NEW FALL SUITS AND OVERCOATS

$12.00 to $35.00

Why buy early? First of all, you have a wider selection to choose from and you get what you want.

It's the same all the way down the line: Shirts, Hats, Socks, Collars, Scarfs, everything you buy here is bound to please.

Our new Fall Styles are awaiting your inspection.

117 Main St. Schaul & Roosa Hornell, N. Y.

GREENWOOD LOCAL BRIEFS

Fine weather.

The Bath Fair is on.

Work on the new road through Main Street has been resumed.

John O'Hargan, of Troupsburg, was a Greenwood visitor Saturday.

The ball game Saturday between Rexville and Greenwood Clubs resulted in favor of Rexville in a score of 8 to 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meddaugh, of Elmira, were guests of their cousin, Mrs. M. D. Webster, Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Young, of Buffalo, who has been visiting relatives in town, returned home Saturday accompanied by her father, J. S. Young.

134 persons killed by bombs dropped by non-combatant communities by German air crafts within last few days. Of the killed and injured three-fourths are women and children. War is worse than hell.

Frank Shaut was a city visitor Thursday.

The venerable David D. Smith of Saunders, was greeting friends in Greenwood last week.

Ed. M. Waight, of Jasper, was in our city Thursday.

R. P. Gilray, of Buffalo, inspector of steam boilers, was in our city last week.

Adolphus Hardy, of Jasper, was in our city Friday.

Bernard Murray, of West Hill, was a visitor here Saturday.

The large barns of A. H. Dennis, in Jasper, were burned Monday. The fire originated from a spark from the engine attached to a corn-cutter which was at work on the place. The barns were full of produce and machinery which was totally destroyed, the loss on buildings was about $[illegible]00 and on contents about $1,000. There was an insurance policy of $[illegible]00 on the barn. Mr. Dennis has the sympathy of all his neighbors in his loss.

Miss A. Kelley and her daughter, Mrs. Gardner, of West Union, were visitors in Greenwood [illegible]

The butcher of John Cass, [illegible] with age and infirmities, expects to look for an [illegible]

[illegible] Greenwood [illegible]

[illegible] the fall [illegible] R. N. Boyd.

[illegible] RENT — The [illegible]

[illegible] in our city Friday.

Emory Hoyt, of Jasper, was a city visitor Wednesday.

F. D. Watkins, of Rock Creek, called on Greenwood friends Friday.

Jesse Northrup, of West Greenwood, was in town Wednesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Hub White motored to this place Monday.

Mrs. M. Bunker is calling on former Greenwood neighbors.

Frank Diehle and wife, of North Fork, Pa., were in Greenwood Tuesday.

Will Atkins, of Canisteo, Mr. and Mrs Homer Donaldson and Mrs. Mary H. Atkins were in town Tuesday settling the matters in court between them and the action is to be discontinued.

The Jasper meat wagon was in town Wednesday.

The Entente Allies seem to be gradually winning in the war movies at present.

The Germans have evacuated Combs one of the strongholds held by them.

Greece seems to be upon the point of entering the war on the side of the Entente Allies. It looks as though the other side needed their help most.

It is reported that Villa is moving north for another invasion of the United States.

General Pershing has been promoted to the rank of Major General.

The great strike in New York is the all-absorbing topic now.

Calder had a big majority over Bacon, but Bacon doesn't sulk.

BRIEF BUSINESS BRINGERS

Classified Advertisements 1 cent a Word. Minimum Price 10 cents

FOR SALE

FOR SALE — Typewriter or will exchange for wood stove. J. C. Lever. 40

FOR SALE or EXCHANGE — Brush Automobile. J. C. Lever. 40

FOR SALE—Good Gas Heater. J. C. Lever. 40

FOR SALE:—Three-wood heaters, one coal stove, one bed and springs. Bargain prices. E. A. Gustafson. 38

FOR SALE: Good oak wardrobe. Inquire of The News.

FOR SALE: Two cows 3 years old, one black, one gray weight [illegible]. Inquire of Arling[illegible]

[illegible] BROTHERS' GROCERY

[illegible] BEST CURED MEATS
[illegible] BEST BUTTER & EGGS
[illegible] BEST DETERGENTS

[illegible] the BEST and the BEST is the Cheapest

[illegible] FLOSS BROS.

MANAGING A KING.

How Crafty Count Piper Got Sweden Into War With Russia.

An amusing story that illustrates how valuable a knowledge of a person's peculiarities may be is told by "Die Bibliothek der Unterhaltung und des Wissens" about Count Piper, the confidant of the Swedish king, Charles XII. Count Piper owed his position in some degree to the fact that he had minutely studied the likes and dislikes of the king and knew well how to please him. He was also very clever in making use of his knowledge to his own advantage.

After the peace of Altranstadt in 1706, when the king was making a long stay in Saxony, Austria feared that he might form an alliance with Louis XIV. and turn his arms against her. An Austrian embassy that came to inquire about his intentions was received so coldly by Charles that the authorities in Vienna became still more anxious. Finally, they turned to the Swedish monarch's confidant and promised him 100,000 florins if through his influence he would cause Charles to leave Saxony and turn against Russia. They knew that a war with Russia would make it impossible to form the hated alliance.

Count Piper was much attracted by the glitter of gold and devised a plan whereby he could earn it without betraying his master's confidence. Charles always adopted the hardest way of doing things if the end in sight appeared inviting—a characteristic that Piper well understood.

One day he casually introduced into the conversation the subject of a war with Russia and emphasized the difficulties of a campaign in that inhospitable land. The king listened attentively and apparently began to consider the possibilities of such an action, for on another occasion he began to discuss it himself. The count advised him against attempting such a foolhardy thing and pointed out how much more attractive an alliance with Louis XIV. would be. But, as he had hoped, the idea of undertaking the most difficult thing was already rooted in Charles' mind.

For several days Piper did not mention the subject again, but at last, when he thought the king had had time to consider it fully, he played his strongest card, saying, "Your majesty had better take great care to avoid a war with Russia, for your enemies have offered me 100,000 florins if I influence you to undertake it!"

"Take them, take them!" cried the king. "It is a reward for dealing honestly with your master. Tomorrow we will march against Russia!"

Tungsten.

Tungsten is probably the most remarkable mineral known. Pure metallic ductile tungsten is practically insoluble in any common acid. Its melting point is higher than any other metal, and its tensile strength exceeds that of steel. It is paramagnetic, it can be drawn to a smaller size than any other metal, and its specific gravity is 70 per cent greater than lead.—Metal Mining Journal.

The Man Who Fails.

What will you say to the man who has failed in business or in his moral life? Do not mock him with even well meant reproaches. Answer him as Napoleon answered one of his marshals. The marshal rode up and said, "General, I fear the battle is lost." Napoleon coolly looked at his watch and replied: "Time for another battle. Summon the army to a fresh charge."—Perin.

He Didn't Push.

There are some queer men in this world. Near Bristol, England, not long ago a tall chimney of a factory tumbled down in a gale of wind, and yet the owner of the factory had a boy thirteen years of age placed for pushing it over to settle a claim worth in court that the complainant's strength of 56½ lbs. would have to be equal. It was done, and that the boy didn't push.

Excellent Oil.

An old farmer was asked [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]