Four A. C. S. Contest Contenders Win Prizes

Upon the decision of the judges representing the local school and Dairymen's League, the following people gained the honors and prizes for writing the best essays on the subject of "Equality For Farmers Thru Co-operatives."

Catherine Perry attained the first honor, gaining a prize of $2.

Jean Rogers won the second prize of $1.50.

Patricia Lynch rated third with the prize of one dollar and her brother, Patrick Lynch achieved the fourth prize of 50 cents.

The three highest graded essays, namely those submitted by Catherine Perry, Jean Rogers and Patricia Lynch will be eligible for the contest sponsored by the county.

The winners will receive their prizes on graduation night in June.

Science Club In Action

The long-awaited photo enlarger for the Science Club has at last been acquired and is in the darkroom. With the purchase of a few minor and supplementary additions, the darkroom will soon be in use and it is hoped that the ACS Science Club members will take advantage of the opportunity to develop, print or enlarge their own films themselves. Arrangements are being made to show how the enlarger is used at the next regular meeting of the Science Club. VO

Office Oddities . . .

Not exactly in the realm of office oddities, but did you ever stop to think who has the longest name in Junior-Senior high school? Elizabeth Gilliland and Llewellyn Fairbanks are tied for first place. Leonard Cartwright holds second place.

The eighth grade has the distinction of having the most Jean's in the class. Spelling varies, however. They are Jean Kemp, Jeanne Jaekel, Jean Lawrence, Jean Lynch, Jeanne Halsey, who left the group in January, Lois Jean Matison and Betty Jean Spicer.

Among the articles which occupied the lost and found department for a long time was a good pair of pigskin gloves. Latest reports are that they have been claimed, at last, by Paul Ryan.

The most extraordinary article ever discovered by the lost and found department was a man's garter (!) that was far beyond its useful days.

Back to long names for a moment. If you can think of anyone who has a longer name, let us know. Middle names do not count unless one always uses them.

Mrs. Schwarzenbach has the distinction of being the teacher with the longest name. There are 20 letters in her name. JB

Hi Herald Attended Press Meeting

Thursday night, four members of the Hi Herald, in company with Miss Colberg and Miss Anderson, attended the third quarterly meeting of the Allegany County Scholastic Press Association at Rushford.

Dinner was served in the cafeteria and after a business meeting was held the 75 representatives adjourned to group discussion classes. Headline writing, feature writing, and front page artistry were the topics.

Those who went were Editor Jean Rogers, business manager Victor Oakes, sports editor, Paul Ryan and reporter Stanley Ruger.

The next press meeting will be held at Fillmore the last of May. JR

Miss Daly Returns To Syracuse U

Tuesday, Feb. 24th, Miss Daly returned to Syracuse University and spoke before a convocation of Sophomore women. Dr. Roy Price, head of the social studies, Education Department at the University, presided over the conference. The meeting was held for the purpose of helping the students select a major subject.

Miss Daly also returned to her local high school and visited various classes. She was especially interested in the difference between that school and a centralized school such as ACS. Said Miss Daly: "The contrast was certainly in favor of A. C. S." JB

CHIT-CHAT

Why is it that "Don" E. is always ducking around the halls lately?

We wonder why Paul R. looks so tired these days? Could it be the hill is getting him down?

We see with great delight that "Crutch" Ruger is on his own two feet again.

J. Potter has been wondering if he is a Senior or a angel, thanks to last week's song titles.

We see that the Senior play has finally been cast.

Why do certain Senior boys stay away from school when the exams come.

Reports have come in that the Seniors will start practicing for the play this week.

The number of Seniors who are going to Rochester to see the Broadway production of "MacBeth" seems to be dwindling considerably.

An old friend has been seen in our midst, namely Pvt. Floyd Neupert, who is home on a nine-day leave.

Was it accidental or intentional that a certain Junior girl was late for the first bus to Alfred-Almond for the playoffs?

When are the Seniors going to have another party or some social event in the school?

What caused the drastic changing of seats in the History A class? Could it be that the people become too friendly?

