SCHAUL & ROOSA.

TWO GREAT NAMES

Were linked together when the Stein-Bloch Co. linked theirs to that of Friedman's Cravenette Rain proof fabrics. The

is undoubtedly the most perfect rain proof garment that has ever been produced. They have taken a fabric of merit and have put it thru a treatment that it is impossible for any other tailors to do. You must not forget that the "Cravenette" fabric is rain-proof that the moment it is cut up and sewn together in a garment, unless the Sewing and General Tailoring is properly Done it will leak at the seams. And, another thing, if Cravenette cloth isn't properly tailored, it will never do the double service of a top coat as well as a rain coat that the makers of the fabric intended it for. Therefore we recommend to men who wish to have the best and most reliable rain-proof overcoat that we know of.

"Stein Bloch Cravenette" coats $15 to $25. Cravenette Rain coats $8 to $12

BOYS' SCHOOL SUITS.

We have never seen more appropriate fabrics than we are offering in "School Suits," this season. A guarantee with every suit sold. Boys' School Suits, $2.50 to $4.00

The Way to Succeed.

Nowadays we read in the public prints much academic advice to young men on the way to succeed, all of which is no doubt good and helpful. The career of Oren Root, Jr., aged twenty-nine, who has just been appointed to the highly responsible position of general manager of the great Metropolitan street railway system of New York, however, furnishes an illuminating and concrete lesson on the subject. He was graduated from Hamilton college in 1894. After his graduation he made up his mind that the street railway business was to his taste, and he began at the bottom of the ladder. He got a job as a general workman, a gripman, a motorman, a conductor, a starter, an inspector, an assistant to the general manager, and now he is general manager of probably the largest urban and interurban railway system in the world. It is asserted that he won his way without outside help and purely by untiring industry and fidelity to all the duties that were assigned to him.

If more college bred young men would abjure the overcrowded professions and adapt themselves to industrial occupations, being content to begin at the bottom and strive to get to the top by dint of hard and conscientious work, as did young Root, we would hear less of the failures of college graduates.

The Disyllabic Scot.

The difficulty of rhyming to "girl" is mainly due to the varieties of its pronunciation. It is never pronounced, as it is so often conventionally written, "gall," but one often hears "gell," with a hard "g." Moreover, in Scotland, though it is as well not to mention the fact to a Scotsman, it consists of two syllables—"gurrel." The other day it was pointed out to a Scotsman that the name of his national poet was a disyllable in Ayrshire. "Hoot awa!" he said, or words to that effect. "Burruns two syllables! Absurrud!"—London Chronicle.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease; and neither doctors nor medicine gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies, "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of stomach and bowel complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by O. E. Vars & Son, Druggists.

A number from this place attended the fair at Hornellsville last week.

Mrs. George Hurst visited Mr. and Mrs. John Dunigan at Jasper Tuesday.

Mrs. Catherine Grumley, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Ann Hyland, returned to her home at Wellsville Tuesday.

William Hasley visited John Dunigan and family at Jasper the first of the week.

One difference between yacht racing and horse racing was very noticeable recently. The day was stormy and leaky, and the going on land and on sea was difficult. The yacht race scheduled for that day was postponed. The Futurity, run by young horses, came off as advertised, not a horseman even hinting at postponement, though the mud on the track was six inches deep and the rain was pelting. A stable boy at Sheepshead Bay expressed himself in this way: "Them yachting fellers ain't sports. Guess next time they'll do their stunts in a tent."

An eminent physician says the cool wave that has been felt in many parts of the country is a blessing in disguise. "It promotes physical vigor and arouses torpid energies," he declares. That's right. Most of us have felt vigorous enough to walk up seven flights of stairs and thrash the weather forecaster.

Racing at State Fair.

Syracuse, Sept. 9.—Dariel equalled the world's pacing record for mares in the first heat of the 2:05 pace at the state fair race meeting here yesterday afternoon. Scott Hudson with Nervolo took the last three heats and the race. Hudson also won with Guy Fortune in the 2:24 trot. Prince of Orange had little trouble defeating a small field in the 2:09 class. Major Delmar will go against Cresceus' record here today.

"Isn't safe to be a day without Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the house. Never can tell what moment an accident is going to happen.

Owes His Life to a Neighbor's Kindness.

Mr. D. P. Daugherty, well known throughout Mercer and Sumner counties, Pa., most likely owes his life to the kindness of a neighbor. He was almost hopelessly afflicted with diarrhoea, was attended by two physicians who gave him little, if any, relief, when a neighbor learning of his serious condition, brought him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured him in less than twenty four hours. For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.

Regarded In Different Ways.

