Let's Reduce the Detention List!

Doesn't it seem a crime, more or less, that there should be a long detention list at the close of every five week's marking period? Indeed, it is a crime.

It might be excusable for a pupil to remain on the detention list for "one" five weeks' period, but when this same state continues, there is no pardon.

With a little more studying and less idling in study halls and classrooms, the list could be easily minimized.

Come on, then, "detentioners,"—get your names off the red!

Instead of your names appearing on the detention list, let's see them on the honor list! PEL

Meet the Chickens

We opened the door and a peculiar smell reached our nostrils. Upon descending the stairs, a chirping noise, punctuated now and then by a distorted cock-a-doodle-doo came to our ears.

Upon going thru the door, we beheld approximately 300 chickens of various sizes and colors in two brooders. Broilers, weighing from 1½ to 2 pounds each occupied the first cages and tiny chickens pecked happily in the brooder. These were for the most part, White Leghorns, and New Hampshire Reds.

According to Mr. Fribolin, approximately 300 have been sold already and a good price has been received for them.

The FFA boys plan to use the money received from the sale of the chickens to help finance their projects. JB

Soap Carvings Are Displayed

Mrs. McKibben's seventh and eighth grade art classes have completed some excellent soap carvings which are being displayed in the show case.

These include a beaver, a horse, a dog, a Mexican figure and others, each carved from soap. First, the patterns were traced, then carved with knives. The boys hope to do wood carvings next. PEP

CHIT-CHAT

What's this we hear about a certain Senior girl's boy friend buying tractor?

Where were Paul R. and George K. coming from at such a late hour Sunday night?

"Chick" Gath's ride to Wellsville was suddenly cancelled. Too bad, Chick.

Lockets are getting to be quite THE thing. They make nice gifts, boys.

Certain animals are ringed to hold them in check. Now what are all your rings for Patricia?

A certain few couples enjoyed "open house" at Paul Kilbane's Monday night. More fun, eh?

Play practices created lots of fun during the entire workout.

Miles G. has broken all records by attending school an entire week, missing only two half days last week.

"Picks" and Paul are back at it again. How long will it last this time?

Why must the Senior boys get dates for the Prom from Wellsville? Aren't Andover girls good enough for you boys?

Bicycling at night is proving to be quite a sport, isn't it, Marion and Chuck?

Which is it going to be, Arretta D, Ken C or John R?

Do you want to see a walking "window display"? Then take a look at Barb C.

Hats off to Anna Hardy for achieving the highest first-aid exam mark.

Dr. Harry Rockwell Commencement Speaker

President Buffalo State Teachers College to Speak to Graduates June 23rd

Dr. Harry W. Rockwell, president of Buffalo State Teachers' College, will be the guest speaker at the annual high school commencement exercises to be held the evening of June 23, 1942.

Dr. Rockwell is well known among New York State school personnel as an able speaker. He gave the opening address last fall at the tri-county teachers' conference held in Wellsville.

The date of Tuesday, June 23, was set for commencement by the Board of Education, since Dr. Rockwell was not available on the usual Wednesday date, and since it was felt advisable this year to release seniors for summer employment as soon as possible.

"May"

This is the month of May
The apple trees will blossom
And the flowers are as bright as day
I love to play under the apple tree
And watch the honey bee.
They are so busy, I think it is funny
The way they make their honey
And the beautiful birds come singing around
As I sit there on the ground.
The grass is a beautiful green
As I look around upon the hill
It all is a beautiful scene.

Blissful Ignorance

His uncle was giving him a lecture.

"You modern boys want too much," he said. "Do you know what I was getting when I married your aunt?"

"No," replied the nephew, "and I'll bet you didn't either."

Ask the Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association, The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University will answer each week, in the Andover News, those questions considered most interesting and timely.

Question 1.—What causes the unpredictable ebb and flow of maple sap? I get a good flow of sap for say a day, then it slows up or stops entirely and it is not always because it freezes up. Old timers say that a Southeast wind stops flow and a Northwest wind starts it.

Answer.—Warm weather causes the sap to flow but exactly how and why it flows is still not definitely understood. There are theories of capillary action and others, but scientists are still unable to give a complete answer to all of these phenomena. Cold weather will stop the flow of sap. Warm days will increase it. The direction of the wind has nothing to do with it except that south winds may be warm and north winds may be cold.—Prof. Nelson Brown, forester.

Question 2.—Is there any scientific reason why sandbags are used for protective purposes in war time?

Answer—Yes, there is a very good reason for using sand for barricades. No other material that is readily available affords such a high degree of protection from missles. When the bullet enters dry sand, its energy is dissipated as work in imparting motion to thousands of sand grains over a considerable radius. When wood is penetrated, only those fibers lying directly in the path of the missle are disturbed.