People are receiving the bad news that results from the five week tests.

Why did Marian S. hide when a certain couple came into the show Sunday night? CG

Cast Is Chosen For "Spring Fever"

The tryouts for the Senior play, "Spring Fever," have been completed, and a promising cast has been chosen from the Senior Class. Following is a list of the characters and the people who will represent them in the hilarious comedy:

Anne Purcell—Patrick Lynch.
Vivian George—Jane Burdick.
Lou Herron—Wanda Dolan.
Mrs. Purcell—Catherine Perry.
Mrs. Spangler—Marian Steadman
Aunt Maude—Jean Rogers
Howard Brant—John Dean
Ed Burns—Stan Ruger
Vic Lewis—Paul Ryan
Mr. Purcell—Charles Gath
Dr. Dixon—Victor Oakes
Prof. Virgil Bean—Wendell Vars

Rehearsals will begin this week.

Students See "MacBeth" In Rochester

Six members of the Senior English class, accompanied by Miss Pauline Anderson, instructor, are journeying to Rochester in the station wagon this afternoon (Thursday) to attend the stage performance of Shakespeare's famous tragedy "MacBeth."

Those students who will see the play include Charles Dunham, Stanley Ruger, Victor Oakes, Jean Rogers, Donald Emery and Margaret Lynch.

Judith Anderson and Maurice Evans, well known Shakespearian players, will take the parts of Lady MacBeth and her husband. The curtain will rise at 2 o'clock.

LITTLE BITS OF HUMOR

The Hint

Woman (learning to drive): "But I don't know what to do."

Husband: "Just imagine I'm driving."

Definite

When the doorbell rang, little Jimmie went to the door. Soon he returned. "Who was it?" asked his mother.

"Oh, it was just a strange man who was looking for the wrong place," explained Jimmie.

Two Answers

The teacher was preparing a class for an exam. "Now," she said, "if you find you cannot remember who wrote 'Farewell to the Highlands' think of a policeman in a fire and you will remember Bobby Burns."

Up jumped one bright boy and said, "Yes, but how will we know it's not Robert Browning."

A General Clean-Up

"Mother says may she have a pound of butter and some sugar on trust till father comes home," said the little girl in the grocer's shop.

"And why doesn't your mother come herself?" asked the grocer suspiciously.

"Oh," said the child, full of innocense, "mother's trying another shop."

New Anemia Cure Sighted

National defense health authorities have been informed of an unbelievable local medical discovery that promises to cure anemia and actually put redder blood into the veins of Americans by the rubbing of a potent substance into the human skin. In brief, a preparation has been developed which reports from physicians and laboratories indicate will make it possible for the first time for anemic patients to absorb a very highly concentrated liver extract directly through their skins. Such a revolutionary method would obviate the somewhat painful hypodermic injections of liver extract as well as the eating of huge amounts of raw and uncooked liver and liver capsules. The new technique, said to have been used with amazingly successful results on more than 50 human beings and on scores of dogs, consists only in rubbing some 20 drops of a creamy fluid into the skin of the thigh or stomach. After less than a minute of massaging, the skin area is left dry and unstained.

Evaporated Milk

With the ready availability of evaporated milk some one has asked "Can evaporated milk be soured?" Yes, it may be done. Vinegar or lemon juice does the trick in this case the same as with sweet whole milk. For sour milk, add 1 tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice to ½ cup evaporated milk mixed with ½ cup of water. To produce sour cream, add 1 tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice to 1 cup of evaporated milk as it comes from the can.

In baking use ½ teaspoon of soda for each cup of sour cream or milk. If you are substituting sour milk or cream for sweet, figure that the ½ teaspoon of soda replaces 2 teaspoons of baking powder in leavening power.

If your sweet milk recipe should call for 1 cup of milk and 3 teaspoons of baking powder, you may use 1 cup of sour milk, ½ teaspoon of soda and 1 teaspoon of baking powder.

