Local Cattle Make Good Records In Test

Andover Dairy Cattle under test in the Allegany County Dairy Herd Improvement Association during the month of October made good records according to reports of the testers.

The herd of Lawrence Perkins was high in the herd average class, with a record of 41.6 pounds of butterfat per cow, and was the only herd in the association to exceed the 40 pound mark.

The high cow for the month was a registered Ayrshire owned in the 22-cow herd of Charles Wightman. Almond, a four-year-old animal, 57 days fresh. She produced 86.6 pounds of butterfat for the month. The 16 other highest cows producing 60 pounds of fat or over were owned in these dairies:

James A. Young, Angelica, 70.1 pounds; William Joyce, Andover, 68.5; Howard Pfeiffer, Whitesville, 73.3; Ceylon Snider, Fillmore, 72.2; George Nunn, Black Creek, 65.4; Klahr Swift, Cuba, 71.4; County Farm, Angelica, 65.3; Robert Ainsworth Whitesville, 61.5; Arling Cobb, Whitesville, 62.4; Wayne Stout, Wellsville, 62.3.

Carl Clarke, Andover, 60; Robert Spicer, Andover, 75.9; Earle Green, Andover, 61.6; David Davies, Cuba, 60; E. A. Rees & Son. Fillmore, 66.3; and Theron Dunlay, Cuba, 63.4.

A total of 34 cows owned in the association produced 50 pounds each or over of butterfat last month.

News Briefs About Local Boys In U. S. Service

City, Utah (at least that's where the "rumors" said they were going). I hope that the rest of our orders get here soon because this lying around wondering where the next stop is going to be is kind of hard on the nerves. That's about all we have done since Wednesday noon.

I had a birthday Nov. 3 and it was the happiest birthday that I could have possibly had away from home. Mom and the rest of the family and neighbors sent me a box and was it ever welcome! In it was cookies, a swell birthday cake, candy and gum, cigarettes and many personal things. Believe me, we had a feast on those cookies and the cake.. Incidentally if you ladies are wondering what you can do to make a service man happy, just send him some cookies or anything else that is home-made. I haven't met a soldier yet that doesn't miss "Mom's cooking."

While I have been writing this, they have called out two more of our "gang." You don't suppose that Washington has forgotten I'm down here, do you? It's kind of tough to see the fellows leaving, that you have lived with for the last four months. This war certainly causes a pile of heart breaks, doesn't it? Seems as tho you are saying goodbye to some friend every day.

We just heard the news broadcast and it sounds real encouraging. It looks like the Allies have finally started their drive in Africa. It looks now like our "Second Front" will be going right up thru Italy. Here's hoping that we can keep them on the run now that they have started.

Well, ladies, it's getting close to supper time, so I think that I had better close and begin getting cleaned up.

Again let me thank you ladies for the opportunity of writing to you and telling you a little about Chanute Field. There is a lot more that I would like to tell you about Chanute but I'm afraid that the government wouldn't appreciate me giving out the information.

If all of our prayers are answered, we will have this war over soon and then we will be able to come back to Andover and once again lead a happy life.

In the meantime, we urge you folks to keep up the good work on the Home Front and I know that every man from "our town" will make a good account of himself when his time comes to show those yellow rats what kind of boys come from Allegany county.

W. S. C. S. To Hold Annual Meeting

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold its December meeting Wednesday, Dec. 2nd at the Methodist parsonage with a tureen supper at 6 o'clock.

The program will center around the theme Christmas and the Christian home. Irma Lewis, Edna Bretsch, Beatrice Common and Florence Corwin, program committee.

Young mothers are especially urged to attend. Bring the small children as provision will be made for their entertainment.

There will be election of officers. Hazel Burgett is chairman of the nominating committee and any who will serve for the coming year contact her.

It is urged that every woman connected with the WSCS, if possible, to send, or better yet, bring her Thanksgiving offering for others to this meeting.

