BUY BONDS! STAMPS!

Bonds and Stamps pave the way to a quick Allied victory. It has been encouraging to see the number of stamps sold in the grades this year. Thus far, the kindergarten, the first, second, third and fourth grades are selling stamps and a total of $18 has been reached.

A soldier does not have the alternative of buying a sundae or a War Stamp. He must fight and perhaps give his life for the United Nations. The least the people at home can do is to offer the money necessary to buy the material to preserve his life. He cannot hope to fight the dictators if he has no weapons.

The purchase of War Bonds provides an easy and convenient way to insure life savings, also. If the Bonds are bought now, after the war we will have our money gack, plus interest. If the Bonds are no good after the war, nothing in the United States will be of monetary value. By buying Bonds and paying heavy taxes now we will do a great deal to avoid inflation.

Inflation is not a necessary evil and there is no use in such a state existing when the public can act to avoid it now.

Students may, by buying Bonds now, save money for their college education in the future and for financing the beginning of their life work.

Last year a system was started in ACS whereby War Stamps were on sale one day a week in each high school home room.

The war keeps getting worse and worse every day and we students should be willing to give up our money for something that may mean freedom for each of us, as individuals. Not just our money will go for these materials, but the money of thousands of others also.

So, let's start selling Stamps in high school, as many as we possibly can each day and each week. JB

Miss Baker Joins Ranks of Faculty

Huffing and puffing, gasping and sighing, Miss Mary Baker came staggering into the gymnasium last Thursday afternoon at the completion of her first experience as instructor of the Freshman girls' physical education class.

Because Mary has a conflict with physical education and trigonometry, Mr. Ingerson has asked her if she would care to assist in teaching this class every Monday and Thursday for her credit in physical education.

Mary seems to enjoy this new experience greatly and after pitching a softball to 40 girls, she realizes how the baseball pitcher's arm feels when he has pitched an entire game. MJH

Mrs. Allen's section of the first grade has just received the new pre-primer, "Look and See." Besides this, the pupils have new work books. Their War Stamp total is $3.00.

The second grade purchased a total of $3.80 in War Stamps.

Third and fourth grades have been studying good health habits.

Miss Gottlieb's section has bought a total of $2.00 worth of War Stamps.

Miss Perkins' section hasn't as yet started the buying of Stamps, nor have the upper grades.

The pupils of the sixth grade have been studying the country and inhabitants of China. In art class they wrote in Chinese with paints and brushes.

The new seventh graders have a copy of the school song on their blackboard and are learning it from there.

A very attractive bulletin board entitled "Are You Air Minded?" may be seen in the eighth grade. The reminder "For Victory, Buy War Stamps" is also in evidence.

CHIT-CHAT

Who's the new heart interest in Wellsville, Marilyn? Not deserting the old home town are you?

If you should be aimlessly walking down the corridor (which you shouldn't be doing) and you see a pair of blood red hands before you, pick yourself up, it's only an art student.

Don't tell a soul, but we have noticed a big romance between a Junior class president and a certain Freshman.

What a coincidence! Elaine and Arthur working together in chemistry. They ought to invent something good.

"Blacker" and "Red" seem to be hitting it off pretty well this year, despite their infrequent little arguments.

We observed Kenny Cook buying a bond at the local P.O. Congrats, Ken.

By the way, Kenneth, who is the big moment at Genesee—as if we didn't know.

The Juniors are busily planning the year's activities.

Our Freshman look like an ambitious group—more power to you, Frosh. AEM

Presenting . . .

MISS MARY CATHERINE SHERWOOD, who is the new commercial teacher in the Andover Central School.

Miss Sherwood attended Wellsville High School and Mercy Hurst College in Erie, Pa. This is the first year of full-time teaching for her, altho she did some practice teaching last year at the Academy in Erie, Pa.

Her favorite food is steak, her hobby is reading, and the sport which she enjoys most is tennis. She prefers Van Heflin to any other actor, Bette Davies is superb in her opinion and there is no better picture than "Dark Victory" as far as she is concerned.

As for the radio, what more interesting program (for pure nonsense) than "Club Matinee," asks Miss Sherwood.

She thinks A. C. S. is a friendly school and the only improvement she suggested was that the pupils could study longer and harder.

The very best of success in her career as a teacher is wished Miss Sherwood. SM

Report cards will be issued to the pupils next week. SM

Art Display In Library

The art displays which have been seen in the library this week were made by the Seniors. They are finger paintings which are made with poster paint and a few drops of glycerine.

These paintings are in very beautiful colors such as pink mixed with blue and, because they do not present any specific pictures, they seem like different designs to different people. FMM

"Time Stood Still"

"What time is it?" "Is it time for classes?" These various questions were asked a week ago Monday morning, Sept. 14, when it was evident that the clocks were not running. Upon entering the library, one may have found the clock registered 11 o'clock, whereas in another room, the hands pointed to 8 o'clock. Many were curious as to what caused such a confusing difference and after a series of incorrect answers, the right one was found.

