Supposed to be Poisoned.

One day last week Arthur Hathaway, manager of the Geo. W. Peck Company's store at Hornellsville, drove to Canaseraga with a new surrey, and while there his team of horses was taken sick and grew rapidly worse, both dying before midnight. It is thought that they had eaten something which poisoned them.

J. D. JONES, Commissioner.

Pretty High Authority.

General Winfield Scott, the hero of the Mexican war, used a secretary for all his correspondence, private as well as official. Once, in the absence of his secretary, he undertook to write an order for the transferring of some provisions, and spelled "wagon" "waggon." Later, the secretary in looking through the various memoranda, etc., found the order and detected the error.

"General," he asked affably, "by what authority do you spell 'wagon' with a double 'g?'"

Scott never turned a hair as he replied without a moment's hesitation:

"By what authority? By the authority of the major general commanding the armies of the United States, sir! What better authority do you want?"

So far the great rides of history are Paul Revere's, Phil Sheridan's, the ride from Ghent to Aix, Tam O'Shanter's and the ride of Miles to Reno, ninety miles away.

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture believes that this is going to be a good year for the farmers. And that means for all of the rest of us as well.

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continuously," writes F. A. Gulledge, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me." Equally good for burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at O. E. Vars & Son's drug store, Andover.

The British Food Supply.

Whether it be reasonable or not, there is evidently widespread concern over the possibility of an exhausted food supply in England in the case of the fleet losing control of the seas in war time. It is apparently founded upon sober reflection and not merely the result of an agitation by half pay naval officers in favor of a fleet large enough to provide them with employment.

No less than 120 trade councils, including those of London, Birmingham, Manchester, Leeds, Glasgow and other important towns, as well as the federated councils of Yorkshire and Lancashire, have signed a resolution expressing the opinion that "should this country become involved in a European war bread would rapidly rise to famine prices. Such a state of affairs, if nothing be done beforehand to guard against it, will prove a source of the very gravest national danger. The immediate result of bread rising to such famine prices will be the very greatest possible distress and misery and semi-starvation among the working classes."

In support of this view they refer to the changed industrial conditions and the poverty stricken masses congested in the large cities. They estimate that there "are nearly 7,000,000 people today living in poverty so dire that they can hardly eke out a bare subsistence, even at present prices. They will not be able to pay famine prices. The disruption of trade which must accompany a European war will throw a further very large number—how large cannot be foreseen—out of work. Wageless, they will not be able to purchase food.

A prolonged war, says the resolution, would inevitably bring starvation to this great mass of population with consequences that can only be imagined, and the government is therefore called upon to examine the situation thoroughly and provide some remedy for so dangerous a state of affairs.

A Lesson From Spain.

We may learn a lesson from Spain—poor, decrepit, bankrupt old Spain. The Spanish people are now rising up in indignant demand that the government forthwith proceed to take steps to preserve the Alhambra, not from decay alone, but from vandals who would surround it with the monuments of "modern progress" and utilize the very stones of the ancient palace of the Moors for commercial purposes. It is commendable that Spain should cling with patriotic ardor to the preservation of the Alhambra, which commemorates at once her subjugation by the Moors and her deliverance from their rule, and will brook no removal of the ancient landmark.

While we have no Alhambra to preserve as a relic of the historic past, we may follow Spain's example in the preservation of certain scenic landmarks which are threatened with demolition by public indifference and commercial and industrial progress. Among these are the palisades of the Hudson and the falls of Niagara. Especially should attention be given to preservation of the latter, which is fast being transformed from scenic Niagara to industrial Niagara.

This grandest and most beautiful piece of American scenery ought not to be sacrificed to the utilitarian spirit of the age. There are other things in this world worth while besides "commercial progress."

In Favor of a Barge Canal.

Utica, N. Y., July 29.—Hon. Horatio Seymour, state engineer and surveyor, presided at a banquet held here last night in favor of the thousand-ton barge canal, at which upward of 300 were present. The speakers included Senator William Townsend, F. W. Casler of Little Falls, a leading member of the Grange, and Gustav H. Schwab of New York.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded, when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves, and causes the glands to secrete mucin, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called catarrh of the stomach. For years I suffered with the catarrh of the stomach caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—J. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover.

No "Race Suicide" in South Dakota.

While the discussion of "race suicide" goes on in the older sections of the country, South Dakota is pointing with considerable and pardonable pride to its high birth rate and longevity. At all events, this rich and prosperous young commonwealth is not worrying about depopulation.