That one can obtain more favors by "jollying" than by being brusque is just as true as "one can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar." Two young men have lived in a boarding house in West Twenty-third street for some time, and one has the reputation of being a "roller," while the other is quick spoken and of a bearish disposition. The young men are friends and usually breakfast together. Their respective standings in the estimation of the dining room staff may be judged from the way in which that damsel shouted their order—both had requested steaks—down the dumb waiter shaft recently:

"A nice beefsteak, a trifle rare, for Mr. Wood; some meat for Baldwin."—New York Tribune.

A Curious Custom.

In some parts of Brittany a curious marriage custom prevails. On certain fete days the marriageable girls appear in red petticoats, with white or yellow borders round them. The number of borders denote the portion the father is willing to give his daughter. Each white band denotes $20 per annum; each yellow band represents $200 a year.

No. 9.

People used to say:

"Oh, I never pay any attention to advertisements; they never tell the truth."

Now it's different; people do read advertisements and they believe them. Advertisers are becoming more careful and more scrupulously truthful every day.

I know a firm of advertising agents who also own a medicated soap. I said: "Is it really such a wonderful thing, and do you take the care you say you do in making it?"

The answer was:

"Of course it is a good thing. We have seen too much of advertising to be fools enough to spend money pushing a peor article."

Most all advertisers understand this nowadays, and that is why advertising pays better than it used to.

The best place to put an advertisement is in the paper that enjoys the confidence of the community. I believe that the standing of the paper reflects on the advertisements it carries. There is another thought which never occurred to me, but which was conveyed in a remark recently made to me by Mr. M. M. Gillam, the advertising manager at Wanamaker's. He said:

"A sleepy paper gathers a sleepy constituency. An alert, wideawake, progressive sheet gets readers who like that sort of thing—or lifts them to its level."

Wideawake people are the ones most influenced by advertising—progressive people who are not afraid of a new thing or a new idea; people who believe in the paper they read because they have learned to rely on it.

Depend upon this. If the editorials carry weight, the ads. will pay. Put your trust and your money in that sort of a paper.

Occasionally an advertisement will fall flat. That's the wise man looks for the reason. He doesn't say blindly: "Advertising doesn't pay." He looks at the condition of general trade, at the weather, at the goods and the price and the way the ad. was worded.

This is certain: A readable ad. in a readable paper will be read. Probably not by all of the readers of the paper, but by a sufficient number to make the ad. pay, if the goods are right. No doubt about it whatever. It's as sure as sunshine. A cloudy day comes sometimes, but it doesn't stay long.

Turkish Atrocities in Vilayet of Monastir.

50,000 HEAD BEEN MASSACRED.

At Burning of a Village Turks Said to Have Thrown Some of the Inhabitants into the Fire—Thousands of Exiles Hiding in the Mountains and Forests.

Sofia, Sept. 9.—Private letters received here from European residents at Monastir give details of the situation in that vilayet. Destitute Bulgarian refugees arriving daily at Monastir relate tales of Turkish cruelty. Sixty families recently arrived there from Smilevo, which was totally destroyed.

The refugees saw a husband and wife sitting in the ruins of their home, when a Turkish soldier slashed off the man's head and threw it in the woman's lap. The soldiers found a servant girl and several children hiding in a ditch. They outraged the girl and slaughtered all the children.

Numerous Bulgarian prisoners have been brought to Monastir. They were mostly unarmed peasants who had not been connected with the insurrection. Twenty Bulgarians who had been exiled were marched off in heavy chains.

The Macedonian interior organization estimated that 150,000 women, children and old men are hiding in the mountains and forests of Macedonia. The Turks are burning the forests in the districts of Loren and Kostur and killing fugitives who attempt to escape to the plains.

The Vlach village of Gopesh, three hours distant from Monastir, has been burned by the Turks, who are reported to have thrown several of the inhabitants into the fire. The Bashi-Bazouks have destroyed the village of Stollovo near Malkoternovo.

Thirteen thousand Turkish soldiers are assembled on the frontier at Palanka, Kratovo and Gotschanf and are plundering the surrounding villages. The population has not complained, fearing that it may be murdered.

The general staff of the insurgents has issued a circular ordering the bands not to molest the peaceful Turkish and Albanian villages. The order concludes: "There will always be plenty of time to take such measures."

Famine prevails in the district of Krushevo and the population is going into the adjacent districts.

All reports from the vilayet of Monastir agree in describing the situation as appalling. Between 30,000 and 50,000 Bulgarian inhabitants are believed to have been massacred by the Turks and every Bulgarian village in the vilayet has been destroyed. The refugees in the mountains and forests are dying of starvation by thousands.

