OUR KEYNOTE:

"If There is not a Way, Cut a Way."

Andover, N. Y., October 6, 1916.

Entered as second class mail matter under act of Congress, at the Post-office at Andover, N. Y.

A clean mind needs but few promptings from others.

If you can't speak well of this town, at least don't speak at all.

A Boston scientists predicts 75 cent eggs. Don't like 'em, anyway.

Silence is golden, especially when your alibi is not satisfactory to your wife.

There's at least one satisfaction in the European war. All sides are victorious.

Yes, it's a fact that many a great man never breaks into history. We know from experience.

Latest reports from the European front contain the same old stuff served up under a new name.

Carranza will and he won't and he won't and he will, and darned if even Carranza knows what he will do.

• • •

Knocking does a fellow no good, does the town a lot of harm, and disgusts nearly everybody who hears it.

The fellow who thinks he knows it all usually knows less than the one who admits that he knows nothing.

If one-half the mean things that are said of candidates were true we would be better off with no officers at all.

The latest recruit in the sea of blood is the University of Chicago. It has declared a relentless war on sparrows.

It's winter in the stores — and in many of the store advertisements. Have you begun to buy winter clothes?

That new diamond mine discovered in the Transvaal is eighteen miles from Pretoria and a million miles from this office.

It is estimated that at 200 years of age an oak tree is full grown. At that it is a few hundred per cent. ahead of some people.

Of the people who buy goods on credit 40 per cent. never pay in full 7 per cent. never pay at all, and we don't know how many wish they could get out of paying.

Every citizen of this town is interested directly in its welfare, for his own welfare depends upon the prosperity of the town. For that reason, if for no other, we should do as much as possible of our buying at home this winter and Christmas, and let the mail order houses bleed some other place. Let's keep our money in circulation at home this Christmas. Better still, let's keep it moving around here all of the time. We will make its acquaintance oftener ourselves.

Every merchant in this town wants to sell you goods. You want to trade with the merchant who will do the best by you, who will sell you the best goods at the least price. It is up to you to read the ads in this paper, and it is up to the merchant to see that you read his ads. When you both do this you both win.

Do you want to make a clear saving of $25.00 to $50.00 on your expenses between now and the first day of next January? You can do it and this is the way you can do it. You will be making many purchases for yourself and your family for fall and winter purposes and for the Christmas time. There is always some merchant in town who will do a little better by you than anybody else. When a merchant is able to do this he is keen to advertise and let the people know just what he can and will do. Your own cue is to read carefully each week the advertisements in this paper. They tell the story and the name of the merchant who makes the story. Read the ads.

THE KNOCKER

Every community has him, every community cusses him, and every community tolerates him.

He is usually an unsuccessful business man whose objectionable ways have been the direct cause of his losing in the game of life. He must needs vent his spleen on some one or some thing. Admitting no fault in himself, ergo, the fault must be in his environment hence he knocks.

He is a pestiferous cuss and as little as we may believe it, he really does harm.

He is sure to get the ear of many new men in town and pour into their ears his abuses of the place. According to him conditions are all crosswise. The business men are all cheats and swindlers. The professional men are quacks and sharpers. To his way of thinking there isn't a decent mechanic in the place. Even the laborers are lazy and trifling. The town is dead, and no place for a live man to tarry. His soured soul fairly writhes and squirms with sardonic joy when he sees that his miasmatic mouthings are having their intended effect upon the victim. That is the knocker — that is his story, his way.

If there is a public enterprise planned that needs co-operation and united effort he is immediately possessed by a superior wisdom and begins with glee to point out all of the weak spots. No calculations can by any possibility work out as intended. Men upon whom the enterprise depends will prove weak or traitors. The plans are all wrong. The whole thing is a piece of stupendous folly, and he for one will have nothing to do with it.

But what a pity he will not! That would be all the community would ask of him and his mouth.

And thus it goes on year after year.

Does it leave any effect, you ask? It certainly does. The business life of a community, contrary to the opinions of many, is susceptible to influence from adverse critics. Perhaps not half of his hearers know the real cause of his pessimistic knockings and in many minds a doubt lingers and things that should go with a rush are unaccountably slow and lagging.

But, what, say you, can we do with him?

May we make a suggestion? Every time this insect opens his mouth to knock, tell him plainly that there are quite a number of roads leading AWAY from Andover, and cordially invite him to take one of them and follow it to its end.

And let every loyal citizen of the town give him the same advice.

Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

The King of the Kingdom.

In Jesus of Nazareth we behold the rightful king of a spiritual brotherhood in the fact that he was pre-eminent in character, extraordinary in his concept of God, most compassionate toward people, and most excellent in service.

In an age in which cruelty and utter unbrotherliness prevailed among men he insisted upon friendship as the high distinguishing mark of the social unity.

In his thought man was the child of God, marred, small, animal-minded, but nevertheless with a God-look. He foresaw a new order to be built up not by supernatural means but by the evolution of the already possessed divine nature in mankind. He suggested the cultural energy to be love.