Without counting immigration, its population is increasing faster than almost anywhere else in the country, and an abundant tide of immigration, both from other states and from Europe, is coming in at the same time.

The chief difficulty seems to be in keeping enough schools open to accommodate all the children ambitious for an education. It is said that even if there were schoolhouses enough to go around the teachers are almost certain to get married very promptly, and the instruction comes to an end.

Undeniably South Dakota is a blessed land where many are born and few die, and there is room as well as provender for all. The birth rate is put at 31.8 to the thousand population, while of that number of people only 7.5 shuffle off this mortal coil every year. In fact, the commonwealth lives up so closely to one of President Roosevelt's favorite ideas that he should feel especially keen delight in visiting South Dakota on his present western trip.

The announcement that the National Dressmakers' association, recently in session in Chicago, has decided to advance the price of gowns from 15 to 20 per cent is not at all reassuring to the heads of households or the prospective heads of households. This should have the tendency to increase the home production of the shirt waist, which, though an attractive and becoming article of wearing apparel, is roundly condemned by the associated dressmakers, doubtless for the reason that it lessens the demand for the more costly products of their shops.

A Chicago girl refused to receive the photograph and message of her lover, who had committed suicide, saying she didn't care for him since he had made such a fool of himself. This is not according to the rules laid down by the fiction writers, but there is something decidedly sensible in the girl's view of the matter.

A Nebraska young woman who fancied she was a poet committed suicide because she received so many "not available" slips from newspaper and magazine editors. The cruel censors who turn down budding poetic genius take upon themselves a frightful responsibility.

The weather bureau men are at a loss to understand why people blame them when the weather is offensive and refuse to give them any credit when it is delightful. It doesn't seem to be quite fair to the much abused prognosticators.

The Scarcity of Farm Laborers.

According to the Boston Globe, the farm owners of New England are experiencing something of the same trouble which the western farmers have had for a number of years in getting laborers to plant and harvest their crops. In both sections there is an apparent dearth of farm labor not only in the "rush" harvest season, but throughout the year. Last fall the rough and ready inhabitants of certain western farming districts did not hesitate to impress the labor of any tramps whom they happened to find wandering in their neighborhoods. A Massachusetts stock and dairy man has told his troubles to the Boston Globe, declaring that high wages are no inducement and that farm labor cannot be had at any price.

In considering the case the Globe makes the suggestion that the new government bureau of commerce and labor establish free labor bureaus for farm laborers, to be located at the principal immigration stations, and first of all at New York. Of the 648,000 immigrants landed in this country during the last fiscal year nearly 90,000 were classified as farmers and farm laborers. Most of these would be attracted to the soil if the opportunity could be presented and the prospect of ultimate ownership held out to them. A large proportion must now become merged in the urban population in a new and often distasteful environment. Could they be made to believe that farm labor is remunerative they would be likely to choose that as a calling with which they are already familiar. If the new arrivals could be at once directed to these openings for employment, good results to them and to the country would follow.

Life at Scheveningen.

A recent writer on Holland's famous watering place says: "At Scheveningen, if you wish to keep away from the grand suburb and eat among the old fashioned folk of the fishing village, the people of that interesting 'dorp' will give you a delicious breakfast, the staple of which will be sweet rye bread, fresh butter of the finest quality and incomparable herring. If you want a real Dutch lunch, it will consist of rye bread and cheese, with a glass of rich milk. The milk has some curious and picturesque associations. In the early morning—again if you keep to the old quarters—you will see the dogs which are universal beasts of burden in the Netherlands, dragging the little milk carts. The barrels are brightly painted and are mounted with shining brass. And, while the milk carts are going round, the maids—generally plump and swaddled in manifold skirts which give them the aspect of abnormal latitude—are bustling about with the pail and yoke and that 'glason spult' which is one of the most cherished of Dutch domestic institutions. It is a great brass squirt with which windows and shutters are energetically sluiced."

It is said that some of the Kansas farmers are beginning to find out that many of the college boys who hired out presumably to harvest wheat are merely there for the purpose of sowing wild oats.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhœa.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhœa," says Mrs. Alice Miller of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' perscriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that it was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine cost me but a few cents, cured me." For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.

Germany and the Poles.

Not long ago the German prime minister, Count von Bulow, asserted that the Polish problem was the most important question in Prussian home politics. This we may well believe when there are taken into account the official statistics founded upon the census of 1900 revealing some interesting and significant facts concerning the increase of the Polish element in Prussia.

