cause." I am so human when I give myself to temperance and righteousness, when I embark in some enterprise of benefaction, I want to know I will win, and win I will when God is in it; know temperance is right, but know God is in it; know unselfishness is hurtful, but know it is strong. The risen Christ is the answer to all evil. It's the pledge of the homelikeness of heaven. Man may have followed the star in the east. Women were at the cradle, by the cross and first at the tomb of the risen Lord. The risen Christ speaks of homelikeness. Need not the miracle of the resurrection to tell men of the life beyond. Men have never been able to shake off that conviction. Even when an Ingersoll drops the curtain on life of a friend he raises it long enough to take one look and whisper wistfully, "Perhaps." Golden streets and jasper walls cannot make it seem like home. When Jesus came back from Joseph's sepulchre with the same beauty in his face, the same music in his voice, heaven meant familiar forms and voices. Oh yes, heaven! Recognition there: yes! My mother would not need to wear the same dress she died in in order that I might recognize her. When a soldier can feel his mother's presence thru the thick fold of his delirium, don't you think we shall know ours when all form of life is past? This same Jesus was the Word when the Master left them at Olivet. That same mother, sister, that same friend in the temple yonder.

He will return to Washington in June for a short stay while en route to his new post in the Philippines.

Opposed to Mr. Baker.

Senator Martin presented the resolution that the minority oppose Mr. Baker's confirmation and it was adopted. A hearing will be given this afternoon by the railroad committee of the senate to the representatives of organized labor who are opposed to Mr. Baker's appointment.

The Ships and the Men.

In asking congress for the authorization of the building of three battleships and one armored cruiser at a cost of $17,000,000 the naval appropriation committee has made a modest request and one which the country will generally be inclined to regard as reasonable. Apparently the committee was not much influenced by the discussion about a wholesale increase of the navy precipitated by the extremely remote contingency of a war with a European power or powers growing out of the Venezuela incident, but rather acted in adherence to the policy of steady and systematic additions to the nation's offensive and defensive force on the high seas in conformity with the steady growth of the nation in prestige, population and wealth. The need of the country of a strong and well equipped navy is generally recognized, though there is no necessity of feverish haste and extravagant outlay in its immediate expansion.

In connection with the authorization of new war vessels is the provision for increasing the facilities of the Naval academy at Annapolis, for which an appropriation considerably larger than heretofore is asked. The faculty of the institution is to be strengthened, and the number of cadets is to be doubled. This will give to each senator and representative an appointment every two years. Two steel training ships and a brig are also to be built, so that the training of men to man the new war vessels now being constructed will be conducted to the best advantage. The additional appointments double the opportunity of admittance to the academy and should result in a much greater range of candidates and materially increase the interest of young America in the navy as a career.

Caught Napping.

Uncle—Dear me, Carl, what a poor memory you have!

Nephew—A poor memory, you say? Why, I can repeat four pages of the names in the directory after reading them through only once!

Uncle—I'll bet you a hamper of champagne that you can't do it.

The nephew sends for a directory, attentively peruses four pages and shuts up the book.

Uncle—Well?

Nephew—Muller, Muller, Muller, etc., ad infinitum.

All the four pages of the directory being taken up with this familiar patronymic, our student won his bet in fine style.—From the German.

Signor Pietro Mascagni, who has lately returned to his home in Italy, told the reporters upon departing that he and his wife were delighted with America. Perhaps he is paving the way for a return tour.

Letter to Geo. E. Brown,

Andover, N. Y.

Dear Sir: Here's what "fewer gallons" means:

Mr. N. Avery of Delhi, N. Y., owns two houses exactly alike. He painted one with a mixed paint— took twelve gallons. Painted the other with Devoe—bought twelve gallons and had six gallons left. Same painter—Geo. Gilbert.

The secret is: Devoe Lead and Zinc is one hundred per cent. paint; the mixed paint was about fifty per cent. paint and fifty per cent. adulteration.

Here is an analysis of a mixed paint sold in your neighborhood:

Lead, zinc and color 41 per cent.

Lime and China clay 59 " "

You see 59 per cent. is adulteration. What is it for?

