WHEN IS MOTHER'S DAY?

When we think of Mother's Day, we usually think of a warm and sunny Sunday in May on which we show our devotion to our beloved Mothers. But when we pause to think about this further we know that we are wrong to do this, for we realize that yes, every day's Mother's Day.

Each and every one of us cherishes the word "Mother." She is the one we love down deep in our hearts. She is the one with whom we would never part, with whom we would stand until death.

It is mother we turn to when trouble arises. She is the one who comforts our woes.

With Mother's Day now appoaching, it is only natural that we should remember her especially on that day by giving her a gift as a token of our love for her—our best friend.

What is the most welcome gift we can give our mothers, you ask? Candy, flowers, books, stockings?—No, none of these, but something far more preicous and far less expensive—Our Love! PEL

ON BEING VALEDICTORIAN

When I received the news that I was to be Valedictorian of my graduating class I was, of course, happy; but more than that, I had a feeling of great satisfaction, for then I knew that I had made a success of my four years in high school.

I consider the ideal education one that combines the regular scholastic duties with a few extra-curricular activities, including sports, music, clubs and journalism. In high school I have tried to follow this path to the best of my ability and I think I can truthfully say that I have done it successfully. The reason I say I have done it successfully is because I have enjoyed myself very much in high school, have done well in my studies and will be very sorry to leave it this year.

My advice to underclassmen and next year's Freshmen is to follow a broad path thru high school, to enter as many activities as one's time and talents permit, to do as well as possible in one's studies, and, above all, to enjoy oneself so that one is able to truthfully say that he or she is sorry to leave. —V. TO LOWER CLASSMEN

As Salutatorian of my graduating class, I can only say that, to me, it is a very great honor. It has been stiff competition all the way along, for many of my classmates have four-year averages above 80 per cent, which is very unusual.

Obtaining this honor hasn't been easy. I had to work four years to do so. It is worth the work in the end to know that one has done the best one is capable of doing and even when one reaches only second place in something, it still gives him satisfaction.

To lower classmen, I emit this bit of advice—Work hard for the honors of your class. If you succeed it's worth it; if you don't your efforts haven't been wasted.

But don't go to school for scholarship alone. That's only part of it. Satisfaction in school comes not only from scholarship, but also from participation in extra curricular activities, from social enjoyment and from co-operation with teachers and classmates.

Do the best you can every day and let tomorrow take care of itself. —Jean Rogers

Doubling in Brass

Cuttem, the barber, was talking of a man who had joined his shave and haircut club at so much a week. "That chap McMean has a marvelous growth—comes in twice a day for a shave and every few days for a haircut."

Cuttem went up in the air when the other informed him. "Why, there are two McMeans—Angus and Donald—and they are twins."

Ludwig Dale Speaks In Vocational Assembly

Mr. Ludwig Dale, head of the Hornell Federal Commercial Schools gave another of his highly entertaining talks at a Junior-Senior assembly held last Friday afternoon as a fitting climax to the vocational guidance week sponsored by the student council.

Mr. Dale discussed the many and varied opportunities which are afforded young people today and made them feel very fortunate that they are not living in war-torn Europe.

After the assembly Mr. Dale addressed the Juniors and Seniors in the library and, with the help of two of his students, gave short skits on how a person should act and how he should not act while being interviewed for a position. VO

Annual School Exhibit May 18

Monday evening, May 18th, the annual classroom exhibit from kindergarten thru high school will be held in Andover Central School.

The exhibit will begin at 7 o'lock and will continue until 8:30, during which time there will be open house in all the classrooms. At 8:30 o'clock a program including a one-act play by members of the Sophomore class will be held in the auditorium.

An invitation is extended to all parents and townspeople to come to school this particular evening so that they may see, to some extent, what has been accomplished this year by the school students and the teachers in various grades and classes. FMM

Vocational Bulletin Board Displayed

In connection with vocational guidance week, which was held from April 27th to May 1st, an interesting bulletin board was displayed in the school library.

The most attractive jackets of some of the books on vocational guidance were arranged in a semi-circle on the cork display board. Several books on the subjects were also placed on a table below the board.

Up-to-date pamphlets from the Marine Corps, colleges, hospitals and training schools completed the material which was conveniently on hand for all who wished to look at it. OA

Classes Held Outdoors

Last week several student groups includng the Latin classes and several history and English classes, were observed carrying on their work on the playground behind the school. The English three class even tried its hand at writing poems with the beauty of nature close at hand as an inspiration.

Altho teachers found it fully as easy to teach outdoors as indoors, the practice has been discouraged lately because of—the cooler weather. JB

The children in Miss Gottlieb's room are making salt maps. They are studying the "Song of the Lark" are making pictures and writing stories about it.

In the sixth grade a new member has been added to the roll call, namely Clara VanCuren from Scio.

The sixth graders also have made a dateline which includes the most important dates in history.

The eighth grade class is entertaining with its weekly quiz program directed by Earl Gross. This program will consist of questions on current events and riddles. MH-SM

CHIT-CHAT

Sorry about your operation Mary Baker. Hope you'll be back soon.

After many futile attempts Pat L. and Rose Y. finally bicycled all the way to Wellsville Sunday. More fun!

Girls are not the only ones who like out of town dates. How about it, Jack Dean and "Jake" Shellman?

Plans are getting well under way for the Junior-Senior picnic to be held in the not too far distant future.