On Dec. 1, 1900, 3,305,749 persons of Polish or kindred stock were enumerated as against 2,922,475 on Dec. 1 1890. The Polish population, therefore, increased by 338,274 in ten years. The number of persons who spoke Polish as their mother tongue was 3,038,490 as against 2,765,101 in 1890. The number of persons who spoke both German and Polish increased from 163,112 in the former census to 194,221 in the latter. Only the agricultural provinces of east and west Prussia show a decrease of the Polish in proportion to the total population, while in Silesia, one of the seats of the mining industry, the proportion has risen from 24.05 to 25.22 and in the industrial province of Westphalia from 1 per cent to 2.16 per cent. The old division of the Poles into the three classes of nobles, priests and country folk is gradually disappearing, and the Polish influence has been greatly strengthened by the rise of a flourishing commercial class in the towns.

With this increase in numbers and growing influence are intensified the long smoldering fires of Polish patriotism which have from time to time broken out in revolts against Prussian rule. These revolts have hitherto been suppressed without serious consequences, but the Polish national spirit is constantly growing, and the Germans may yet find it rather difficult to curb. The Poles deeply resent the efforts to Germanize them and cling tenaciously to their old national traditions and language, which Germany would obliterate. It is hardly to be believed that the Poles will ever be able to free themselves from the German empire, though they may give the versatile kaiser something to think about besides the Monroe doctrine and theology.

Agitation Against Child Labor.

In two of the greatest commercial and industrial states of the Union, New York and Pennsylvania, the campaign against child labor is being vigorously prosecuted.

In New York a series of admirable bills has been presented in the legislature to make the present child labor laws enforceable by requiring age certificates of real value, to extend the application of these laws to mercantile and delivery services in the same way in which they now govern factories and stores, to limit the employment of children between fourteen and sixteen to nine hours a day and to forbid children under twelve to work as bootblacks and children under ten to work as newsboys.

In Pennsylvania the child labor laws urged are being supported by the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the Civic Club of Philadelphia and the State Consumers' league, as well as by the labor unions. The prominent part borne by women's organizations in this movement for the protection of childhood is quite in line with English precedent, the instinctive sympathy of Englishwomen having been perhaps the strongest force in enabling Lord Shaftesbury to carry through his great reform against the influence of factory owners and economists.

In sending out an agent of his bureau of scientific investigation to Japan to study the cultivation of terrapin Secretary Cortelyou has demonstrated that he knows how to tickle the Washington palate. The late Sam Ward used to say he could put any measure through congress with an adequate supply of terrapin. If it had only been possible to have worked the terrapin on congress before the appropriation bills were acted upon, the new department of commerce and labor might have been more generously treated.

Following the statements made in congress that New Mexico is a hot and arid desert came the news that three passenger trains with 500 persons on board were stalled for 100 hours in snowdrifts on the plains thirty miles from Santa Rosa. Hot country, indeed!

Germany indignantly denies that its naval officers and sailors looted the Venezuelan navy. The action of German soldiers in China is not, however, referred to as evidence that looting is not tolerated by that highly civilized nation.

Patriotism must stand aside where the bargain counter is concerned, as shown by the fact that certain loyal Australians have been purchasing British flags in New York instead of sending to the mother country for them.

France has frenk legislators too. One of them has just evolved a bill to tax tomcats because they wantonly destroy the birds in the parks.

The evidences of the oncoming spring accumulate. Another reef has been taken in the coal quotations.

Irritable, Excitable Nerves on Edge.

This describes the condition exactly. Children's noises, street sounds, little things that use to pass unnoticed, annoy. A sudden sound, a call—you jump—a harsh word, a crying spell. The sleep is full of jerks and starts—trouble fills your dreams—you do not rest. Tired you go to bed, weary you rise. It's the unstrung nerves, weak, shattered, over sensitive, on edge. They need rest, quiet, strength, steadiness. A Fellow Townsman gives you the cure in Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills—the most remarkable successful medicine ever produced.

Mrs. Wm. Troop of Reeber St., Wellsville, N. Y., says: "The box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills that I got are certainly a splendid medicine. I have always been troubled with my nerves—everything tired me and I got easily excited. Sleeping was a hard job—I was awake most of the time. Some one told me of the Pills and I got them and used them strictly according to directions and they did wonders. They steadied my nerves—gave me strength and energy, and, above all, sleep of a restful, natural character. I am only too glad to recommend them." 50c. a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Will Drill Wild Cat Wells.

Campbell Bros. & Johnson have leased 5,000 acres of land in West Jasper and Greenwood, and plans are being made to put down a test well this summer and according to present plans the well will be located near the Gully church. Just now matters are resting to ascertain the result of the test well on the Dolson farm.

