Paving Main Street in Bolivar.

The people of Bolivar are very much in favor of paving Main street of that village and of constructing a trunk sewer, only three of the 30 property owners on that street opposing the project. It is claimed that the law compels the street railroad company to pave eight feet of the street.

The Point that Tells

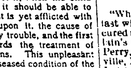
Is not what you say about a thing but what the thing is itself. "Jf" the cereal that tastes good, does it's own talking. "Jf" is made from nutritious, strength-giving, brain-helping grains "Jf" offers a satisfying sustenance to people who want a palatable, invigorating, tissue-making food. "Jf" gives them what they crave. One dish makes you want another. Eat "Jf" at any meal. Grocers sell "Jf."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder troubles, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SHINGLE HOUSE FIRE

One Whole Street Goes up In Flames.

TEN WOODEN BLOCKS BURNED.

A Wooden Town Without Fire Protection Reaps the Usual Reward.

Early Thursday morning fire destroyed ten business blocks in Shingle House, entailing a loss of $25,000. The town was entirely without fire protection and the buildings burned rapidly. The fire started in a pool room at shortly after midnight. It was discovered in a peculiar way. One of Mrs. Hickenbaugh's children awakened her by coughing and she found that smoke was coming up thru the floor from the pool room causing the child to cough. She gave the alarm at once. It was asserted that a poker game was in progress in the rear of the pool room as late as midnight and when it ended there was a scuffle. It is believed that gas fixtures were disarranged and the fire started from that.

The buildings burned were: Two story building owned by Dodge & Cole, value $1500; One story structure owned by John Cole. One story building owned by John Cole; Large dwelling owned by G. W. Dodge; large general store owned by Dan Drake. Two story building owned by C. A. Herrick, a one story building owned by John McNamire, two story building owned by Abe Solomon, a two story structure owned by Charles Warner and the Hotel Atherton property of W. W. Atherton.

Because of the excessive insurance rate on this property, of 62.50 on $1000 insurance per year, little insurance was carried, and the whole value of the property will be the loss of the owners.

Two Deaths at Alfred.

Two of Alfred's respected citizens passed away last week. Mrs. H. M. Maxson, who has been seriously ill several weeks, from gastro-intestinal influenza, died Sunday evening about 10 o'clock.

James A. Champlin, who has been in poor health all winter, and slowly failing with heart trouble, died Tuesday morning at 9:00. Mr. Champlin was up and dressed the day before, had been up and dressed every day this winter, but has been almost helpless for several weeks, so that death was not unexpected. Funeral was held at the house Thursday at 2 o'clock.

Substitute For Quinine.

You think you are bilious. Well, I should think you would be! What did you expect your stomach and liver could stand? You ought to be bilious get off with simply being bilious. The wonder is that you have any stomach or liver left at all, says Medical Talk.

What would I advise? Well, in order to stir up your liver a little and give you a slight gymnastic exercise I would advise you to go and find the doctor who gave you 100 grains of quinine and give him a good licking. Hit him with your hands. Don't hit with a club or shoot him. Just use your open hand. After you have done this right I would advise using tobacco, if not entirely at least nearly so, say a little after supper each day. Use no alcoholic stimulants of any sort. Let your diet be simple and plain. Avoid excesses. Avoid everything fried during the hot season. Eat much fruit; drink much water. Take long nights' sleep. Behave yourself. Keep away from the doctors.

Weather Indications.

Generally fair Wednesday, colder in central and eastern portions, rain at night; Thursday fresh southwest winds becoming variable.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP

Cured by One Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"When I had an attack of the grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, Editor of the Enterprise, Shorta ville, N. Y. "This is the honest truth. At times kept from coughing myse f to pieces by taking a teaspoonful of this remedy, and when a coughing spell would come on at night I would take a dose and it seemed that in the briefest interval the cough would pass off and I would go to sleep perfectly free from cough and its accompanying pains. To say that the remedy acted as a most agreeable surprise is putting it very mildly. I had no idea that it would or could knock out the grip, simply because I never tried it for such a purpose, but it did, and it seemed with the second attack of coughing the remedy caused it to not only be of less duration but the pains were far less severe, and I had not used the contents of one bottle before Mr. Grip had bid me adieu." For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

SENSATIONAL SPEECH

Made by Ex-Senator Hill Before Court of Appeals.

ARGUMENT FOR CORPORATIONS.

Senator Hill Attacked President Roosevelt For His Course in Reference to the Passage of the Special Franchise Tax Law—Reply of Attorney-General Cunneen.