Indians Want Treaty Restored

Seventy-five years ago, the Goshute Indians from western Utah were granted a treaty, details of which include that white men would keep out of lands reserved to the Indians, if they (Indians) would not molest the white men's building railroads and telegraphs over the hunting grounds. Recently a spokesman for the tribe came into a Salt Lake City court to protect the land of his fathers from encroachment of white men. It is claimed that white men have failed to observe hunting and fishing rights granted the tribe in the 75-year-old treaty. The tribe appeared puzzled over the edict of game officers that they must buy hunting and fishing licenses. Chief Little Moon declared that the game, fish and fowls will be better protected if the Indian has the right to hunt every day in the year than by the white man hunting and fishing just in seasons, "because the Indians do not destroy like the white man."

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

$100 or more during the calendar year 1941.

All persons or organizations acting at any time during the year 1941 as broker or other agent in stock, bond, or commodity transactions (including banks which handle clearing orders for depositors or custodian accounts) are required to file annual returns of information on Form 1100 with respect to all customers, depositors, or accounts for whom or which the total amount of the sales of securities or commodities, or the total market value of the securities exchanged, is $25,000 or more during the calendar year 1941 and each subsequent calendar year, with certain exceptions. A separate Form 1100 must be prepared for each customer, depositor, or account for whom or which business was transacted during the year and must show the name and address and other information provided for in the form.

Information returns are carefully checked with individual returns of taxpayers. Thousands of delinquent returns and additional revenue amounting to millions of dollars have been secured as the result of the examination of information returns.

When, Where and How Taxes Are to Be Paid

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1941 may be paid in full at the time of the filing of the return on or before March 16, 1942. The tax may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is to be paid on or before March 16, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1942. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribed for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is required to be filed—that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Md.

In the payment of taxes a fractional part of a cent is to be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance require and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the canceled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

Last Call For Income Tax Returns

Have you filed your Federal income tax return? If you come within the group from whom returns are required, you have only until midnight March 16, in which to file a return. Single persons who earned as much as $14.43 a week for the 52 weeks of 1941; or married persons living together who had aggregate earnings of as much as $28.85 a week for the year, are required to file returns. The instructions attached to the forms describe the method of preparing returns, but if further information is necessary it may be obtained at the offices of the collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge. They make no charge for their services.

If income-tax returns are placed in the mail, they should be posted in ample time to reach the collector's office on or before the due date—that is, midnight on March 16 for calendar year returns. Taxpayers subject themselves to a penalty for failure to file returns on time.

'Flame Thrower' Used In Fight Against Pests

Hitherto used only in industry and as a weapon of warfare against humans in both World War I and II, the flame-thrower now is winning a battle against rats and insects. It is due to become, officials of the Pan American Sanitary bureau believe, a valuable instrument in fighting bubonic plague.

In the past, the war against plague-carrying rats was hindered by the fact that, although the rat was killed, the fleas it carried remained alive and continued to spread the disease. The flame-thrower, producing a mobile blaze of some 2,000 degrees F., has proved effective in destroying not only rats and fleas in rat burrows and nests in the floors and walls of dwellings and other buildings, but other vermin also. By passing this flame slowly over the surface, spiders, bed bugs, fleas, cockroaches, and lice in the cracks or on the walls and floors are almost instantly killed.

The fact that the fire-torch effectively destroys fleas in rat burrows, as well as the rats they infect, is considered highly important in controlling the plague.

Raps Health Rules

Modern "scientific" health rules, according to Dr. Arthur H. Steinhaus of George Williams college, are often as erroneous as their predecessors of yesterday.

"Too often health rules were merely devices designed to force the prejudices of one generation on to the next," he declared. "About a generation ago such rules began to lose their grip on us, so we turned to science for health facts. This has got us into even more trouble. In the place of one family cherished health rule, we now have a score of high-powered, recently concluded, formidable sounding statements claiming to be health facts."

The "thundering fury of these claims" by manufacturers and stockholders as to the health merits of their respective products has had at least one favorable effect, however, Dr. Steinhaus pointed out: Can people now ask for reasons back of health statements before accepting them completely.

