The Editors Say -

IT SEEMS TO US—

Over the spread of a vast continent, over the silent snow-covered fields and the noisy, bustling, soot-covered city with its spires reaching skyward, flies a symbol of freedom, the American flag. Courage, the courage of men who fought and bled and died under it; loyalty, the loyalty of such men as Nathan Hale, who perhaps dreamed of that great union, the United States, as he uttered those ringing words: "I regret that I have but one life to give to my country," and purity are woven up there in 13 red and white stripes, in a blue field with 48 stars, 48 states in a glorious federation.

As we stand beneath the stars and stripes, the flag of Washington, Lincoln and countless others, it seems to us we should be so very thankful for our flag and the nation for which it stands and once more say with Francis Scott Key: "Long may it wave, o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave." Semi Formal Dance a Success

Amid surroundings reminiscent of George and Martha Washington and the minuet, about 40 couples of young people danced to the modern strains of the "Campus Cheers" college orchestra in the central school auditorium Monday evening, Feb. 21.

Sponsored by the high school Student Council, the dance was the first real party of the year and climaxed several weeks of planning on the part of the council. The cost of the dance was met in part by student council funds, accumulated from the social hours and game nights held during the past few weeks.

Semi-formal in nature, the beauty of the room was greatly enhanced by the lovely long dresses worn by the young ladies. The room was decorated with murals and figures appropriate to the Washington's birthday season, under the direction of Miss Zeil, art supervisor.

Much of the credit for the success of the dance should go to Student Council member Ruth Lynch, who was the general chairman of the dance, and to Mr. Olmsted, faculty adviser of the council.

Andover Loses to Wellsville 35-32

After giving the Wellsville Lions a stiff battle for over three-quarters of the game and leading in the scoring most of the way, the Purple and White's opponents took the lead in the closing minutes of the game to win 35-32.

Following an early season defeat, the Andover boys were out to take the Class A team and played a nice game up to the closing minutes when the Allegany Class A champions proved just a little too much for them. The game was a non-league contest and the defeat will not affect the standing of the team.

The Purple and White team travels to Richburg tonight, (Thursday) for the last league contest of the season.

Army-Navy Qualifying Test Here March 15

The third Army-Navy College Qualifying Test for the Army Specialized Training Program and the Navy College Program V-12 which will be given thruout the country on Wednesday, March 15, at 9:00 a. m., will be administered at the Andover Central School, Glenn E. Bretsch, principal, announced today. A leaflet of general information which contains an admission-identification form may be obtained at the school office. This form properly filled out will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21 inclusive who are high school graduates or who will be graduated by July 1, 1944.

The same examination will be taken by both Army and Navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The Army Specialized Training Program is aimed to meet the Army's needs for specialists and technicians in certain critical fields of study. Academic work is at the college level at government expense.

The Navy College Program also enables students to continue academic training at government expense. Successful completion of the prescribed courses may, following further officer training, lead to a commission in the Navy.

TOWN and FARM in WARTIME

Prepared by OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION

Rubber Footwear Prices Up

An average increase of 6½ per cent in retail ceiling prices of waterproof rubber footwear — rubbers, arctics, gaiters and rubber boots—has been allowed by the Office of Price Administration to compensate for increased costs. For these higher prices the public will get rubber footwear more nearly approaching the quality of pre-Pearl Harbor footwear than that of the Victory line product, OPA said.

Announces More Support Prices

Support prices proposed by the War Food Administration for hay and pasture seeds in 1944 are in general higher than those of last year. Increases of three cents per pound were proposed for northern alfalfa, red clover, alsike clover and biennial yellow sweetclover, and of two cents a pound for biennial white sweetclover and sudan grass. Western grasses would be increased as much as 50 per cent because of harvesting difficulties, and several grasses appear on the support program for the first time this year.

Less Paper Work to Build

Less paper work for persons who build privately financed housing construction is assured by War Production Board order P-55-C. This order, announced jointly by the WPB and the National Housing Agency eliminates filing of a detailed list of materials and permits use of materials that will conserve lumber and fuel. A simplified procedure for farm housing, which was excluded from order P-55-C, was provided in CMP Regulation 6, Directional, effective Feb. 15.

Fruits-Vegetables Set Aside

Canners were directed to set aside increased quantities of canned fruits and vegetables from their 1944 production for Government requirements in order to meet expanded military needs, the WFA announced. The increases principally are for canned apples, fruit cocktail, peaches, pears, (Bartlett), lima beans, sweet corn, peas, tomatoes and tomato juice.