The Seniors seem to be quibbling as to whether they will or will not have class night. Let's hope they do.

"Senior Day" isn't so far away. What great teachers some of them will make.

Victory skirts are getting to be popular among certain girls, eh—?

What's this we hear about Mr. McGee's condensed seven weeks' course in algebra? Let us know how it is, Jean!

It was nice the bus was so full, wasn't it, Betty? (Soft seats).

Quite a time you had Saturday night, so we hear. Eh, Dorothy and Elaine?

Beautiful but dumb on certain days, aren't we, Mr. Maloy?

What's this about "Starr Dust?" Tell us, Victor. PL-JR

Prom Notes

Attractively gowned girls danced with their handsomely attired escorts to the syncopated rhythm of Rod Tucker's "Country Club Band" in the beautifully transformed ACS gymnasium at the Junior Prom Friday evening.

The pastel and vivid hues of the girls' evening gowns blended perfectly with the brilliant crepe paper decorations.

Included among those dancing under "the rainbow" were Miss Elaine Pope, a lovely vision in printed taffeta; Miss Norma Crowner in blue taffet with net skirt; Miss Marilyn Hardy, charming in blue printed swiss; Miss Barbara Brownell wearing a soft rose taffet with velvet trim; Miss Ruth Slocum in a deep pink taffeta dress, fashioned with a full skirt; and Miss Florence Mingus in becoming blue marquisette with maroon edging.

Miss Anne Daly, one of the Junior class advisers was seen in a stunning gown of blue lace and pink marquisette. Miss Pauline Anderson's formal, with its blue linen bodice and white pique skirt was also most becoming. FMM

YOUR CAR

How to Get the MOST out of It

STOPPING IS AN ART TOO

Proper use of your car brakes can add many miles to your tires and brake drums. Here are some stopping hints to remember:

Avoid sudden stops. Collect your "bonus" on the gas you used in starting; don't burn that extra momentum up on the brake drums and tires. Learn to anticipate your stops.

Keep your foot off the clutch pedal until you're ready to use it. "Riding" the clutch pedal when the car is moving, or "slipping" it to hold position on a hill, causes rapid wear of the clutch lining.

Avoid continuous heavy pressure on the brake pedal. Hot brakes wear rapidly. On long hills shift to second gear.

Let your motor help stop your car for you. Don't disengage the clutch as soon as you begin braking for a stop. Wait until the car decelerates to 15, or even 10, miles an hour.

Don't scrape the curb when stopping. The weight of the car rests on those tires' side walls and they must not be weakened.

In real hot weather or after driving in mountainous country let the motor idle a few minutes before turning off the ignition.

Louisa's Letter

Answer to "Wonder" (Alabama)

Why don't you ask him if he has been having dates with the other girl on Sunday nights? Unless you are engaged to him, you have no right to ask him not to date other girls. It may be that he has not decided which of you two girls he likes best. If you like him, keep on dating him, but go with other people also. LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I read all of your letters in the Galax Gazette and I am wondering if you could give me some advice.

Two years ago I met a very fine man down in Virginia and he is on my mind all the time. I go to Virginia about once a year and when I am down there I see a great deal of him.

I am married and have a wonderful husband and three lovely children. I just can't break up my home, but I am not satisfied at all the way it is. I was married at 16.

I have told my husband everything and he is willing to give me a divorce and take care of the kids, but seems like I can't turn my home upside down. My husband is a real Christian man and loves me, but the other man is always on my mind.

WORRIED MOTHER (Ohio)

Answer:

Some of this letter has been omitted, but I judge that the writer's greatest mistake was in getting married too young. She missed all of good times that single girls have and when she should have been dating and playing, she was minding babies. Now her children are getting larger and she has more time to think about herself.

So often women and men who have missed their playtime when they were young and who took on responsibilities too early, try to turn back the clock and have some romance before they grow old. They become infatuated with some other person and imagine him or her endowed with all the graces and charm conceivable. Sometimes they go so far as to break up their homes, and how disillusioned most of them become when they finally get what they think they wanted. The old husband and the deserted home look mighty good when they dare to look back.

You are lucky, "Worried Mother" to have such a good and understanding husband and such nice children. Try to deserve them by refusing to let yourself think about this other man. You got married of your own accord, I presume, and you took a vow to love and honor your man for life. You brought three children in the world and your first duty is to them, and not to your own selfish desires.

You will get more happiness out of life by doing the right thing than by following the impulse of the moment. Good luck, LOUISA.

Depends

Viola: "Do you believe in free speech?"

Percy: "That depends on whether I'm bigger than the other fellow."

It Shrinks in the Heat

"That depends, son, on whether you are shoveling or buying it."

SOLDIER'S MEDAL

The Act of Congress approved July 2, 1926, authorized a medal to be known as the Soldier's Medal, and provided that the medal may be presented to persons who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States shall hereafter distinguish themselves by heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy.

On a bronze octagon an eagle is displayed standing on a fasces, between two groups of stars of six and seven above the group of six a spray of leaves. On the reverse a shield paly of 13 pieces on the chief, the letters "U. S." supported by sprays of laurel and oak, around the upper edge the inscription "Soldier's Medal" and across the face the words "For Valor." In the base a panel for the name of the recipient. The medal is suspended by a rectangular-shaped metal loop with corners rounded from a silk moire ribbon.
