Proud Of It. Some one has noticed the fact that in the Congressional Directory, which contains a biagraphical sketch of every member of the house, that one thing that men do not fail to mention is the fact of their lowly birth. That and the hard struggles of boyhood are facts evidently of which Congressmen are proud. One Congressman writes: "Has never known a home outside his own country, left an orphan when 9 years old, and without resources was put to work on a farm, where he remained until large enough to shove himself away from the plow handles." It is often a mistake for a boy to "shove himself away from the plow handles." There is something significant in this and worthy of more than a passing thought by some young men who want to get away from the drudgery of the farm in younger years. Places in professional life in all its different phrases are filled with men whose success is due to the rugged health and simple living of early days. There is something for honest pride when an individual has by honesty and integrity worked his way from lowliness to fame.

General. Whenever a man works his way to the front, there are always enemies who attempt to build themselves up by tearing reputation down. General Wood is an illustration. While his enemies were saying he was not fitted for the high command because he had little or no experience in actual war, there came news that he had a fierce battle with the Moros and had killed 300 of them, winning a signal victory, now they say it was wanton butchery. General Wood's Cuban record is under investigation and while the senate committee are investigating it would be well to refrain from judgment. General Wood accomplished almost the miraculous in Cuba, was since pointed out as the President's friend and some having political games to play and not having the courage to attack the President seek to arouse an opposition to the administration for future uses to feather their own nest. General Wood is far and above many of his critics and will bear the light, while some of his critics might not.

The Barge Canal. One of the elements of strength of the people is the submission to the voices of the majority. We opposed the barge canal for reason stated time and again, but the people voiced in no uncertain tones the fact that they desired the expenditure of the $101,000,000 or more. Governor Odell has recently expressed himself and wisely and the manner of his approach to the question is certainly commendable and business like. Prominent canal advocates were before the Governor last week and he said in answer to some of the questions: "That it forethought and preparation will prevent it, there will be no canal scandal." Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away evidently the students of the matter believe the $101,000,000 will prove sufficient and the 50 year bonding of the state does not seem to be a favorable thought with the Governor. Governor Odell has made a study of the matter and a business like procedure the people are assured of.

Roosevelt, Odell and Platt enjoyed a conference at dinner at the White House a few days since and some of the Democratic journals have been thrown into a fit, because of Republican harmony.

Dowie is planning now an invasion to Paris. The remembrance of his New York city invasion should be enough. Reports say he is in financial straits. He may want to raise the wind.

A GREAT GAME.

Hon. Grover Cleveland has broken his sphinx like silence and declared that he is not a candidate. In an open letter to the Brooklyn Eagle, which took the iniative in declaring for Mr. Cleveland as a presidential candidate, he says: "In the midst of it all and in full view of every consideration presented, I have not for a moment been able, nor am I now able, to open my mind to the thought that in any circumstance or upon any consideration I should ever again become the nominee of my party for the presidency. My determination not to do so is unalterable and conclusive." This seemingly is final and Mr. Cleveland is unavailable. It cannot be denied that he would be a formidable candidate for perhaps no Democrat has so firm a hold on the people as Mr. Cleveland. Thus the chances for the re-election of President Roosevelt are growing brighter and the opposition will need to be led by a practically dark horse. The Eagle declares for Judge Parker and says that he will carry New York. "He was cheated out of the governorship by the politicians, but must not be cheated out of the presidency." Such a statement is evidence of the internal dissensions, back of such a statement—which is a direct slap at David B. Hill—is a view of the internal conditions of the Democratic party. Mr. Hill has never been noted for a political forgiving spirit and the war will be carried to the polls. No, Judge Parker or no other Democrat can carry New York state unless the signs change materially from the present. The conference of the Republican trio, Roosevelt, Odell and Platt, and the agreement to continue the work in harmony agrees well for the work of the future and Republican success in New York state. New York state has always been, but will be more than ever in the national election next fall, the battle ground for presidency. Tammany is to be reckoned as a local factor. The fact of Tammany victory is not indicative of democratic success in the state, but the fact is that it has toned up democratic courage. Republicans true and loyal will lay all differences aside (if there are any) and make from this time on a solid united front against an enemy that is even now on the defensive. According to the published reports of the conference, Hon. Thos. B. Platt is to be the recognized leader of the organization while Governor Odell is to manage the campaign and both will work in harmony with each other and with President Roosevelt. It is not too much to say that no man in recent years has shown the political acumen or knowledge of statesmanship as has the President. His handling of the postal scandal, the Indian affairs and the probings into the different departments has proven the mettle of the man, made him enemies, but in the words of another often quoted, "He will be loved for the enemies he has made." That certain interests would like President Roosevelt removed off the board in the great game of politics is plainly evident, but the powers that be, the people, will demand his renomination and the people will see that he is a winner in the great game.

