We sell Cluthera Guaranteed and Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes because we know it will stand the closest inspection as well as the hardest wear. As for style, fit and workmanship, we'll let you be the judge. Prices from $12 to $25.

"GINGLES JINGLES"

NOT SO MUCH.

Do not think the world can't get along without you, do not think she'll cut out whirling when you blow; we'll admit you are a cog, in the wheel that makes us jog, you are needed but you're not the entire show. Do not get it in your bean that we must have you, or the doings on this earth will go to smash; you are but a common skate, and regardless of your fate, you will never cause a universal crash. There will come a time when you'll be but a memory, when you'll live within the thoughts of but a few; and the rank and file will say, he has checked and gone his way—he was not so bad—we're sorry that he blew. Then you're blotted from the minds of men forever they'll forget that you were molded for the place; things will move along the same, as when you were in the game; someone will step in and fill the vacant space. So forget the thought that you are all-important, things will move right on when you have pulled your freight; this old earth will never care, whether you are here or there—it will speed on never changing

Erin H. Jingles

"GINGLES JINGLES"

CUT THE CON.

If you're a loyal member of the old Wind Jammer Clan, You better change your tactics, cut the con and be a man. You'll find that people as a rule are hep to hot air stuff, It's up to you to cut the con, They're jerry to your bluff. The backwoods guy is most extinct and suckers 'bout as few, As healthy oysters hidden in a hotel oyster stew. The public now has come across with filberts freighted strong, On how to dope the proper line on chatter that is wrong. Get wise at once and cut the con, Be honest, true and fair, And folks will soon begin to know that you are on the square. The sledding will not be so hard, when people know you're right. You'll gain their confidence and help and stage a winning fight. There's nothing stands so solid, nothing pays so well today, As being on the level in the things, you do and say. For people know your motives, You reflect the thoughts you think, And if you're not four square and right, they'll put you on the blink. So get the hunch and cut the con, let folks know where you're at, And watch success come skidding through red hot right off the bat.

A Request to the People

In a few years the soldiers will be but a memory. They are few and scattered to-day. The deepest honor we do them is but a feeble recognition of their worth. Gratitude for their service would bring the people in large numbers to any public meeting in which the soldiers and the ladies of the Relief Corps are honored. Let the people turn out this year to do this courtesy of honor to the "old guard."

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.
