We've Learned a Lesson

It pays to be frank. The first week of our sale has proved that fact beyond a doubt. People have responded wonderfully. Why? Because we didn't hesitate to tell them the real reason for our sale.

You know what the average sale is—no use to go into details. But this is far above the average. It is based upon an honest desire to move goods.

The public is cashing in on this opportunity to save money on standard lines of merchandise.

Maybe there's something here you need. We advise you to act promptly. Each day means a more limited choice.

Fighting in Europe is increasing in the air. New aircraft is taking an active part.

Four unions of the employes of the steam railroads of the United States claim they have the balance of power in the country and which they will use to force political parties to adopt their measures.

They claim to control nearly one-half million votes whose creed is to carry out the orders of their unions or the commands of their leaders and relates to their interests alone. Some of their leaders say that now is the time to make new demands as parties and candidates for office dare not refuse their claims through fear of their vote or their boycott.

The leading news article in the Thrice-a-Week World of the 24th has this to say of leaders Carterr and Lee. "Labor men informed the World yesterday that Carter and Lee have preached the doctrine that the following circumstances can be turned through concerted action to gain material advantages for railroad employes and will prove the decisive factors in the fight they are undertaking."

"1. That this is a presidential election year."

"2. That the threat of nearly half a million labor votes will be powerful to influence Congress and President Wilson: the first sufficiently to prevent unfavorable legislation and perhaps the passage of desired legislation; the second enough to prevent federal action in the event of a strike, to throw Wilson influence in favor of the strikers or at least to make him 'be good.'"

"3. That Theodore Roosevelt is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. He can be used either to force the Administration to 'behave' or, should Wilson not yield to the Roosevelt and other threats, the solid strike vote would force the Colonel's nomination and election insuring an administration favorable to the strikers."

"4. The general prosperity of the railroads throughout the country and the tremendous business certain eastern railroads have would be a powerful influence in determining them to "share" profits rather than lose them all."

"5. That public opinion would be with the employes in the case of a national railroad strike for the reason that the general public would not tolerate any lengthy interference with its business."

It would seem from the above that the President, Congress, political parties and the people generally are to made to "behave" and the policies of the country are to be subordinated to the demands of strikers or lose their vote.

The right to strike is proper, but the assertion that they have the right to injure themselves will injure themselves in the end.

It seems passing strange after witnessing the manner in which armed military nations treat the unprepared nations of Europe that any one in this country should oppose the President in his efforts to insure the protection and peace of the United States by preparedness.

It would not be wise for us to base our belief in continued peace on the statement that military nations of Europe are too exhausted to attack us.

A rich prize is what they most need and with well equipped armies numbering millions, they could readily frame an excuse for attack.

Conquest of territory and trade are the moving causes of the present struggle and it is evident that in our present state we could not offer an effective resistance to an invading army.

We cannot afford to remain unarmed unless the other nations disarm first.

The turmoil along the Mexican border does not settle but that is not sufficient reason for the interference of Uncle Samuel as long as defacto powers of Mexico are faithfully trying to establish our rights. A war with Mexico would not prevent lawnessness outside of military lines and would forever alineate Mexicans and would be just what some European nations would like to see.

ABOUT AUTOMOBILE LICENSES

Goevrnor Whitman Gets Nos. 1 and 2—Other Big Men's Numbers.

Albany, Jan. 4.—Governor Charles S. Whitman, first citizen of the state, has been allotted reserve numbers 1 and 2 for his automobiles this year by Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo. The Governor's cars carry New York City's own plates as Mr. Whitman's voting residence is in the metropolis. Hundreds of requests for low automobile numbers have been filed during the last few weeks, particularly from New York City and its environs, although some of the up-state cities have not been slow in catching on to the novelty of having their cars bear plates distinctive because of the fact that the numerals are in the hundreds or even lower.

While many of the best known automobilists in the state have sought a low number, providing it was neither 13 nor 23, others have shown a special desire for these figures. Joseph De Bragga, ex-sheriff of Queens County, is not numbered among the superstitious. Two months ago, Mr. De Bragga asked the Secretary of State for license number 13. His request has been granted and the De Bragga car will carry a number this year that ninety-nine owners out of every hundred would not take as a gift.

In direct contrast to Mr. De Bragga's request, came a communication from a well known Gothamite who absolutely refused license 562 because the numerals added up to thirteen.

