Appoints Committees for War Transportation Conservation Program

H. G. Young, War Transportation Administrator for Allegany county, announces the appointment of local committees which will carry into effect here New York State's vast war transportation conservation program.

The committee members are as follows:

Harry Craig, Canaseraga.
F. L. Welstead, Wellsville.
C. L. Harrington, Belmont.
Forrest Scott, Rushford.
Charles Chipman, Bolivar.
M. J. O'Malley, Cuba.

Organization meeting of the group, when the conservation program will be outlined in detail, is scheduled to be held July 28 at Belmont.

The local program will be adapted to specific local needs, following a study of transportation facilities affecting the conduct of business and industry in this locality.

The basic program of the State calls for pooling of rides by workers; increased car occupancy by eliminating of duplication of vehicle use; substitution of planned "budget driving" for non-essential driving; improved, more efficient use of buses; elimination of high-speed driving; adjustment of traffic control facilities to emergency conditions; proper vehicle maintenance.

"Double up to save gas and rubber" is the theme of the campaign.

80 Children Enrolled At County Health Camp

Cuba.—In spite of the fact that priorities restrictions and the local floods made transportation difficult, 80 children from 15 Allegany county towns were enrolled for three weeks at the Allegany County Children's Health Camp at Cuba Lake on Sunday, July 19. Their entrance marked the opening of the second camp period for 1942. A third group of children will be taken in on August 9 for the final three week period.

Camp opened for the 22nd year on Sunday, July 5, when 69 undernourished and underprivileged children began a two week stay. According to reports filed by Dr. E. J. Gilray, camp doctor, and Doris Blakeslee, camp nurse, a gain in weight was recorded for each child. This can be attributed to the balanced diet, organized routine and daily cod liver oil which each camper receives.

Under the supervision of Miss Catherine M. Codispoti, camp director and the staff, organized recreational programs of swimming, athletics and craft are carried out. Each child is encouraged to develop talent, assume responsibility and leadership, improve his health habits and social outlook.

"In a world at war, two things are vital to the maintenance of civilian moral: the instillation of the democratic theme of life in the minds of children, and the preservation of civilian health. The Allegany Health and Tuberculosis Association and its sponsors are accomplishing these two things by providing an opportunity for county children to improve their health and live co-operatively with one another," stated Frank L. Gere, chairman of the camp committee.

Soldier Unhurt As Erie Train Crushes Car

Sgt. James Davis of Fort Knox, Ky., had a narrow escape from death or serious injury Friday when the car which he was driving was demolished by an Erie freight car near the Wellsville depot.

According to authorities Sergeant Davis, who is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Freeman of Scott avenue, was proceeding toward Scott avenue in the Freeman car. He saw the signals flash and tried to apply the brakes. The brakes failed to hold and the car was crushed under the freight car. When the car rolled over and over under the freight it came to a stop partly under the train and partly in a hole near the tracks.

The soldier crawled from the front seat of the car, where he had been pinned, and exhibited his only injury—a skinned thumb.

Dear Claire:

Thanks a million for changing my address. Now please change it again. I hope this is a bit more permanent. Yes it is good to be a working man again. What I would really like to have done is to join the boys in the services. I figure making bombers is the next best thing.

My work is in the engineering department as a Jr. Stress Analyst. All I have done so far is routine computations. By the way I go to class every morning for a couple of hours. They are trying to teach me something about airplane structures. Plenty deep I'd say. People do not realize how complicated aviation is. There is plenty of work and headaches from the thinking up of a new plane and putting it into production. All I lacked for my Masters was my thesis. But we must all pitch in and win this war first.

Brother Jim joined the Navy.

Annual Meeting Of G. L. F. Held In Andover

John Elster and William Joyce were elected local committeemen for the next three years at the annual meeting of local G. L. F. patrons, held at the Andover Grange hall last Thursday evening.

Complimenting local farmers on the way they have answered the Government's call for "food to win the war and write the peace," A. J. Masterman, G.L.F. district manager said that Northeast farmers are producing more milk, eggs, meat and food crops than ever before.

He cited a survey showing that the average G.L.F. patron is producing on his farm enough food to supply the needs of 70 people. "This means," Mr. Masterman said, "that the 140,000 G.L.F. patrons are producing enough food for more than 9,000,000 people—more people than live in New York City, Washington, D. C., Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse, Schenectady, Rochester and Andover combined."

To supply farmers with essential supplies for food production, Mr. Masterman said, the co-operative during the past year had bought ahead, carried bigger stocks and built more facilities. Donald De Remer, who has managed Farmers' Feed Supply and who is the local agent-buyer, reported an increased volume of business by local patrons. Mr. DeRemer is about to go into naval service and everyone wished him the best of luck in this new venture.

Mr. Masterman also traced the history of the G.L.F. from its beginning in 1920 as a dairy feed mixing service until today when it is serving some 140,000 farmer-patrons with their needs from feed, seed and fertilizer to such items as cake flour, milled from their own wheat and canned goods from their own fruits and vegetables.

