"Fewer Gallons, Wears Longer."

The secret is out and Andover can go on living just as if the riddle had never been asked.

No it can't either. Andover is not going to be what it was before. Its houses are going to be brighter; its people a little more prosperous—they are going to have some of their money left to buy other things with.

The answer to the riddle is this: you can paint a building with fewer gallons of Devoe Lead and Zinc paint than with mixed paints, and it will wear several times as long as a building painted with lead and oil mixed by hand. What will people do with the rest of their money? E. J. Atwood sells it.

C. W. Pickett and James Potter, the bass singer in the Wagner Orchestra and Concert Company, sang in the M. E. church last Sunday evening. Their efforts were warmly commended by several members of the large congregation which attended the services.

The sermon on "Love's Arts and Idyls" was very attentively listened to. Several quotations were given from leading poets. The speaker claimed that modern Christian scholarship supported the theory that the Song of Solomon was a collection of love idyls, which expressed in impassioned language the experiences of men and maidens centuries before Christ.

THE BAPTIST.

Rev. Charles H. Harrington, Pastor.

The services last Sunday were of more than usual interest. Large congregations were present both morning and evening. The pastor preached in the morning on "Boundless Love." In the evening the after-meeting was of unusual interest. Chairs were carried in to accommodate those who attended. A number requested prayers that they might become Christians.

The church bell was rung Monday noon, and a large number, at the signal, spent sometime during the noon hour in praying for the salvation of men. The deepening interest in the welfare of others is an encouraging feature of our work.

Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "Out of my Poverty," a sermon on the blessings of a life with God.

Evening, last of series of illustrated sermons on "Pilgrim's Progress," with pilgrim to the Celestial City, illustrated hymns, followed by a short after-meeting. All are cordially invited.

Junior C. E. meeting at 3 o'clock The Juniors are all expected.

Last but not least, indeed, as important as any if not than all: Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7, half hour earlier. The fourth chapter of John. Bring Bibles.

The bachelor governor of Kansas, who promised to take a wife before he was inaugurated and then refused to make good, is evidently trying to square himself with the progressive women of the Sunflower State. He has announced his willingness to sign a female suffrage bill as soon as it is up to him.

A bill has been introduced in the Illinois legislature providing for the examination and licensing of music teachers. If such a law could be made to apply to music pupils, with reasonable restriction as to licenses, it would be a decided boon to many crowded communities.

An August Month.

"Do you believe in the superstition that June is a lucky month in which to get married?"

"Why, no," dissented Mrs. Forque Pacque of Chicago decisively. "August is my favorite month."

"On what do you base your belief?"

"Well, you see, I do all my marrying in that month, and the divorce courts give alimony and counsel fees every time."—Baltimore Herald.

Tongue Reading.

According to the disciples of linguistology or the science of tongue reading, it is a demonstrated fact that a big tongue indicates dissimulation; a long and broad tongue, garrulity and generosity; a narrow tongue, concentration and talent; a short, broad tongue, garrulity and untruth. The man with a very short and narrow tongue is a liar of true artistic merit.

Inconsiderate.

"I really shall have to leave this hotel," said the weary man to the proprietor. "There is a baby in the next room to mine, and he cries all night."

"I don't see why you should complain," said the proprietor. "His father and mother have him in the same room with them, and they haven't said a word."

THE NEWS. ANDOVER

VOL. XVII., NO. 8. ANDOVER, ALLEGANY COUNTY, N. Y., FEBRUARY 25, 1903. TERMS: {One Dollar a Year, 5 Cents a Single Copy.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

T. A. Burdick Tells News Readers of Andover's First Newspaper.

Another Chapter in Ancient History.

"The Good Old Days"—All Days When Old were Good—Are Gone, the Present Might Be If They Would.—Byron.

How many of this generation remember the first newspaper of our town, the "Andover Advertiser"? It was established in 1868 by E. S. Barnard, who came here from Angelica, bringing the stock in trade of S. B. Dickinson's "Allegany Radical." The writer's first work in Western New York as a literary gymnast and rhetorical contortionist was done on the Advertiser. The paper was hardly a thing of beauty from a typographical point of view. Charlie Horton said it was "printed on a cheese-press with tar." The press was a No. 4 Washington hand press and the type had outlived its usefulness.