"Time stood still" because of a short circuit caused by an electric storm the night before.

The clocks were in running order again Monday, Sept. 21. It was necessary for a representative from the International Business Machines in Buffalo to make a call at the school before all the wires could be completely adjusted. NAC

With Needle and Spoon

The Homemaking A girls have been studying "The Handling and Care of Food in the Home." They have studied conveniently arranged kitchens and the equipment desirable for these kitchens. Each girl made a floor plan of the kitchen in her home and these were discussed and re-arranged in class to provide for more efficient work.

The Home Economics seven girls have been having a discussion on the sharing of home responsibilities. Each girl presented various situations involving home responsibilities which were debated and solved by the members of the class.

The seventh and eighth grade homemaking classes have been divided into four groups: Cooking, sewing, homemaking and grooming. By the end of the year, each girl will have worked in each of the four groups. BB

What! No Explosions?

With the eager grasping of test tubes and Bunsen burners, the chemistry students commenced their first experiment this week with a bang (in words only).

Working in groups of two's, the brilliant young chemists-to-be, attempted to find the difference between physical and chemical changes —A little difficulty arose when it came to lighting the burners, but with a bit of help they were finally illuminated.

The black stains on several pairs of hands were the results of accidental applications of silver nitrate.

Under the watchful eye of Mr. Maloy and despite the few trivial problems, the "first experiment" was successfully finished and the experimenters passed contentedly to their next class. AFM

"I Did It"

I crept cautiously out of the building. Safe, at last. No one had seen me. I looked stealthily about me and halted. Careful, now. "No noise and you won't be seen." I advanced gingerly to the object of my interest.

I hesitated. Should I? Alas, if only I had someone with whom I could confidentially discuss this immediate problem!

I straightened up. "I'll do it!" Bravely, I ascended the steps in front of me. There was not a doubt left in my mind. Without looking around, I seated myself at the head of the steps. With a whoop of joy I went whizzing down. Hurrah! I was happy again. As I gleefully picked myself up at the bottom I said, aloud: "I've done it—taken my last ride on the slide!" AM

Potato Picking Vacation Oct. 5-12

After consulting with many of the farmers in the central school district, the school authorities have set the week of October 5-10 with the additional holiday on Columbus Day, October 12, as a school vacation, so that school pupils might help at home in harvesting the potato crop.

Although some of the commercial growers are digging this week and next, the average general farmer has had to postpone potato digging because of threshing and corn cutting.

Boys fourteen years of age or over, who have been in regular attendance through this week and who are doing satisfactory scholastic work, may be excused from school next week for potato picking upon written application by the parent to the school office. All school work thus lost must be made up in order to secure credit. Excuses from school may be denied if the pupil's school work or previous attendance have been unsatisfactory or if the pupil is carrying extra subjects.

SELECTIVE SERVICE In New York State

"To be considered for occupational deferment, an employee must have employment with an essential industry, business, or profession," Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service, declared today, "but the necessity of the business is not the sole factor in determining whether the employee can be replaced."

All male American citizens and resident aliens between 20 and 45 are eligible for military service. The purpose of a deferment is to give the employer an opportunity to secure a replacement for the prospective soldier. The deferment is not indefinite nor permanent in time.

"We wish to assist the essential business or industry to operate with a maximum of efficiency," General Brown said. "If a deferment will prevent serious disruption of operation, it should be given. The employer must, however, look for replacements for his 20-45 employees for eventually all except those who cannot be replaced will be in the armed forces if they are physically able. That is the law."

Married Men Without Children

Local Boards have been directed to review the classification of married registrants without children just as soon as they have completed their review of the classification of single men with dependents. This directive does not include married men who do not maintain homes with their wives, or registrants who have married since December 7, 1941 or when selection was imminent, as men in these categories were already subject to induction. In reviewing the classification, the Local Board must take into consideration whether the registrant's occupation entitled him to be placed in Class 11.

Undue Hardship

General Brown emphasized that while Local Boards are required to consider the amount dependents will receive after induction of the registrant, when reviewing a Class 111 classification, the problem is not the difference in income of the wife through the induction of her husband but whether her income would be so reduced as to cause undue hardship. As all citizens are expected to make a sacrifice, the Local Board must determine whether a reasonable person would consider the situation to be undue hardship.

Navy Enlistments

The Navy hereafter will not enlist any registrant between the ages of 20 and 45 who is classified in Classes 11-A, 11-B, or 111-B, without a statement of the registrant's employer and a release by his Local Board. General Brown stated the new procedure does not apply to the enlisting of officer candidates and aviation cadets.