By this shall men recognize you (his friends) to be in my company when you love one another.

His mark born only of possessing the quality.

The Approach to the Kingdom.

No one may possibly ever know there is a kingdom unless he wants such a kingdom to be.

The Gate of the Kingdom.

It is the love-gate, necessarily seeing that is God's Kingdom. Power, money, knowledge, skill enter each its own domain. But to know God one must have the word of unity. This is Love. It is God's demand. This is the law of the kingdom, the only possible law. One might as easily enter the Kingdom of Light by a road of darkness to attempt to enter into vital unity with God by any other road than love's. Shall I enter into spiritual community with human souls? I must love my way in.

The Joy of the Kingdom

Rabindranath Tagove, the Hindoo philosopher, says that the joy of anything follows only after possession. I master a craft, the joy of the work is mine. I master a branch of knowledge. Study and travel lead to the joyous heights. I possess a soul, that soul's wealth of joy becomes to me a garland of gems. It is even so with the kingdom of God. We must possess in order to find its joy. Peculiarly possession comes to those who dare to give all. And God gives all we may comprehend to those who give all to the quest of the kingdom. All for all. God's barter.

And Where is the Kingdom?

It is within the heart where all kingdoms first are.

And What is the Kingdom?

It is a condition (a relation) of the Good and the True and the Beautiful; a condition of Righteousness and Peace and Joy in

It is life in Friendship with the divine soul.

Self and Man by reason of being in friendship with God.

The people who would buy what you would like to sell—or who would sell what you'd like to buy—are, of course, readers of the classified ads.

The ad that appeals exclusively to "the other people" and not at all to YOU, is really the rare and exceptional ad.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

Perhaps your habit of reading the ads may save you only a dollar or so this week. But there may be weeks in which the saving is five or ten dollars — so much advantage is there in "wise buying."

Read the classified ads.

A repetition of your want ad may bring it to the notice of the person who overlooked it to-day.

Do You Need a New Suit or Overcoat

Of course you do. Good Clothes are a necessity. They are a sign of success.

If you don't believe that good dressing pays, put on one of your old, shabby suits and go out and try to do business with strangers.

You won't get a "look-in."

So look out for your looks.

Our Clothes which we sell you for a REASONABLE PRICE will make you look O. K.

KANSAS FARMERS BUSY

Potatoes May Grow Small, Wheat is Big in Kansas

Cashier J. M. Brundage received the following letter week from his brother, M. Brundage of Russell, Kan., is self explanatory and shows immense bread crop: "I have just cashed a check paid for one wagonload of wheat in the amount of $411.60. covers a load of 80 bu. at which you will recognize as only being a fairly good load a good price as well. This statement may interest some of good friends back in old gany where perhaps one-half number of bushels would execute a fair load. It also may interest them to know that we several farmers here who wheat enough to fill about hundred wagon loads of same kind of wheat from which they can get some idea of success of our poor suffering sas farmers."

His First Job

A short time ago, John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world, hoisted a big American flag, out at his Forest Hill estate in Cincinnati The occasion was the 56th anniversary of securing his first job, and he says that everything that followed has been the result of thrift, industry and some business sense and skill. The job was that of book-keeper in a Cincinnati river front forwarding house. He proved to be a good accountant, one of the first on the job and last to leave sort. One year later his salary was raised $25 a month. He began to save money and the next year he was in business for himself. It is a short, simple, human interest story, containing all the philosophy of business success, and the crux of the whole matter is "he began to save money."

You probably had a better start than Rockefellow had, but the magicians of millions began to save money, and it is fair to assume from the results that the saving of his earnings was as important a matter to him as the job. The savings were made as industrious as the man. They were husbanded for the opportunity, put to work, perhaps, in some strong bank, like the

with Three Hundred Thousand of assets to guarantee their safety, where they added their earnings to this and were ready on call for the opportunity.

Have YOU began to save money?

Prunes grown there are about twice the size of the eastern fruit, and of a splendid flavor. The apples are monsters but not as fine a flavor as the eastern apples. Mr. Thompson has our thanks for a nice sack of the western grown prunes.

—Twenty-seven steers jumped over a four-hundred-foot precipice near Mt. Morris recently. Some of them landed on a ledge two hundred and fifty feet below and twenty went to the bottom, some landing in the river, and others on the bank. Three of the steers were dead when found and two others injured so that they were immediately killed. The others were rescued with some difficulty. What caused them to rush over the edge of the cliff is not known.

M. E. CHURCH CONFERENCE

Annual Session Began in Asbury Tuesday at 8 O'clock—Bishop Burt Presiding

The Genesee Conference of the Methodist Church opened its 107th annual session Friday evening at 8 o'clock in Asbury Church with an Epworth League anniversary and rally service. The Rev. Dan B. Brummitt, D. D., of Chicago, editor of the Epworth Herald, was the speaker. The Rev. F. M. Baker presided, and a chorus under the direction of Mrs. E. A. Southall sang.

