A Bad Mix Up. Politics in New York city are in a bad mix up. The Fusion ticket seemingly had a fine start when Grout and Fornes agreed to accept, and have accepted a place on Tammany's ticket. Tammany, in face of the protest of Hugh McLaughlin and his followers, proceeded with the nomination of Murphy's ticket and thus it takes Grout and Fornes, Tammany men, from the citizens or Fusion ticket. The Republican Convention adjourned and the question in issue with them is can they re-convene and place new nominations in place of the deserters. The citizens' committee have until Oct. 14 to file their nomination and it will be an easy matter for them to place new names on the ticket. Tammany's purpose seems to be to follow old tactics and dictate the whole policy of their man should he be elected. Dr. Parkhurst aptly names McClellan as "Murphy's Angel" and undoubtedly the cognomen will stick thru the campaign. If Hugh McLaughlin and his followers follow out their straight forwardness of other days they will refuse to support Tammany. However, in what the Brooklyn men have done they are not hypocrites. It's a bad mix up and probably will help the Fusion ticket.

Organization vs. Ring. The plan of concentration of business interests to meet the demand of increasing trade and commercial endeavor is a factor now recognized as a condition essential to the success of any enterprise. The growth and increase in population in our country made necessary the organization of political parties for the successful bringing about of their interests. Within these parties organizations of leaders came to be termed machines. A machine is not necessarily "a ring." A ring is a select coterie to band themselves for political plunder. The organization is the executive instrument of a party (call it machine if you will.) It is that the work may be directed by one head rather than a scattered effort and working at cross purposes which might defeat the very object sought. Hence a political leader of the right sort is in no sense "a ringster" or ring leader. He is the executive head of his party in his district or state, on the same plan that one may be a president or director, directing that waste may not ensue. Thus it is that honest men are entering politics, for people are learning to respect the honest men, who give their time and talents to party organization and thereby become leaders, and to classify these as ringsters is to drive honest men from leadership.

VILLAGE PRIDE.

It is with a great deal of pride that the citizens of Andover can look back over the past few months upon their accomplishments. Practically the whole village has been fitted with walks that would be a pride to any city. It is only a year ago that the grade was established and for a time there was some objection, but when the citizens saw its benefits, and realized the labor saving and help it would be in helping to beautify the village (with that characteristic spirit for which Andover is famed), they went to work with one spirit and, behold, the change is marvelous, but after all, the citizens of a village should not allow fine buildings, fine walks and increasing industries to satisfy. These alone cannot bring contentment and serenity. What makes a village is its morals. There needs to be a pride concerning the morals as well as the beauty. Of course the moral tone depends upon the individual. No one set or clique, not the wealthy or well to do, but each one in his or her station is a factor in the morality of village life. Our village is evidently the beginning of a change—a change which means new people with ideas of living that they have gathered from the environment in which they have lived. Some of these notions may shock the high sense of some who have lived the quiet village life of days gone by. Other notions may be on a higher moral plane than those of our own gathering. Village pride in morals will refuse to allow itself to stoop to the lower, but will absorb the latter and make it a part o' the village life. Village pride will refuse to lower its high standard of morals to meet the pleasure of another. Village pride would rather be considered green than to condescend to the lowering of its morals to become citified, if the introduction of new ideas meant the smattering of immorality.

A pure high toned moral sentiment is a better protection to a village than a well organized political bound, corrupt police force. Village pride of the right sort will also refuse to allow the temptation of having its morals corrupted by the cry of revenue, and the name of the villa e will be protected by its citizens refusing alliance with any plan that will place temptation to increase habits that debase and destroy manhood. Then village pride is a question of standing on moral issues as well as improvements that will beautify or make conveniences for the comfort of life.

WORK OR LABOR.

Edward Everett Hale, in an article thru the associated press, takes exception to the use made of the words labor and work, and contends that they are not synonymous, and that labor unions are often in danger of confounding the two words. The article is well worth the looking up and reading and would make a fine editorial in the most polished of our journals. We give a few of the extracts:

"In our old fashioned book called the Bible, you will find that it is always observed. If you will look in the Century dictionary, you will find that it is recognized there.

"The Bible says distinctly that when men die they will cease from their 'labors,' while their 'works' will follow them; and the Saviour says, 'My Father worketh hitherto and I work.' I think no one even now, would dare say of God that He ever labors.

"I wrote to Powderly when he started the Knights of Labor that there were two difficulties in his title. First, that they were not 'knights,' and second, that they did not care anything about 'labor.' The truth is that the moment we get a day laborer who can contribute nothing but his muscle and weight, as an ox might do, or a mule, we do not respect his labor. . . .