To fill the can; to take unfair advantage of your very natural and right desire to make your house-painting cost as little as possible.

The cheap paint is Devoe Lead and Zinc, because it is all paint—no expense for anything else—and it does not waste your money.

Yours truly,

HE WAS SKETCHING SCENERY.

ILLEGAL FISHING WILL NOT BE TOLERATED.

The Andover Rod and Gun Club Tally One, if There Was a Mistake About it.

Sunday morning the Andover Rod and Gun Club found, as they supposed, the opportunity they are constantly looking for, the arrest of a person violating the law.

The operators at the tower near the station espied a person down the creek whose actions gave every indication of one fishing. As fishing on Sunday is especially against the law the matter was at once referred to the Rod and Gun Club, who had Officer Slocum on his track in a short time. When arriving at the spot where the fisherman was seen no man was in sight, but just up on the bank a few rods was Wm. Mooney, the artist who is decorating the interior of the Methodist church, quietly sketching the beautiful scenery. Officer Slocum returned without molesting the gentleman, and the boys are not saying a word, yet they all have their auspicions that that sketching kot was a nice little bluff cleverly worked.

11 KILLED IN WRECK

Erie Passenger Train No. 4 Smashed into Crippled Freight Train.

ONLY ONE OF DEAD POSITIVEY IDENTIFIED

Fatal Mistake of a Tower Operator at Red House—Cars were Burned—School House Quickly Demolished.

Eleven dead bodies lay Monday in Salamanca as the result of a fatal accident to Erie train No. 4 at Red House, a station seven miles west of Salamanca. The passenger train was running east down grade at the rate of sixty miles an hour, and the freight had orders to take the siding near Red House, which is about a mile and a half long. There is a tower of the block system near the west end of the siding. It is alleged that the operator in the tower, Lawrence Vail, seventeen years old, saw the light engine bringing up the flagman and supposed the whole train was on the siding. With that mistaken idea, it is alleged, he displayed the white signal to the passenger train, indicating that the track was clear.

There was no time for the freight engineer to send out his flagman before the passenger train came rolling down the grade, going 60 miles an hour. The night was dark and misty and little could be seen in advance of the engine. The passenger engineer, S. Jook of Meadville, had no intimation of danger until his engine was within a few feet of the disabled freight train, which the single engine was trying in vain to pull up the grade and on the switch. The passenger engine crashed into the side of the freight engine, careened and shot from the track, running 100 feet upon the ground before coming to a standstill. Directly in its path was a little school-house, which was cut down like grass, the timbers of the school-house and the engine and cars quickly catching fire.

Following the engine off the track were a combination express, baggage and smoking car, a day coach and two Pullman sleepers. Before any one could escape from the wrecked train the cars were in a roaring blaze. It is stated, however, that most of the passengers escaped. The dead body of R. R. Hotchkin, head brakeman on the freight train, was taken from the wreckage before the fire reached it. Later in the morning the charred remains of three persons were taken from the wreckage so badly burned that identification is impossible.

The first half dozen cars of the freight were wrecked. They were box cars loaded with coal. The coal filtered in among the wreckage, creating an intense heat. All but three of the cars of the express followed the engine, and the whole mass of wreckage was soon in flames. The tracks were strewn for rods with burning wood and coal and heaps of twisted iron work. No. 4 is one of the fast trains on the Erie. The work of clearing the tracks was begun promptly and continued all day, trains in the meantime being diverted from the main line and sent around via Dayton.

ANOTHER RAILROAD SCHEME

WILL THE B. & O. PURCHASE THE N. Y. & Pa.

Indications Point That Way, Officers Of Company Inspect the Road.

The talk in railroad circles is to the effect that the B. &O. are looking toward the purchase of the N. Y. & Pa. railroad. What gives this idea prevalence is the fact that the officers of the B. & O took a trip of inspection over the N. Y. & Pa. road recently and with that it has been learned that the B. & O., which now operates the old P. & W., from Allegany City to Foxburg (71 miles) had secured control of the Bradford, Bordell and Kinzua narrow gauge system, Foxburg to Bradford, and that operations for standard-gauging the later named road would soon be begun, this giving the B. & O. a direct line between Pittsburg and Bradford, 135 miles, this being about 11 miles shorter than the B. R. & P.