Raking among the ashes of dead empire, the other day, I exhumed a copy of the Advertiser (was it Bob Helme who called it the Andover Aggravator?) and perhaps its contents will interest some of our folks. It was in 1869, a six-column folio. The number I have is for August 26th of that year, and announces in a double-leaded leader that Charles C. Thacher had entered into copartnership with "Stearns," and Charlie Thacher made his bow "in terms, in good set terms." Somewhat more than a column is devoted to a well-written account of a Sabbath-school picnic. We see the names of Revs. F. F. Sherer, A. N. Fillmore and B. Russell, respectively pastors of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches at that date. Lieut. Wm. R. Benton was Marshal of the Day. The signature to the article—F. J. B., we read Flavius Josephus Baker, M. D.

Locals were scarce, and the editor heeded the injunction, "Despise not the day of small things." A runaway by Wm. J. Lever's horse; the death by poison of Herb. Bundy's pup; the convalescence of Charlie Magee, acknowledgment of the receipt of apples and tobacco, and an apology for a half sheet, brighten and adorn the local columns.

The advertisers are: Dr. W. W. Crandall, Drs. T. & F. J. Baker and H. P. Benton, druggists, merchandise; George A. Green, clothing; Mrs. Everett, millinery; E. Everett, furniture and fancy goods; C. M. Allen, dentist; Van Sickle & Burrows, N. B. Walker, J. C. Dyer and Crandall & Brainard, general merchandise; J. H. Elwell, furniture and undertaking; Russell & Wolcott, harness and horse goods; Joseph Shaut, tailor, and J. J. Raymond, meat market. Alfred University advertised, and Dr. H. C. Coon has an interesting letter from West Edmeston. Announcement of the sale of the Andover Woolen Factory is made by Wm. J. Lever, President, and D. S. Bradley, Secretary.

The advertisements were fearfully and wonderfully made. The ad-smith was not a factor of the newspaper equation in those days. There doubtless were country publishers who took pride in their advertising columns and displayed taste and wisdom in their arrangement, but I wasn't up against many of them 30 or 40 years ago. I have no doubt that our ads. attracted attention—a Hindu idol would do that—and some of our ads. were as ugly as any idol. B. & S. G. & P., in wood type, at the head of Crandall & Brainard's column stood for boots and shoes, groceries and provisions. There was at least variety in the size and signature. In evidence: J. C. Dyer's stood out boldly in 60-point condensed; J. H. Elwell's (same size, half column) was in brevier clarendon, and Van Sickle & Burrows filled out a column ad. with the firm name in long primer title.

The first home of the Advertiser was in the Martindale house, on the present site of the Allegany Sanitarium; its second brief abiding place in the Jason Hunt store which stood on what is now Cannon's lawn, and it finished its Andover life and labor on second floor of Jason A. Hunt's store.

THE SCHOOL MEETING.

Andover to Have a $12,000 High School Building.

LARGE NUMBER OF ELECTORS OUT.

Decide to Pay for the Structure in Twenty Equal Payments in as Many Years.

The Board of Education of Andover High School were given authority to expend $12,000 for the erection of a new school house, at the school meeting last Thursday night, by a vote of 63 to 17. A resolution was also carried by a vote of 69 to 26 to raise the money in twenty equal payments in as many years, and the Board authorized to decide all other matters relative to the size of the building, materials to be used and its location upon the school grounds.

This meeting was first called last November, in accordance with the school laws governing condemnation proceedings, but on account of an appeal being made from Commissioner Burdick's order to Superintendent Skinner, it had been postponed from month to month until his decision was rendered. His opinion in sustaining the Commissioner in his order placed the matter back where it started in November, and the meeting had no choice but to make the necessary arrangements for constructing a new building.

Nearly 100 electors of the district were present, and the meeting was harmonious thruout, even tho many felt there was no need of the new building and the proceedings entirely uncalled for. The loyalty of Andover people to their schools was shown, however, as many of those who have opposed the new building wished to build a more expensive house inasmuch as it was necessary to build. Some little opposition was expressed against postponing the payment of the building for so long a period, but the majority of those present wished it twenty years.

TYPHOID FEVER IN ITHACA.