Night Was her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 53 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, la grippe, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at O. E. Vars & Son's drug store, Andover.

REMAINS IDENTIFIED.

Unknown Man Proves to be a Well-Known Hornellsian—Brought to His Home.

Hornellsville Times:

The remains of the unknown man who was killed by the cars near Horseheads last Thursday, have been identified to be those of Alphonzo Giles of Hornellsville.

For some time the authorities could not find any means of identifying the dead body of the man but at last by looking in his pockets they found not only his name but also his address. The relatives in Hornellsville were notified and went at once to Horseheads where the body was held awaiting identification. It was easily proven that the man was Alphonsus Giles. The unfortunate man left Hornellsville some time Thursday to go to Oak Grove where he expected to find work. The next thing his relatives heard of him was the news that he had been found beside the Lackawanna railroad tracks. It is not known whether he was walking on the track or whether he fell from a train and was run over. The body was cut quite badly.

Mr. Giles was about 26 years old and unmarried. He formerly worked as a plumber in Hornellsville where he has resided since a young boy. He leaves to mourn his sad death the mother, Mrs. Mary Schu, three brothers, Fred, William and James Giles, and two sisters, Mrs. T. J. Cary of Austin and Mrs. Nellie Mahoney of Hornellsville.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

NO PAY, NO PAPER AFTER JANUARY 1, 1904.

The "News" Adopts the Cash in Advance System, Believing it Better for both Publishers and Readers.

The ANDOVER NEWS is to-day the only paper in Allegany county printing eight six-column pages all at home, that does not charge more than $1.00 per year subscription. It is a close thing to issue such a sheet at that price and make both ends meet. The price of print paper has doubled within the past four years. The only way the News can possibly maintain the present $1.00 rate is to carry no deadheads. Believing it unjust that a good subscriber be taxed to help pay for his deadbeat neighbor's paper, we have determined to adopt the "No pay, no paper" policy January 1st, 1904, and live rigidly up to it after that date. Kindly read the label on your paper and if you are not credited beyond Jan. 1st, 1904, you are hereby notified that your paper will then be discontinued—unless you walk up to the Captain's office and settle before that date. After Jan. 1st, 1904, all subscription accounts then due us will be placed in an attorney's hands for collection.

Three Boys and a Girl Drowned.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.—Following the formal opening of Dam No. 1 in the Allegheny river last night, Joseph Brown, aged 19; Henry Brown, aged 14; Frederick Bulger, Jr., and Edna Shipley, agnd 13, were drowned. The three boys were rowing below the dam in a skiff and invited three girl friends to join them. Within short distance of the dam the suction from the "Bear trap" drew the boat under water. Two of the girls were rescued in an unconscious condition.

Bodies of Morton House Victims.

New York, July 29.—The body of Bertha Quitner, one of the victims of the Morton House tragedy, was removed by the Hebrew Charity Organization society and buried in Silver Lake cemetery, Staten Island. The husband of the dead woman said he had no funds to pay the interment of his wife. The body of Christopher Weiss, the other victim, is still at the undertaker's. If the lodge of Elks to which the dead man belonged is not heard from today the city will take charge of the burial.

The supreme court of Michigan has set aside a judgment of $10,000 secured by the Detroit Salt company against the National Salt company for salt bought under contract. The court says that the officials of the Detroit concern knew that the National company was endeavoring to secure control of the market and that the contract, being in restraint of trade, was illegal. This would seem to be a sound decision.

CONFESSES MURDER

Martin Ebelt Held for Killing His Wife.

ACKNOWLEDGED PREMEDITATION.

Noticed Break in the Sewer Pipe a Week Before and Calculated to Hide the Body There—Choked Her to Death With a Shoestring—Signed the Confession.

Rome, July 29.—The Tribuna says that as the fisherman's ring, which could not be found after the death of the pope, may be discovered in some drawer which was sealed up and can not be opened until after the election of the new pope, the camerlengo, Cardinal Oreglia, has ordered a new one for use in the symbolic ceremony which occurs immediately after the successor to Leo is chosen.

The member of the Noble Guard who was overcome during the requiem mass in the Sistine chapel while on duty beside the catafalque, was Count Stampa, who a few days ago was placed under arrest for feigning illness. Today he had a slight attack of syncope.

It is officially announced that in addition to the will of the late pope, and separate from it, Leo XIII left a trifling present to each of a long list of relatives, members of the papal household, prelates, doctors, cardinals etc. As many formalities have to be observed, it will probably be some time before these gifts are delivered.

