A Man With Backbone. Gov. Durbin has again brought himself into favorable prominence. Not long ago, when the rioting was on in Marion, Indiana, William G. McCleery, the President of the Board of Police Commissioners, neglected and refused to stop the rioting and so anarchy reigned for a short time. Often it has happened that such things are passed over, especially if the offender has a "pull." But Govenor Durbin started an investigation. Result: the Police Commissioner lost his official head, and will be replaced by an official who will not allow personal feelings to interfere with his sense of duty. Such acts are commendable. More men with backbone in state, county and town affairs are needed. Perhaps the citizens would be alarmed did they know the amount of covering up and smoothing over of petty digression of duty, because of pull and favorites. Men with backbone are needed in all offices whether minor or important.

Does Base Ball Advertising Pay? The question was asked the writer not long since, Why doesn't Andover have a ball team to advertise the name and village of Andover? The writer cannot answer only as it appears. The money spent in equipping and maintaining a ball team is money illy spent so far as advertising goes. The people who attend and who are interested in a team from out of their own village are usually not the class who can or do much thinking about the advantages of another village. If the money is spent for the purposes of sport, well and good, but for the purpose of extending and advertising one's village other means can be more advantageously employed. The keen business man for instance thinks that a place where the business men have "money to burn" in sports are not anxious for increased industrial occupants. The fact is base ball as a money making or sport venture may pay, but as an advertising scheme it is useless and expensive.

One Sided Discussion. They have been having a discussion at Chautauqua on the "mob spirit." While there was not a one sided discussion by any means, there appears to be too many of the American citizens only on one side of the question. A Republican government's foundation is respect and reverence for the law. Indeed, "law" is the keystone of the arch. Disrespect for the law is the first attack on the foundations that hold the arch. To recognize or favor "mob spirit" is to foster and encourage disrespect for the law. This is dangerous. It breeds anarchy. Anarchy is of the same stripe and creed whether it be found in the saloon, on the platform, or in high intellectual circles. The majesty of the law must be upheld if free institutions are to be maintained, and great care should be exercised in permitting discussion that would create a following in favor of disrespect of law, making a nursery of anarchy for minds that can be swayed by passive.

The girls are dreaming about silk and silk mills. The mill in operation will soon be a practical reality, and their castle building will give place to silk weaving.

War, War, Rumors of War. The careful student of the Eastern question has again been alarmed at the growing interest and turmoil among the Eastern nations. How long peace can be maintained may be a matter of days instead of weeks. Fanaticism running rampant under rulers upon shaky thrones is apt to spoil all the plans of careful statesmen and the powers of the conceit of Europe. The persecution and murder of the Christians by Mohammedans is creating a stir and justice (if nothing less may demand their protection). The seed sown in the last Armenian massacre (the seeds of indifference) by Christian Europe are bearing fruit. Better speak at the mouth of the cannon, or back up diplomatic statements with a war fleet than allow inoffensive victims to be destroyed by wanton fanatics. Might may not make right, but displays of might help "Sick Man" or Turks sometimes to respect the right. How long Christian nations will put off is a matter of conjecture.

Move Up, Move Up. No longer can Andover be looked upon as an unprogressive village. The last eighteen months have wrought marvelous changes in its appearance. There has been a long step in advance taken. Many of her handsome residences have been freshly painted. Her trees have been trimmed. Walks that are of the best have been laid or relaid. One to take a walk thru her residence portion, noticing the carefully kept lawns, will be impressed with the progressive business like air of appearance, and yet there needs to be no class distinctions. To move up closer should be the aim. Let the older conservatism unite with the young spirit of progress. Move up for the one thing of giving Andover the growth and prosperity due your own village. Move up together and let the people patronage their home merchants. Sending out of town for goods that can be bought of your own retailers is unfair to the merchant. Move up and move all together.

Advertising schemes of all kinds are used in these days of the liberal use of printer's ink, but nothing has proven as profitable or far reaching as advertising in the paper that circulates among the people whom you want to reach. The NEWS does this for you.

Bryan seems to have run up against it in his "bunco-steerer" speech. Even his friends condemn such language. Bryan will degenerate into the reputation of a demagogue if such speeches are continued.