Thruout the year, the WSCS has maintained a high standard of good work and this missionary offering will just put the Andover WSCS right over the top.

The November committee, Lina Ruger and Nellie Kaple, are to be congratulated in their efforts this month and the results achieved. They not only entertained the society royally with delicious refreshments, but they raised a substantial sum for the budget and have taken good care of the church.

Notice

It has come to the attention of the Town and Village Boards that certain individuals in the Village of Andover have been destroying the building which the Town and Village of Andover has placed on Grandview Street in the Village of Andover for the use of air raid spotters, by breaking the windows and doing other damage to the building.

This is to warn those individuals that this building is now under the direct supervision of Clare Jackson, Constable of the Town of Andover, and that Mr. Jackson will apprehend any individual destroying said property and will bring them before the Children's Court if they are under 16 or before the Justice of the Peace if they are over 16, and see that any damage is paid for, and also punish them by a proper fine.

This building is one that was placed in its present location for the laudable purpose, to wit: to be used by those people who have given their time and are willing to give additional time if needed to watch for any planes that might be flying over Andover and any perpetrators that are caught damaging the said building will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

WANDERING WITH WILLIE

"FLASH" Gath, evidently back in the guard house for an indefinite period took "time out" to drop us the following love letter. We were more than surprised and pleased to hear that he is still "as usual," but more surprised yet to hear that he graduated (that one really got us down). Anyhow, happy landings, Flash (or do you roller skate?) The letter follows:

Chanute Field, Ill.
Monday night

Dear Willie:

Well, I'll bet that you thought I had forgotten all about you, didn't you? Well, as much as I would like to, I haven't, so thought that as long as I have a few minutes to spare I might just as well drop you a line or two.

Willie, believe it or not I graduated from the school here last Wednesday. At the present I'm waiting for further orders and I expect to leave here any day now. A lot of my buddies have left already and the barracks is a pretty lonesome place now with them gone, so I won't be too sorry to leave.

Well, now to get down to the finer points of this little note. I had made up my mind to sever relationship with you after that last letter you wrote concerning "Cabe" and myself. If I remember correctly the words "guard house" were mentioned. Now, Willie, you know darned well that the Sarg and I have never even walked by the guard house, much less walk in it. I have decided that after this war is over we are going to come back and make you eat every one of those bad things you said about us. And we being the only true friends you have at that.

I received last week's Andover News this morning and of course the first thing I looked for was your column. It was real good for a change this week, but I noticed you had to use somebody else's stuff to do it. And to think that we used to call you "Original Willie."

The last I read about our friend "Cabe" he was either in some hospital or an asylum somewhere. I can't remember which, but I'm pretty sure that it was an asylum. You should have written to him and had him come and stay with you. You could put a little more padding on your cell and then it would have been able to take care of the both of you and saved the government a little money in the meantime.

There's a couple of little incidents happened here in camp that I want to tell you about before I forget them, Willie.

We had KP the other night and one of the gang was a friend of mine from Indiana, better known as the "Indiana Gopher." We had been working for about five hours (mopping floors) and the Gopher began to tire out a little. Well, the Sarg happened to walk by and Indiana called him over and gave him warning that he was going to sneak out the back door and go back to the barracks the first chance he got. The Sarg put a hand on the Gopher's shoulder and said: "Gopher, I know you wouldn't do a thing like that, because you are too good a soldier." Gopher said, "Yore wrong agin, Sarg, I hain't no soldier, I'm just another one of them thar captured civilians." (And he wasn't lying either, Willie.) When I heard it, it started me wondering again as to when the government is going to catch up with you. I was reading in the paper the other day where they are going to start inducting illiterates and try to cure them, so you might just as well come out of that woodchuck hole and get in here and take your medicine.

One thing I want to warn you about tho, Willie. When you get to the induction center and the doctor tells you to get ready for your "shots," for Heaven's sake, don't open your mouth, because that's not the kind of shots he means. They will have to use a pitch fork on you instead of a needle when they jab you in the arm.