Albany, April 8.—Seldom, if ever, in recent years has a more sensational speech been made before the court of appeals than that of former United States Senator David B. Hill, who concluded the argument of counsel for the corporations in the special franchise tax cases.

In extended prefatory remarks Senator Hill attacked President Roosevelt for his course as governor of this state with reference to the passage of the special franchise tax law. He emphatically denied that the corporations were responsible for the alleged unconstitutional features of the law, declaring that Governor Roosevelt himself recommended them in so many words.

Governor Roosevelt he characterized as a man of very limited experience in the administration of state affairs, and he accused him of forcing the special franchise tax law upon the legislature as "a political expedient" at the behest of "certain minor, semi-political and largely socialistic organizations, self-constituted, irresponsible and noisy associations, mostly of non-taxpayers, assuming a monopoly of the championship of the people's alleged rights."

The bill, Senator Hill declared, was rushed through the legislature in three days and signed by Governor Roosevelt without a hearing on the next day thereafter—"the product of haste, fickleness, inexperience and undue clamor."

Mr. Hill remarked that Governor Odell seemed to have given the subject of taxation "more cool and patient consideration than his predecessor."

Hill's Attack on Roosevelt.

The court made no comment on Senator Hill's attacks upon the former governor who is now president of the United States, and Attorney General Cunneen, who himself was accused by the former senator of cliting before the court an alleged history of the statute which was "neither full nor accurate," made only brief reference to it.

"Governor Roosevelt needs no defense at my hands," said the attorney general. "If he did nothing else than take the initiative steps which will place these enormous values in such relation to the tax law that they will bear their share with the owners of cottages, business enterprises and other property now the subject of taxation, he would have deserved the promotion with which he has been rewarded."

Senator Hill quoted public papers of Governor Roosevelt emphasizing to the legislature the difficult character of the problem of taxation and his recommendation of a special commission for the study of the subject.

"But Governor Roosevelt," said Mr. Hill, "made no suggestion for the specific taxation of public franchises, nor was the subject of taxation of franchises even mentioned. It may be further stated that neither had such taxation been recommended by any comptroller of the state—which official has general charge of its finances—and whose duty it was to devise proper methods of taxation—nor had it been approved in the platforms of either of the two great political parties into which the people of the state are divided.

"The original bill, retaining the power of assessment with the local assessors," said Mr. Hill, "was received by the legislature with far more unanimity than was the amended measure at the special session. There was no objection to the original bill based upon the mere fact that the assessment was to be made by local assessors, but the objections, among others, were that it should not be made by local assessors, or any other assessors, in the absence of some rule, principle or method, prescribed in the bill itself, for determining how the valuation should be arrived at; and that instead of endeavoring to estimate the value of intangible franchises there should have been a tax based upon gross receipts."

Assessment a Local Function.

Upon the legal questions involved Senator Hill argued that the function of an assessment was inherently a local function and could not be transferred to officials not elected or appointed by the localities; that such exceptions to the home rule principle as the courts have permitted were permitted only as special exceptions; that to provide what property shall be assessed is the province of the legislature; to assess it is the function of local assessors.

"The interests of local self-government are largely involved in the decision of this case," said Senator Hill concluding. "The issue presented is that of home rule versus centralization. The constitution guarantees to the counties, cities, towns and villages of this state the right to exercise and enjoy their time-honored local functions, including the right to assess for purposes of direct taxation whatever property shall be taxable by law, and this court should rigidly protect those functions from invasion. A dangerous precedent should not be sanctioned whereby fresh invasions may be encouraged and the whole system of local self-government ultimately imperilled, if not destroyed. It involves more than the mere question of excessive corporate taxation. It involves the preservation of the constitution from further legislative devices to undermine and weaken some of its most essential provisions intended for the protection of the people."

Frank H. Platt, as counsel for the consolidated Gas company of New York city, addressed himself chiefly to the claim that under the law a valid assessment of the intangible portion of the property of corporations was impracticable. It was contended that the law had failed to provide an adequate method and principle for the ascertainment of an equitable valuation.

William H. Dykman for the Brooklyn Gas, Long Island company took up the special features of the law.

Attorney General Cunneen made the concluding address answering the arguments of all the opposing counsel against whom he appeared single-handed.

A Voracious Spider.

It is a curious study to watch the little white, brown speckled spiders which hover among plants seeking what they may devour. It seems almost incredible that they will conquer and carry off to their dens insects twice their size, but this is just what they do, capturing flies of the largest kind. They will hide under the petals of the flowers, and when Mr. Fly comes buzzing along they will spring out at him, and the next thing he knows he is being dragged off to be served up at a spider luncheon. They grip the fly by the neck, if he has a neck, and dart down the leaves, skip to the grass and away, sometimes taking flying leaps of a foot and a half, then disappearing so one knows where. It's the old story of the spider and the fly, only the spider doesn't stop to coax, but boldly carries off his booty without saying, "By your leave."

