ASK The Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association ,The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University will answer each week in the Andover News those questions considered most interesting and timely.

Question 1.—What is the average climate at this season of the year where most of the fighting in the Philippines is now taking place? In Singapore?

Answer.—If we remember that Singapore is in the tropics and that the Philippines are sub-tropical, we will get a picture of the temperatures to be expected in both places. Along with high temperatures are rains of great intensity. At Manila, which is 15 degrees north latitude, the annual average rainfall is a little over six feet. The largest rainfall recorded in any one year is a little over 12 feet. The least rainfall recorded was about three feet.

The Philippines lie in the storm zone of the western Pacific and are repeatedly swept by tropical storms or typhoons in which the wind velocity is high and much rain falls in a short time. One of the heaviest rainfalls ever recorded anywhere in 24 hours is the 46 inches of rain which fell at Baguio in the Philippines in 1911. The total four-day rain in this story was 88 inches. Manila has four inches of rain fall in a single day, two or three times during most years. The highest Manila record was 13 inches.

The island of Luzon in which Manila is located is a series of volcanic peaks, many of them volcanoes long dormant. Between these volcanic peaks are valleys, some of them broad and poorly drained. Because it is surrounded by the ocean and swept by a moist wind, Luzon has nearly uniform temperatures thruout the year. The temperatures of the dry season there which comes during our winter are slightly higher than those of the wet season which is during our late summer.

Singapore is strictly tropical. It lies only one degrees above the equator. The temperature never goes below 70 degrees and very rarely rises above 90 degrees. However the air is very high in humidity which makes it muggy.—Dr. Earl Apfel, geographer and geologist.

Question 2.—My daughter's science teacher has told her that if the total energy of the atom could be released, I could carry enough power in a teaspoon to drive my car across the continent. Is this true?

Answer.—As a matter of fact, the teacher was very conservative. There is enough power tied up in the atoms of a teaspoonful of water to drive a car for over 20 years of average driving, that is, if the energy can be released.

Scientists have recently found a way to tap this energy in a certain rare metal which is called Uranium 235. The energy is so great that one pound yields power equivalent to 1,000,000 pounds of coal. Eight pounds would drive the Normandie across the ocean. Don't expect any practical developments in the immediate future, but millions are being spent on a study of its possibilities. There is enormous power in the atom. The problem is to release it.—Dr. Aden King, chemist.

Question 3.—Is there such a thing as a bottomless lake?

Answer.—There are such lakes that are called bottomless, but all lakes have the earth under them, so they all have bottoms.

If one lets a line down to the bottom of the lake and ties a weight on the end of the line, that weight will stop on the bottom and the difference in the pull will tell that the bottom has been reached. But if a great deal of line is unrolled before the weight gets to the bottom, then the line that is out will pull more line after it so that the lake will appear bottomless.

The deepest lake in the world is Lake Baikal in Central Asia. It is about one mile in depth. The ocean is about seven times as deep.—Dr. Apfel.

Question 4.—Is there any plant or animal that can live without moisture?

Answer.—No. All living things, animals as well as plants, are completely immersed in water. They are covered with water. All living cells require water inside and outside. Every living cell has a film of water entirely around it on the outside. The biggest tree in the world has a film of water all over it. That is true of all living things.—Dr. Ernest Reed, geneticist.

Mrs. Claude Fisher is slowly recovering from a week's illness at her home on Elm street.

Mrs. Steve Ordiway was taken to the Jones Memorial hospital Wednesday afternoon in the O'Laughlin ambulance.

Several reports of woodchucks being seen thruout the county were recorded last week. We'll bet they "holed up" again this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Green of Angelica observed their golden wedding anniversary Feb. 19. A family dinner party was held in their honor.

A recent ruling from the War Production Board prohibits the sale of new firearms by retail merchants that are adaptable to the use of the Army, home defense or police agencies.

The snow storm postponed the regular meeting of Allegany county supervisors, only 13 of the solons being able to get to Belmont, which number did not constitute the required number for the board to convene.