Gen. Miles is talked of as a Democratic nominee for President. The General has retired on a good army record, and our opinion is a successful General is preferable to a defeated candidate.

There are queer revelations in labor organizations these days. Soon men may learn the right of interference with a man's privilege to work may prove to be lawnessness.

The land opposite the depot has a busy appearance these days, and when the buildings are completed it may be called "Factoryville."

Onion Soup.

Onion soup is often liked by people who disdain the savory herb in any other form. There is no doubt of the wholesomeness of the onion, and those who have never tried the soup are recommended to use this celebrated recipe of the elder Dumas: Take, for three pints of soup, four Bermuda onions or eight common white ones, mince them and fry to a golden brown in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Pour in two quarts of water, season with pepper and salt and boil until the onions are quite soft. Beat the yolks of three eggs, mix with the soup and pour the mixture over finger slices of toasted bread. Milk may be used instead of water in this soup.

Cradles Hundreds of Years Ago.

In manuscripts of the ninth and tenth centuries we have pictures of cradles formed of part of a tree trunk dug out, with holes bored through the sides for the passage of straps intended to tie the baby down in his bed. These dugout cradles are still common in modern Greece. When we come to consult the manuscripts and bas-reliefs of the fifteenth century, we notice that the cradles are no longer mere baskets or beds on rockers, but little swinging beds suspended between two pillars, the prototype of the modern bereceionette.

Railroads and Temperance.

The Lake Shore Railroad company some time ago made a rather unusual proposition to the town of Collingwood, O., where the company has machine shops. It proposed to spend $1,000,000 in enlarging the machine shops if the town "went dry" at the next local election, and that the money would be taken elsewhere if the town "went wet."

The reason given for assuming this position involved no judgment on the morality or even on the propriety of drinking, either in moderation or in excess. The railway officials simply stated that indulgence in intoxicants decreases the skill of workmen and prevents getting a desired and possible return for wages paid. That is an argument which cannot be met except by a denial of its truth, and few people will be inclined to deny it.

Most towns like machine shops, and those that have them like to see the shops made bigger and employing more machinists. Collingwood appears to be no exception to this general rule. At all events, the election has been held, and the town "went dry." If the railroad company keeps its part of the bargain, Collingwood will get the $1,000,000 addition to the machine shops, which will obviously advance the prosperity of all its business men except those engaged in the liquor traffic by giving them a lot of new customers and a larger population among whom to share the burden of taxation. There are a good many other towns that would "go dry" under the same conditions.

IT'S THE CONSISTENT

persistent argument that builds business. Garments not nearly right, or about right—but perfection—all the time at every point large or small—on every order, big or little.

We commit ourselves to that statement—and we'll not dodge the responsibility.

New Jersey Child Labor Law.

The enforcement of the child labor law in New Jersey, while not as drastic and thoroughgoing a measure as the opponents of this evil would like to see enforced in all the states, will doubtless have salutary results. It provides punishments ranging from a fine of $300 to a year in prison for those who willfully employ children under fourteen years of age. It would have been better if the qualifying word "willfully" had been left out, as unscrupulous employers will be able, by the exercise of a little skill, to make it difficult to prove that they "willfully" violated the law.

The most strenuous opponents to the enforcement of the law are the glass makers in the southern part of the state, who declare their business will be ruined by the change and that they will fight the law in court and out. This threat is rather mysterious, and it will be interesting to see what shape the fighting takes.

If it is impossible to make glass in New Jersey without the employment of children under fourteen years of age the business ought to close. There are many more important things than the manufacture of glass in New Jersey, and among them is the protection of the state from the evil consequences that inevitably follow the industrial utilization of young children—consequences that by no means fall entirely upon the children themselves, though it would be bad enough if they did, but spread through every rank.

But of course the talk about the necessity for using children in this or any other trade is absurd. To do it is economically as well as morally indefensible. There are immediate profits to be derived from it, but they are drafts on the future that must be paid, with frightful charges in addition. Governor Murphy presents the facts exactly when he says: "The complaint of the glass men that they cannot make business pay without child labor seems incredible, but if it is true it will not change the enforcement of this necessary law. The wrong of such employment is too grievous to be palliated upon any considerations."

In the maintenance of this position Governor Murphy should and doubtless will receive the warm support of all decent and enlightened people.

Extending Health Food Methods.

