LETTER TO L. C. VAN FLEET.

Andover, N. Y.

Dear Sir: There are several ways of cheating in milk. An old fashioned way is to water it. Nobody waters it now. A better way is to take out the cream—rich milk with the cream taken out is as good as poor milk with its cream all in.

But we need'nt go into particulars. You don't rob your milk and your customers.

Paint is as easy as milk to cheat with. Good paint is as rare as good milk; for human nature is much the same in milkmen and paint men.

You are just and true with your milk; so are we with our paint. Devoe Lead and Zinc is twice as good as mixed paints: There's twice as much butter in it.

Mr. J. T. Ladd, Cheraw, S. C., writes:

When Mr. Evans painted his house with Devoe Lead and Zinc, he figured on the basis of your claim that a gallon will cover 300 square feet, two coats. He had enough left to paint three large rooms, and was so pleased that he has used Devoe Lead and Zinc on two other houses.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.,
New York.

P. S.—E. J. Atwood sells our paint.

His Last Hope Realized.

[From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhœa which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.

EXPLOSION OF BOILER.

CAUSES THE DEATH OF LUELLAN SPRAGUE.

While at Work Tail Sawing at a Mill Near Phillip's Creek.

Luellan Sprague, a young man 22 years of age, was instantly killed last Thursday, by the explosion of a twenty-five horse boiler in the sawmill of Peck & Johnson, located about one and a half miles east of Phillip's Creek. The explosion took place early in the forenoon, just as steam sufficient to start up had been generated. Shortly before the explosion the head sawyer, Henry Jones, states that there was two full gauges of water in the boiler, and part of another. There was no warning of the blow-up, but Mr. Jones, who was in the mill, says that he suddenly found himself thrown violently down and when he regained consciousness he found that the body of Luellan Sprague, who had probably stood near the boiler, had been thrown twenty feet or more. Examination showed that Sprague's head had been crushed by contact with a timber against which he had been hurled. No part of the boiler hit him. Dr. Post of Alfred was called and pronounced him dead and recommended the calling of the Coroner. The young man was the son of Emery Sprague who lives about a mile and a half west of Belmont on the E. A. Potter farm. The remains were taken to the Bartlett & McKenzie undertaking rooms in Belmont Thursday night and afterwards removed to Emery Sprague's, where the funeral was held Saturday afternoon, Rev. T. H. Carryer officiating.

PTOMAINE POISONING AT BOLIVAR

THE BREEZE SAYS TWENTY BOLIVAR PEOPLE WERE AFFECTED.

Poison Taken from Pressed Beef Purchased at their Local Market.

Twenty Bolivar persons were taken ill last week Wednesday and Thursday as a result of eating poisoned meat. The meat was known as pressed beef. It was purchased at Volney Scott & Son's market in Bolivar.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pire of Friendship street were both ill from the effects of the poison and Mr. Pire's brother, Ward Pire who boards with them, was not expected to live for two or three days. Dr. P. C. Knowles of Olean was called and he pronounced the trouble ptomaine poisoning.

Others who felt the effects of the poison were D. C. Amey, three members of P. A. Sikes' family, four members of I. P. Cooper's family, W. K. Nichols and son Willie, three members of A. R. White's family, Charles Garthwait, Wm. Traver and others.

Ptomaine poisoning is caused by fermenting animal matter. The symptoms closely resemble those of cholera and there is great pain. The bowels, throat and limbs are effected. The poison enters the blood and is carried to every part of the body.

Ladies and Children Invited.

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc, are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc.. Bob Moore, Lafayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Sold by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover.

Few hereditary monarchs have ever taken so much pains to make themselves popular with their subjects as does King Edward of England. The other day he made a trip along the crowded Thames in a gasoline launch, affably saluting the excursionists and smiling when the chorus of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" followed him along the crowded banks. The "divinity that doth hedge a king" is not conspicuous in his case, which fact adds to his popularity in this age of the world, when little stock is taken in the "divine right" theory, even in monarchies.

In the course of an address before the girls of Bryn Mawr Hamilton W. Mabie said that "nothing is so dangerous as a democracy, and in ours the college must be a conserving force." And the dear girls, how pleased they must be over this delightful responsibility!

IDEA OF THE DEVIL.

Second of a Series of Sermons on His Satanic Majesty.

BY PASTOR REV. S. D. PICKETT.

Called Out by the Question, "Why Don't God Kill the Devil?" Found in the M. E. Church Question Box.

The second sermon of the series on the above subject was delivered to a very attentive audience in the M. E. church on the evening of June 14th. The text was Job 1: 6-11.

The speaker stated that it was the opinion of scholars that the book of Job was a drama. As such it is a striking illustration of the four different theories among human beings about the origen of evil. Like all other writers the writers of the Bible were influenced in their forms of expression by the ideas and literature that preceded them. The 41st chapter of Job and the 12th chapter of Revelation are striking descriptions of the Babylonian devil, Tiamat.

The Old Hebrew Devil a Slanderer.

