Andover Honored. The recent appointment of Assemblyman Jesse S. Phillips to a place on the committee to consider the educational problems that have been brought about between the Department of Public Instruction and the Board of Regents, was not only an honor to the Assemblyman but to Andover as well. Andover has always taken a personal pride in the fortunes of Mr. Phillips, for he is an Andover boy, and contrary to the general rule he is not without honor among his own people. Mr. Phillips has won his way to the front by his sterling character and his strict attention to business No call is too much for him to respond to, and the poorest as well as those more fortunate in life have found him ready to do all that his power would permit him to do for them. When the people have the opportunity, as they are likely to have in the next election, of showing their esteem for him at the polls, we predict that the majority will be larger than ever, and Jesse will justly deserve it.

He Was Right. Gov. Odell was given the degree of Doctor of Laws at Columbia University a few days ago. He was presented by Prof. Franklin S. Giddings, who said in his remarks, "As a member of Congress and as Governor of the commonwealth of New York, he has compelled the people of this state to give their serious attention to problems of taxation; of a strict administration of public funds, and of the right of the people in public franchises." These are strong words and yet they are the correct statements of the work of the Governor. His advanced ideas on the subject of taxation have done more to direct attention and study of the subject than anything said or done in many years, and he, fearlessly, in the face of strong party opposition, has held for the people's interest, and reduced the costs of the administration by the centralizing of power and purchasing boards. Indeed, Governor Odell's record for economy and the people's interests has not been excelled by any Governor of recent years at least.

College Degrees. So much is said in these days about college degrees, it may be well to spend just a few minutes upon its consideration. That there is honor connected with the privilege of writing certain letters after one's name is evidenced by the ambition which many men manifest for this distinction. Of college degrees there are two kinds, those earned and those honorary. Every college graduate is accorded the A. B., and three years later the A. M. in course These come to him by completing the four years curriculum. The change from the B. to M. simply denotes that he is a graduate of three years standing. Not many who graduate comply with the formalities prerequisite to taking the A. M., tho entitled to the degree. At college commencements now being held many degrees of D D. and LL. D. will be distributed. The former goes of course to clergymen. The degree of LL. D. may go to a man who has achieved distinction as an interpreter of the law in a judicial capacity, or to a legal author whose books are recognized as a standard authority, or to a man who has distinguished himself in public life. It is a mistake to suppose that the degree of LL. D. is always conferred as a recognition of eminent legal or judicial ability.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75c. per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

UNDESIRABLE PEOPLE.

Attention has been repeatedly called to the large numbers of foreigners who are arriving in this country. The figures indicate that all previous records are being broken, and Congress will probably soon find it necessary to put some restrictions or add new laws concerning emigrants. There are those coming now who are a menace to society. The Italians are crowding out the Hebrews from the clothing business in the city of New York, that is, the manufacturing of cheap clothing. The Hebrews worked for less pay than the Americans would accept, but now unskilled Italians are pouring in by the shipload and underbidding the Hebrews. The New York Tribune tells how they are able to live on the miserable pay which they consent to work for. The chief clerk in the bureau of licenses tells of an Italian who applied for a license to make clothing recently. On investigation it was found that he lived in two rooms with five families, each family consisting of husband, wife and three children; in all, twenty persons. All of them did their cooking on one stove. In another case a man, wife and three children lived and worked in a room six by eight feet in area. How can decent, self-respecting labor expect to compete with people who live on such a pittance, and how can human beings be decent members of society and live as these aliens do? It is not to be wondered at that there are labor troubles, and the time may come when rigid action will be necessary for self-preservation, the undesirable be kept from our shores. There are some classes even worse than the heathen Chinee.

POLITICS AND THE OLD SOLDIER.