The result of the investigation of American railroads by English experts was a report to the effect that "while American methods of railroading are interesting, there is nothing to commend them to England." However, if there should ever come a desire to reduce the population of England they might find American railroad methods effective.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, my eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim. No one should fail to try them. Only 25c, guaranteed, at O. E. Vars & Son's drugstore.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Two Former Hornellsville Young Ladies in a New York Fire.

A fatal accident occurred recently to a former Hornellsville young lady and a serious accident to her companions, as the result of a New York fire. Miss Elizabeth Price and Miss Annie Ryan, who until a few weeks ago, were employees of the Liberty Silk mill.

The two young ladies secured rooms in a house of a family named Casey on West 35th street on the fourth floor. Early one morning last week the inmates of the house were aroused by an alarm of fire which had broken out on the third floor of the house. Miss Price and Miss Ryan with other inmates of the building made their way to the roof, where the smoke became so dense that Miss Price wanted to make her way to the roof of an adjoining building. In attempting to do so she walked into an air shaft and was crushed to death by falling to the bottom. When her companion, Miss Ryan, learned what had happened, she was so overcome that her reason was dethroned and she has remained in that condition ever since.

ON FAMILIAR GROUND

President Met Old Friends In North Dakota.

SHORT STOPS AT MANY PLACES.

Interesting Reception at Medora, N. D., Where He Once Owned a Ranch.—Met By Ranchmen from Neighborhood, Including His Old Foremen and His Brother.

Mandan, N. D., April 8.—President Roosevelt has been traveling through familiar country and has received hearty greetings wherever his train stopped. At many places he recognized old friends and from his conversation it is evident that this has been one of the most enjoyable portions of his trip.

At Fargo, Jamestown and Bismarck he made stops of from half an hour to an hour and discussed the conditions in the Philipines, the tariff and the general prosperity of the country. Stops were also made at Casselton, Tower City, Valley City, the home Governor White; Dawson, Dickinson and Medora.

One of the interesting ceremonies of the day occurred at Medora, where the president at one time owned a ranch and which was his address 7 years ago when he was sheriff of Billings county. Medora is a small place but the ranchmen from the surrounding country had come to town and they gave the president a truly Western reception.

Joe Ferris, the president's old foreman, and his brother, P. M. Ferris, met the president at Bismarck and rode with him to Medora.

MET FAMOUS INDIANS.

The President Received Assurance of Friendship of Many Warriors.

Bismarck, N. D., April 8.—Standing in the private office of Governor White at the state Capitol, President Roosevelt received the assurance of the friendship and support of the great Sioux Indian tribe and similar assurance from the chiefs of the Mandans and Gros Ventres.

Twenty of the most distinguished chieftains of the tribes had come from their agencies to see the "Great Father" and to assure him of their support and good will.

There were many famous Indians in the assemblage. John Grass, the orator and chief justice of the Sioux, made the presentation of the tribe's good will in a translation of the address which had been agreed upon in council of the chiefs. At the same time Grass presented the president a peace pipe of beautifully carved pipestone.

Among the chiefs present were Red Tomahawk, the Indian who killed Sitting Bull at the time of the uprising in the early 90's; Red Fish, one of the hereditary leaders of the Sioux; Black Bull, Standing Bear, Crow Ghost, Cross Bear and other Sioux chiefs.

"We have been treated well by the good Great Father," said Grass, "and we hope he will again be Great Father when his time is over." Water, chief of the Mandan Indians, also made written assurances of the good will of his people.

"Tell him," said President Roosevelt through the interpreter, "that I am glad to see him. The Mandan Indians have always done well." Then the wrinkled old chieftains grasped the president's hand and solemnly grunted their approval.

The president's train reached the capital city of the state on schedule time and the president and party immediately were taken through lavishly decorated streets to the state Capitol. There a brief reception was held in the private office of Governor White, where the president met and shook hands with many friends of his Western days.

Following the reception he delivered a brief address from the balcony of the Capitol building to a crowd of several thousand people assembled from all parts of Missouri slope.

"I am an old settler of this state," said the president. "I lived here 20 years ago and feel that I am an old timer. I know the people of the West. There are two ways to know a man, by working with him, or by fighting by him, and on the ranges there are men with whom I have worked and with whom I have fought."