In this capacity he is introduced in the book of Job. He was the counsel for the prosecution against the saints. This is the capacity in which he is chiefly represented in the Old Testament. He was the prototype of the Babylonian Tiamat, whose seven storm demons obscured the light of the moon. In the book of Revelation he is called the accuser of the brethren. In the Epistle of Jude it is stated that the devil did not dare bring a railing accusation against Moses when he was contending with the Arcbangel Michael for his body. In that statement Jude quoted a legend from the apocryphal book of Enoch. One very old manuscript of the book is still in existence.

God Accused of Moral Evil.

It is a remarkable fact that some of the Old Testament writers attributed some of the immoral acts of men to the influence of God. For instance, the insane frenzy in the mind of Saul that was appeased by David's playing on the harp, was called "an evil spirit from Jehovah." There are several similar instances in the Old Testament. The reason for such a view grew out of the intense emphasis they placed on the idea of the unity of creation. It is now known that the idea is a scientific certainty; but in their interpretation of the problem of evil, they failed to sufficiently emphasise the element of human responsibility for the immoral acts recorded. Some modern preachers and Christians make the same mistake when they call the crimes of men "dispensations of Providence." (The speaker here referred to an instance where he heard the assassination of Lincoln and Garfield mentioned by a preacher as "mysteries of God's providence.") St. James explicitly repudiated such an idea, when he wrote, "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man."

The Story of the Temptation of Christ.

The speaker knew of no modern theologians who regarded that pictorial scene as a literal transaction. Viewed as a parable it is wonderfully significant. Humanity and divinity were so blended in Christ that he saw all the temptations of men, and emphasised the ideals of God.

The thought of turning stones into bread to satisfy hunger symbolized the idea of employing one's higher powers exclusively in the work of gratifying physical appetites.

The thought of casting himself down from the pinnacle of the temple symbolized the opposite idea of presuming on supernatural protection against the consequences of violating natural law. There are many pious people in modern times who are guilty of that sin.

The thought of possessing the world by a concession to the devil symbolized compromising moral principle to avoid conflict, as our forefathers did with human slavery, and as we are doing by the laws our statute books permitting the sale of intoxicating beverages. No person can compromise with a recognized moral evil, and remain a sinless being.

These three things include the whole field of human temptation.

Devils and Disease.

Nearly all nations, in their early development, have supposed that diseases are caused by devils. The remedy was to cast out the devils. That opinion, to some extent, was shared by the Jews in the time of Christ. Jews, Christians and Pagans, in the early days of Christianity, were rivals in the work of casting out devils. Christ used the language of the people without necessarily endorsing their errors. We now know that most diseases are caused by germs (very visible little devils under a microscope.) It is important for us to know them, and know how to cast them out.

Beelzebub

was originally a Phœnician god. Nothing is more common in history than the change of the deities of hostile nations into demons of evil. We have seen the same phenomena in the evolution of theology. One theologian said to another, "Your god is my devil." It is the natural process. The adoption of higher ideals always involves the rejection of the low. Beelzebub was the god of flies, and to this day we say of a clean man, "There are no flies on him."

Responsibility for Moral Evil.

St. James says: "But every man is tempted when he is drawn away of his own lust and enticed; then when lust hath conceived it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." Rev. Dr. Deems, in his "Gospel of Common Sense," made the following statement: "It is most important to inoculate in all children that it is a mistake to lay their faults on any one else, even on the devil. . . . I know a child of strong character and strong passions, who used to have strong paroxysms of rage. Her parents and others would sometimes tell her to open her mouth and let the bad spirit go under the table. The child was growing into the belief that she was the innocent victim of an unseen being." She was taught better and became a different person. So must we feel. We can never resist temptation as we should so long as we hold God or the devil, or any one else, responsible for our sins.

PEOPLE WHO CAN'T SLEEP.

Many people go to bed—not to sleep, but to think—to tumble and toss—to get up, walk about until tired Nature gives way and a few fitful hours of sleep are obtained just before dawn—a sleep that does not rest—a sleep from which one wakes weary and tired, wholly unfitted to take up the daily routine of household, shop or office duties. That this condition goes on uncared for is almost criminal, when the well-known, time-tried and tested powers of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills to give restful natural sleep have been so fully proven in such cases.

Mr. O. Bates of No. 272 East 2nd St., Corning, N. Y., says: "When I got the box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I was in bad shape. My work as a scaler requires watchfulness and a great deal of figuring and as a result I got run down, weak, nervous and was unable to sleep. It was hard to work. The pills, however, soon put me on my feet, giving me strength, energy, steadiness of nerves, and, above all, good sleep. As a result I am able again to discharge my duties easily again." 50c. a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. AN OFFER TO "MAKE IT RIGHT"

NOT ALWAYS SAFE TO BE SENT TO GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS.

George Eaton of Corning Under Arrest Because of Such an Offer.