"I hear even clergymen speak of our being fellow-laborers together with God; and the old version of the Bible says so. But it was a mistranslation. The Greek word is based upon 'ergon,' which is the same word as our word work; while the word for labor always involves the carrying of a burden or something which weighs physically down. No, I write rather because I want to start a great society of two persons, in which some one shall be the president and I will be the secretary, who shall work so as to carry back all use of the words work and labor, to the use which they would have had, I think in Shakespeare, certainly in the New Testament.

"'Work' is the using of matter by spirit, while 'labor' involves mere physical endeavor. I think we should help matters if we could make men understand that civilization consists in having workmen who use their brains instead of laborers who use their bodies.

"I was very much pleased a dozen years ago, when Carroll Wright called to my attention the fact that there in Massachusetts, of the forces we have for production, 96 per cent. are people who used their brains, while only 4 per cent. are people who use physical force."

For new phrases the political situation in New York city promises to be the supreme coiner of them all. District Attorney Jerome is called "Undigested eccentricity." Dr. Parkhurst is referred to as "Hounds who shoot venom under protection of the cloth." "Political valet," "Paltroon," such are the soft shell brick bats they are hurling at each other.

The latest yarn about President Roosevelt is that he refused to attend the laying of a corner stone because of the presence of Ex-President Cleveland. It's absurd on its face to carry such a thought. The enemies of the administration are evidently in bad shape when they must resort to lies, or is t a case of extreme Yellow Journalism?

AGAINST FREE TRADE.

Mr. Balfour's speech in Sheffield, England, a few evenings ago, shows that he has abandoned the free traders and takes his stand with the protectionists. This is a radical change and was brought about because Great Britain finds herself face to face with the problem that on every side nations are excluding her products, while her open door or free trade policy has permitted other nations to supply her every need and her working men walk the street in idleness. The worst blow of all to Old England is she finds her colonies pursuing the same policy. Mr. Balfour asks in his speech, "Is Great Britain to permit herself to be excluded from the markets of the world or is she to take some step to avert that disaster?" This apparently is the question to justify his proposition which follows, which is to pursue a retaliatory policy. Such a policy means a duty on products imported from foreign countries, and once such duty is placed it means the abandonment of free trade. Moreover, it means increased cost of living to British working classes. Thus it is that the suggestion comes from one of England's leading statesmen that after all the years of free trade England must abandon and protection or a protective tariff must replace it. Mr. Balfour insists that he is still a free trader, but how the problem of advocating one and being called the other can be met he offers no solution. England has held to her policy with a native tenacity, and perhaps the time has come when it will be a case of mother following the child. What the erstwhile free traders, tariff reformers, can get out of England's position for campaign thunder remains to be seen. As it is she stands as another argument for protection as against free trade.

The educational policy of Uncle Sam in our West Indian Island is a success. In Porto Rico the schools have just opened, 1200 of them. 180,000 pupils were enrolled, but only 60,000 could be received

Eight months ago houses in Andover were begging for tenants. Now the tenants are looking for houses, and they are putting up with most anything in order to get a place to live.

The placing of a constable or a night-watchman of the streets will soon be a necessity. It isn't always wise "to lock the door after the horse is stolen."

Have you noticed that the past few months you cannot find men waiting around the street corners for work? Any man can get work who wishes it.

The rural free delivery, route No. 1, starts off in fine shape and temporary mail carrier, Justice Kinney, makes an excellent carrier.

The real estate changes that have recently taken place is indicative of Andover's prosperity and future.

Wanted.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution, and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Registration day Saturday.

All popular numbers at the concert.

Apple barrels are in great demand.

A brilliant program Saturday evening.

The blooming idiot is never nipped in the bud.

Lyceum Operatic Company Saturday evening.

Some people live and learn, while others learn to live.

Going to the concert? Oh yes! Everybody is going.

So far October isn't behaving as prettily as did September.

Mr. Everett kindly donated to the library six very fine views of Andover.

Talk about wet seasons! If 1903 isn't a record breaker we've another guess coming.

Remember the Operatic Concert Company's entertainment to-morrow night (Saturday).

Did you hear the silk mill whistle? It's a dandy, but Ernest should give it a little more wind.

It's all right to learn to say "no," but some of Andover's maiden ladies have said it to their sorrow.

On account of the concert Saturday evening the library will be open Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock and not in the evening.

Anthony Chovet has rented the property known as the Dr. Harman property on Hill street of H. F. Eastman of Buffalo, who now owns the property.

The materials and men to install the steam heating plant in the Rochambeau Silk Company's mill are here. The work will be completed before November first.

The Lyceum Operatic Company leave here Sunday morning for an extended trip, which covers territory from Maine to Texas and from Massachusetts to Nebraska.

On account of illness Lottie M. Elwell of Wellsville failed to put in an appearance last week at Swink's Hotel, as advertised. Read her notice in this issue as to dates.

