SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for April 19, 1942.

Golden Text: "He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.' — Luke 11:23.

Lesson Text: Luke 11:15-54; 13: 31:35.

A virtue greatly needed in this modern age is sincerity. Simple candor and straight dealing in our commercial, political, social and religious life. Hyprocisy and falsehood are always the masks for the evil and imperfect. Truth can harm no honest cause and every deviation therefrom or concealment there of has its motive in wrong being accomplished thereby.

Particularly in the religious sphere of action we should condemn cant and hypocrisy. We should eternally and courageously seek the truth, which can and will make men free —of superstition, of bigotry, of evil. Every man has the right to demand of his neighbor, not agreement with his own principles and ideals, but, honesty and sincerity in presenting and exhibiting what ever of opinion and judgment that has come to him.

The conduct of Jesus and his disciples was often the subject of carping criticism from the pharisees and scribes. The Sabbath was not observed properly, their personal associates were not fit, and, in today's lesson, he was denounced for eating with unwashed hands. This did not imply that his hands were physically dirty or filthy, but that the ceremonial requirements of washing had not been observed.

The "tradition of the elders" referred to that body of the law, handed down verbally and by progressive interpretation and elaboration, which had grown so comprehensive and burdensome and which had been so exalted that the keeping of its letter and technicalities was considered of more moment than genuine and simple religious worship and a life in harmony with the principles of righteousness.

The critics of Jesus and his disciples seeking to discredit him with the crowd, then as always, very conservative and intolerant of religious advance from any accepted existing standard, accused them of violating the traditional Jewish religious rites as established by the ancient authorities and upheld by the ecclesiastical leaders of the day in the Sanhedrin and the synagogues.

The defense of Jesus was by way of counter-attack. He replied by charging that these same critics violated the law of God, not that of the elders, and proved the accusation by exposing the hypocritical casuistry whereby many Jews escape the divine laws regarding their duty to parents (Exodus 20:12 and 21: 17) by falsely pretending that their wealth had been pledged to the church, thus "making void the word of God by your tradition," which allowed such equivocation to satisfy the requirement of the law.

In a simple, unanswerable presentation, Jesus showed the vital distinction between the pharasaical insistence on unnecessary ceremonial ritual and his own teaching about righteousness. How foolish it was to believe that any man could be rendered unclean and sinful by merely associating with or having incidentally brushed the idea that the eating of food not killed and cleaned in certain prescribed and mechanical method could make a man wicked.

Religion was not, Jesus declared, nor is it now, a matter of observing such rules and regulations, but a mode of living. The evil in the lives of men came not from without but from unclean and impure hearts "for not from without, but out of the heart of men proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, coveteousness, deceit, wickedness, lasciviousness and evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness—all these things come from within and defile the man."

In our day these words have a potent application. True religion and genuine worship does not consist in formal beliefs, traditional creeds, ecclesiastical forms, intellectual patronage of the moral and philosophical truth of Christianity or any superficial and hypocritical conformance to the popular, accepted notions about these things, but in the full, free, honest and everyday life in accordance with the fundamental requirements of love, justice, purity, honesty, mercy and service.

The Christian should uphold and support the church only as a means to righteous living, not as receiving and independent virtue in forms and customs in themselves.

Fourth Registration To Be Held This Week-end

Local Registration To Be Held in Village Hall, Sat., Sun. Afternoons and All Day Monday.

With local boards thruout the State reporting all in readiness for the registration on April 25, 26 and 27 of men between the ages of 45 and 64 years, inclusive, Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, State Director of Selective Service, points out that there are only three main requirements for this registration, which he summarized as follows:

(1) Every male citizen and every male alien residing in New York State, other than persons exempted by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, who had attained the 45th anniversary of the day of his birth on or before February 16, 1942, and has not attained the 65th anniversary of the day of his birth on or before April 27, 1942, is required to present himself for and submit to registration on April 27, 1942.

(2) Registration should be made at a designated registration place of the local board area in which the registrant has his permanent home, or in which he may happen to be between the hours of 1 and 6 p. m. on April 25 and 26 or between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on April 27. This registration place may be the office of the local board having jurisdiction in the area, or other public place properly designated by that local board. In Andover it will be the village hall.

(3) Registrants must answer all questions asked by the registrar for notation on the registration card, which consists of only nine simple questions, relative to his age, date of birth, place of birth, place of employment, address, etc.