Wrinkles in Skirt

To look well groomed is no accident. If you don't want your clothes to fail you, don't fail your clothes. One of the surest ways to save on your dry cleaning costs is to brush your clothes thoroughly when you remove them. This removes all surface dust before it becomes imbedded in the weave of the fabric.

There's a way to sit on your skirt to prevent wrinkles. Here's how: When you sit down, take the side seams in your hands, gently pull them out. After you've done it a few times you'll find it becomes a habit. And how it helps the look of your skirt when you get up!

There's nothing that will so ruin the effect of a smart costume as run-over heels. Keep your shoes clean and in repair for longer wear.

Cancer Traced

Dr. Ludwig Emge, professor of surgery at Stanford, declared recently there is some reason to believe a vitamin A deficiency may have something to do with chronic ulcers of the stomach which may eventually become cancer.

He pointed out that radio-active substances, made by the use of the cyclotron, will enable medical men to trace cancerous tissue throughout the human body. He said this is the most hopeful line of research developed for the treatment of cancer.

He did not go so far as to say that radioactive substances can be used as a cure, stating it had been discovered that cancerous thyroid glands, for example, will not take radioactive iodine.

Uncle Ab says this war has changed almost everything in military experience except the opinions about top-sergeants.

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa:

My husband and I have been married about a year. We love each other very much and get along fine except for one thing. He cannot bear for me to disagree with him on anything, altho he is an extremely polite person, as a rule, he has behaved quite rudely to me on several occasions when I voiced an opinion contrary to his. The worst part of it is that this happened when other people were present. He practically ordered me to hush up and treated me as if I were a moron or a two-year-old child.

I was terribly embarrassed and the people we were with looked as if they were dumb-founded. He said afterwards that he did not consider that he was any ruder to me than I was to him.

Honestly, if I had never gotten past the fourth grade and had lived in the backwoods all my life, I might be satisfied to accept everything that another person thought, but I am a grown young woman who made A's on almost every subject at college and as such I think I should be treated as an individual.

I am sure my husband loves me better than anyone else in the world and yet I am the only person I have ever seen him act rude to. What can I do about it?

ANNA.—Wyoming.

Answer

I can't explain your husband's behavior unless he acts that way because you are the one person in the world he wants to think is perfect. Of course when he behaves in such a manner he is defeating the very end he is striving to attain.

It will be hard to keep your illusions about his perfection if he continues to show this dominating impolite streak. I trust that he will see the error of his ways soon and correct them or he will do himself a great deal of harm not only in regards to what you will think but in what other people will think and say. Very few people have any use for a man who bullies his wife in public. It puts a wet blanket on the party and creates only sympathy for the wife. The man may vainly imagine that people admire him for his control over his better half but such behavior only creates pity for her and dislike for him.

Why don't you talk to him and say just what you have written to me. Perhaps he will wake up and save himself a lot of grief.

LOUISA.

Hot Water, Pure Suds For Cleaning Coffee Pot

How shall a coffee-pot be washed or cleansed? Even here experts differ. But they agree that hot water and pure suds should be used, followed by a clear hot rinse, after every use; that putting the clean pot "to sun" on porch or window automatically removes stale odors; that an occasional scouring with steel wool is good for the bottom inside of the pot; that a small special percolator brush is required to keep tube and spout spic-and-span.

Another point, almost forgotten, is that in the vacuum type coffee-maker, or wherever the small filter-cloth or bag is employed, this too must be frequently washed and as frequently replaced with a new fresh bag. One investigator reported that she found many vacuum coffee-makers where the original filter-cloth had never been changed, even after several years of use daily!

This widespread lack of cleanliness in regard to the daily coffee-pot is the more surprising when contrasted with the care of the skillet, the saucepot, or any other kitchen cooking device. Women scour all these things, but, alack, forget that most-important item, the coffee-pot, on which so much of the pleasure in meals depends.

Hollywood Cop: "See those fellows on the corner. They're directors holding a story conference."

