Don't Waste Those Idle Moments; Conserve Them for Defense

Americans, do not waste your time! There is so little of it! I do not say "students" because I am not talking to students—I am addressing representatives of America.

Immediately, many people say, "What can I do in only ten or fifteen minutes?" "A great deal" is the reply. You can pick up newspapers, old rubber, metal and other "junk" which has been stored or thrown away by the average consumer and which is vitally needed now. You can read articles written by authorities on defense and learn what the youth, especially of America, can do to help.

Many of you have probably received circulars sent to students in rural areas by local 4-H directors, urging you to assume responsibility for the family garden and to enlist your aid. What better job could American youth do than to help provide food for wartime America?

Neither must students waste their time and the time of others while in school. We must study, we must learn—as much as we can—in the shortest period possible. It is particularliy important for those of us who live in farming areas such as Andover, to make the most of what we have, for we may find that, some day, the school year will be cut short so that students can take the places of those workers who have found it necessary to leave the farms to serve Uncle Sam in other ways. Our time will be shortened but the amount of material to be learned will not be. Nor will the examinations be any easier. It is easy to see that we must work harder and faster than ever before.

Americans—school students—save each precious moment, for you have nothing to spare! Moreover, if the old adage is true that "Time is money"—it is doubly important, during such a crisis, that every second be used to the best advantage, for one must "Save for Defense!" JR

Are You a Parasite?

"May I borrow," is certainly an old, familiar question around ACS. We have begun to believe that only a very few students ever purchase any paper, ink, pens or pencils.

Who ever saw a school group without any paper, pencils, or ink? ACS students certainly have a good start toward just that! An average of two pencils a day (quote from one high school teacher) are "borrowed" and what's more—never returned. This may not seem like stealing, but in one sense, it is. Certainly the consciences of the borrowers don't prick them because, if they did, more borrowed material would be returned.

The next time you do find it necessary to borrow some thing, try to return it—if only for the "principle of the thing."

More important still, however, is the fact that not only is the borrowing of supplies selfish in an economic sense, but valuable class time is also consumed—while students gather the necessary materials for class work.

So, away with the parasites! Let's learn to thrive by ourselves—to stop depending on others—and to really wake up and live! JB

Calling All Sophomores—Where Are You?

Where are you, Sophomores? We see you, we hear you, and that's about all. We never hear of you having a party, or another type of activity. What's the matter? You have a fine group of boys and girls in your class with which to work.

Come on, then, and get busy and do something. Have a party and let us know that you still exist.

Scholastically, too, you are unknown. Just one, yes, one Sophomore name appeared on the honor list this last five week's test period. Now Sophomores, that's no way to behave!

Get busy and "perk up". Have parties and fun. Study and get your names on the honor roll. If you do, you will become one of the most outstanding classes in ACS. Then we—upper classmen can be proud of you. PEL

Eggs and Chickens

The FFA boys have placed a setting of eggs in the newly purchased incubator. The boys are hatching some of the eggs themselves and others which will be for sale.

Plans are being made for making a battery brooder, in addition to the one they are using at present.

Anyone who would like to buy day-old chicks are asked to notify either Mr. Fribolin or any one of the FFA members as soon as possible.

Pictures Shown To Graders

Two moving pictures, entitled, "Man Against the River," and "The Story of Our Flag," were shown to the sixth, seventh and eighth grade social science classes in the science room last week.

Tuesday afternoon an assembly was held for the purpose of showing "The Story of Our Flag" to the fourth, fifth, six and seventh graders. VO

Student Council To Sponsor Quiz Program

An unusual quiz program, the details of which are a deep secret, will be sponsored by the Student Council in a Junior-Senior high school assembly tomorrow morning in the gymnasium.

Questions to be asked the as yet unpublicized contestants, were compiled by the Student Council from queries submitted by the students.

Just who the contestants may be, no one but Council members know. By keeping the names of the contestants a secret, they hope to increase the entertainment, since everyone will be totally unprepared.

Townspeople are cordially invited to attend this "portrayal of the quiz kids." JR

New Type Activity Period Established

Because of a desire to raise the scholastic standard in ACS, a new type of activity period program has gone into effect, starting with this past five weeks marking period.

Anyone who received one or more red marks or two or more grades of 65 must report to room 222 for a special study period. It is believed that thru this method, those people who received such low grades will improve their scholastic standing.

It was also announced that it would be compulsory for all girls to participate in the eighth period intra mural sports program on Wednesdays and Fridays for the remainder of the year, unless the girl presented a doctor's excuse to Mr. Ingerson. PEL

English Students See "MacBeth"

Thursday morning at 10 o'clock six English IV students, accompanied by Miss Pauline Anderson, set out in the station wagon, driven by Ralph Burgett, for the Maurice Evans Production of Shakespeare's "MacBeth," staged in the Auditorium in Rochester.

Everyone was greatly impressed by the magnificence of the costumes the setting and the stage lighting in addition to the splendid performance given by the characters themselves, especially Maurice Evans as MacBeth and Judith Anderson as Lady MacBeth.