Several of the leading daily papers have had articles in their editorial columns commenting on an article written over the signature of Private Dalzell in the Washington Post, in which he takes a very gloomy view of the opportunities now remaining to the old soldier to hold office by political appointment. It is a very gloomy outlook as he paints it. "For forty years," he says, "the veterans have held their share of offices from the highest to the lowest," and regrets now the tide is turned. Younger men are taking the places of those who fought and bled for their country. The civil service requires that those who try its examinations shall not be too old, so that their best years shall be before rather than behind them, and the writer suggests that the hundred thousand living veterans hereafter vote as they please, each being a free lance thrusting where he will. It stands to reason that a man who was 25 when the war broke out in 1861 is now pretty well advanced in years. The picture is darker than the facts warrant. The old veteran has not no matter how high the bars have been put up) lost his interest in politics, neither has he ceased to be reckoned as a factor in every political campaign. Wherever the veteran vote is organized, the civil service rules do not at all interfere with the possibility or even probability of realizing political ambitions. The sign put upon the door, "No soldier need apply," is the tombstone mark for any office-seeker who may have the temerity to do it. County organizations of veterans have more than once shown their power, and old and decrepit as some of the old veterans seem they are mighty frisky and lively around the boards where political action is necessary. The fact is, the old soldier does apply and his applications are granted, and it will be many a day before the soldier vote will be a quantity not to be reckoned with. Private Dalzell may have found the conditions true in Washington as he writes them, but York state veterans are yet a factor in the political world.

The Yacht Races. The eyes of the world will be fixed on the coming yacht races between Shamrock III. and the American boat Reliance, for the probabilities are that the Reliance will sail the races. Ever since the cup was brought back from England by the yacht America here it has stayed, altho numerous attempts have been made to lift it. A study of the evolution of the yacht into a racing machine is worth the time it would take. It's a history of Yankee ingenuity against British doggedness and pluck. Shamrock III. is the third boat sent over by that true lover of honest sport, Sir Thomas Lipton. If the cup must be lifted the Americans would prefer Sir Thomas to have it above any other. He has won his way into the affections of the people, especially the sporting public, by the true sportman like manner in which he has taken defeat. But we fear Sir Thomas will again be defeated. The Reliance is showing superior qualities over any other American boat, and the Shamrock will probably return without the cup. Once when Roscoe Conklin was addressing a political meeting, he said the "American flag with a little green in it, was the true flag of Ireland and America" The Shamrock can have a little of the flag but not the cup.

The Future. Now that the school year has closed it may not be out of place to review the work and conditions. The year has been one which has tried the nerves and metal of the Board as well as the tutors. In a change from a Principal who was exceedingly popular it was to be expected that all would not move as smoothly as might be expected. The conditions were different. The question of a new school building had started a discussion. Perhaps the parents were not as guarded as they should have been in their conversations before the children. All of the circumstances made it difficult for the corps of teachers to secure results they desired, and yet despite all the difficulties, the teachers have made an excellent record, from the Principal down to the lowest grade. The Principal who leaves has proven himself a man of determination and high moral character, and whose work, under forbidding circumstances, has been all that could be expected, and now the future of the school work depends on the parents, for let there be ever so successful corps of teachers, if they are not seconded by the parent, their efforts avail nothing.

A Bed of Roses, Nit! King Peter of Servia has not found a bed of roses in the Kingdom of Servia. Russia says he must punish the murderers. Austria, tho less forceful, has taken the same position. England has refused to recognize him as king. The Servian army apparently rules, and the end is not yet. It certainly looks as tho eventually there may be a "New Republic." How true "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Starting Right.
In every great race much depends upon the start. "Getting away" with the whole system tingling with confidence in the strength to win, is half the battle. In the race of life the start each day is at the breakfast table. A dish of "Fe" the new cereal, served with milk, invigorates the body and refreshes the brain. "Fe" makes the start right. "Fe" is cooked and ready to eat. Young and old like "Fe". You can eat it at any time. At grocers everywhere

ANDOVER'S CORPORATION TAX.
THE ADDITION OF THE SPECIAL TAX MAKES IT HIGH.
Yet it is Scarcely a Circumstance When Compared With that of Many Other Places.

Andover's Corporation tax this summer is high. It was made so by the vote of the electors at a special village election when they appropriated money to pile the Narrows. This special tax amounts to nearly a third of the entire tax. But for it the corporation tax would be about the same as in previous years. Even with this special tax, however, Andover taxpayers have no great reason for complaint. Their tax is not one-half as much, with the special tax, as our neighboring towns. Wellsville taxpayers are paying this year at the rate of $20 on $1.000 assessed valuation. Andover but $8.50 on the same valuation. If your taxes in Andover are burdensome, suppose you move down to Wellsville, where they are more than double. There are some people in every town who would kick anyway, even tho the tax was less than a dollar on the thousand. But their complaint is only the laughing stock of other villages who wish to live in prosperous, up-to-date villages, securing for their homes the comforts and conveniences that may be enjoyed thereby.