Some owners have fought shy this year in accepting 23 for their plates. George B. Agnew, author of the anti-race track bills, in the Hughes administratiton, carried number 24 on his automobile last year. He has now accepted 23 without apparent fear of dire results.

Oscar of Waldorf fame, gatherer of this world's goods to the extent that he can boast of three automibiles, secures numbers 219, 222, and 223 for his cars while George C. Boldt, owner of the Thirty-fourth street gold mine, takes 239 and 240 for his own cars and 241 and 244 for his son's.

Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

When a person has fallen to the point of not caring what people shall think of him he is looked upon as morally hopeless. The lamp of his self-respect has gone out.

When a person has come to the point of disregard for the feelings of other people he is considered to be either criminal, unbalanced or morally dead. His soul windows are shut.

One of the strongest motives to conduct is a desire to be well thought of. Apply to labor, living and life.

One of the strongest facts about the Religion of Jesus is its insistence upon a heart of kindness and helpfulness, toward other people. That fact shows its divine origin; gives it its authority.

If we can spur people to their best by placing before them the goal of Self Respect we are doing a most christian action. Our particular function demands such a program. But we cannot serve what we do not reverence. In every earthly tabernacle is lodged a soul of God-stuff. We must let that fact draw forth our kindness, especially where the soul is blind and lodged in a house that would be a sty.

It is easy to serve those whom we love. We do. We do not hurt, discourage, treat with contempt, our friends. Love hath a thousand expressions, but never one unkind; hath a thousand tones, but never one contemptuous, harsh, unsympathetic; hath a thousand helps, but never a hurt; hath a thousand wooing ways; but never a hindrance or discouragement.

If we make our little world journey with garlands of praises and helps and cheer and kindness and pleasantness and courtesy—well, we're wearing God's jewels!

These qualities are got from God. Their possession locates us in the universe. Their wearing marks the highland folks. Ah . . . and what a trail they leave—flowers for ashes and light for gloom and lift for hurt and balm for distress and singing for sorrow and balm for wounds and hope for despair and faith! faith for the morrow.

If for one human soul we play the friend and give our heart's flood for his welfare, work with his work, dream with his dreams, go with his going, if we stand by the road and cheer him, wait at the close of his day with comfort, sit by the hearth weaving sonnets of gladness, weep when his dream is over, mother him when his face is marred, and bid him wait the morrow—if this one thing only one is able to do, remember God's waiting and watching (oh, my comrade!) to welcome you.

Love only is the way to freedom. Tagore, the Hindoo poet, says his life shall light its hundred different lamps before God's temple. Well, God's temples are the people of the trail and many darkened, many unlighted, many seeking light. Love's the God's torch.

If at the end of the day we look back and see that we might have done, could have done, should have done many love-deeds, and feel no regret we have located our world. It is clay. We may be morally painfully correct, self-content, smug and be able to mumble a thousand saws and axioms to bulwork our neglect—but the not-doing makes impossible any fellowship with the House of Friends, impossible any close relation with Jesus Christ, impossible to have God touch us with the wings of the spirit.

Many things enter into human fellowship, but one thing only links friends. Many things go into the making of a home, but one thing only makes it a home. One thing only opens God's heaven; one thing only opens our eyes to see Him; one thing only makes fellowship with Him possible.

One thing only is life—here and hereafter—

DONT SCOLD FRETFUL CHILDREN

That nervousness, fretting and restlessness is no doubt caused by worms or constipation. Instead of whipping or scolding, give your child a treatment of Kickapoo Worm Killer. Nice candy confections that kill the worms and are laxative enough to move the bowels and expel not only the worms but accumulated poisons. These poisons and worms bring on fever, make children nervous and irritable, reduce their vitality and make them victims of sickness. A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens their days.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol.

There will be no risk on your part. Why not buy a 15 cent package to-day. 5

"Safety First"

"B. & M." Shoes afford real protection against winter storms, sleet, snow and ice. Remember, colds this time of the year are not only disagreeable, but dangerous, and its better to prevent them than to try to cure them.

Put on a pair of sturdy B. & M. Boots-- you will be dry shod as well as stylishly shod.

Why not "slip on" a pair today and thus "slip out" of the chance of contracting a severe cold or pneumonia?