After consuming the steak dinners which no one had time for at noon, the group returned home. In spite of bad roads, getting the wrong seats in the theatre, and finding themselves on the wrong side of Conesus Lake and having to go back all reported a fine time.

The students who made the trip were Jane Burdick, Jean Rogers, Vic Oakes, Don Emery, Charles Dunham and Stan Ruger. JR

Grade News

Beginning this week, all children in grades kindergarten-three will be able to buy Defense Savings Stamps from their home room teachers. Heretofore, only those children in the kindergarten and first grades have been buying stamps at school.

Miss Seguin's group is studying a unit on "The Family." The poem "The Wind," is also being read.

Miss Emily Butler's second and third graders are planning to draw maps of the United States and then to "finish" these maps in salt.

A unit on Indians is being studied in Miss Clark's second grade. The children are going to make an Indian tepee and Indian men.

Francis Greene, of Miss Perkin's fourth grade, has moved to Alfred-Almond.

An interesting bulletin board on electricity is on display in Miss Gottlieb's fourth grade. A new pupil, Theodore VanKuren has become a member of this class. SM

PURPLE PANTHERS END LEAGUE SEASON IN SECOND PLACE

The shelves once more were dusted off and the Purple Panthers of Andover Central School found themselves again on that same old familiar spot, the second shelf from the top.

The locals played good ball in several games but were not consistent enough to capture the league crown.

In several games the Panthers played pretty ragged ball and this was apparent in the deciding game with Whitesville, when the locals were beaten out for the championship. The entire season showed ten victories against five defeats for the team.

"Naze" Dolan captured scoring honors for the year with 126 counters. "Naze" played a good game on both defense and offense and proved to be a valuable asset to the team.

The loss of Stan "Stretch" Ruger who suffered an ankle injury during the middle of the season, proved to be a bad blow to the Panther's hopes for a championship. In the nine games that Stan played he made 93 points. If he had been able to finish the season he would have probably tallied over 150 points. This might have changed the league standings a great deal.

"Slip" Karcanes and "Pepper" Ryan were next in the scoring column with 81 and 58 points respectively. "Slip" played a good game at forward all year and was also handicapped with an injury for a long time.

"Whitey" Gorsuch and "Pepper" Ryan, the guards, each threw their share of the points. "Whitey" tossed in 33 markers.

"Chuck" Holt did a nice job filling in at center in the last part of the season. Besides playing a good defensive game, he made 46 points.

Coach Bob Ingerson did very well for his first year of coaching. He brought the boys along a great deal and helped them improve their playing by his advice The final standing of the league was:

COACH INGERSON ISSUES CALL FOR BASEBALL PLAYERS

There is still plenty of snow on the ground but that doesn't mean a thing to the enthusiastic boys in Andover Central School, regarding baseball.

The first practice of the season will be held indoors next Monday. Coach Ingerson hopes to have all the boys interested report to him on that night. The first few practices will consist primarily of playing catch and the limbering up of muscles.

Only three veterans will be back from last year's squad. These three will be "Jack" Dean, "Pepper" Ryan and "Whitey" Gorsuch.

The boys hope to get outdoors just as soon as the snow melts and the ground dries a bit. All day long their anxious faces watch for some change in the weather and at night they pray that the weatherman will show mercy towards them.

WILDCATS ALSO HOLD SECOND SPOT IN LEAGUE

The Andover Seconds turned in a fairly successful season and also finished in second place in league participation behind Richburg.

The Jayvees ended with a 50-50 yearly average, winning seven and losing seven games They also slightly edged out their opponents on the scoring side by outscoring them 225 points to 207 points.

"Zeke" Shellman was high scorer for the Jayvees with a 14-game average of 77 points. "Jim" Driscoll also did remarkably well as guard, dropping in 50 points.

With Needle and Spoon

The Homemaking A girls are beginning their sewing unit. This week they have been studying the sewing machine and how to run it and have been learning how to make various types of seams and hand stitches.

Next week, after choosing which they prefer to do, according to the experience they have had in that type of sewing, they will make blouses, aprons or dresses.

The 9th grade homemaking class has been making cheese sticks, sugar cookies, cinnamon tarts and strawberry tarts. They will make cakes and cookies later.

The Home Economics 6 Class has finished studying curtains and are now studying good designs in furniture.

The 7th and 8th grade girls are studying food constituents as a part of their nutrition unit.

On one of the bulletin boards there are illustrations of the clothes which are becoming to various types of figures and on the other, an "Eat the Right Food" poster. PEP

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stewart and children Charlotte, Billy and Barbie, John Mullen and sons, Harold and Nelson attended the movie "Brigham Young" in Canisteo Saturday evening.

While many schools were closed due to the heavy snow, the Canisteo Central School remained open. This week Monday several buses that pick up children across the Canisteo river were sent back, due to the high water.