Mrs. Walter Dodge, a former Andover resident, was operated on at the Jones Memoriaal hospital, Wellsville, Tuesday. Mrs. Dodge is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Otto Nye of this village, who is assisting in the Dodge home in Wellsville this week.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kierney near Bolivar was destroyed by fire Saturday caused by a defective chimney. Their five month old daughter was burned about the face before her two-year-old brother drew her crib away from the chimney. The mother was out of the room when the fire started.

A company of 20 members of the W. R. C. entertained the members having birthdays during the month of February at a tureen dinner at Legion hall Friday noon. Following the dinner a social time was enjoyed with games. Mrs. L. G. Coleman, and Mrs. J. Harvey Backus were the committee in charge.

More help is needed in the Red Cross work. All who can are requested to lend a hand in the sewing. On display in the window are seven fracture pillows made of snipped cloth and cotton and a wool comforter made by the Mission Circle of the Baptist church, also a baby quilt made by the World Wide Guild girls.

Mrs. Wm. Pease was honored on her birthday Saturday by relatives and friends who surprised her at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wentworth. About 24 came at 6:30 with tureen for the making of a delicious dinner and a birthday cake. Cards were enjoyed in the evening. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pease of Stannards and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crowner of Elm Valley.

The Relief Corps will hold their regular meeting at the hall this Saturday, March 7th.

"Chuck" Holt took a real lesson in the art of putting chains on automobiles Tuesday morning.

Apply For Federal Crop And Feed Loans Next Tuesday

C. G. Graybeal, field supervisor for the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office advises that farmers who desire to apply for crop and feed loans for this season should arrange to file their applications with him at the Allegany county Farm Bureau office, Belmont, Tuesday, March 10, between the hours of 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m.

As in the past, farmers who obtain these loans will give as security a first lien on the crops financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Dairymen's Costs Of Producing Milk Increasing

The costs of producing milk have increased to a marked extent over a year ago, according to Glenn Talbott, Fillmore, president of the Dairymen's League Sub-District 19-A, commenting on a recent news release, showing how much the value of milk, produced in January 1942 in Allegany county, had increased over the same month a year ago. These costs include the cost of all feed, labor and overhead.

The cost of purchased grain in January 1942 was 29 per cent higher than the same cost in January of a year ago. Dairymen of Allegany county producing milk for New York City spent $34,981 for dairy feed in January. The same group of men purchased $22,946 worth of feed in the same period a year ago.

The labor situation on dairy farms is especially acute. Industry has attracted large groups of men who previously worked on farms. Dairymen in an attempt to keep some help have had to pay increased prices for labor. The wages of farm help are approximately 40 per cent higher than they were a year ago.

According to a formula used by farm management experts in computing the cost of producing milk, the costs of production during the month of January 1942 totaled $2.73 per hundred pounds compared with $2.17 per hundred pounds during January 1941. In other words, the returns per 100 pounds of milk have increased 28 per cent over one year ago, but the costs of producing that milk have increased 26 per cent in the same period. The increase in the value of Allegany county milk produced in January was due in part to the increased production of about 20 per cent over one year ago. This is in line with the request of the Secretary of Agriculture for an increased production of dairy products during 1942. Meeting this request for increased production with a two per cent increase to the dairymen himself while farm help receives an increase of 40 per cent and industrial labor even more, proves the dairymen is truly a patriotic American.

A Poor Way To Stop Erosion

The old jalopy isn't worth much to stop gullies from forming on farm lands, but it does provide profitable scrap metal for the junk dealer. Someone has estimated there is enough scrap steel and iron on farms in the United States to build 139 battleships, 69,000 tanks, and 5,000,000 one-ton bombs.

There are better ways to stop gullies than to dump scrap into them, says W. C. Huff, extension soil conservationist at Cornell. A small diversion terrace may be built above the head of the gully to divert water to some established waterway. Then the sides of the gully can be plowed and planted to grasses and shrubs.
