Eighteen Farmers In County to Control Soil Erosion

Soil conservation work has been started on 18 farms in Allegany county in the last month, according to a report given at a recent soil conservation district meeting by Robert Reed, assistant district conservationist. Addition work is being planned for several other farms.

The soil erosion control work on these 18 farms is planned for the protection of 3,410 acres of land; 438 acres of strip cropping has been laid out, and are going into effect this spring. Strip cropping includes alternate contour strips of sod and cultivated crops; 25,030 linear feet of diversion terraces have been surveyed for construction this summer and some of this is now being constructed. Another 4,000 feet will be built this fall.

Strip cropping and diversion terraces are two methors of controlling erosion on crop land, according to Mr. Reed. Additional practices include sod waterways and longtime hay. Soil erosion control practices used elsewhere on the farm include pasture improvement, reforestation, woodlot improvement, and stream channel control. Over 7,000 feet of stream channel work have been mapped in the last month.

The Soil Conservation work is new this year in Allegany county. The district was formed by the Board of Supervisors and is now managed by the board of directors, including Hugh Chamberlain, Candea, chairman; R. E. Hall, Belmont, Robert Ainsworth, Whitesville; Charles Wightman, Almond and Mark Sanford, Little Genesee. C. R. Harrington, county agricultural agent, is secretary of the board.

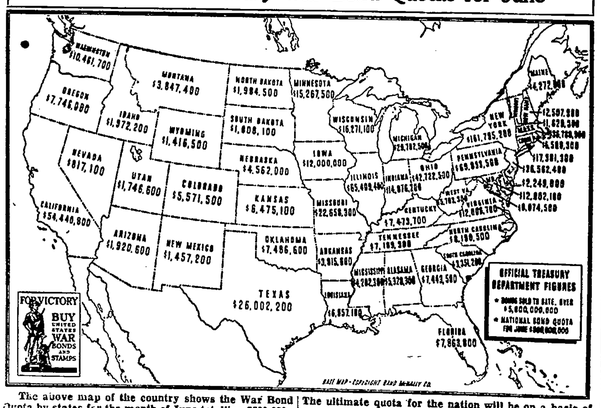
Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for June



The above map of the country shows the War Bond Quota by states for the month of June totalling $900,000,000. Everybody every pay day is expected to invest at least ten per cent of his income in War Bonds to aid in financing America's offensive against the Axis powers.

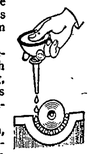
The ultimate quota for the nation will be on a basis of one billion dollars per month effective in July. This sum is necessary to provide for all-out production of planes, guns, ships and munitions adequate to arm our fighting men with the tools necessary to win the war.

YOUR CAR

How to Get the MOST out of It

KEEP IT LUBRICATED

The most important single thing to remember, if you want to get the most out of your car, is: keep it lubricated. If a front wheel lacked a bearing, you wouldn't think of running your car until a new one had been installed. Oil or grease is really a kind of frictionless bearing. It is structurally a part of your car. But how often do you check to see if it is on the job?



Best advice to the car owner is: follow religiously the instruction chart that came with your car. If a service man does your greasing, make sure he doesn't overlook anything. It is also important to be sure that the proper lubricant is used at the proper point.

Most trouble is caused by lack of lubrication, but it is possible to overdo it. Too much lubricant on the front wheel bearings may result in saturated brake linings; too much oil in the generator, starter, distributor, etc., may work into the wrong places.

Doing a good lubricating job is no simple matter. It means knowing what oil to use and where to use it. Using the wrong oil is almost as bad as putting in a repair part that doesn't fit. Don't forget that good lubricants are a lot cheaper than repairs and replacements.

Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles based on the book, Automobile Owner's Guide, published by the Customer Research staff of General Motors. Next article: Crankcase Oil.

Auto Skids Into Flooded Stream

Three persons, Andrew J. Barrett, Mrs. Mary Stevens and Mrs. Mary Norton, all of Alfred had a rather harrowing experience last Friday when the car in which they were riding skidded and went into the turbulent waters of Canacadea Creek at Goff bridge near Hornell.

According to reports the car skidded, left the road west of the bridge and plunged into the stream swollen by the three-day rain. The passengers were all thrown from the car into the water, from which they were assisted by nearby residents and passing motorists.

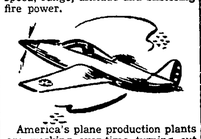
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Army's fighter planes are the finest in the world and develop speeds up to 400 miles an hour. They cost approximately $100,000 each, provide fighter escorts for the huge flying fortresses, and combine speed, range, altitude and blistering fire power.



America's plane production plants are working over-time turning out thousands of these fighter planes. War Savings Bonds will help pay for them and the American people are committed to at least ten percent of their income to finance their cost in War Bonds. Every American, buying his share every pay day, will make it comparatively easy to supply our army and navy air corps with these supreme Eagles of the air.
