

WILL OF THE WILL

UNION, O. T., Oct. 3.—Governor and Mrs. Slater, Major Weigl and Special Agent Horn have arrived at Chandler after a hard and adventurous trip. The Governor lived much of the time in a deserted wigwag and had to be his own cook. He is besieged by office-seekers, but no appointments have yet been made.

ROXBURY, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Vice-President Levi P. Morton has engaged H. M. Cottrell, assistant superintendent of the Kansas State Farm, and a graduate of the Kansas State College, as Superintendent of "Ellerston," Mr. Morton's country residence at Rhinebeck, on the Hudson.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The chorus of indignation caused among bankers and brokers by the Treasury order for the Customs House to require importations of specie to be accompanied by Consular invoices and the specie inspected by custom officers before being delivered to the importers had its effect in the prompt rescinding or suspension of the order.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Harrison, wife of the President, spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, and left for Washington this morning. Mrs. Harrison's stay at "Aurandale" was a most enjoyable one and she will remember with pleasure the many attentions shown her by residents of the Garden City of New England and surrounding suburbs.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Oct. 5.—The Port Reading Railroad Company has begun the work of laying tracks on private lands in Raritan township. The owners will sue for heavy damages. The Raritan township committee has secured the filing of a bill in chancery to prevent the encroachment of the road on a public highway at Metuchen. The bill will be returnable on the 12th.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 1.—There is a strong movement in this city in the direction of securing the appointment of William F. Hartry to the place on the Democratic National Committee made vacant by the death of William L. Scott. A meeting of leading Democrats was held last night at which it was resolved to recommend Mr. Hartry's selection.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Board of Pardons has recommended a commutation of the death sentence of Alexander Killen, of Allegheny County, to imprisonment for life. John McManus, of Philadelphia, under sentence of death, is granted a brief respite. The application of Harriet Barrow, of Philadelphia, under sentence of death, was refused.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The Vendome Rubber Company of New York, together with Horace Maxwell, have sworn out a writ of replevin and placed it in the hands of the coroner in order to secure about $10,000 worth of rubber garments in the stores of the late G. D. Barr. The shippers allege in their petition that the goods were obtained by fraud.

NEW YORK, Sep. 29.—One of the most important horse sales of the year was made yesterday at the Gravesend track. The flying filly La Tosca, which is without doubt the best three-year-old in the country, has been sold by the Hough Brothers to Pierre Lorillard. The price paid was $20,000, which is probably the largest sum ever paid for a horse in this country at private sale.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Reports are received by the Bureau of American Republics to the effect that the experiments of using petroleum for fuel on the Oroya Railroad in Peru have proven successful. The trials were made at an altitude of 3,800 feet above the sea with the two locomotives from the Rogers Works of Paterson, N. J. The oil used is not crude petroleum, but a residuum oil.

SING SING, N. Y., Sep. 29.—The third annual reunion of Company F, 17th New York Veterans, was held in this village yesterday. A camp fire was held in the Opera House in the evening, which was largely attended. Addresses were delivered by Gen. James A. O'Brien and Ira M. Hedges, Col. Henry M. Farley and Major Helvin, two Confederates, and Rev. Clark Wright, the department chaplain.

ST. LOUIS, Sep. 30.—Pennington's ship, which was under a tent at the Fair Grounds in readiness for a trial, to be made Saturday, when the athletic sports will be in progress, was caught up by the storm which passed over the city in the afternoon and was blown away. As no trace of the ship has been found it seems probable that it was destroyed. The trial has been abandoned. The ship cost $20,000.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 5.—The body of a man was found last evening in a field on the outskirts of this city. A revolver was in his right hand and there was a bullet hole in his forehead. Letters were found in his pockets showing that his name was George Gross. One letter was a recommendation from the United States Light House Board at Tompkinsville, S. L., stating that Gross was a first-class ship carpenter. He had only a few cents in his pocket.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The report from Ottawa that the reciprocity conference set for October 12, between Secretary Blaine and Representatives of the Canadian Government has been indefinitely postponed is confirmed at the Executive Mansion and at the State Department. The reason given for the postponement is that the president deems it best that the Canadian Commissioners should deal directly with Mr. Blaine.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 3.—The extensive beer brewing plant formerly known as the Beerschmidt and Marr Brewing Company of this city, which was sold to an English syndicate in August, 1892, has been offered back by the syndicate to the original owners at a sum very considerably less than was paid for it, $300,000 in cash and $200,000 in debenture notes.

