Oil Fight Over Lee Property Getting Interesting.

TRACY & CO. HOLD THE JOKER.

New Developments Come to Light Almost Daily—Injunctions Flying Thru the Air Like Hail Stones.

A hotly contested game of knotty legal points, is being played in the Rexville oil field as to which of the contesting parties will hold and operate the Lee property in that field.

Tracy & Co., composed of Chas. Tracy, J. M. Brundage, F. S. Clark and Jesse Snyder, all highly respected Andover people, a combination of gentlemen who do not enjoy the reputation of having other people ride over them rough shod without a murmur, went over on the "Marsh," where no living being ever thought of testing for oil, and leased several hundred acres of land, and sank an oil well. This well developed the territory as a bananza, and but for it the Rexville oil field would to-day be unknown. Among the leases obtained by the Tracy Co. was that of Mrs. Lee, approved by several of the heirs, one-half of them. The wildcat well was located with an idea of testing this lease, which it did, proving it to be undoubtedly good territory. Some of Mrs. Lee's children, more the shame, seeing the territory had good showing for oil, began to think they ought to have a dip in the revenue, and because their mother only held a life lease of the property, contended she had no right to lease it for oil. Accordingly, after receiving a nice little bonus from the Genesee Oil Co., leased it to them. Other heirs gave still another lease, after receiving still another bonus, to a Bradford company.

The Genesee Oil Co. started to drill a well on their lease. Thos. F. Lee, the party who had given the Bradford Co. their lease, served an injunction on them and stopped operations. This matter between the Genesee Oil Co. and the Bradford parties was settled between themselves by compromise, and the merging of the two companies into one, and work resumed.

Last week, however, a new feature in the muddle developed. It appears that Charles Tracy purphased of the tenant working the Lee place his farming lease, and has planted corn and potatoes on the hillside where rank weeds wouldn't grow, and has served an injunction on the companies drilling the well to cease operations, and they are again balked. Mr. Tracy's farm lease is good for one year, and as there is no reservation in the lease for the land being drilled, and he has decided that he doesn't care to have it drilled, as it interferes with his farming, he has a portion of the property tied up for a year at least.

This week injunctions have been served on Tracy & Co., stopping them from operating wells adjoining the Lee property, because they might be drawing the oil from the Lee farm, also claiming two of their wells are over the line on the Lee farm.

One thing will surely result from these procedures, and that is the Lees will sink as much or more money by defending litigations as their oil is worth, should they ever get any, which now looks doubtful. Had they played square with their mother they had a fine showing of being made independently rich, but as it is now the chances are they will be the losers if they win. Undoubtedly another chapter of this story will be given our readers in our next.

Always the Best.

Another new assignment of the very latest type faces just laid in our job rooms. If you want printing of any kind, from a calling card to a book, just drop us a hint and we will do the rest in the most workman-like manner and at prices that baffle all competitors. tf

GOOD ROAD REFORM.

Several Towns Have Already Made the Change.

ALLEGANY COUNTY TO THE FRONT.

Many Towns Will Vote on the Proposition This Month.

A general interest has been created thruout Allegany county the past few months regarding the good roads movement in the county and state. The newspaper discussions, county supervisors' committee report, and recent legislation and apportionment of state funds toward that end, have seemingly aroused the people to see the matter in its true light, that to better the roads means much benefit to the agriculturalist as well as the villages. The farmers are benefited by being able to draw their produce to market with much less expense, the villages benefited by having the roads in such a condition that it is a pleasure for the farmer and his family to drive to town instead of its being a thing to be dreaded, as is now often the case. While Andover people will not vote on the proposition this year, her citizens will anxiously watch the developments of the towns who have made the change, and will take the matter up another year should the new method prove as successful in producing good roads as is expected by its advocates that it will.

The town of Genesee has voted in favor of the money system, also Belfast and Hume. Alma, Alfred and Almond vote on the proposition the 23d of June and Bolivar on the 30th. All towns thus far voting on the change have voted in favor of changing.

Every hat must go now. Clearing out sale. At Mrs. Mourhess'.

GENERAL OFFICES REMOVED.

THE ERIE'S FREIGHT DEPARTMENT OFFICES GO TO CHICAGO.

A Long Contemplated Move Went Into Effect June 15th.

