HIGH SCHOOL TIPS.

SCHOOL NEWS AS TOLD BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

The Kappa Zeta held their regular fortnightly meeting Tuesday night. A large class of candidates was initiated, and a fine program presented.

The Theta Phi and Kappa Zeta will hold their joint meeting on Hallow e'en night at Prest's Opera House. An interesting program is being prepared by the committee which is sparing no effort to make the meeting a success. One of the features of the program will be a debate, "Resolved, that the enlargement of the Erie canal will materially benefit southwestern New York." The Theta Phi has the affirmative side of the debate while the Kappa Zeta takes the negative.

The High School football team played its first game with a team supposed to represent Whitesville Union school on Earley's flats Wednesday afternoon. The local eleven played a strictly High School team with one exception, while the men from Whitesville had only about three High School players in their team, and, judging from their whiskers, they must have been taking a post-graduate course.

The game was played by fifteen-minute halves, Whitesville taking the kick-off. In the first half neither side had any special advantage but the High School boys demonstrated their gameness by checking repeatedly vicious rushes at their line, and at the end of the half, the ball was in Whitesville territory, very near to the goal. The second half proved to be a Waterloo for Andover, the big beefy men from the Pennsylvania line skirting the ends at will or making big gains thru the light High School line. Three touch-downs and two goals were made and the game was won for Whitesville.

Keep it Where it is.

The taxpayers of the state have the $101,000,000 that is asked for and the millions of interest the bonds would cost in their pockets today. They will be wise if they act so as to enable themselves to say on the morning of the 4th of November next that it is going to stay there. They ought to know now what the professions and promises of the canal interests mean.—Binghamton Leader (Dem.).

Suicide of a Policy Dealer.

New York, Oct. 7.—David Whitford, known as the "policy king of Williamsburg," under arrest charged with conducting policy shops in Brooklyn, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. He was 62 years old, and according to the police had been conducting policy shops in Brooklyn for 20 years.

The Delineator for November.

In the November issue the Delineator sustains its recognized position as the foremost fashion publication and one of the high-class literary magazines. Excellent reading and refined art supplement the display of Winter fashions, which are more charming than at any previous time. Fiction, photographic articles, Thanksgiving story, the children's department, and the home and household column are replete.

November Designer.

Fashions for cold weather wear are effectively displayed in the November Designer, and the handsome illustrations are accompanied by descriptions which tell just what materials and trimmings to employ to obtain the best results. Those who must perforce select mourning outfits will find this a most valuable number, for it makes such garments and millinery a specialty. In Thanksgiving features the November Designer is wonderfully strong. The many household departments which have given the Designer such a hold on the feminine fancy are filled this month with appropriate and valuable items. How such an excellent magazine as this can be issued with profit at eighty cents a year is a mystery which only its publishers can solve.

Improve the Town Property.

We are all interested in the prosperity of our town. We can contribute to it materially, and give it a far more prosperous look at the same time.

Perhaps the public property needs a good coat of paint.

Devoe will supply that coat with two-thirds of the number of gallons required of any other. Devoe will last twice as long as any other. Devoe is all paint and full measure. Devoe is the strongest paint known. Devoe will take care of the property, in the long run, for half the money required by any other.

The reason is stated above: Devoe is all paint and full-measure: the strongest paint known.

E. D. Jewell, Corry, Pa., painted his house 5 years ago with a mixed paint; took 24 gallons. Last spring he repainted with Devoe; bought 14 gallons and had 4 left. Saved $15 to $20, as painting costs two or three times as much as the paint.

SATURDAY was a stirring day on our Millinery and Cloak floor. There must have been five hundred visitors (many of them buyers) at one time. There were fifty-eight people in by actual count at one time, exclusive of the large corps of salesfolk. We believe the general verdict is that our pattern hat display is far ahead of previous seasons. By means of these beautiful hats we secured many new and valuable customers.

As to cloaks and suits, the line is complete and at the same time so diverse that everybody can be satisfied whether it is five dollars they want to spend or fifty

More improvements are yet to be made in the way of circular cloak racks, mirrors &c. You are most cordially invited to visit the interesting department whether as buyer or not.

JUDGMENT OF AN EXPERT.

AN UNEXPECTED COMPLIMENT PAID THE ROCHAMBEAU SILK CO.

What Those Who Know Say of Andover's Silk Mill.

Two of New York's large dry goods merchants were visiting in one of their stores not long since after closing up for the day. An interested listener, who was a relative of one of the merchants, overheard the following from one of them:

"I have been in the dry goods business all my life since a boy. I have handled silk every day since. I think I know about all there is to know about the silk business. Have been thru all the large mills of this country and of France and made a study of the manufacture of the product, but yesterday I saw what I considered the most perfect looms and machinery it has ever been my privilege to examine. They were being shipped to a little country town only a few miles west of Hornellsville, N. Y., called Andover. If I am not greatly mistaken we will see some goods turned out in that mill that will surprise us. I know personally the men who are back of this plant."

We wish our readers to know that this item did not come from any one interested in or in any way connected with the Rochambeau Silk Co. but came unsolicited from the lips of a gentleman who heard it.

MORE COSTLY THAN SCHOOLS.

The Entire Educational Plant of the State Cost Less Than The Barge Canal Asks For.

WILL IT BE WORTH AS MUCH TO US?

All The School Buildings In the State With the Land On Which They Stand Cost Less Than the Proposed 1,000 Ton Barge Canal.