Other features of the meeting were movies, piano selections and refreshments.

Other members of the local patron's committee are: Everett Clark, who was chosen committee chairman for the next year, William Pease, Charles Robinson and Howard Green.

Girl Scout News

The Girl Scouts held their last summer meeting Wednesday, July 15, in the homemaking room at the Andover Central School.

The main part of the meeting was spent in discussing the second class requirements. In order to be a second class Scout each girl must complete one unit of work in each of the ten different program fields. These fields include activities in music and dancing, literature and dramatics, health, nature, sports, community life, arts and craft, international friendship, homemaking and out-of-door pioneering.

Many girls are planning to work individually on some of these during the rest of the summer.

Outside of Scout meetings the girls are making their own neckerchiefs. The neckerchief is a part of the Scout uniform. The ties are yellow in color with a black emblem and will be very attractive on the green Scout uniform.

The next meeting will be held the first Wednesday after school opens this fall. The girls will meet in the evening at 7 o'clock in the homemaking room at the school.

WANDERING WITH WILLIE

Dearest Sergeant Cabe:

We read your letter of last week with the deepest interest and profound surprise to hear that you are still yourself. The only news that we have really received lately is that the Army is getting so careless about handing out Sergeant stripes.

Our ghost writer was not drafted, Cabe. He is still about as usual but nowadays everybody seems so busy, talking about the war, polishing and checking our tires, trying to drink the beer that keeps piling up since you were drafted and going up on the observation post to see if we can locate a plane that is wandering about the blue. Oh yes, and then we do work in the meantime.

The Government is giving Andover all the breaks possible in an endeavor to keep it from being a one-horse town. They took the gas away from practically all the rest of the world and still lets Old Allegany burn the midnight joy-juice, but we don't know for how long this will be. The day before the 22nd we were still doubtful as to whether we would be allowed gas or not so we filled our cigarette lighter to overflowing.

Your picture of the burg in the horse-and-buggy era does hold a lot of possibilities, Cabe. Just think (if possible) what a mess it will be now that the government has decided not to allow tires for brew trucks and pop trucks, when all the dry farmers from the hills come into town and will have to go down to the depot to wait for the freight to roll in with a load of concentrated hops.

The village is about the same Sarge, as when you left it. The only difference we see is that there seems to be more unescorted ladies wandering around than when you were here (but you wouldn't be interested, an old married man like yourself). And with the shortage of silk the Andover gals are going more and more for ankle socks. The silk stockings on the market now are more or less of the Nipponese type—one Yank and they run like h—. Get it?

Oh yes, we forgot to ask you what kind of a guard-house do they have where you are (undoubtedly you have tried them all in every camp you have been in) and how do they manage to keep you fed?

There are so many things we would like to ask you but don't know if you could answer them so will forget them until a later date. After that letter you sent last week we want your brain to flatten out a bit or it might get muscle-bound from trying to pierce our tender hide.

Well Cabe, drop in again some time when you have lots of time in the guardhouse or when you are not sleeping. We are always glad to hear from our "only friend." We really were lonesome.

ONE of the saddest garden incidents resulting from the flood was down on Second street where S. George S. had one Victory Garden, and we mean Victory Garden. He started early this year as soon as the snow was off the ground to plan and plant, plow and prod, and he was really proud of the products of his progressiveness. Well along came the high water as high water comes and not knowing that it was S. George's garden went smack-dab right thru the waving corn and beans. Saturday afternoon when the water lowered, S. G. S. went down that way and rode right by but looked the other way as the sight was too much for him. The last we heard was that he was going down and plant a flag in the middle of it—at half mast.

Since quitting the garden business George, we understand, has been in the exterior decorating business as the "Blue Menace" proves as he comes "purring" down our streets.

Turks Will Resist Aggression, Says Andover Girl

The Turks will fight any aggressor, is the opinion of Miss Eleanor DeRemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. DeRemer of Andover, recently returned from Turkey after six years as an instructor in mathematics in the American Collegiate Institute at Izmir, Smyrna.

Miss DeRemer spoke before the regular weekly meeting of the Wellsville Rotary Club Tuesday noon. Her topic was "Turkey for the Turks."

Unable to make reservations on the Atlantic Clipper, Miss DeRemer chose to make the hazardous trip home by boat. While she admits that they had several anxious moments, the freighter on which she was a passenger landed safely some place on the Atlantic seaboard after crossing from the West African port. She reached New York Sunday, July 12. She made the trip from Izmir to Cairo by train and automobile and flew from Cairo to Lagos, Nigeria.

Miss DeRemer explained the background of the cleaning out of undesirable minorities in Turkey by the exchange of populations following the first World War and told of the rising personal pride which has been developed in calling themselves Turks.

"The Turks take a great deal of pride in their army and everything they have," said Miss DeRemer and expressed the opinion that they will put up strong resistance against any aggressor which attempts to overrun them."—Wellsville Reporter.