The conference examination board convened in the afternoon to examine candidates for the ministry. Bishop Burt, who presided over the sessions of the conferences, arrived in the city Monday from Elmira. Wednesday morning was the formal opening of the conference.

Bishop Burt Presided

Bishop Burt administered holy communion and memorial services were held for the seven members of the conference who passed away during the past year—Dr. Alonzo F. Colburn, Dr. Horace A. Crane, Dr. S. A. Morse, Dr. Ward B. Platt, Dr. G. A. Williams and Dr Charles W. Winchester.

At noon Wednesday the pastors attending the conference had luncheon in the South Presbyterian Church. The meal was served under the auspices of the Seneca Street Methodist Church. In the evening the Rev. Dr. B. M. Tipple of Rome, spoke at the foreign mission meeting in Asbury Church, and the Rev. E. L. Waldorf spoke on home missions in Plymouth Church. The Rev. T. O. Grieves, who made the arrangements for the conference, announced Tuesday morning that the banquet and reception in honor of Bishop and Mrs. Burt Friday evening in the Hengerer Tea room was for laymen and their wives as well as for ministers.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MAKE DAY MEMORABLE

Major General Garney, assisted by his staff and Canton Loyal, 33, of Hornell, conferred the degree of Chivalry upon eight members of the Rebekah Assembly of New York State at the Federation Hall, on Friday evening. This event came as a climax to several hours' doings of the Odd Fellows, which, by way, was the largest and most thorough event of any that has, or will be held in Hornell this year.

Following the parade, through which those who had passed through "Jericho," marched undaunted through a drizzling rain, they repaired to Federation Hall, on Broadway, where the festivities began. Before the largest crowd that had ever entered this hall the degree of Chivalry was conferred which was very impressive. Hundreds in the hall watched with abated breath and awe this elaborate, impressive ceremony; which consumed about an hour and thirty minutes.

Mrs. Minnie F. Leonard, president of the New York State Rebekah Assembly, who resides in Hornell, Mrs. Julia Pfitzenmaier and Mrs. A. S. Atwood, of Hornell; Mrs. Lottie E. Hann, inside guardian of the State Assembly, of Andover; Mrs. Jennie Dawson, noble grand, of Iola Lodge, of Canisteo; Miss Grace Jessup left herald, of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. May Egather, member of the finance committee, of Syracuse, and Miss Flossie Alden, of Canisteo, were those who had so signally honored their lodge as to be given the privilege of receiving this degree.

Following the conferring of the degree dancing was engaged in until 1 o'clock by music furnished by the Hornell Band. The dance on this occasion accommodated the largest crowd of dancers ever upon the floor; nearly all being Odd Fellows, Rebekahs or relatives of those who were.

In a "nut shell" the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs staged the biggest affair that has occurred in Hornell during the 1916 season. That Hornellians were hungry for big parades and excitement accompanied therefrom, can be seen when it is known that the streets were crowded onto the pavements despite the fact that a cold rain had set in during the evening and which lasted all through the parade.

The Andover Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges were well represented, there being about a hundred members present.

The man who does not take his home paper misses three-fourths of what is going on in his home community. He must either borrow the paper from his neighbor and be considered a tight wad and a nuisance, or he must be content to learn a little and know less. This paper costs but $1.50 a year, and is worth ten times that amount to any person.

MAY USE FERRETS IN NEARBY COUNTY

Conservation Commission at Albany Makes Ruling of Interest to Hunters in Hornell

Albany, Oct. 1. By an important announcement of the Conservation Commission at Albany, the use of ferrets will be allowed in the following counties in New York State: Allegany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Chenango, Cortland, Madison, Montgomery, Oneida, Oswego, Otsego, Tompkins, Washington, Yates, Tioga and Lewis.

The edit holds good from October 1 until January 31, both inclusive, unless revoked by an order of the commission. Under this order, rabbits may be taken to the amount of six in one day; they must not be caught when coming from the hole but must be shot; this will be enforced to the limit.

Copy of Order entered in the Minutes of the Conservation Commission, Sept. 27, 1916, with reference to the use of ferrets in taking rabbits.

A petition having been duly presented by residents of the counties of Allegany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Chenango, Cortland, Madison, Montgomery, Oneida, Oswego, Otsego, Tompkins, Washington, Yates, Tioga and Lewis for permission to use ferrets in the taking of rabbits during the open season therefor in the said counties, and due consideration having been had thereon, it is ORDERED, that the request for the use of ferrets contained in the said petitions be and the same hereby is granted subject to the following conditions:

1. Under this order ferrets may be used in taking rabbits within the said counties from October 1, 1916, to and including January 31 1917 unless sooner revoked by the Commission.

2. Except as otherwise specially provided in the Conservation Law only holders of hunting licenses shall be permitted to take rabbits with ferrets.

3. Rabbits hunted with ferrets shall be taken by shooting only.

4. No persons shall take with the use of ferrets more than six rabbits in any one day.
