Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa. would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night thru. Two boxes of these tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.

HYPNOTISM

"Were you ever hypnotised?" "No, and I don't think anybody could hypnotise me." Well, that depends on how we define hypnotism. As I understand it, and a physician, with whom I was talking recently agreed with me, hypnotism is only a new word for animal magnetism or mesmerism and all these terms relate to the various forms and degrees of that magnetic influence which pervades the universe and manifests itself in an infinite variety of ways. The turning of the magnetic needle toward the pole of the earth, the adherence of a piece of iron to a horse-shoe magnet, the charm by which the snake entices and captures the bird, the attraction that draws two persons together in mutual sympathy, the mental control which one person has over another in the ordinary affairs of life, the power which some possess of inducing in others, the mesmeric sleep, and the complete control called hypnotism, are all manifestations of the same mysterious power which may be understood when we understand what life is, for it is nothing but life acting under certain conditions. With this definition of magnetic or hypnotic influence the subject assumes great practical importance, for all mankind are under the sway of this mysterious power. We all both exert and feel it continually. I magnetize one man and another magnetizes me. The sharp tradesman looks his customer keenly in the eye and drives a good bargain. He gets a certain magnetic control over him and dominates his will. The next day the victim says, "That man fooled me. I have made a bad bargain." The fact is he was hypnotized more or less.

The physician with whom I was talking stated an instance of a smart horse trader, who made a practice of first catching the eye of his customer and gaining magnetic control over him before he came down to business, and he made wonderful bargains. Professional swindlers are generally experts in hypnotism. They magnetize before they commence operations, then their Munchausen tales are believed like gospel truth. This mysterious power may be exerted for good as well as for bad purposes. A good anecdote in point is told of the power of Whitefield's preaching when he came to America. A prudent old Quaker of Boston went to hear him, but left his purse at home lest he might be unduly influenced, and he was, influenced to such an extent that he turned to a neighbor and begged him to lend him a sum of money for the contribution. But his friend had remained unmoved, and replied; "At any other time, friend Hodgkinson, I would lend thee freely, but not now, for thee seems to be out of thy right mind." Whitefield is described as "chiefly a creature of impulse and emotion," and of wonderful dramatic power, but while he magnetized one of these sober friends the other remained impassive. There is no telling to what extent we are all influenced, both for good and for evil, by hypnotic power. The strong will can always overpower the weak if it can fix the eye and the attention for a little time. Every great orator and teacher is a master of this power, and so is every great demagogue and swindler. It was the highest exercise of this power when Christ commanded the sick to arise and the blind to see. It was an attempt at this power when the evil one tried his little confidence game on Christ and failed.

There is one sovereign means of defense against hypnotic power. It is simply never to comply with the demands of any one who is suspected of exerting it until there has been a moment of separation and reflection. Never comply with the tempting request of any one while the tempter is looking you keenly in the eye. Postpone the answer until another time and think about it. When you are alone the charm is broken and calm reason resumes her sway. No "confidence man" ever succeeds except at the moment of contact. Delays are fatal to all his schemes. The artful seducer knows that he can only succeed when reason is dethroned and passion rules. Then hypnotism is all powerful.

In practical life there are innumerable cases where fraud and wrong of all sorts may be defeated by simply making it a rule to postpone all urgent appeals until there has been time for reflection by one's self. Such deliberation would often save innocent persons from the snares of the tempter or from the cunning tricks of the swindler. Beware of the man who looks you keenly in the eye and talks very fast, with a very oily tongue and a most flattering manner. He is probably hypnotising you and the thing he wishes you to consent to is very likely something you would not do if you should put him off until tomorrow, and in the meantime should think about it and ask your wife what she thinks about it. Of course you must do in the end as you please, but your wife sees a thing from another standpoint and her comment will often greatly influence your pleasure, at any rate it will be a view uninfluenced by the hypnotic force to which you have been subjected. "I will give you an answer to-morrow," is a form of postponement that "heads off" the hypnotist, the cheat, the confidence man, as nothing else can. The person of weak will, and who is therefore susceptible to hypnotic influences may at least cultivate sufficient willpower to make this reply and stick to it. He may also break the spell of the charmer by avoiding the fixed gaze with which the charm is so much strengthened. If the bird could evade the eye of the snake, the charm would be broken. He gazes and gazes into the magnetic eye until he falls into the wide open jaws. Look away from the charmer unless you wish to be charmed.

The following quotation from an article by Dr. Kingsbury in a medical journal gives a good definition of hypnotism from a medical standpoint. "Hypnotism is no new thing but has, in some form or other, been known since the earliest times. It was practiced by the Egyptians, Persians, Greeks and Indians and employed by priests, mystics, soothsayers, fakirs and charlatans. It has appeared in our own country as animal magnetism, mesmerism, electro-biology, electro-psychology, and I know not by how many other titles. Naaman is supposed to have referred to animal magnetism when he said to Elisha's messenger, "I thought he would surely come out to me and stand and call on the name of the Lord his God, and strike his hand over the place and heal the leaper," (11 Kings v-2.) Evil-minded persons will certainly avail themselves of this wonderful power. The good should not be behind in its use. The strong will, the magnetic glance, the impressive word, are all agencies in leading men in the paths of righteousness. Those who labor for the improvement of this poor world should strive to develop in themselves the highest degree of magnetic power. It will be needed in conflicts with a like power exerted for evil purposes.

Colds Cause Pneumonia.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Penner, Marion, Ind. who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by O. E. Vars & Son.

WEEDS

Consumption is a human weed flourishing best in weak lungs. Like other weeds it is easily destroyed while young, when old, sometimes it is possible.

Strengthen the lungs as you would weak land and the weeds will disappear.

The best lung fertilizer is Scott's Emulsion. Salt pork is good too, but it is very hard to digest.

The time to treat consumption is when you begin trying to hide it from yourself. Others see it, you won't.

Don't wait until you can deceive yourself any longer. Begin with the first thought to take Scott's Emulsion. If it isn't really consumption, so much the better; you will soon forget it and be better for the treatment. If it is consumption you can't expect to be cured at once, but if you will begin in time and will be rigidly regular in your treatment you will win.

Scott's Emulsion, fresh air, rest all you can, eat all you can, that's the treatment and that's the best treatment.

We will send you a little of the Emulsion free.

Be sure that this picture of the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

READ IT THRU.

'Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Metts Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I hartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced as I was." For sale by O. E. Vars & Son, Andover, and N. E. Coston, Greenwood.