About two weeks ago another one of my pals here decided he would like to have a furlough. So he went thru the correct procedure and finally was given permission to see the Captain. He walked into the Captain's office, gave a snappy salute and then he told the Cap that he would like a ten-day furlough. The Captain looked at him for a couple of minutes and then said, "Soldier, do you know all the rules of being a good soldier, how to obey orders, etc?" The soldier said "Yes, Sir, I do." The Captain then said he was going to test him and see, so he gave the command, "About face," and the soldier did a smart "about face" and then the Captain said "Forward, march, and close the door on your way out." So the soldier started marching and closed the door behind him. About ten days later the Captain got a telephone call from the soldier (who was calling from his home town) and he said, "You haven't said halt yet, Captain."

So you see, Willie, as long as there are fellows like that soldier in the Army, you won't have any trouble.

I just took time out to read your last week's column over again, and I think I have finally figured out who the fellow is that the inscription on that plaque about the fisherman was referring to. It couldn't be my old friend and benefactor, George "Blitzkreig" Sackett, could it? You know, Willie, there is a lot about that guy that I could tell you about and I know you would get a kick out of it. But I'm afraid he would never forgive me if I did. I don't know what he will do this year without me to go after Christmas trees with him. (Ask him and Ed Alderson about that one.)

I had a pleasant surprise the other day. I was eating dinner up at the mess hall and all at once I heard some fellow holler "Andover!" I looked around and there was a fellow from Almond that I knew. He has been here four weeks and is in the same squadron I'm in, and come to find out, he lives in the barracks just across the street from mine and that was the first time I had seen him. He was sure a welcome sight.

We got together and had quite a gab fest. His name is Sisson and he is well acquainted in Andover. I believe he said he was taking up teletype here. He is the first fellow that I have run into from around the old home town since I've been here.

I got a letter from my brother Mike the other day. He has been planning on answering your letter but they have been keeping him pretty busy down there. He was wondering about how the Y. M. P. C. is getting along now. Have you been in on any of the "meetings" lately, Willie? I would give a lot to be able to attend one of them again. That is, if "Chuck" Holt and Ray O'Laughlin wouldn't treat me too rough.

By the way, if you see either of those two fellows, tell them that they owe me a letter. Of course, I realize that they have been busy with their blackouts and scrap salvage, but tell them I'm still looking for their letters.

As long as we're talking about "scrap salvage" tell "Chuck" Holt to keep his eyes off that '37 green Ford sedan that roosts down on Chestnut street. Maybe it does rattle a little bit but it's still a lot better than that black Buick "wrecker" he cruises around in.

Well, Willie, it's time for supper again and who am I to miss out on a free meal just to write to you, so I'm going to sign off and start for the mess hall (That's one walk that I don't mind taking.)

Take good care of yourself, you wolf, and I'll write and let you know where I am when I get there.

Your old pal,
"FLASH" GATH.

P. S.—Talking about wolves, I hear they are going to have open season on them this year, so watch out, Willie.

LIBRARY NEWS

The tenth observance at the Andover Free Library of Children's Book Week constituted an exhibit of new children's books, including titles suitable for all ages. The display in the window of the Vara building was arranged by Mrs. O. W. Robison.

The Book Week tea given by the Library Council of the Andover Central School in their library was attended by the librarian and three of the staff and by two members of the library board of the Andover Free Library.

The Home Bureau held their meeting in the reading room Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Carl Burdick as chairman. Mrs. Orla Baker gave an interesting review of the book on "A Golden Age," by Parmenter loaned from the library.

The mothers of the first grade pupils of the Andover Central School were invited to bring their children of that grade to the library to see the new books and if not already borrowers to have cards made out at that time. Thus these children will be getting started early on the "library habit"; their liking for reading will be strengthened and their school progress increased and there will be a following up of the theme "Forward With Books." Book Week is a national crusade to bring boys and girls and good books together that our children may enter new worlds along the magic pathway of books.