Charlotte Stewart received a letter from a pen pal in Texas, saying roses are in bloom, also that in Mendedes on the Rio Grande they have not seen snow since 1926 and children can't imagine what it's like. Send them up to the Empire State and they will find out—especially on Call Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Comstock and children of Purdy Creek called on Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stewart and family Monday of last week.

C. B. Ellis of Canisteo was calling in this place Friday.

Mrs. Dan Mullen celebrated her birthday Sunday. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Caward and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Stephens and two children were guests.

FRUIT, FLOWERS AND GARDEN

FLOWER GARDENS IN WAR TIME

Nurserymen of the state have been deluged with telephone calls from persons who ask whether lawns flower beds and borders should be plowed to grow vegetables for victory.

It would be foolish to destroy the beauty around the suburban and country home, because America has enough acres available for vegetable growing; further, persons grow vegetable crops for a living, says Prof. L. H. MacDaniels of the floriculture department at Cornell University. The production of vegetables is patriotic, and so is the production and maintenance of beauty thru flowers.

England has encouraged an increase in flower growing because it has such a lifting effect on morale, he says. Many Americans will give up the pleasure of motoring, others their golf and other favorite pastimes. All will spend more time at home, time which can be occupied in no better way than in dealing with the soil, in growing things.

Flower gardening is an integral part of the victory gardening program. Because the boys far away visualize the beautiful homes and gardens they fight for, those at home who think about these boys find health and relief from worry in a garden of flowers. The great mass of people whose regular existence is being speeded to a war-time tempo, in office, shop or home, realize that without spiritual relief the pressure is increasingly hard to bear. Flower gardens offer this relief.

We are now learning that warfare is a business in which experience counts.

AROUND OUR HOUSE

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

The shortage of sugar may be a blessing in disguise if it helps to change the poor eating habits of the American people, says the New York College of Home Economics.

Americans have become used to having sweet foods and beverages. Eating an excess of sweets tends to destroy their appetites for the protective foods they need. Since sugar furnishes only energy to the body, it may prove no hardship to substitute foods that supply energy plus other important nutrients.

The real difficulty is in changing the habits and tastes of family members, which is a challenge to American homemakers. It is their job now to prepare many palatable foods without using sugar or its substitutes.

Presumably the ration will be about one and one-half cups (12 ounces) a person a week. For a family of four, this would be about six cups weekly or almost one cup daily for household use. Even with this amount, planning menus that families will enjoy should not be difficult. Many recipes can lose half their sugar without impairing their flavor.

With fruits and fruit salads as substitutes for sweets, and only an occasional sweet dessert, menus can be pleasing, and homemakers may take satisfaction in thus promoting health in the nation and defense of the country.

The government has assured that there will be sugar for canning, tho the quantity may not be so large as in the past. Reducing the amounts used in canning will not be difficult. Sugar hoarding can no longer be explained on the grounds that it is needed in the diet!

Rich Deposits in Alaska Still, Scientists Think

The word "Klondike" has become synonymous in the public mind with such wealth-descriptive words as Midas and Croesus. No one really knows who discovered the first gold there, and the world first heard about it when the steamer, Excelsior, came into San Francisco harbor with $750,000 in gold in her hold. The city went wild—but forgot all about that when four days later the wooden steamer, Portland, steamed into the same port with a $2,000,000 cargo of gold!

The name "Klondike" derives from the Klondike river, a tributary of the Yukon, which flows through the Yukon territory in central Alaska and northwest Canada. "Klondike" is an Indian word, meaning "a river of fish."

While the Klondike gold lasted, lots in the business district of Dawson City, Alaska, sold for $1,000 per front foot. Lumber was $250 per thousand board feet. Nails were $5 a pound. Despite this spectacular beginning, Dawson City today has a population of less than 1,000—in other words, it is not much more than a large village.

Food was held in high premium in Klondike days. Ham and eggs were $2.50 an order. Black coffee sold at 25 cents a cup; with cream, it was 50 cents. Soup cost "one buck a bowl." Champagne was $20 a pint. A "special" was beans—$1 a plate. The rule at all the eating-houses was "No gold, no grub."

According to popular belief, the gold resources of Alaska have for the most part been exhausted. But a great many scientists believe that rich deposits of copper and other minerals remain to be discovered in the Alaskan interior.

Carves Various Things With Knife Only Tool

Out in Carnation, Wash., living in a transient camp, John Greidy, a one-legged logger, has founded a brand-new school of craftsmanship.

He turns out elaborate lamps, vases and pictures, each of which is composed of from three to five thousand separate pieces of wood which are securely fastened together by means of joints, without the use of either glue or nails.

His only tool is a knife with which he whittles the pieces out of egg boxes, packing cases or anything else that falls to his lot. His products are vari-colored, as he alternates cedar, pine, birch, maple and cedar in such a way to produce a geometrical design.

Greidy confesses that he does not know how he got started at it. He started whittling a puzzle one day, and as he says, "it kept getting bigger and bigger until I saw I ought to be able to make something out of it. And I've been making things ever since, in my spare time."

Devoting all his spare time to the task, Greidy spends from one to three months on each of his products.