ROUND-UP

WPB has authorized production during 1944 of 1,400 motorcycles for essential domestic civilian use, 80 for Canada, 650 for export, and 50,000 for military use. — Use more potatoes in 1944 is the recommendation of WFA following the harvesting of the largest potato crop in history last year.—WPB expects a limited number of domestic electric ranges to be available for essential civilian needs during the last half of this year.—U. S. war expenditures in January amounted to $7,416,000,000, almost seven per cent over December, and an average daily rate of $285,200,000.—Because of problems in getting feed, U. S. production of hatchery chicks in January was 20 per cent under January last year.—Total retail sales for 1943 were $63,269,000, an increase of ten per cent over 1942, according to the Department of Commerce.—Boys and girls under 20 who leave home seeking war jobs should carry with them proof of their age, advises the U. S. Department of Labor.—Copper may now be used in the manufacture of automobile radiators, gaskets, fuel and oil lines, brake and clutch lining rivets, and other essential parts, according to WPB.—"Small business is more important to this nation today than ever before," declared Donald M. Nelson, chairman of WPB, and should be given top priority when surplus materials of war are released.—Altho the points-for-fat plan did not go into effect until December 13, fats collections for December were 33 per cent over November, WPB reports.—If war food goals are to be met all available red clover seed must be planted this year, WFA asserts.—WPB has reduced the 1944 manufacture of paper towels for home use to 80 per cent of the 1942 base period output.—Farmers will have more potash salts for fertilizer use this year than during the two preceding yeahs, WPB announces. —A general retail price reduction to the consumer of chinook salmon is expected to result from establishment by OPA of a 20 cents per pound ceiling price for certain producers.

Labor Needs of Agriculture

The largest single increase in total labor requirements is the seasonal demand in agriculture, according to a recent War Manpower Commission survey of the nation's manpower needs for the first half of 1944. Between January and July about 3.4 million persons will be needed for farm employment. The bulk of this labor will be supplied by women and young persons.

Seed for the Victory Garden

There should be enough vegetable seeds for all Victory gardeners in 1944. Those who fail to get in their orders soon, however, may have to accept substitute varieties, states Lawrence Dedrick, County 4-H agent.

The seed shortage makes it important that we check our left-over supply from last year to make sure whether or not we really need more new seed. Almost all seeds left over from last year except of parsnips, will be good this year, if they have been stored in a dry place and if they had a germination of 70 per cent or more last year. Last year's germination was marked on the packet. The present germination can be determined easily by putting 25 or 50 seeds between two pieces of moist blotting paper in a saucer covered with another saucer. This germinator should be kept in a warm room and the blotting papers should be kept moist. In five to seven days most kinds of seeds will sprout if they are alive. However, celery seed may take two weeks.

Get no more seed than necessary. For the average family a packet each of broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, chard, endive, kale, lettuce, parsley, parsnips, peppers, radishes, tomatoes and turnips is enough. Most seed catalogs tell the area that an ounce or a pound of seeds will plant. This guide may be used for those crops requiring more than a packet of seed.

Of course, most gardeners need no seed of tomatoes, peppers, or other crops usually purchased as plants.

The production of new farm machinery for 1944 has been increased, wintertime overhaul and repair of all equipment now on farms is essential, to permit full-scale farm operations in the growing season.

Red Cross Asks $200,000,000 To Cover Wartime Needs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Confronted with responsibilities of unprecedented proportions, as the war enters its most crucial stage, and with a staggering task ahead in the post-war period, the American Red Cross opens its 1944 War Fund appeal March 1, confident that the American people will respond to the limit of their ability.

President Roosevelt, president of the American Red Cross, Norman H. Davis, chairman and active head of the vast organization, and Leon Fraser, national War Fund chairman, join in urging the people of this country to help Red Cross reach its national objective of $200,000,000 because of the vital part it must play within the next twelve months.

Chairman Davis, in opening the campaign, will stress the fact that with the decisive stage of the war at hand, the Red Cross must assume a greater burden than ever before, and at the same time must provide aid to servicemen being returned in ever-increasing numbers.

Red Cross operations over the entire world during 1943 have dwarfed its activities during the first two years of war.

An even greater burden will be placed on Red Cross services in 1944.

Thousands of American men and women are now in Red Cross service with U. S. troops at home bases and overseas. Field directors, hospital, club and recreation workers are with American armed forces in virtually every command, Mr. Davis asserted.

Both in Europe and in the Far East, Red Cross workers have either gone with invasion forces into new combat areas, or have followed within a very limited time.

On the home front, the Red Cross has broadened its service tremendously. Field directors are serving in every sizable military establishment and camp throughout the country, and recreation and social service workers are located in Army and Naval hospitals.

One of the most important and necessary war-time Red Cross functions has been the collection of human blood for plasma. Thirty-five blood donor stations are now operating.

The dramatic story of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service, through which thousands of soldiers and sailors have been saved from death, began in February, 1941, when the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy asked the Red Cross to procure 15,000 pints of blood. Last year more than 3,700,000 pints of blood were collected for the Army and Navy. This year the goal is more than 5,000,000 pints.

With major battles of the war yet to come, the Army has asked the Red Cross to supply many millions of surgical dressings. American men wounded in battle will depend acutely on the vast Red Cross surgical dressing production program.

Numerous other Red Cross home operations, such as Prisoner of War packaging centers, where more than a million parcels for war prisoners are prepared each month for shipment overseas, are supported by citizen-participation in the Red Cross War Fund.

So extensive is Red Cross service during this war that every American civilian can contribute something to at least one of its functions. To continue this gigantic work, all Americans must assume their share of the responsibility of carrying on this far-reaching service.

The $200,000,000 quota will enable Red Cross to alleviate suffering and pain at home and abroad, and to carry on its vast military welfare service.