That there is a conviction at the Vatican that the conclave will be of short duration is proved by the fact that all those who are to enter the conclave to minister to the wants of the cardinals have been engaged for only three days.

Two camps into which the sacred college is divided appear to be becoming daily more irreconcilable, and it is said that the anti-Rampolla faction has declared that, if necessary to defeat the opposition, they will even go to the length of supporting a foreign cardinal. The name of Cardinal Kopp bishop of Breslau, was mentioned in this connection, but was hardly considered seriously.

OFFICE FOR THE DEAD.

Great Service Celebrated at St. Patrick's Cathedral Last Night.

New York, July 29.—The first great service for the repose of the soul of Pope Leo was celebrated at St. Patrick's cathedral last night. It was the chanting of the "office for the dead." The church was decorated with bands of mourning and a great catafalque rose 16 feet high at the gates of the sanctuary. Surmounting it was a triple crown.

The church was crowded to the doors. More than a hundred priests and seminarians participated in the ceremony. Archbishop Farley was accompanied by Bishop-elect Colton of Buffalo and Monsignor Edwards. Before him marched the Dominicans in their robes of white and the Franciscans were brown habits. Ranged on both sides of the sanctuary, all kneeling in silent prayer for a few minutes and then the "office" was intoned by the Rev. Dr. Richard O. Hughes and Professor Unterer, director of the Sanctuary choir.

Favor Cardinal Rampolla.

Paris, July 29.—Cardinal Labouré archbishop of Rennes, and Cardinal Aluti, nuncio at Lisbon, in interviews have expressed hopes that the action of the conclave will be favorable to Cardinal Rampolla.

No Callers at Sagamore Hill.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 29.—Postmaster General Payne, who is cruising along the North Atlantic coast in the revenue cutter Onondaga, will visit the president probably on Thursday or Friday. He will resume his duties in the postoffice department Monday. It is understood that Mr. Payne's health has improved materially. No callers were received at Sagamore Hill, the president passing the time with his family.

Believed to Be Drowned.

Beaumorie, Muskoka, Ont., July 29.—Joseph Hosack, a Princeton university student, whose home is at Carnegie, Pa., accompanied by Walter Mehard of Mercer, Pa., a medical student of John Hopkins university, sailed to Graven hurst in a canoe Sunday, where they picked up a cousin of Hosack's. The paddles of the canoe and Mehard's coat were picked up on the lake. All three are believed to have perished.

British Schooner Wrecked.

Halifax, N. S., July 29.—A Charlottetown, P. E. I., dispatch says the British schooner Laurel, Captain Doucette, was totally wrecked near Tracadie, during a violent northerly gale. The captain and crew of five men escaped.

FLEET MANEUVERS.

North Atlantic Squadron Will Assemble Off New England Coast in August.

Washington, July 29.—An elaborate programme for the maneuvers of the combined North Atlantic fleet off the coast of New England and Long Island sound during the month of August has been prepared at the navy department.

From August 3 to 10 the search problem will be developed between Eastport and Cape Ann. This will include an effort on the part of a presumably hostile squadron to enter an anchorage ground in the face of the defending fleet.

The combined fleet will proceed to Oyster Bay on the night of Saturday, August 15, remaining Sunday and Monday. The fleet will be reviewed by President Roosevelt.

From about the 22nd to the 29th of August there will be joint demonstrations by the combined fleet against the batteries at Portland, Me. Umpires will decide the contest.

Target practice at Gay Head will follow. More than 30 vessels will participate in the maneuvers.

PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Amalgamation Effected and Outline of Principles Announced.

Denver, Col., July 29.—Amalgamation into one party was effected by the two factions of the People's party in national conference.

An address was adopted declaring for a unification of reform forces in the country and opposition to affiliation with either Democratic or Republican parties.

The address declares for money issued exclusively by the government whether gold, silver or paper, public ownership of a system of transportation and the transmission of intelligence, land for use rather than for speculation, and abolition of alien ownership of land, and American ships for American foreign commerce, without a cent of subsidy.

Reported Massacre of Jews.

London, July 29.—Nothing is known here of the report to the effect that a massacre of Jews has occurred at Ofran, near Tangier, Morocco. The Morning Leader of this city in a dispatch from Tangier publishes a report that the Jewish quarter of Ofran was looted by Arabs July 17, that a building was destroyed, that a girl was abducted and that a quarrel among her abductors six Arabs were killed. This is doubtless the basis of the report.