At present it is impossible to give precise figures. The revolutionary headquarters estimate that 30,000 Bulgarian men, women and children have been killed, while at least the same number of refugees are slowly perishing of hunger. In official circles these figures are regarded as an underestimate and officials incline to the belief that the number of the massacred exceeds 50,000.

The Turks are apparently determined to exterminate the entire Bulgarian population of the vilayet. The actual details of the happenings outside the town are not available. The foreign representatives at Monastir are dependent on information furnished to them from Turkish official sources.

From government circles here the situation is viewed with increasing alarm. It is reliably reported that the Turkish forces in Macedonia number 300,000. It is considered impossible that such a force has been assembled merely to crush the rebellion. It is feared that the sultan is meditating an attack on Bulgaria.

According to a telegram from Constantinople the porte has issued an unconditional order that all European correspondents must leave Macedonia because they are circulating false news. The ambassadors have been notified of this decision.

The latest reports regarding Boris Sarafoff, the Macedonian leader, say he was wounded in the leg near Dairne.

COERCION OF BULGARIA.

Austria and Russia Ask the Powers to Unite With That Purpose.

London, Sept. 9.—Everything seems to point to new and terrible developments in Macedonia. On top of the appalling accounts of the results of the Turkish methods of "restoring order" in the vilayet of Monastir comes the threat by the insurgents to resort to reprisals on the same scale. The porte's anxiety to suppress news by expelling newspaper correspondents from the area of the operations is held to have but one meaning.

This morning's papers comment upon the significance of the news that Russia and Austria are seeking to persuade the powers to coerce Bulgaria as showing a belief that war is inevitable.

No further news regarding the outbreak at Beirut has been received here. A dispatch to the Standard from Constantinople dated Sunday says:

"The Turks are much disturbed by the presence of the American warships at Beirut and are making every effort to have them recalled. In spite of all assertions that the United States only intends them to be there for the simple protection of the rights of her citizens, it is quite possible that the dispatch of the warships may initiate action leading much further.

The same correspondent, telegraphing under Monday's date on receipt of the news of the Beirut outbreak says: "With the slightest encouragement disorders might result in the whole of the Lebanon rising in revolt. Today had been foretold as the date of a rising against the foreigners and many residents of Constantinople are keeping to their houses. Personally I doubt whether there will be anything more than dynamite outrages which are pretty sure to be attempted before long."

ATTACK ON MAGELSSEN.

Egyptian Newspaper Gives Details of the Occurrence.

Berlin, Sept. 9.—The Egyptian Gazette, published at Alexandria, has published details regarding the recent attack on United States Vice Consul Magelasen. It says Mr. Magelasen was riding home in a hired carriage in the evening when on passing a street near the Ras Beirut (a headland about three miles from Beirut, on which stand the buildings of the American mission) he heard sounds of pistol firing. He turned around to see whence the shots came and a bullet whizzed past his face.

The vice consul at once had the carriage stopped and jumped out to discover his assailant, but could see no one. The following day he went to the government office, where he met the Italian consul and the Austrian consul, who had come to complain about burglaries in their houses. The governor ordered an investigation of the attack on Mr. Magelasen, but the only result was the arrest of a young Christian who had attended a marriage on the previous night and in whose possession was found a toy pistol.

The American vice consul indignantly refused to accept the arrest of this man and decided to visit his brother-in-law, the American consul general, who was staying in the mountains to the north of Beirut.

The Egyptian Gazette mentions that three months before Mr. Magelasen was attacked by men in Turkish uniforms but whom by his strength he put to flight. It adds that there is little public safety in Beirut and that it is very dangerous for Europeans to appear on the streets at night. Murder and pillage are daily occurrences and many families have therefore moved to Egypt.

RIOT AT BEIRUT.

No New Instructions Have Been Issued to Admiral Cotton.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Cablegrams were received at the state and navy departments from Minister Leishman at Constantinople and Admiral Cotton, commanding the American squadron now in Turkish waters, respectively, giving an account of the riot which occurred at Beirut Sunday.

It was stated at the navy department that no new instructions had gone to Admiral Cotton in consequence of the reports. Instructions sent to Minister Leishman contemplate that he keep the state department constantly informed as to the situation, that the department may know to what extent protection is being afforded American citizens. The president was advised of the facts reported to Washington.

Thirty Christians Killed.

Berlin, Sept. 9.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Constantinople say 30 Christians, among them being several Europeans, were killed during the rioting at Beirut.

Later in the day the foreign office received a dispatch from Constantinople announcing that ten persons were killed during the disorders at about the time the United States warships arrived there, but the foreign office here finds no connection between the two events. Among the killed was an American, whether he was a native of the United States or naturalized citizen of that country does not appear.

