Cuts Off Finger to Join Navy

Tacoma, Wash.—Stanley Bartle was told by the Coast Guard that if he would cut off one of his fingers, he could join up. The catch is that Bartle had injured one of his fingers, which was left stiff and useless.

He is now in the Navy with nine fingers and a stub.

The surest way to stop the hen from laying is to neglect to give her water. One hundred laying hens will drink from 35 to 40 pounds, or about five gallons, of water a day.

Mrs. Mina Pease Cook

We are reprinting the following from the February 2nd issue of the Stamford Advocate. Mrs. Cook has visited in Andover on several occasions:

Mrs. Mima Pease Cook, 65, wife of James W. Cook of 81 Maple avenue, Glenbrook, died at her home yesterday afternoon after an extended illness.

One of the prime movers in Girl Scouting in Stamford in the days previous to the organization of the local Girl Scout Council, Mrs. Cook was elected to the Council Board in 1929 in recognition of her ten-year service as one of the founders and a leader of Troop 2 of Union Memorial church, Glenbrook.

Mrs. Cook was a member of Union Memorial church for the last 28 years. Up to five years ago she was active in church organizations, a teacher in the church school, and a member of the Union Church Guild. She was also a member of the Glenbrook Reading Circle and the Stamford Women's Club.

Born in Greenwood, N. Y., on Jan. 14, 1877, the daughter of Levi and Ruth (Boyd) Pease, she attended elementary schools in Greenwood and high school in Coudersport, Pa. She was graduated from Canisteo, N. Y., Academy, after which she taught school in rural districts of New York State and Pennsylvania for two years.

She then taught school one year in Hornell and in 1896 came to New York City, where she taught in the New York City schools for 12 years. During that time she attended Columbia University School of Education.

On Nov. 19, 1908 she was married in New York City to James W. Cook. They lived in New York City and East Orange, N. J., previous to coming to Stamford in April, 1914. Mr. Cook is associated with the production department office at Yale and Towne.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Cook is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. Bartlett Barnes of Bristol, Conn.; a sister, Mrs. Jennie B. Clark of Hornell, N. Y., two grandchildren, E. Bartlett Barnes, Jr., and Sara Elizabeth Barnes of Bristol and five nieces, Misses Annette, Ruth and Agnes Taylor of Andover, Virginia Clark of Hornell and Irene Scribner Decker of Austin, Pa.

Funeral service will be held at the late home, 81, Maple avenue, Glenbrook, at 3 p. m., Tuesday, Rev. Samuel J. Evers, pastor of Union Memorial church officiating. Interment in West Cemetery, Bristol, Conn.

War Changes the Allegany County Potato Program

The Allegany County Potato Committee met at the court house recently to draw a 1942 program. The greatest change decided upon was the decision to hold one county-wide field day in the central part of the county instead of having a tour or a number of smaller meetings.

The attractions at the field day are to be centered around a number of demonstration plots among which will be: Fertilizer test plot, variety test plot, and an insect control demonstration. Such a program will save travel for the growers and will offer information regarding Allegany county practices that has never before been obtainable.

Another important project included in the 1942 program is the certified seed pool. All potato growers are being contacted this week to determine the amount of interest. katahdins are to be included in this year's pool, making three varieties available. The other two are the old standbys Russett and Smooth Rural.

William Hodnett of Fillmore, chairman of the Empire State Potato Club presided at the committee meeting and other members present were: Leland Kreidler of Arkport; Jesse Burnside of Canaseraga; William Breneka of Angelica; Charles Wihgtman of Almond; Carl Burdick, Ferd Shear and Archie Foster of Wellsville; Fred Bennett of Cuba; and Leslie Merwin of Fillmore.

Will Get "Tough" With School Bus Law Violators

As the result of increased complaints, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey has announced that the Bureau of Motor Vehicles would take disciplinary action against drivers who fail to comply with the "school bus" law.

"We have repeatedly cautioned motorists that they must come to a complete stop when overtaking or meeting a school bus which has stopped to receive or discharge passengers," the Commissioner said.

"The State Education Department has been co-operating with us in this campaign by instructing school bus drivers to report any violation of this law to school principals who in turn forward the complaint to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

"Since the number of complaints has been increasing steadily, it would appear that drastic action is necessary. From now on, motorists who violate this section of the law may face investigation and possible suspension of their driving privileges."

The Allegany County American Legion and Auxiliary will hold their February meeting as guests of Bolivar Legion and Auxiliary next Thursday evening, Feb. 19.

The month of January made a record of cold weather and snow and now February has started out to beat it. We hope March doesn't catch the spirit of battle along these lines this seaason.

One of the points brought out at the Farm and Home Week at Cornell of interest locally is the challenge for all maple syrup producers to make the most of the coming maple syrup season in an effort to help the cane sugar situation.

Denzil G. Perkins of Clarksville, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Supervisors, was elected vice president of the New York State County Officers' Association at the annual meeting of that organization held in Albany last week.

Miss Sarah Gibson Blanding became the first dean of the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University, effective July 1, 1942. The College of Home Economics at Cornell has steadily grown from a correspondence course for farm women to a department and in 1925 became an independent college with a director and now rates a dean.