A HYPONOTIC INFLUENCE

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 5.—Thomas A. Bell, the man who wrecked the Star Rubber Company and the Trenton Rubber Company, makes the assertion that he will go somewhere else, and will soon be as wealthy as he was a few months ago, through the medium of his hypnotic gift, which wonderful power has already ruined a number of men.

Among those whom Bell ruined were Phillip A. Dunn, president of one of the leading banks, and Jonathan Steward, a prominent and wealthy wholesale grocer. Bell had these men completely in his hands. They did just as he wished. When revelations of Bell's dealings were made and nearly every business man in Trenton understood the situation, Dunn and Steward stood behind the wrecker and provided him with funds. Financial ruin came to Dunn and he died, but up to the last he was as a baby in Bell's presence. The same was true with Steward, who has also died since the disclosures and difficulties occurred.

Bell frequently boasted that he was gifted with a magnetic influence over others. There was one man, an employe at the Star Rubber Works, upon whom Bell frequently operated. When, for instance, a book or document had been lost in the office, he would call in his man, put him under the influence of hypnotism, and he would at once go to the safe or shelf, as the case might be, and put his hand on the lost article. To the person thus under his influence Bell could make a glass of water appear to be any other drink, such as chocolate, coffee or whiskey, and could make his subject drink it supposing that it was in reality what it seemed. Scientific exhibitions were given by Bell at Philadelphia and other places, at some of which Dr. Ward, of the State Insane Asylum, was present.

At one of these Mr. Bell placed his subject directly in front of him, with his back turned so that he could not see him. Bell would then take a pin and stick himself, and as quick as a flash the man he had under his power would place his hand on the part of his own body corresponding to the place where Bell had stuck himself. One of the onlookers, thinking there was some fraud about it, asked Bell to let him take the pin and do the sticking. His request was granted, but the result was the same.

WAS SHE COERCED?

CHARGES MADE BY THE LATEST TESTAMENT OF Mrs. Searles' Will.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 5.—The latest claimant for Mrs. Searles-Hopkins' millions, Mrs. Marie E. Bresse, of Los Angeles, Cal., has filed protest against the probating of the will, and makes several sweeping charges in support of her reason for contesting the will. She claims that the will now being contested is not the last will and testament of the deceased. Also "that the said decedent was not competent to make a last will and testament, and was not at the last of sound or disposing mind and memory. That the said decedent was also duly influenced in the execution thereof and in the attempted disposition of her property thereunder by her husband, Edward F. Searles, and other persons."

No information has been received at the Probate Court of any settlement of the case by Timothy Hopkins. It is stated that Searles is more determined than ever to fight the case, and it now appears as if startling evidence might be submitted against him. The hearing stands adjourned to October 14.

REMOVED THE SPLINTS.

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF A LABORING MAN BY A BUFFALO SURGEON.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Dr. L. Bradley Dorr, who so inhumanly treated a poor laborer who did not have money enough to pay for setting his broken leg, is receiving the censure of both press and public.

Frank Snyder, a laboring man, fell from a street car and sustained a fracture of his right leg. Dr. Dorr was called to attend him and placed the injured leg in splints. Snyder asked how much it would be, and the doctor replied that it would cost him $10.

"I am a poor man and cannot pay such a price," replied Snyder. Then Dr. Dorr removed the splints and left the man in his agony, saying that he could not take care of people without money. Some of the man's friends found him later and took him to the hospital, where his leg was rebandaged. The hospital physicians say that Snyder's leg will be crooked and that he will be a cripple for life. It was due to taking the splints away after the leg had been injured.