Do you want to help fill a barrel, to send to the Sunshine Society? Any article which will be of use to some one, or give pleasure, such as clothing, reading matter, etc. will be gladly received at the library Thursday evening or Saturday afternoon.

To the Ladies of Andover and Vicinity.

TO RE-BUILD CHURCH EDIFICE.

BAPTIST PEOPLE CONTEMPLATING EXTENSIVE REPAIRS.

If $1,500 in Subscriptions Can Be Secured the Work Will Go Forward Immediately.

For a long time the members of the Baptist church have realized that at some period it would be necessary for them to make improvements on their meeting house to meet the demand for more room and greater conveniences in the Bible-school. It has seemed almost impossible for them to undertake the enlargement and improvements desired. However, after much deliberation on the part of the Board of Trustees, the matter was presented to the church last Thursday evening and it was voted on certain conditions to undertake the proposed improvements, and while it looks like a gigantic undertaking it is hoped that the Baptists, with their characteristic energy and unity of purpose, will be able to bring about their desire. The last two years of the church have been years of growth and prosperity and the pastor, Rev. Chas. H. Harrington, has proven to be an appreciated and forceful leader. As we understand it, the proposed plan is to add about 12 feet on the east side of the church part way the length of the present structure and 14 or 15 feet the rest, thus giving with new seats and the furnishing, a handsome auditorium, and giving two new rooms for kitchen and class room, allowing the use of the present rooms for additional class rooms. The ladies have already pledged their support for $500, and it is hoped the conditions proposed may be filled and the proposed structure become a reality, for every additional outlay increasing the value of the churches, increases the value of all the taxable property in the village.

Purchased a New Home.

Dr. E. J. Loughlen has purchased the J. C. Dyer property on East Center street, consideration $3,300. The building is a new and modern dwelling built within the past five or six years. John Prest had the contract for erecting the building and from him the News learns that it is the best finished house in Andover. To build it to-day would cost over $4,000, say nothing of the value of the lot.

The Methodist's New Pastor.

Rev. G. W. Adams, the new pastor of the M. E. church, spoke at the union service at his church Sunday night. Text, "Do thyself no harm." A large audience greeted the new pastor and had the pleasure of listening to a good sermon. Mr. Adams will be kindly received by Andover people and here's hoping before he shall have concluded his work here sinners will be as scarce in Andover as they are now numerous.

Scnt Comfortables to the Oxford Home.

The ladies of the Relief Corps of Andover have made and shipped to the Oxford Home six bed blankets. This institution is for the care of the G. A. R. men and their widows who are not able to care for themselves, and is mainly supported by the ladies of the Relief Corps.

Lucy Stone Club.

The Lucy Stone Club will meet for business and study with Mrs. J. H. Backus, Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, at 7:30 o'clock.

In the Produce Business.

Sidney Crandall is in the produce business this fall, and will be ready to purchase all kinds of crops, potatoes and buckwheat a specialty.

The Ladies' Missionary Circle will hold their meeting with Mrs. Orvis next Tuesday, at 3 p. m. All the ladies are invited.

The practicing of the old songs and broom drill indicate that the ladies of the church are determined to maintain the high character of the old fashioned concerts and dinners for which they have gained an enviable reputation. The old time concert comes off next Wednesday, Oct. 14th.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening of each week. Strangers welcome. A spiritual service of song, prayer and testimony.

Christian Endeavor Sunday, at 6 p. m. Leader, Drexia Scott. Subject, "Lesson from the life of Joseph."

The Rally Day services last Sunday were successful in a large degree. A large congregation in the morning, and the attendance at the Bible-school 126, the high-water mark of attendance during the present pastorate. The excellent address by Rev. Mr. Bacon, the fine music by the young people's choir and the recitations all added to the occasion, which certainly was a very happy one.

The evening services each Sunday will be followed by a short benedictory service. The meetings have been unusually helpful in the past, and we hope for a large success in the months to come.

The Barneas (a class for men) made an excellent showing at the Rally Day service. One visitor recently remarked, "That so fine a class of men was an exception in the smaller towns." Certainly the church should be proud of her men.

The Juniors should not forget the Junior C. E. meeting each Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Some Pumpkins.

The largest pumpkin specimen ever exhibited in Andover is in H. H. Williams & Co.'s north window. It was grown by David Davenport. Altho not much of a pumpkin year this specimen weighs 83½ pounds. It is six feet nine inches around one way and five feet six inches the other. It measures nearly a yard in length.

You Will Have to Keep Out.

The directors of the Rochambeau Silk Co. have ordered that none but employers and those having business with the superintendent be admitted to the silk mill hereafter unless by written order from 58 Green street New York.

Miss Ada M. Rickerson of Wellsville is assisting at Mrs. Beebe's Millinery Parlors.