George E. Eaton, cashier of a private bank of Corning, was arrested last week by the government for attempting bribery. It appears the government is about to erect a new post-office building at Corning. Eaton had a lot which he paid $1,800 for. He wrote the Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury that he didn't know just how to properly bring the matter to the attention of the officials, but he would "make it right." Thinking there was something wrong in Mr. Eaton's mind, the officers replied to his letter asking him what he meant by "making it right," whereupon he replied that he would sell the government the property for $1,500 that had cost him $1,300; that he was willing to take $1,000 for his profit, and the Secretary might have the other $1,000. This letter led to his arrest. He is now out on bail, but declares his innocence, claiming that his offer was misinterpreted by the government officials.

Former Greenwood Residents in the Flood at Heppner.

Several families from this place were of the first settlers in Heppner, Oregon. Among them were the Mallorys, the Wallaces, Brundages and others, and their community had been prosperous until their homes and prosperity were swept away by the great disaster of last week. Augustus Mallory, a brother of Homer Mallory of this town, was an invalid and unable to move about except in a chair, and when the waters came was unable to leave his house and was carried away with it. While sitting in his chair a baby floated near him which he rescued from what would have been a watery grave, and when the waters subsided, both were found unharmed. Many strong men about Mr. Mallory were drowned, but his infirmity seemed to be his strength in this fearful disaster.

Purification by Ozone Process.

The recent experiments in the purification of water by the ozone process in Berlin may prove of much value for the practical purification of city water supplies, but further tests as to practical operations and commercial cost are necessary before that can be relied on.

The trouble hitherto has been with these new ideas that laboratory experiments afforded little guide as to what results will be afforded under the regular conditions for working on a city water supply. It is only a few years ago that the killing of disease germs in water by electrolysis was the subject of great talk. This never reached the point of adoption by any city because preliminary experiments prolonged for days and weeks showed its utter futility. Fuller's experimental work at Cincinnati recorded the failure of every electrical proposition, some of the more pretentious processes actually showing a much larger amount of bacteria in the water after treatment than before.

It does not follow, of course, that the ozone treatment will repeat the results of the electrical method, though experience teaches that more demonstrations than a number of laboratory tests are required before accepting this as a certain and practical method of purification. It is to be hoped, however, that the experiments in this direction will be continued until there shall be found some sure plan of removing disease breeding germs for city water supplies, which now constitute one of the most serious menaces to public health.

ACCUSED OF FORGERY

Retired Baptist Minister Again In Trouble.

ACQUITTED OF GRAND LARCENY.

Former Secretary of New York Commissioner of Charities Arrested in Massachusetts on Charge of Forging Name of His Chief on Back of Check—Waived Extradition.

Montague, Mass., June 24.—Rev. Charles A. Alden, formerly secretary to John W. Keller, ex-commissioner of charities of New York, who was arrested some months ago on the charge of grand larceny during his terms of office and subsequently released, was arrested again, this time on a warrant charging him with forgery of a check.

The warrant was issued on an indictment found in New York on June 17, which alleges forgery in the second degree, the specific charge being that Alden forged the name of Keller on the back of a check for $447. The check had been sent to the commissioner by John L. Collins and drawn on a Schenectady bank.

Alden refuses to talk regarding the charge. He will be taken to New York today, having waived extradition proceedings. He is a retired Baptist minister and for a number of years was pastor of a church in Schenectady, N. Y.

SEA LION IN CHENANGO RIVER.

It Floats into and Down the Susquehanna to the Chesapeake.

Binghamton, N. Y., June 24.—Early Monday morning people crossing the Chenango river bridges in this city saw a sea lion floating down stream. Before an attempt could be made to capture it the animal had passed into the Susquehanna, down which it floated at a rate of about five miles an hour. Unsuccessful attempts were made at different places to capture the lion. When last heard from it was still hurrying toward the Chesapeake.

The lion is believed to be one of a pair which escaped into the Tioughnioga river at Cortland about a week ago. One of them was captured soon after the escape. A wire netting had been stretched across the Tioughnioga near Chenango Forks in hopes of stopping the lion on its downward course or effecting a capture. The lion had not passed the netting on Sunday; but the recent heavy rains caused the rivers to rise several feet, making it possible for it to swim over the obstruction that night.

Arrest For Diamond Robbery.

Rochester, June 24.—Roy C. Stevenson, colored, a trusted servant in the home of Mrs. Loring C. Pope of this city, was arrested in a pawn shop where he was haggling over the price to be loaned on a valuable unset diamond. Under sharp questioning Stevenson broke down and confessed that he had taken the gem from his employer. Mrs. Pope was not aware of the robbery until informed by the police. Mrs. Pope then told the police the fellow must have taken her diamond and money that were stolen a year ago and which she never reported to the police. Stevenson quit suddenly, and a diamond ring valued at $200 and $50 in money were found missing.

The former United States attorney, who tried the case, recommended a pardon on the ground that he had reason to believe the government witnesses had committed perjury. The prisoner will be released on July 1.

I suffered from kidney trouble for some time. I doctored and tried recommended medicines, but obtained no permanent relief. My greatest trouble was a difficulty with the kidney secretions, and reading of the efficacy of Doan's Kidney Pills in such complaints, I procured them at Clark Bros.' drug store.