Arrangements have been completed for the removal of the general offices of the freight department to Chicago. The change will take place about June 15th and is said to presage an active campaign for a larger share of the Chicago eastbound traffic than has heretofore fallen to the Erie.

This move has been under contemplation for a long time and was generally expected in local freight circles. The move is in line with the policy of the road to strengthen its terminal points. In connection with the recent startling Rock Island-Erie rumor, the information of the change also appears interesting—Chicago is the eastern terminal of the Rock Island, as it is the western terminal of the Erie railroad. The removal of the general offices to that city will not affect the freight officials of the road. The headquarters will simply be changed. It is thought that Cleveland may still remain the headquarters for some branches of the department.

FULLY 500 LIVES LOST

Details of Terrible Catastrophe in Heppener, Oregon.

OPERATOR MET DEATH AT KEY

While Trying to Call Portland James Kernan and His Wife Were Lost in the Swirling Waters.—His Little Daughter Saved.

The Dalles, Ore., June 17.—A telephone message from Ione states that the latest find in the ruins of Heppner indicates that the loss of life will foot up to 500 and many of the bodies will never be recovered. The property loss and destruction of buildings alone will aggregate probably a million dollars.

This is regarded as a conservative estimate. One hundred and fifty of the best residences were swept from the earth. The relief work progresses at a satisfactory pace.

Among the incidents of the catastrophe was the saving of three lives by Julius Keltley, 70 years old, who rode a mile and a half and saved three people.

James Kernan, the Oregon Railway and Navigation company agent, met his death at the telegraph key trying to call Portland, to inform the outside world of the impending calamity.

His little daughter Katie, who was saved, said her father and mother were lost in the whirl of the waters. Katie stood by while her father was calling the Portland office, when the flood swept in the lower floor and curled round him. Mrs. Kernan rushed out of the house and started for a high point of ground but was drowned.

One of the most thrilling adventures was that of Tom Shuter, who with his family was carried down stream in his house for a mile and a half. His wife and two children went to the upper rooms. Below town the house was shot across the creek to the west side, where it lodged in debris 150 yards from the canyon bank. Shuter then took his two little ones and swam 200 yards. He landed the children and then rescued his wife.

The McBride family, which was lost, went down in their house. The daughter screamed and beckoned from the windows to Louis Kinney, who with his family ran out in the nick of time from their house to escape. Kinney saw the whole McBride family perish.

A force of 75 men is digging graves on the hillside. Prompt measures are being taken to prevent a plague.

H. R. Baird of Portland lost his wife and three children. They were visiting her father, Mrs. Clarence Andrews and three children of Seattle are among the lost. Her husband is in Sitka, Alaska. She is a sister of Mrs. Baird.

A list of the dead who have been identified and buried includes 85 names. One hundred and fifty known persons are missing.

TRADE SCHOOLS FOR GIRLS.

WOMEN'S CLUBS TO HELP POOR GIRLS.

Will Establish an Industrial School and Ask Aid for Its Maintenance.

While each of the various clubs comprising the N. Y. State Federation of Women's Clubs is engaged in some special work which is of value, not only to itself but to many beyond its precints. It is desired by the State Federation that they may signalize their federation by a united effort for the betterment of the social conditions of some less favored class and having a high appreciation of the value of industrial training a purpose has been formed for the establishment of a Trade School for Girls, under federation auspices, such girls as are, by environment debarred from moral, intellectual and industrial training. Animated by this desire, and thru the persistent efforts, largely of the New York Clubs, a fund of several thousand dollars has been accumulated for this project. It is hoped that a public sentiment for industrial training shall become so widespread that there shall be seen to be as great a need for industrial training schools as for public libraries. That it may be evident that the clubs of this federation are in sympathy with this movement, they are asked as organizations or individual members to contribute to the N. Y. State Trade School Fund. Where organizations are, as in many instances is true, taxed to their utmost ability for the accomplishment of some purpose to which they are pledged, there may be individual members and friends who will desire to share in this good work. Numerous small contributions may aggregate a considerable amount, nor will the evidence of sympathy be without value to many who are making strenuous efforts for the accomplishment of this object. The invitation to share in this good work is not confined to active club members, but is extended to honorary members and to all to whom its desirability and practicability may appeal. Contributions may be sent to either member of the committee.