J. M. Brundage Looks into the matter, his Son Being in College There.

J. M. Brundage returned Monday morning from Ithaca, where his son Floyd is in Cornell University. He went to find the truth concerning the typhoid fever scourge now raging there. He says that as nearly as he could size up the situation at short range his boy is as safe at present there as at home. The University officers received him kindly and gave all information concerning the subject they were able. The University is taking all possible precaution that the disease does not make farther inroads among their students. Ithaca's water supply is furnished from three sources, the Six Mile Creek, Buttermilk Creek and Falls Creek. The Falls Creek water is used by the University exclusively. Not one of the 500 cases of fever has been traced to it, yet the school authorities have discontinued its use and have placed in all buildings drinking tanks, supplied with artesian well water. The boarding houses have bound themselves to use no water not proven absolutely pure, in the preparation of food or washing of utensils used in its preparation. Mr. Brundage expresses himself as satisfied that the disease has done all the damage it will to Cornell University.

Before leaving for home, Mr. Brundage changed the boarding place of his son to Sage College, which is guaranteed by the University to have nothing but water inspected by the college, used. No person at Sage College in which more than 200 women students board and lodge, and which is supplied by this water, has had typhoid fever, and no case of typhoid has occurred in the families of professors living on the campus. Typhoid fever has developed among those students only who live in other portions of the city which are supplied by the Ithaca Water Company with water from the Six Mile Creek, and from Buttermilk Creek.

CAME HOME TO DIE.

Ithaca's Scourge Takes an Alfred Boy.

Charles S. Langworthy, only son of W. H. Langworthy, came home from Cornell University about three weeks ago, sick with typhoid fever, and died Friday night. He seemed to stand his sickness fairly well and all thought he was recovering, as the fever was abating, until Friday when unexpected symptoms developed, causing his death at 11 o'clock. He was an exceptionally fine young man, about twenty-two years of age and his death causes much sadness. In early winter he entered Cornell University for a course in the agricultural department, wishing a fair knowledge of the business he was following, but, like hundreds of others who were there this winter, he contracted the dreaded disease and upon the advice of the doctor, started for home. Missing Connections with Erie train at Elmira he was compelled to stay in that city all night, during which time he suffered a chill, and on arriving home the next morning, was severely weakened. After a few days careful nursing and close attention from the doctor, he seemed to be doing nicely and his recovery was generally expected, until after the sudden change.

Doctor of Philosophy.

Rev. V. L. Eggleston has completed a three years Post-Graduate Course in History, Political and Social Science for the degree of Ph. D., and is now preparing a thesis of 20,000 words on "A Study of the American Nation," which must be of such a character as shall display power of original and independent investigation. The work has been done under the careful supervision of the oldest Baptist University in the United States, and the degree will be conferred at the commencement exercises next May.

HON. J. S. PHILLIPS' BILL.

Has Nothing to Do With the License Question, but to the Refunding of Moneys Received by Fines.

Assemblyman Phillips has introduced a bill which, if enacted, will turn over to the county two-thirds of the amount of all fines and penalties for violation of the excise law, which now goes to the towns in which the offence was committed. The county has all of the expense connected with the trials for violations of the law, and it is an injustice that the other towns in a county should help pay such expenses for another town to receive two-thirds of the amount of the fines and penalties from, without paying more than their pro rata of costs, as has been the case several times in this county within the last few years. The intent of the law, as it now stands, was undoubtedly to pay the town in which the illegal business was conducted a premium for the arrest of those violating its ordinances. Mr. Phillips' bill has no reference whatever to the license money.

Some Fine Trout in the Creek.

While Byron Proper and Jesse Hunt were netting minnows for bait down the creek the other day they hauled out a nice lot of trout, some of them six or eight inches long. They put them back into the stream however, as the law forbids their capture at this season of the year. This will show that the local fishermen may expect good luck and plenty of fish the coming spring.

Dancing Party.

A pleasant party was held at the opera house Thursday night. Durnell's orchestra of Wellsville were present and a number of Wellsville's young people enjoyed the occasion. It was under the management of Book keeper Wilson of the Mutual Gas Co. force.

All Bags, Sacks and Trade Tickets must be returned or paid for on or before March 1, 1903.