Bryan is hobnobbing with the Dukes and Lords of England. Some of his campaign speeches would make mighty interesting reading for some of the aristocrats.

Andover village will have a "merry Christmas" this year. Two industries have already a considerable pay roll. Last year it was $.000.

The prospects for a lively Christmas trade were never better. If you want your share of the trade let the people know what you sell.

Burglars entered the home of Mrs. Mary G. Eddy, the high priestess of Christian Science. Was it a burgiary or only a thought?

You can tell a man's interest in his fellowmen by the way he does or does not keep his side walk free from snow.

Some of the village lamps would be better lighted. Darkness is not a sign of progression.

Its the little colds that grow into big colds; the big colds that end in consumption and death. Watch the big colds. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

We Do Not Want It. Senator Newland has introduced a resolution in the senate inviting Cuba to become a state in the Union. His fellow senators received the resolution with scant courtesy and with emphatic rebuke. Evidently the senators are for once in the right. Such resolution is a direct violation of our obligations. There was an understanding, if indeed not practical, tactical, that we went into the war with Spain without selfish motives and for the sole purpose of giving the Cubans their freedom. Now to attemp annexation will be giving the falsehood direct and be notice to the world that the Cubans while free could not govern themselves. Annexation on invitation would be the folly of misgovernment. If Cuba was forced upon us by circumstances as was the Phillipines, that's another matter, but as it is we do not want Cuba and Cuba does not want us and Senator Newland would do well to recall his resolution.

GREAT LAKES FOOD SUPPLY.

It is gratifying to note that in one important matter, which affects both this country and the Dominion, our Canadian neighbors are willing to cooperate with us, and that is the preservation of the fish supply of the great lakes. The Toronto Globe asserts that the province of Ontario is ready to establish and enforce such regulations as will restore the food capacity of the lakes, which has been seriously diminished by indiscriminate netting as well as by poaching. To such an extent has this been carried on, and so frequent were the complaints of the Canadian fishermen, who were obliged to observe a close season, while the Americans were fishing all the time, that the provincial authorities at one time contemplated giving up all efforts to preserve the fish and let the work of grill divers and destruction go on. It was argued that if Americans would not assist the supply would soon be depleted and the Canadians might as well catch all the fish they could while there were any left.

It is creditable to the Canadians that they did not adopt such a policy, but instead sought to induce the lake states to join them in adopting and enforcing such measures as will keep up the supply. All the states bordering on the lakes except New York have expressed their willingness to co-operate with the Canadians. As the New York commission will shortly meet, it will undoubtedly join its neighbors in bringing about this most important result. Under proper regulations the great lakes are capable of producing an abundant supply of food fish. The lakes should, however, be restocked, and a stop should be put to indiscriminate netting. Otherwise there is likely to be a marked scarcity in the supply as well as a corresponding increase in the price. Fish is a wholesome, simple and common diet, and there is no reason why it should not be even more plentiful than meats and much cheaper. In the plans for the protection of this source of food supply there should be the heartiest co-operation on both sides of the line.

How to Prevent Croup.

It will be good news to the mothers of small children to learn that croup can be prevented. The first sign of croup is hoarseness. A day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse. This is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the rough cough appears, and it will dispel all symptoms of croup. In this way all danger and anxiety may be avoided. This remedy is used by many thousands of mothers and has never been known to fail. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always depended upon and that is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.

The Chicago Tribune, which has a penchant for statistics, figures out that October fire losses for the United States and Canada were $10,409,800, as compared with $9,503,300 in 1902 and $14,749,900 in 1901. Of the month's totals $8,565,766 is to be credited to the United States. As compared with this total the showing for November is not encouraging, for the total losses for the first seventeen days are $7,804,601. To this amount two fires alone, at Coney Island and Troy, N. Y., contributed $2,500,000. The total fire losses for 1903 to date are about $120,000,000, as compared with about $150,000,000 for all of last year. It is likely that the losses this year will considerably exceed those of last year and nearly approximate those of 1901.

Although Captain Nelson Brown sailed from Boston to Gibraltar in a nineteen foot boat and proved his nerve and seamanship, he did not add much to the science of navigation or any other branch of the world's wisdom.

In granting a pension of $50,000 to General Gomez the Cuban congress evidently desires the battle scarred veteran to retire permanently from the revolutionary business.