Anyone who is unavoidably away from his home on April 25, 26 or 27 may register at the registration place most convenient on those days but all registrants are urged to make every effort to register with their own local boards to avoid possible confusion in the future. Any person who must register away from home also is warned to carefully specify his home address so that his registration card may be forwarded promptly to his own local board.

Special registrars also will be provided to register men who cannot appear at a designated registration place because of illness or other incapacity, the Director stated, but it is incumbent upon these men to advise a registrar in their local board area of their inability to appear at a registration place.

A registrant who has more than one place of residence may choose which one he wants recorded as his place of residence, but not transient address may be recorded and a registrant who lives on an RFD route which goes thru two States is required to indicate the location of his address, rather than his mailing address.

After the registrant has answered all questions and signed his name to the registration card, he will be given a registration certificate signed by the registrar. This certificate must be in the personal possession of the registrant at all times. Failure to possess this certificate, or to show it to authorized persons constitutes a violation of Selective Service Regulations and is considered prima facie evidence of failure to register.

General Brown pointed out that those who register at the Fourth Registration are not liable for military service under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, but they will be required later to fill out an occupational questionnaire concerning their civilian qualifications and skills.

Wm. Woodruff Weds Miss Madeline Short At Addison

Miss Madeline Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Short of Addison and William Vincent Woodruff, son of Mrs. William M. Woodruff of Andover, were united in marriage at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, April 18, by the Rev. Frederick House at the Addison Methodist church.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Burdick of Corning with Lester Regan and Howard Gath of Andover, ushers.

Miss Betty Tepper of Addison played an organ prelude and wedding marches from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length princess gown of white ninon with sweetheart neckline, silver slippers, and a barette of white sweet peas.

She carried a bouquet of white roses tied with white satin streamers knotted in sweet peas.

Mrs. Burdick, matron of honor, chose a pale pink gown of organdie and carried matching pink roses.

Mrs. Short, mother of the bride, wore an orchid crepe gown with black accessories and carried a corsage of purple iris.

Mrs. Woodruff, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue afternoon gown with rose accessories and carried a corsage of gardenias.

Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was very attractively decorated with a four-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom as the centerpiece.

Mrs. Woodruff is a graduate of Alfred University and Geneseo Normal and is a member of the faculty of the Jasper High School.

Mr. Woodruff, also a graduate of Alfred, is a popular young Andover man and head of the Woodruff Cheese Co. of this place.

March Milk Return Record For New York Market Pool

Uniform Price of $2.43 A Gain of 24.6 Per Cent. Milk Increases 9.1 Per Cent in Volume.

An all time high record in the value of the New York metropolitan milk pool was set when N. J. Cladakis, administrator of the metropolitan milk marketing area, announced that dairy farmers in the six states of the milkshed will share $14,186,880.49 as the farm value of the milk they poured into the pool in March.

The record-setting pool was determined when the market administrator reported that the uniform price of March milk is $2.43 a hundredweight.

"The uniform rate of $2.43," Mr. Cladakis commented, "is the chief factor in yielding the richest pool so far shared under the terms of the New York federal-state marketing orders. While the rate of 13 cents under the February price, it is 48 cents higher than the uniform price of $1.95 for March 1941.

An increase of 9.1 per cent in the volume of March milk as compared with a year ago was a secondary but important asset in producing the most valuable pool. The pool contained 558,508,207 pounds of milk in comparison with 512,018,433 pounds a year ago.

The yield of the March 1942 pool, moreover, is the largest on record for any month since the orders became effective in the New York market September 1, 1938.

Victory Book Campaign

President Roosevelt designated April 17th as Victory Book Day, which marked the beginning of the Victory Book Campaign to collect more books for men in Army camps. This national effort should certainly send the totals of books collected satisfactorily skyward.

John M. Connor, director of the Victory Book Campaign of New York State says: "The campaign has been generally successful in terms of the size of the army and navy for which we began our collection of books and to which the people of the United States have contributed so generously. If we all, however, are to serve our rapidly expanding military forces, we will have to continue collecting and giving until the last gun has been fired, until the last vestige of Fascist aggression has been wiped out and until the last disturbing element of peace to the world has been eliminated.

This means that the Andover Free Library is the ultimate book collection center in this community and the librarian, Mrs. Erwin D. Baker is at the head of the community effort.

Your co-operation is deeply appreciated and anyone having books may leave them at the library Monday, Wednesday or Saturday evenings.