Killed His Wife and a Boarder.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—At a late hour Saturday night John Osmond, aged 28 years, shot and killed his wife at her home on Third avenue, and also shot and fatally wounded John P. Burchell, a boarder in the house. Osmond was a hard drinker and had frequent quarrels with his wife. He left her five weeks ago. She had commenced proceedings for divorce. He went home and questioned his wife about the matter and when she refused to talk about it he shot her dead. Then he turned around and shot Burchell. The murderer was arrested.

Detective Arrested for Blackmail.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—John T. Norris, a detective of almost national reputation, is arrested on a charge of blackmail preferred by a man whom he had been shadowing. His accuser is John Searley, alias Jack Forbes, who was for a time supposed to have been implicated in the robbery of Thomas Blackburn, a Missouri farmer, to the tune of $7,000. It is alleged Norris had Searley arrested knowing him to be innocent. Farmer Blackburn failed to identify Searley and he was released. Norris is also called upon to answer a suit for $20,000 damages for malicious prosecution.

SIX ENTOMBED ALIVE

Horrible Fate of Miners in the Richardson Colliery.

NO HOPE OF RECOVERY ALIVE.

Two More Fatally Injured and a Number of Others Seriously Hurt.

THE GANGWAY CLOSED AND THE MEN WERE SHUT IN—EVERY POSSIBLE EFFORT BEING MADE TO REACH THE BURIED MINERS—THEY WILL LIKELY BE OVERCOME BY GAS BEFORE ASSISTANCE CAN REACH THEM—THE GANGWAY A NEW OPENING—HEARTRENDING SCENES.

GLENCARBON, Pa., Oct. 5.—Great excitement in this valley was created when reports came that the Richardson mines had closed and all the miners were lost. Later word came that the west gangway of the Crosby vein had closed and that twelve men were entombed.

Rescuing parties were immediately formed and on entering the mines the body of Michael Grant was found on the gangway. He was fatally injured. Then were discovered John McGaskie, Polander, dead; Thomas Conville and James Brennan, seriously and Martin Kelly, mine foreman, slightly injured. These were the only bodies found before searching the inclosed gangway, inside of which six other men were entombed, with no hope of their recovery alive. Their names are: John Purcell, fire boss, married, wife and three children; John Salmon, single; John Lawler, wife and three children; James Simons, single; Michael Welsh, married, two children; John Culick, Polander, single, and Thos. Clacy, widower, with seven children. The company and the men are doing all possible for the speedy recovery of the entombed, dead or alive.

The Richardson Colliery is situated in the Hecksherville valley and is operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. The gangway in which the accident occurred is a new opening, but twelve breasts in working order at present. The accident has caused a gloom to fall over the valley, which is partly relieved by the untiring efforts of the officials and the men engaged in removing the mass of coal which lies between them and the imprisoned miners.

There is no hope of recovering the bodies alive, as the gas will overcome them long before relief can reach them.

LOSS IS LARGE.

THE N. Y. CENTRAL TRAIN ROBBERS GOT AWAY WITH CONSIDERABLE BOOTY.

UTICA, Oct. 5.—The American Express officials have been telling the loss which they sustained by the robbery of one of their cars near this city last week was very small. At first they placed the loss at not over $1,000 and afterwards got it down to $350.

Near the old distillery, three miles east of this city, two young men, who were out for a walk yesterday, found three large canvas bags and seven jewelry boxes, all empty. Scattered around were envelopes and wrapping paper in which the packages had been done up. From the marks on these papers it is evident that the robbers got away with considerable booty. One was labelled "Jefferson County National Bank, Watertown, $5,000," and another "Watertown National Bank, Bonds $5,000."

Many envelopes were found on which were marks, indicating that they had contained various sums, ranging from $20 to $50. The jewelry boxes had contained diamond rings, but of their number or value no idea could be gained.

GERMANS CELEBRATING.