It is announced that Chicago women are going to publish a daily paper, in the editing of which the only men employed will be the sporting editor. How would you like to be the sporting editor?

So long as the America's cup continues to secure visits to this country from so welcome a guest as Sir Thomas Lipton we could not think of parting with it.

The GOOD DRUMMER

He Is the One Whose Letters Contain Chiefly Orders For Goods

From "Letters From a Self Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer

Dear Pierrepont—When I saw you start off yesterday I was just a little uneasy, for you looked so blamed important and cheery that I am inclined to think you will tell the first customer who says he doesn't like our sausage that he knows what he can do about it. Repartee makes reading lively, but business dull. And what the house needs is more orders.

Sausage is the one subject of all others that a fellow in the packing business ought to treat solemnly. Half the people in the world take a joke seriously from the start and the other half if you repeat it often enough. Only last week the head of our sausage department started to put out a rhyming broadside of Frankfurts, but I made him take it off the market quicker than lightning, because I knew that the first fool who saw the tin tag would ask if that was the license. And, though people would grin a little at first, they'd begin to look serious after awhile, and whenever the butcher tried to sell them our brand they'd imagine they heard the bark and ask for "that real country sausage" at twice as much a pound.

A real salesman is one part talk and nine parts judgment, and he uses the nine parts of judgment to tell when to use the one part of talk. Goods ain't sold under Marquess of Queensberry rules any more, and you'll find that knowing how many rounds the Old Un can last against the Boiler Maker won't really help you to load up the junior partner with our corn fed brand hams.

A good many salesmen have an idea that buyers are only interested in baseball, funny stories and Tom Lipton and that business is a side line with them, but as a matter of fact mighty few men work up to the position of buyer through giving up their office hours to listening to anecdotes. I never saw one that liked a drummer's jokes more than an eighth of a cent a pound on a piece of lard. What the house really sends you out for is orders.

Of course you want to be nice and mellow with the trade, but always remember that mellowness carried too far becomes rottenness. You can buy some fellows with a cheap compliment, but there's no objection to giving a man what he likes, though I never knew smoking to do anything good except a ham or chimney to hump up one except to make a fool of himself.

Real buyers ain't interested in much besides your goods and your prices. Never run down your competitor's brand to them, and never let them run down yours. Don't get on your knees for business, but don't hold your nose so high in the air that an order can roll down your back without seeing it. You'll meet a good many people on the road that you won't like, but the house needs their business.

For your own satisfaction I will say right here that you may know you are in a fair way of becoming a good drummer by three things:

First—When you send in orders.

Second—More orders.

Third—Big orders.

If you do this, you won't have a great deal of time to write long letters, and we won't have a great deal of time to read them, for we will be very busy here checking and shipping the goods. We aren't specially interested in orders that the other fellow gets or in knowing how it happened after it has happened. If you like life on the road, you simply won't let it happen. So just send us your address every day and your orders. They will tell us all that we want to know about "the situation."

Some interesting figures have been brought out by the counting of the $286,474,256,02 in the United States subtreasury in New York. In the gold vault, where there is more than $200,000,000 of gold coin, about the sides of the vault the five tiers of steel boxes, each 18 by 21 by 24 inches, inside measurement. In canvas bags containing $5,000 a half million of coin is stored behind each. In the silver vaults on either side of two alleyways forty-six feet in length the silver coins in bags are piled twelve feet high and eight and twelve feet in thickness. There are 67,000 bags to be handled, a total of $67,000,000, and nearly 2,000 tons.

The scientists state that the grip microbe is only sixteen-one-thousandths of an inch in length. But that doesn't afford any comfort for the person who has the disease in view of the fact that the average man is about five and one-half feet in length, his body representing about 1,500 cubic inches, and is therefore capable of holding about 992,800 grip microbes.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroly. Of all the salves you ever heard of, Bucklin's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweeps away and cures burns, cuts, sores, bruises, boils, ulcers, skin eruptions and piles. It's only 25cts, and guaranteed to give satisfaction by O. E. Vars & Son, Druggists.

Doan's Kidney Pills

cure every symptom of Kidney Ills, from common backache to complicated urinary disorders.

Mrs. W. H. Terrell, of 100 Albany street, Utica, N. Y., says: "I had the grippe, and after this all pain seemed to settle in my back. I grew so bad that I could not turn over in bed, and had pains which felt like knives going through me. I could not lie in one position long; any movement cut me sharp twinges, and I could not find comfort, no matter what I did. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and began to use them regularly, and received help from the first. I got completely over my trouble, could go to bed, sleep all night, rest well, and get up in the morning refreshed."