STRANGE DEADLOCK.

The Novel Situation at Present In Congress.

THE QUESTION OF ADJOURNMENT.

It is Causing Speculation in Washington—What's the Matter With Charlie?—A Kansas Scheme—A Jim Hill Story.

Washington, Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Considerable speculation has occurred over what may happen if the present deadlock between the two houses over the matter of adjournment continues until Dec. 7 at noon, the time fixed for convening the first regular session of congress. It has been found that no extra session has failed to adjourn by concurrent resolution, although an extraordinary session of the Forty-fifth congress in 1877 did not close until ten minutes before the hour of noon the day the regular session convened. If there is no adjournment the question will arise whether the regular session is a part of the extra session or the second session of this congress. The present intention of the house managers is to pass no adjournment resolution, but that Speaker Cannon at 12 o'clock on Monday, Dec. 7, will declare the extra session expired by limitation and with a second rap of his gavel call the regular session to order. There is not in the history of congress a precedent for such a condition as now exists.

What's the Matter With Charlie?

When the Kansas delegation in congress was struggling with the selection of a United States district judge, some one made the suggestion that this would be a good time to get rid of Charlie Curtis. "Let's shelve him on the bench," said he, "and he will trouble us no more." It was a "shelving" that Curtis would have liked, $5000 a year, a life position, no more worry about elections. Well, yes, but the delegation could not agree to recommend. It was evident from the suggestion made that Curtis is disturbing somebody's political slumber in Kansas. When people are so dead anxious to take care of some popular man it indicates that he is in a position to make trouble for them.

Has Been Worked Before.

This idea of disposing of a popular man by giving him something permanent outside of politics has been worked in Kansas before. Just after Funston captured Aguinaldo his friends wanted him made a brigadier general at once.

"But he has only performed a good piece of scouting," said a high officer. "If he gets a captain's commission it will be all he deserves."

"But he won't take that," said Kansas. "If we don't get Funston out of Kansas he'll go back there with all his new glory and upset everything."

And Funston was made a brigadier general and will hold a command rank until 1929.

A Jim Hill Story.

James J. Hill, who controls the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, as well as other railroads and several steamship lines, is an agriculturist and knows a lot about farming. One time he, with Governor William D. Hoard of Wisconsin and a congressman, were discussing pigs at a hotel in this city.

"Mr. Hoard, did you ever feed ground wheat dry?" said Hill.

"No," answered Hoard.

"Well, you should try it," said Hill.

"But it takes the pigs so long to eat the dry food," chipped in the congressman.

"Mr. Congressman," said Hill, "how much do you figure the pig's time is worth?"

Put Up a Joke on Lodge.

At a recent senatorial dinner Samuel Hill, president of the Washington State Good Roads association, was present and made a little talk. He referred to an experience he had with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge when Lodge was a tutor and Hill was a student at Harvard college. He said the embryo senator taught the students by having them prepare his lectures, and then he would criticise them. One student, who was given to taking his ease, would often copy bodily from books rather than prepare an original paper. He was assigned to prepare an article on the discovery of America and founding of colonies. He began with a statement found in the text book about the uncertainties of what was beyond the Atlantic and wrote:

"America was discovered"—

Here he turned two leaves instead of one and continued:

—"by Sebastian and John Cabot"—

"What is that?" asked Lodge. "Are you sure of that statement? Well, perhaps you are right. Leave the paper with me, and I will look up the authorities."

"We never heard," said Hill, "whether or not Lodge found out that his ancestors were the discoverers of this continent."

One on Brownlow.

Here is a story which Representative Brownlow of Tennessee tells on himself: It appears that Brownlow has no constituents that get into government employ through the civil service route. He made an investigation and found that a large number who had been selected were from a district represented by a New England member.

"How is it," he asked, "that you get so many appointments through the civil service commission? There isn't a man from my district that gets a place that way."

"Humph!" said the New Englander contemptuously. "If there was a man in your district that could pass a civil service examination you wouldn't be here."

POORMASTER'S HOUSE BADLY DAMAGED.

Mrs. Ordway Fell Down Cellar Stairs and is Severely Injured—Loss Will Be About $500.

The house of Poormaster Daniel Ordway of Canisteo was badly damaged by fire Wednesday night. It seems that Mr. Ordway had been down cellar to thaw out some water pipes that had frozen and it is thought possible that some sparks were communicated to the upper story. Flames were discovered in the upper rooms and the firemen called out, but it was with great difficulty that the flames were put under control. The house had been repaired this summer and was in good condition. The upper story was badly damaged and the loss will be about $500. During the fire, Mrs. Ordway, who is aged, fell down the cellar stairs and was quite seriously injured.