THE 208TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FIRST ARRIVAL OF GERMAN SETTLERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Germans of this city yesterday celebrated the 208th anniversary of the arrival in America of the first band of German settlers, by holding a festival. The choruses of ten German singing societies took part. The orator of the day was Hon. Carl Schurz.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—To-morrow will be generally observed by the German-American citizens of the District of Columbia. Arrangements have been completed for a grand military and industrial parade which will be reviewed by President Harrison as it passes Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the Executive Mansion. In the evening orations will be delivered at the Schutzen Park, one by L. W. Haberborn in German, and another by Simon Wolf, in English. The festivities will conclude with music and a grand pyrotechnic display.

Boston Central Labor Union.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—At the meeting of the Boston Central Labor Union, a communication from the Executive Board of the United Garment Workers of America was read, stating that a conspiracy had been formed to disrupt their organization between certain large clothing manufacturers and the Knights of Labor, by forcing the members of the United Garment Workers to join the Knights of Labor. The matter will be investigated. The trouble in the Elgin and Waltham watch companies works will also be investigated, the men claiming that the recent reduction in wages is unjust.

Big Blaze in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5.—Fire yesterday morning destroyed Elevator "A" of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's system, at Locust Point, together with 135,000 bushels of wheat and all the machinery. The loss is estimated at about $600,000. It required the utmost efforts of the firemen to prevent the fire from spreading to surrounding property.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 3.—By the collision of two trains on the Reading Railroad, near Tombschen, in the morning, Engineer Thomas Eulert, Fireman J. K. Brocius and Conductor Griswold were injured, none of them fatally.

LAWYER MONAGHAN'S FRIENDS DENY THAT HE WAS ADDICTED TO SPOONS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The friends of Robert James Monaghan, the wealthy Philadelphia lawyer, who disappeared so mysteriously from the Gilsley House last Thursday, and of whom nothing has since been heard, insist that Inspector Byrnes's theory that he is voluntarily hiding himself, is not true. They declare that Mr. Monaghan was not addicted to spoons, and that he must have met with foul play.

Mr. Monaghan's partners in Philadelphia say that his accounts are all straight, and that his domestic relations were unusually pleasant. He was rich and lived in elegant style at West Chester, Philadelphia's splendid suburb, with a charming wife and three children.

Mr. Monaghan was a leading Democrat, president of the Democratic organization in Chester County, and was Gov. Pattison's companion in his last stamping tour of the State. Telegrams of inquiry have come by the score to the Gilsley House from prominent Pennsylvanians, and the police are scored by his friends for their apathy and laxity in searching for the missing man.

Lawyer Monaghan's friends deny that he was seen in Philadelphia last Friday. His uncle, R. E. Monaghan, was mistaken for him.

CARL GETS HIS LENA.

TWO LOVERS, UNFORTUNATELY SEPARATED, HAPPILY REUNITED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—By the departure of Lena Dohbert, a pretty Saxon girl, for Milwaukee, Wis., through aid furnished by a charitable person in this city, a romantic story is nearly brought to its conclusion. When she arrives there she will be married to Carl Van Hoff, her old schoolmate.

Carl and Lena are natives of the little village of Rixford, Saxony. Carl left there six months ago to come to this country, and Lena started for here on the Dubledam, which steamer had to put into Plymouth after an encounter with a cyclone.

Lena remained with the vessel and arrived in New York September 23. As she had no money she was detained to be sent back if no one came to her relief. In this emergency she thought of her old playmate, Carl Van Hoff, who, she said, would take care of her.

Carl, who was in Milwaukee, was communicated with and expressed his willingness to marry the girl if he could do so by proxy, or if she was sent on to Milwaukee, as he was too poor to pay for the journey.

The Immigration Commissioners would not consent to this, and were on the point of sending Lena back to Germany, when a kind-hearted person interfered with the result stated.

IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The following officers were elected at the convention of the Irish National League, M. V. Ganon of Nebraska, president; Patrick Boyle of Toronto, Ont., first vice-president; M. D. Gallagher, New York city, second vice-president; E. J. O'Connor of Augusta, Ga., third vice-president, and William Myman of New York city, treasurer. Secretary Sutton, of Lincoln, was reappointed. The new constitution of the League is, in the main, a repetition of the other one, except that it cuts aloof from the home party, and makes the League a distinctly American affair, without responsibility to the Parliamentary party.

was, staggered the young man, "fitting," said the old man, with a shabby bitterness, "that the son strike the last blow at a life the tortured father cursed!"

"By my power," said General Paul, "I will strike humanity and respect. I will strike the dead of my father, and I will curse my life as well as yours."

"None that I can utter here. I have ordered the best apartment in the prison to be prepared for your use. Let us go there, where we can talk further," said the General.

"A dirty-looking, low-browed fellow, who had all the appearance of a deputy hangman, appeared at this juncture, and rattling a bunch of keys, that was fastened to his belt, to attract attention to himself, he bowed very low before General Paul, and asked:

"Excellency, the apartment you ordered for the prisoner is ready; shall I conduct him thither?"

General Paul nodded, and the man with the keys, taking Count Pulaski's sash which one of the soldiers had brought in from the sleigh, led the way through a great oaken door that was half covered over with rusty iron knobs.

Along gloomy corridors, up cold, massive stone steps, down into hollows made by the feet of dead prisoners, and past cells that looked like death vaults, the turnkey led Count Pulaski and the General.

Near the top and front of the building he opened a door with one of the many keys carried at his belt, and they entered a large, well-furnished apartment, heated by a large stove.

"This, excellency," said the turnkey, waving his hand about the room, with a manner that indicated great admiration for his sumptuous surroundings, "is one of the private rooms of the governor of the prison, and never but once before was it set aside for the use of a prisoner."

"Go outside, and there await me," said the General, motioning to the door.

When they were alone, the General turned to Count Pulaski, and said: "Under the circumstances, I cannot but think that your judgment, in everything is against me, and yet, God knows, that I would this day make amends for the wrong my father did you, by changing places with you, if in my power."

"You know then of your father's treatment?" said the Count.

"Since I first heard of it, through the father of the present Count Orloff, fifteen years ago, it has never been a day absent from my thoughts. It will become me to say aught of myself, and yet justice to myself demands it." The General hesitated, and placed a chair for the prisoner.

Count Pulaski sat down and motioned for him to proceed.

"When I came into power during the Turkish war and after my uncle's (the Prince of Moskova's) death, I at once used that power to secure your pardon and freedom. When you returned from Siberia I would have thrown myself at your feet and craved pardon for the son of the man who so wronged you, but I feared you would scorn me, as you may now be doing in your heart."

"I will hear you out," said the Count.

"I worked to have your estates restored, and, failing in my efforts, I was ready to place all my wealth at your disposal, but I feared you might think I was mocking a heart that had already been wounded enough."

The General ceased, but while speaking he shook with emotion, and now discovering his weakness—it really showed his nobler strength—he averted his face to conceal it.

Scientific Federation Renounced.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—At a meeting in Lyda Park, attended by several thousand workmen, resolutions were passed denouncing the Liberal Federation at Newcastle for having suppressed free speech, and neglected the interests of the labor classes in order to give precedence to Irish Home Rule. It was resolved that the Federation was therefore unworthy of confidence, and that a labor league should be formed to secure the election of labor representatives to Parliament. Bernard Shane presided.

Canadian Pacific Steamship Line.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—General Passenger Agent McNicol of the Canadian Pacific road says that the Canadian Pacific would soon commence to run steamers between this port and Vancouver. Arrangements are being made to have the Canadian Pacific steamers on the Alna trade-call here commencing November.

The Shippers Allege Fraud.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The Vendome Rubber Company of New York, together with Horace Maxwell, have sworn out a writ of replevin and placed it in the hands of the coroner in order to secure about $10,000 worth of rubber garments in the stores of the late G. D. Barr. The shippers allege in their petition that the goods were obtained by fraud.