The extent to which the public has taken to the eating of cereals since they were put up in sealed packages, given euphonious names and advertised abundantly has induced the manufacturers of other lines of food to think of adopting similar methods.

It is now announced that strup manufacturers are to follow in the steps of the makers of breakfast food. So far as possible, of course, the public is to be persuaded that sirup is the natural condiment to eat on all the dishes of breakfast, dinner and supper, that it adds a delightful tang to Welsh rabbit and is just the sauce to pour over boiled beef. This is merely in harmony with the health food men, who assert that their product is "as much a supper as a breakfast dish, an excellent substitute for dessert and delicious before retiring." The invention of names is an art now brought close to perfection. "Buyacanasirup" is one which a newspaper writer has suggested. But for its associations "glucose" itself would be an uncommonly euphonious name. Of course humorous advertisements must convince the people who now eat sirup once a day that to use it three times in twenty-four hours will give them additional health and strength. We can already imagine little verses about the gloomy and misanthropic character who found a can of the prized compound which

He poured o'er all he had to eat,
And now his disposition's sweet.

Suppose, now, that the sirup campaign is as successful as that of the cereals. Will the same methods be extended to all kinds of food? Will beef and mutton, pork and sausage, be offered to us with lime light accompaniments under new and savory names? And, per contra, will the viands left unadulterated and sold by their dictionary names fall gradually into disuse? However this may be, the popularity of the cereal foods illustrates the marvelous power of advertising.

FIVE "OLD GIRLS"

Entertained at a Dinner Party Last Week.

Mrs. E. Z. Cook had the pleasure of entertaining a select party of ladies last week. There were six in the party, one 83 years old, two 80 years years of age, one 75 and one 76. One of those 80 years old walked a mile in order to pass the afternoon with the party. The NEWS refrains from giving the ladies' names, as it might interfere with their matrimonial plans, as they were all widows.

INSTALLING THE MACHINERY

Business at the Rochambeau Silk Mill Begins to Take Proper Shape.

Some little delay has been caused in the work of installing the machinery to the silk factory, owing to those little annoying hindrances usual at such times, but everything seems to be shaping themselves properly now. The gas engine and dynamo, after being nearly two weeks on the road between Andover and Brooklyn, arrived Wednesday morning. It is scarcely possible that the mill will be running by the first of September, but very probable that before the fifteenth of September it will be in full swing. The winder and warper are all set ready for work, and the loom manufacturer has a man here to-day looking after his part of the work.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Miss Nancy Lawrence Dropped Dead at Her Home in Almond Yesterday.

(From the Almond Gleaner.)

While going from the barn to the house yesterday during the severe storm which swept this section, Miss Nancy Lawrence was suddenly struck down. The physicians pronounced her death due to an attack of apoplexy, brought on, perhaps, from sudden fright. Miss Lawrence resided with her father, William Lawrence, and a maiden sister on a farm on North Almond Hill, and was about 47 years of age. She has always enjoyed the best of health and her sudden death came as a great shock to the community, where she was held in the highest esteem. The funeral was held at 1:30, Thursday, from the late home.

Woman Beat Two Men.

We suspect you'd like the tale, how a woman beat two hardware dealers in Girard, Pa.

Devoe salesman tried his best to get those men to sell Devoe lead-and-zinc in that bright town; and failed. Reluctantly took Mrs. E. R. Bowman, druggist.

They said they couldn't sell paint for more than $1.25 a gallon. Mrs. Bowman can. She has sold about all the paint that has been sold there since.

She knew Devoe; had sold his artist's materials. Had some sense and force, besides; she easily learned that cheap is dear in paint, and told the people.

Mr. Burt Young bought a gallon Devoe for rooms that had always taken a gallon of other paint; had half left.

Mr. John Hanna, grocer, thought it expensive before he bought it; brought back nearly half of his paint, and said it was the cheapest job he ever had.

Mrs. Bowman reports universal satisfaction. So much for a cheap-paint town with a bright woman in it.

The Baracas, the class for men, has continued its high average attendance for the summer. A class for "men," and all men not attending elsewhere are invited.

The sympathy of all our people in union with other people is extended to the sister church, the M. E., because of the sudden illness of the pastor. Sympathy and our prayers are for the brother and his family as well.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