Milkman: "What? At three o'clock in the morning?"

Living Problem Simple, According to Physician

The modern American came in for a broadside recently by Dr. Arthur H. Steinhaus, physiologist of the George Williams college.

"I dare say many Americans have no idea how they themselves, alone and unassisted, really feel," the doctor observed. "They barge into the new day under the stimulation of caffein-laden java. Soon they deaden their jangled nerves with nicotine."

The worst, however, is yet to come, according to the doctor, especially if you happen to be one of those persons who enjoys a social hour and maybe a beer with the boys on the way home at night.

"From half past afternoon until late at night their irritated minds find solace in alcohol. At headache time an aspirin gives them an escape. Bubbling alkalizers remove yesterday's brown taste to make room for today's.

"If foodless and matchless, John Doe some day would walk through the woods and upon tiring sit by a stream to straighten out his cockeyed thinking. Then when hungry he should pass up hamburger stands and taverns to a plain wholesome dinner. After helping the wife with the dishes he should play with the kids or otherwise occupy himself with socially constructive work. He might be surprised with himself."

Physiology Expert Says 'Bunk' on Food Taboos

It's all right to drink water with meals and to mix such foods as shrimps and strawberries, milk and fish, according to Dr. Arthur H. Steinhaus, distinguished physiology expert of George Williams college.

Discussing the modern American's eating habits, Dr. Steinhaus, visiting at the University of California, attacked the "superstition against water."

"Is it harmful to drink water with meals?" he asked. "Earlier views held that it was harmful because the stomach juices thereby were seriously diluted. Experimentation has proved that water is one of the best stimulators to stomach secretion. Digestion is improved. Even cold water is no significant deterrent to digestion."

Statements that certain combinations of food are harmful to the individual were branded as "groundless" by Dr. Steinhaus.

"Shrimp with strawberries, milk with fish, starch foods with acids—they're all harmless unless the individual is allergic to one or several of them," he declared. "The normal stomach secretes an acid much stronger than that which is taken in so-called acid foods."

'Army Chiropody'

There may be some truth in the old saying that "an army marches on its stomach"—but Temple, Pa., university authorities point out that it's also true that an army marches on its feet.

On this theory, the university has established a course in "military chiropody," an emergency measure designed to keep America's new army "on its feet" by acquainting chiropodists with the foot problems of soldiers and sailors.

The project has been created with government sanction and is planned to duplicate a successful, similar program by British chiropodists for Britain's home defenders, according to Dr. Charles E. Krausz, assistant dean of the Temple chiropody school.

Pointing out that while a painful corn or ingrown nail does not exempt a man from military service, Dr. Karusz warned that nevertheless these and other local foot disturbances lower morale and diminish physical capacity.

Six Seen Easily

Near Jupiter and Saturn are two interesting clusters of stars. The Pleiades are often called the "Seven Sisters," but only six stars are seen easily. They form a very small dipper, but that is not the so-called "Little Dipper," which is formed by the North Star and six fainter stars. The other cluster is not named on the map, but is called the Hyades. They form a letter V with the bright star Aldebaran.

Just above the northeastern horizon is Capella, the fifth brightest star in the whole sky. It forms part of a five-sided figure, Auriga. Capella is a double star, the components of which are, respectively, 100 times and 50 times, more luminous than our sun. They revolve about each other in a period of 104 days and are separated by a distance of about 80,000,000 miles, or 85 per cent of the distance from the earth to the sun.

Tobacco Superstitions

When tobacco first reached England in 1565, it was put to strange uses and all sorts of superstitions were invented about it. People believed that smoking would keep one from growing old and it was used to insure male succession—and succession in general. Doctors whose patients could afford to pay $37 a pound for tobacco sprinkled it about sick rooms to tone down fever.

During the plague, 1664-1665, tobacco chewing became a part of English social life. The passing of the plague did not end the fad and men, women and children kept right on chewing it and the perfect dandy carried a silver spittoon as his early Nineteenth-century descendants carried a monocle.