The Best Showing in Steuben County.

The Corning post-office led all other offices in the county of Steuben in its financial record for the year ending June 30, 1903. The total receipts were $24,542.06, the disbursements were $15,259.67, leaving a net revenue to the government of $9,282.39. The figures above do not, of course, include the money order business of the office, which aggregate about $200,000 each year.

Edwin Spaulding, an old and much respected citizen of Corning, died at his home in Centerville Saturday evening, aged seventy-one years.

ANOTHER DEATH.

Harry Sindlinger Meets Death From a Fall From School Building.

Henry Sindlinger, a carpenter, was badly injured by falling forty feet from the top of the new Gibson school house in Corning Friday morning and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Boehm, that afternoon. He leaves beside his wife, one son, Daniel, of Blossburg, and one daughter, Mrs. Henry Boehn, of this city. His wife was visiting in Belmont and did not arrive home until late that night.

Hand Badly Cut by Circular Saw.

Henry Johnson, a young man of Pleasant Valley, between Bath and Hammondsport, while at work Saturday in Aldrich's box factory, met with a terrible accident. His right hand struck a circular saw and was badly cut across the back. He was taken to the office of Drs. McNett and Wynkoop, who dressed the injured member. It is hoped that the two middle fingers of the hand can be saved, but the index and little fingers are so badly cut that it is thought amputation of them will be necessary.

Absconding Constable Caught.

James H. Duane, the absconding constable, says the Elmira Telegram, was arrested at Bath Wednesday evening, after having been in hiding for several days. The town owed him $200 for services performed as constable, but Duane had assigned orders to different Bath parties to the extent of about $900, or $700 more than he had any right to do. He was arraigned on the charge of grand larceny in the second degree and asked for an adjournment of one week. This was granted and he was released on bail.

BLOW TO BOGUS INSURANCE.

Among the new bills pending in congress is one introduced by Senator Dryden of New Jersey which is aimed at the disreputable concerns in the insurance business. It was presented at the request of the reputable insurance companies of the country and has their strong support.

The object of Senator Dryden's bill is to widen the scope of the existing federal statute prohibiting the use of the mails for the transmission of lottery matter so as to make it applicable to letters, postal cards, circulars, pamphlets and other publications concerning any business contracts or policies of life, fire or other insurance transmitted into any state, district or territory by concerns or persons not authorized to transact such business in the state from which they are transmitted.

The insurance companies which are looking for this legislation say that the public loses more through the irresponsible concerns, of which there are so many, than through any other form of fraud. While this may be an exaggeration, it is unquestionably true that people pay out large sums for insurance of one kind and another which is absolutely worthless. It may be said that they ought to be more careful and investigate the standing of a company before they pay it a premium, but people are not always as wise as they ought to be, and it is necessary to have laws to protect them against seductive forms of fraud. It can hardly be expected that the legislation suggested, if enacted, will put an entire stop to the bogus insurance business. It will doubtless be carried on to some extent as long as there are men who cannot tell a bad from a good insurance company and as long as there are knaves to take advantage of their ignorance, but it would no doubt greatly lessen this very common method of extracting money from the pockets of overcredulous and unsuspecting people.

MONEY FOR THE CANAL.

Already Wall street has begun to discuss with a great deal of interest the manner in which the "Panama payment" will be made and how it will affect the money market. This is quite natural, as Wall street is regarded as the money center of the country.

As the canal situation now stands the United States government is bound to pay upon the ratification of the treaty $40,000,000 to the French shareholders in the Panama enterprise and $10,000,000 more to the isthmian state selling the canal. On the face of things this would appear to mean the "laying down" on a given date of $50,000,000 at Paris and Colon. If shipment of such a sum were to be made in actual cash the question would arise whether it would be obtained from the treasury vaults or from the money market. It might be drawn from either, for, in addition to the $144,000,000 actual cash in the treasurer's own hands, the government has $150,000,000 on deposit in banks and subject to demand.

If only idle cash in the treasury vaults is used for this purpose, there would apparently be no disturbance in the money market, while, on the other hand, if the banks were required to send $50,000,000 the money market would naturally be much upset for a time. Uncle Sam has, however, sufficient funds accumulated to meet this obligation without embarrassment.

Good for Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup and la grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. Dr. Armstrong of Delia, Tex., prescribes it daily and says there is no better cough remedy made. Sold by O. E. Vars & Son.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it will wear them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose.