German Regulation of Saloons.

Berlin, Sept. 9. — The government will introduce in the next reichstag a bill designed to promote temperance. Among the provisions saloon-keepers are required to sell non-intoxicants, such as lemonade, milk, coffee and tea, and cold foods, credit is forbidden, thus abolishing the system extensively used in the country districts and among students, and the number of barmaids is limited.

Critical Situation in China.

Paris, Sept. 9.—A dispatch from Marseilles to LaPresse asserts that government has requisitioned all the steamers on the far eastern service of the Messageries Maratimes and Chargeurs Reunis companies for the conveyance of a large number of troops of all arms and a quantity of supplies. The dispatch says that this step confirms the report that a critical situation prevails in China.

Sir Thomas Lipton at State Fair.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Sir Thomas Lipton has wired the state fair managers that he will come with his guests, the Earl and Countess of Shaftesbury, to the fair on Friday. There is a good attendance at the exposition.

Football Revolutionized.

The football season is now knocking at the sportsman's door, and soon throughout the length and breadth of the land the gridiron heroes will be hopping about with all their old time activity. Long hair and lame knees will once more become the fashion, and fond mothers will tremble as they read the accounts of battles in which their young hopefuls engage.

Spectators and players alike will find many changes in football this year, and, in fact, the game practically has been revolutionized by the changes put into effect by the rules committee. The tendency has been to abolish mass plays so far as possible without emasculating the pastime to any appreciable extent, and the governing body has succeeded is admitted by all persons that have made a study of the new regulations.

The alterations have been brought about as the result of the wide agitation of public and press concerning the wholesale injuries, many of them fatal, received by the players in different states. College professors took a lively interest in the discussion, and finally changes in the mode of playing the great game were deemed not only expedient, but even necessary.

The rule especially designed to do away with the mass plays—plays in which almost the whole team of eleven men would merge themselves into a compact body and charge their opponents with their combined force, thus oftentimes breaking arms and legs and straining backs—is the one requiring that seven men must remain on the rush line of an attacking team until the ball is carried to within twenty-five yards of their rivals' goal line. After this mark is passed two of these men may be drawn back of the rush line to form a mass play similar to that in vogue in years past. This limitation of mass plays to certain prescribed territory will naturally decrease the number of serious injuries.

Football will now be a more open game than for several years past, and as a result the uninitiated will find more amusement in attending contests. Formerly the majority of plays were so involved as to confuse those unfamiliar with the intricacies of the game.

Of course many objections have been raised relative to the new rules, but they are confined to the coaches and some of the players who are not inclined to favor any measures which make necessary the "unlearning" of principles they have spent years in mastering. However, their protests have counted for naught, and the public and players in general welcome the innovations. There seems to be no doubt that the pastime will be conducted on broader, more popular and safer lines than has ever before been the case, and certain college presidents who formerly objected to football have been in many instances brought into the ranks of its supporters. The game has been given new impetus and has been put on a more satisfactory basis.

Andrew Carnegie made his money in the United States and is giving a good deal of it away here. But his summer home is in Scotland, and he affects to have a great admiration for the British character, as he doubtless has, being a son of Britain himself. But he does get himself woefully tangled sometimes in his efforts to explain to his neighbors on the other side of the water that they are the greatest people in the world without admitting that they are the equals of Americans. Similarly he has recently endeavored to explain to them why England is destined to be the world's greatest steel producing country, when everybody knows that in that industry, at least, she is at the beginning of her decadence and that Andrew Carnegie more than any man living put her there. But Carnegie has a theory that it is better to be pleasant sometimes than to be strictly accurate, and he is perhaps merely endeavoring to live up to this rule of life in his talks with the inhabitants of the "right little, tight little island."

Uncle Sam will have a few of his war ships in Turkish waters, notwithstanding the fact that the report of the assassination of the United States vice consul at Beirut proves to have been false. As the state department received warning that attempts have been made to burn the buildings of the American missions at Karput and that the lives of Americans generally are in danger, the energetic action of this government is not to be wondered at.

Just as lovely woman is winning her way rapidly in all walks of life a hard, unfeeling and ungallant railroad company decides to dispense with her services altogether, even to the extent of employing male stenographers. Every married man will now find it expedient to agree with his wife that corporations have no souls.

This is the time of year when the man who takes a week off to rest realizes the truth of the saying that the man who most needs a vacation is the man who has just had one.

Although Sir Thomas did not teach us anything new in seamanship or yacht building, he gave us a lesson on how to take defeat cheerfully.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.