Every bicycle rider knows the futility of running at high speed into dry sand. Even a motorist knows that it is folly to attempt to run at high speed thru sand as the progress of his vehicle is checked immediately and may become unmanageable. The same principle applies in a more pronounced way to bullets.—Prof. Henry R. Jones.

Question 3.—Why can't we grow rubber trees in the United States?

Answer.—A basic biological principle is that all forms of life, both animal and plant, are adapted to their natural environments and usually have a rather limited capacity to tolerate marked changes in their surroundings. Now practically all the rubber of commerce is produced by a large forest tree known as Hevea Braziliensis.

This tree happens to be a native of the valley of the Amazon where the climate is exceedingly hot, humid and uniform. The temperature never goes much below 80 degrees, with a rainfall of 80 to 100 inches. No part of the United States has a climate sufficiently like this to permit the growth of this tree. It can grow only in certain sections of the tropics.

Actually, however, there are a great number of trees and shrubs which produce small amounts of rubber and grow in the United States and Canada. But their yield is, with one exception, of no commercial value. This exception is a woody shrub called the Guayule. It grows on the arid waste lands of our Southwest and in Mexico. A limited use of rubber from this source is being made at present. Perhaps it will be of great importance in the future. At present it supplies a very small part of our rubber needs.—Prof. Jones.

Question 4.—One experiment popular with chemistry classes shows that water will not conduct electricity unless acid has been added to it. Then, how is it that it is so dangerous to touch electrical fixtures when one is standing in the bathtub?

Answer.—No water is absolutely a non-conductor. Even the purest water will show some conductivity. Measurements by Kohlrausch show that a centimeter cube of purest water has a resistance of about 25 million ohms and if any salt, solution whatever is present, the resistance decreases tremendously.

Now when a person is standing in a bathtub containing water, the water contains quite a little salt (calcium salt which makes the ring around the bathtub), and the person is connected thru the water to the drain which is grounded. If his hands are wet or moist so that he makes intimate contact with the electrical fixture, he may take enough current from the 110 volt line to cause serious consequences.

I may say that not very much current is needed. It has been proven experimentally that the average person can take only about 15 thousandths of an ampere of alternating current before his muscles become so contracted that he cannot let go, and slightly higher currents may so contort the muscles of the chest that he may die from asphyxiation rather than from the current.—Dr. Wm. R. Fredrickson, physicist.

County Fair Dates To Be Considered

The Allegany county fair board will meet for its regular spring meeting in Angelica on April 24th. Most important of the decsions to be made will concern the dates for the 1942 fair. It has been suggested that the dates should be postponed to coincide with the dates usually reserved for the New York State Fair. This would make Allegany county fair come on September 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Representatives of free act associations will attend the meeting and contracts may be let for free acts and other features. An effort is being made to sponsor automobile races for at least one day of the fair this year. The American Kennel Club dog show will probably not be held in 1942. Undoubtedly the biggest increase in exhibits will be in the Victory Garden division due to the large enrollment of boys and girls and others in this program in the county. Special classes and exhibits will be set up for those enrolling in the Victory Garden program.

Usually the man who waits on a woman, waits.

Doctors Ask "Poison" Label on Alcoholic Beverages

At the annual meetings of the American Medical Association, at Cleveland and of the American Neurological Association at Atlantic City, long unchallenged misrepresentations on labels of alcoholic beverage containers, in defiance of the Federal Pure Food and Drug Act, were brought to light in a challenging brief prepared by three eminent physicians of Boston, Dr. Merrill Moore, Dr. Leo Alexander and Dr. Abraham Myerson. In consequence substantially supported legal machinery has been set up to compel the traffic to use accurate scientific data on its labels.—(Union Signal, Dec. 27, 1941.)

County Wheat Marketing Referendum

H. L. Hodnett, chairman of the Allegany County Agricultural Conservation Committee states that Allegany as well as every other wheat county in the United States, will hold a Wheat Marketing Referendum on Saturday, May 2nd. The purpose of the referendum is to give the wheat growers an opportunity to vote on the now existing quota program. Those entitled to vote on this subject are farmers who are growing 15 acres or more, of wheat for harvest in 1942.

This county has been set up as one community, and voting will take place in the Agricultural Conservation Office at Belmont. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Participate in Farm Fire Prevention Program

Several hundred Allegany county boys and girls are now participating in a Farm Fire Prevention Program sponsored locally, by the Allegany County Co-operative Fire Insurance Company which is offering $200 in cash prizes to winning essay contestants. The contest is divided into three general groups, 5, 6, 7, grades, 8, 9, 10 grades and 11 and 12 grades.

Manuals are being distributed to the schools and 4-H Clubs giving instructions on how to conduct farm inspections and prevent farm fires. Winners in the local contest will have an opportunity to participate in the state program in which the Springfield Bank is co-operating by offering $100 in awards.

In 1941 Arby Swift of Cuba was awarded the top honors in New York State and will compete in the national Fire Prevention Contest.
