom survive her, namely, Mrs. Travis of Washington, D. C., and Miss Fannie Spaulding. Mrs. Spaulding was a person who possessed a beautiful Christian character, and she endeared herself to those who knew her by her amiable disposition, and faithfulness to the practical duties of life. She was a model wife and mother, and a kind and considerate neighbor. Her parents were Quakers, and her piety was moulded after their ideals of religious profession. Her husband, who has had her companionship nearly 51 years, is deeply afflicted, and an aged sister, Mrs. Richmond, remains to mourn her loss. After a severe illness she died at her home in Andover March 28th, 1901. Her funeral services were conducted on the following Sunday afternoon, at her residence, by Rev. S. D. Pickett, the pastor of the M. E. church, and a large number of citizens were present to pay tribute to her memory.

Holy Week.

This last week of Lent is called Holy Week, because during it we commemorate the redemption Christ purchased for us by his death on the cross. In the Blessed Sacrament Church, this Wednesday, at 7:30 p. m., will be a sermon on the Holy Eucharist, followed by confessions. Thursday, at 8 a. m., Mass and Holy Communion in honor of the institution of the Sacrament of the Altar. Friday night, at 7:30, prayers and sermon on the Passion. Easter Sunday, early Mass at 8, the High Mass, as usual, at 10:30, and the sermon at it will be on the Resurrection.

Accommodation and a welcome for all at the church for these various services.

T. A. MURRAY.

Card of Thanks.

Words are inadequate to express our thanks to the many dear friends who by their kind words and loving deeds, assisted so materially in caring for our dear wife and mother in her last sickness, and in the sad days that followed. Odd Fellow Banquet.

Last evening, after the regular lodge session, the members of the Odd Fellow fraternity of Andover, with their ladies, repaired to the Opera House and enjoyed their second annual banquet. The hall had been decorated by the committee having that matter in charge very appropriately and tastily with bunting, and the emblems, banners, regalia and other Odd Fellow insignia, until one could hardly realize he was sitting in the old opera house. The supper was served by the ladies of the Baptist church. It was gilt-edge in quality, abundant in quantity, and served in the same faultless manner as those ladies usually do. Cannon's orchestra were there with their instruments all in line, and furnished music such as kings and queens could not help being edified with. After all had done ample justice to the viands, Toastmaster Arthur B. Burrows arose and with his ever-present humor proceeded to call out the speakers one by one, not forgetting to roast each and every one according to the most approved fashion. The first to respond with a toast was the Rev. Bro. Pickett, who told them of the origin of Odd Fellows. He was followed by Attorney Crayton L. Earley, who had assigned him the subject of "Fraternity." Rev. V. L. Eggleston talked upon the "Moral Aspect of Odd Fellowship," and Noble Grand, B. S. Baker, on "The Benefits of Odd Fellowship." The others responding to toasts were given freedom of range as to subject, and were as follows: Fred Potter, L. A. Burrows, J. L. Williams, Jett. Blodgett, Clayton Williams, Henry Stephens, Frank Miner, and L. C. Van Fleet. The toasts were interspersed by a selection by a brass quartet—Messrs. Bloss, Smith, Livermore and Common—a recitation by Dr. John Common, and several selections from the large graphophone manipulated so successfully by H. H. Williams. There were 150 covers laid at the banquet.