The advocates of the barge canal are taking advantage of the fact that very few persons have any adequate conception of the meaning of a hundred millions to cultivate the idea that their pet scheme will be only a small matter for this great state to pay for. Mr. John I. Platt, temporary chairman of the convention held at Rochester in opposition to it, in his speech on taking the chair said:

This question, whether the return will be greater than the expenditure is the kernel of the whole question. We are not objecting because Buffalo or New York will gain something that we shall not. We are not objecting because we are actuated by any adverse interest; still less are we objecting because we are indifferent to the welfare of the state, to that of its chief seaport or to the growth and prosperity of its commercial interests. We object because we do not believe that the expenditure will produce an equal return, and for no other reason. The charge that we are actuated by any other reason is not only unjust to us, but can be made only for the purpose of diverting attention from the real point at issue.

And we notify the friends of this project that they have no small task before them. They must not only show that the canal is beneficial, that its improvement would be a good thing for the state, but they must prove for it virtues and benefits beyond those claimed for any other enterprise that has ever been undertaken, because the amount of money involved is greater than has ever been expended upon any public work, and the benefits to be returned must be commensurate. * * *

But if we take the hundred and one millions as the actual cost, that is only the capital. The constitution, as it is, requires that every debt shall be paid within eighteen years, and there must be a sufficient tax levied each year to pay the interest and form a sinking fund which will extinguish the principal in that time. The mathematicians employed by the state inform us that this will require $7,348,710 each year, or for eighteen years $132,186,780, which is the minimum amount to be taken from the taxpayers. The canal then themselves tell us that they are going to propose at once an amendment to the constitution extending this debt fifty years instead of requiring that it shall be paid off in eighteen. This will reduce the amount to be paid each year to $3,925,415, but as the time of payment is so much more extended it will add nearly 50 per cent to the ultimate cost, making it in all $196,270,750.

The cost of all the public school buildings in the state of New York and the land upon which they stand is reported by the state superintendent of public instruction at $92,597,473, an amount that is $8,792,827 less than the principal sum which it is proposed to squandor upon this canal improvement and $89,679,307 less than the ultimate minimum cost if the debt is paid in eighteen years. The value of all the grounds and buildings owned by all the colleges and universities in the state of New York is reported by the chief statistician at Washington at $93,784,087. The value of all the scientific apparatus in those institutions is $2,860,490. We have no data for determining the value of the buildings used for private schools, but at the most extravagant estimate the entire educational plant of the state of New York will fall below in value the minimum which will be expended upon this canal, and if we add the $27,392,227 which constitutes the endowments of all our universities and colleges it will still be $50,000,000 short of what the state will expend if it adopts the plan of extending this debt so as to run fifty years.

Gentlemen, I might stop my argument here. Is there any man upon the face of the earth so canal crazy as to believe that a thousand ton barge canal will be worth more money to the state of New York and produce more benefit to its people than our colleges, our universities and our private and public schools? If there is he should vote for this proposition; otherwise I do not see how he can do so.

A Gigantic Subsidy.

The only way in which the barge canal can possibly be made an effective competitor of the railroads and regulator of railway freight charges is for the people rather than the traffic to bear the cost of right of way, construction and maintenance, and then it is operative for only seven months in the year and only for certain classes of freight where time is not important.

The barge canal proposition is in effect a gigantic subsidy to canal transportation interests to enable them to live at all in competition with the railways. If a practicable method of extending the same financial aid to railways could be devised in exchange for an equivalent reduction of freight charges there can be no question that far greater benefits would accrue to the commercial and agricultural interests of the state than the barge canal would afford and that they would be more equitably distributed.—Holley Standard.

PASSING OF SELINA REMINGTON.

HAD BEEN A LONG SUFFERER WITH HEART DISEASE.

Funeral Services at the Independence Church Friday Last.

Mrs. Selina Green Remington, born in the town of Alfred July 19, 1831, died at Independence Oct. 6, 1903, at the age of 72 years and 2 months. She was the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Ray Green, and was one of six children, two sisters and three brothers, all of whom had passed before her.

In early life she joined the Seventh-day Baptist church at Alfred, of which she was a member until about 35 years ago, when she moved to Independence and joined the church there. In her younger days she taught school and worked at the millinery business at Alfred and Andover. About 1868 she was married to Elisha B. Green. This union lasted until 1885 when Mr. Green died. He was in the mercantile business which Mrs. Green took up at his death and continued until about four years ago. She was also postmistress for several years. In 1890 she was married to J. P. Remington, who is left to mourn her loss, with a large circle of relatives and neighbors.

In all her business and other transactions she was anxious it should be done right and honest. She was a member of the Woman's Relief Corps of Whitesville, which society attended her funeral in a body. Her funeral was largely attended on Friday afternoon, Oct. 9th. Rev. W. L. Burdick officiating, with remarks by Rev. J. Kenyon. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Interment made in Independence cemetery.

THE OPERATIC CONCERT.

A LARGE HOUSE GREETED THEM SATURDAY EVENING.

Their Work Superb, and the Entertainment a Decided Success.

A capacity house greeted the Lyceum Operatic Co. at Prest Opera House last Saturday evening. It was the first performance before an audience this season, and was well received. All worked together as well as tho it were the last night of the season's work instead of the first. The selections were of high order and the music was executed with great ability. The spirit and grace and the gift and quality of the music rendered was the best. In the opera "Martha" they surely did excellent work, even improving upon the work of last year.

The troup left for the season's work Sunday morning, being billed to perform over 150 nights, from Maine to Texas. We bespeak for them a pleasant year's work.