This is as far as actual fact can go, but that Bradford will not remain the terminus of the northern division is quite certain. There have been rumors of a certain eastern extension thru Southern Steuben to Elmira, etc., but such stories have not been verified.

The visit of the B. & O., officials to Canisteo, however, lends color to the story of making the N. Y. & Pa., serve as a link for forming another much needed northeastern for the Pittsburg district.

Have you heard the latest? No, but I will next week Thursday night.

RAILROAD RUMBLES.

Superintendent of Allegheny Division Goes to Great Northern.

C. H. HAMMOND LEAVES SHAWMUT

He Has Been Connected With That Road Since the Days of the Old Lackawanna & Southwestern.

It is reported in railroad circles that Superintendent J. M. Davis, of the Allegheny division, was soon to leave the service of the Erie. It is announced that Mr. Davis will go to the Great Northern railroad, and that he will leave for his new position in a few days. No cause is assigned for his departure from the service of the Erie, but it is assumed that he has been offered a better position on the western road. Who will succeed Mr. Davis on the Allegheny division is not yet known outside of the general offices, but there is much speculation as to the name of the new superintendent of the Allegheny. Several names have been mentioned, but it is possible that none of the men suggested will secure the appointment. From the policy of the company of late it is very probable that a man from some other road may be sent here to take charge of this important division.

The announcement of the retirement of Chas. H. Hammond from the position of general freight and passenger agent of the Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern railroad, which was made last week, was received with surprise by his many friends. Every one supposed that he was a fixture with the road, and no one had the slightest idea that he contemplated a change. He had recently removed to Olean in order to be nearer to the general offices of the company at St. Marys, Pa., and the news of his departure from the service of the company came as considerable of a shock. Mr. Hammond has been connected with what is now the Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern thru its varying names and fortunes since the days of the old Lackawanna & Southwestern, and in the vicissitudes and successes of the road he has remained closely identified with its best interests. He held the position he has just left for many years, and to his energy, ability and untiring labor is due much of the great and growing freight and passenger business now enjoyed by the various lines which are rapidly being consolidated to form the Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern system. Mr. Hammond was first station agent at Friendship, working his way up by merit to the position he has held for ten years or more. He has been very popular and efficient official and will not be long in finding a congenial position at a good salary.

C. J. Renwick has been appointed general freight and passenger agent of the Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern railroad, vice Chas. H. Hammond resigned. Mr. Renwick is a well known resident of Hornellsville and his appointment to this important position is a great compliment to his ability.

SALVATION ARMY MEETING.

CONDUCTED AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH DURING THE WEEK.

The Work Of Adjutant Johnson, Leader of The Meetings becoming More Interesting as the Meetings Progress.

Adjutant Elmer Johnson, of the Salvation Army is conducting a very interesting series of revival meetings at the first Baptist church this week, with increasing interest each evening. He is a typical Salvationist using their methods, songs and musical instrument in his meetings, leading the singing himself and playing the accompanlment on the guitar. He is energetic in his pleadings and earnest in his remarks, going after the poor sinners in a way they have no chance to deny his sincerity, and when thru dealing with them they all plainly understand they have been hit, and that a solar plexus blow, yet in such a manner that they cannot take offense.

During his talks he has educated the people to a better understanding of the working of the Salvation Army and the good work accomplished by them all over the world, as well as the good done at their institution in the larger cities.

Monday evening Mrs. Johnson who is in charge of the Barracks at Olean was present and addressed a large congregation. Many words of commendation were given her remarks. She is a well educated lady and a very pleasing speaker, driving straight at the mark, the salvation of sinners. It is to be regretted that she could not stay and assist further in the meetings but could not leave Olean at present. She will return next Monday and stay.

The Johnsons' have successfully conducted revival meetings this spring at Cuba and Richburg, doing much good and bringing many converts to the altar.

Rev. and Mrs. Vaught of Richburg Baptist church were present and assisted in the meeting Monday evening.

The meetings are to be continued during the week at the Baptist church and an afternoon service will be held at the Seventh day Baptist church at 3:30 Friday, and Saturday evening an open air meeting.
