BURROWS LED.

Andover Campaigner Made a Hit at State Convention.

(From the Belmont Dispatch.)

Alleganians are all acquainted with the forceful enthusiasm of Arthur B. Burrows of Andover, the secretary-treasurer of our Republican county committee. He was a delegate at the recent Republican state convention in Saratoga, where he organized a little band of campaign rooters which attracted considerable attention to itself with the following clever song composed by our Andover friend:

"Fight for Frank Higgins,
Higgins will win;
Fight to a finish,
Never give in.

Now, do your best boys,
We'll do the rest, boys
Fight for our Teddy
And him."

PASSING OF NELSON CLAIR.

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS A RESIDENT OF ANDOVER.

Funeral Services This Afternoon at the Baptist Church.

Last Wednesday afternoon at his residence on Greenwood street Nelson Clair, an old and respected resident of this village, after a long period of illness, passed away. Mr. Clair was 78 years of age having been born Feb. 15th, 1826, in the town of Alfred. He came to Andover about 37 years ago and was up to the time of his first illness six, or seven years ago, prominently identified with the business interest of the village and the religious interests of the church of his choice. As an evidence of the respect in which the citizens held him he was elected on the Democratic ticket to serve as Justice of the Peace and Highway Commissioner. Mr. Clair was a deacon of the first Baptist church for 38 years and a faithful member. A man of strong conviction, sterling character and a rightful estimation of justice. He leaves to mourn his departure a son, Byron A. and a daughter, Miss Minnie A., and one grandchild, Everett Nelson Clair, all of this village, a number of relatives and a large circle of friends.

The funeral services will be held today in the Baptist church, Rev. Chas. H. Harrington, his pastor, officiating and the interment will be made in Robinson cemetery.

For Bank Tellers.

If the average bank teller could work uninterruptedly during every second of an entire year, he couldn't count off in one dollar bills an amount equal to the sum paid policy holders in the Equitable Life Assurance Society in 1903.

RUSHFORD ON THE ERIE.

This Winter It's Going to Be on a Thru Trunk Line.

Rushford had a railroad once and has had some others on paper and during the winter time, but thru it all the Fairview hill remained over 2,000 feet above sea level and other summits which didn't boast of so much height secured the railroads.

With the building of the B. & S. its location seems settled and we were beginning to feel good to think that we would be only three miles from the cars instead of six and hardly expected to enjoy another winter on a main line, but it looks just now as tho we might be on the Erie for a time anyway, if not all winter.

The work of the Erie surveyors from Cuba to Dalton or Hunt has been mentioned in this paper quite frequently, the Erie being anxious to secure a route which would avoid the summits between Cuba and Friendship and Wellsville and Alfred. They have made extensive surveys on the east side of the river below Belfas and find that it will involve very expensive work to build the road there. On the west side of the river it is about as bad on account of the many large valleys which enter the Genesee valley, and all these difficulties have conspired to call attention to a route from Cuba up the old T. V. route to Rushford and from thence to Hume and to the west end of Portage bridge.

W. W. Henshey, who has charge of the party of surveyors at Cuba, W. W. Morrison, Arthur Kinney and W. O. Phelps were here Sunday, looking over the route to Rushford, and Mr. Henshey considers it worth surveying and it is quite possible that a survey may be made soon and if the grades are satisfactory, the Erie may build this line thru here. Anyway if they'll do some surveying, we can enjoy the road this winter.

C. B. Kendall was in Cuba Tuesday and found out that Engineer Henshey was much pleased with the prospect of making a survey thru here for the Erie. He went to New York this week and will bring the matter before Chief Engineer Derr.—Rushford Spectator.

Allegany County Family in Porto Rico.

W. P. Cook has rented a twelve room house in a suburb of San Juan, Porto Rico, for the winter. It is in the American section of the city and his children will attend the English school. Mr. Cook and family will sail from New York October 22 and will take their touring car to the island with them.—Bolivar Breeze.

End of the Cuba Assembly.

The stock holders of the Cuba Assembly met Tuesday of last week and listened to the report of the officers. It was shown that the deficit for the season amounted to $203.77. After considerable discussion it was decided to authorize the trustees to sell the property of the association and close up its affairs. According to instructions the trustees met yesterday and decided to sell the property at auction sale October 15.—Cuba Patriot.