The S. D. Baptist Ladies' Aid Society held their February business and social meeting Feb. 10th at the home of Mrs. Freb Stebbins on Greenwood street. Mrs. F. S. Potter, president, was in charge of the business meeting when several items of business were considered. A social hour with needlework for the annual sale was in charge of Mrs. Lelia Livermore, chairman. A fine supper was served by the hostess and her committee. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Potter.

It was announced that the grand officers will be present May 25th. Past Matron Marie Hammond was escorted to the East and presented a Past Matron's pin by Matron Marial Lundi. The O. E. S. Circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Benjamin Friday, Feb. 20th with a tureen dinner at 1 o'clock. It is hoped there will be a goodly number present.

Maple Producers to Discuss Problems

A county-wide meeting of maple syrup producers will be held in the town hall at Allen Center on the Angelica-Short Tract Road, on Wednesday, Feb. 18th. J. D. Pond of Cornell University will be principal speaker. The meeting will start at 10:30 a. m. and close at 3:30 in the afternoon, with lunch being served at noon.

The demand for maple products will be greater this year than it has been for several years, according to C. R. Harrington, county agricultural agent, and producers are planning on making all the syrup they can with the help available. The purpose of the meeting on February 18th is to help producers solve some of their production problems.

Arling Cobb Cow Has Third Place in National Test

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has announced that a cow owned and tested by Arling Cobb of Whitesville, is national third-place holder of her class, according to the first list of national Holstein class production leaders on Herd Improvement Registry Test the association has ever published.

This cow, Kelco Korndyke Piebe 2d, produced 791.4 pounds of butterfat from 23,196 pounds of milk in 365 days to take third place among the senior two-year-olds on three milkings daily.

The O. E. S. will serve a three-cent supper at Masonic Temple Wednesday, Feb. 18th from 5:30 until all are served. advt.

WANDERING WITH WILLIE

WITH the tire situation the way it is, and with everyone trying to figure this or that way to plan for this summer's recreational activities we were wondering if some one with more brains than we are endowed with couldn't push, sponsor, negotiate or otherwise do something in connection with the only real recreational spot we have handy—the Andover ponds.

Back in the "good old days" more than a hundred would be found up there every Sunday and holiday and oftentimes in the evening, enjoying a picnic supper, doing a little off-hand fishing, rowing, or pitching quoits—and really having a good time.

If the city dads, Exchange Club or the Chamber of Commerce or some other club, society or fraternity would only start this business it would go a long way.

Folks will just have to come to the conclusion sooner or later that it will be out of the question to hop in the buggy, take a run down to Olean or Elmira or Rochester for a steak dinner and a bottle of pop just for something to do will be a thing of the past. If a party gets together for a motor trip this summer it will take half the day to decide on who has the best tires.

We have the pop right here at home (and incidentally some of it is better than in the "good old days") we still have the ponds and we have the same summer weather.

It wouldn't be such a job for the Rod and Gun Club to put up a rifle range, the Boy Scouts to build a quoit pitching outfit and all the other societies in town to drop in line to chip in some way or another to rejuvenate this place.

WE received the following this week from "Bud" Dolan, which is self-explanatory, and we pass it on to you folks. Congrats, Bud!

Buffalo, February 8, '42

Dear Friends I Left Behind:

We arrived in Buffalo vie Whitesville and Alfred Sunday night. After a good night's sleep we got up early Monday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and went to a recruiting office where we joined the U. S. Marines. When the recruiting officer learned my name was Bud Dolan he sent a cablegram to General MacArthur, telling him about it. Mac informed the Japs about my enlistment and they immediately surrendered (tho they outnumbered our men 10 to 1). They are now leaving the islands in large troop transports. I also heard that they are retreating like h— at Singapore. I don't want to brag any, but as I signed up only for the duration, I expect to be home very soon.

I remain, humbly yours,

"Marine Dolan".

GLAD to hear from you Cabe, but rather disappointed that you didn't verify our bit of "gossip" regarding your nocturnal wanderings in search of gas (or shall we talk about the weather?)

Anyhow, if you see a Jap poke his nose out of the water over your way take a shot at him with that little pop-gun you manipulate and send us the hide. And while we are on the subject of Japs did we tell you the one about the census taker that went into a mountaineer's house and asked him how many children he had. The mountaineer roared "Four, an' by Gosh that's all I'm goin' to have." "Why," asked the census taker. "I jest read in this here almanac," said the mountaineer, "that every fifth born in the world is either a Jap or a German."

HERE'S a little poem picked up a while ago that seems to fit the present period:

The End of the Road

There's always on end of the road, you know,
Tho the journey seems long and rough and slow.
In the country shade and the thriving town
Your journey will end if you don't lay down.
It may seem weary and bleak and chill
As you toil to the top of a misty hill,
And see from its summit no rest in store,
But a way that looks rougher than before.
You may flinch from the smart of the stinging pain,
As you set your face to the sleety rain,
And think with a fierce resentful sigh
Of a blossoming path and a star-strewn sky.
But sooner or later, a glow so warm
Will shine from a window thru the storm,
As Happiness beckons your footstep slow—
There's always an end of the road, you know.
