[illegible] Jesus Christ is square with life. It provides for all expenses.

How are we working out our "therefore" that love fulfills the law of life? As Livingstone, road makers for the Lord? As Frank Bible, lightmaker for the Lord? As Frank Higgins, trail blazer for the Lord in lumber camps? As Sheldon Jackson, bread giver for the Lord in Alaska? As Carey, soul-sowing for the Lord in India? As Maude Booth, releaser of captives for the Lord? As Shaftesbury, seeker of the uttermost man for the Lord? Where is our "therefore" taking us? It need not take us outside our village. "The Lord hath need of thee" wherever a need is.

I serve—a life's word. We are in the succession of the apostles—when we use the keys to open the gates of life. Jesus will build his church on it if we are dependable. He will rejoice when we lean upon his breast, if we go forth to love others into his fellowship.

The safety of this town's streets, the peace of homes, the happiness of our citizens, the destinies of life are in the care of such Christian gentlemen and gentlewomen as.... Will you fill in the names? But remember, That whosoever would be first among you, shall be the servant of all.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury

In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, Price 75c per bottle. Locating the Poles.

Both Peary and Amundsen made allowances in determining the site of the poles. Their position is not perfectly constant, there being a counter lock elliptical movement of some thirty feet and a counter clock circular movement of some twenty-six feet in diameter in a period of 428 days at the extreme axis of the earth. This change, however, is so slight as not to be reckoned in practical calculations. Peary and Amundsen made no guesses, but took several observations from various standpoints to determine conclusively that they had reached the poles.—Christian Herald.

A Curious Case.

In 1883 James Meryesi, who was eighty-four years old, jumped off the suspension bridge at Budapest into the Danube. He was rescued and then explained that he wished to end his life, as he was becoming too decrepit to support his father and mother. This statement proved to be true. Meryesi's parents being aged 115 and 110 respectively, and a public subscription was organized to set all three above want.

Constructing Skating Lake

The Wellsville Country Club is building an ideal skating lake for the use of the Club members during the coming winter season. The small creek which runs through the golf links opposite the Club has been dam med up just below the bridge over flowing the water into a natural basin. A spillway is being built which will allow several acres of ground to be covered with water. This will afford the members an opportunity for ice sports and skating carnivals which will add to the many pleasures of the Country Club and festivities during the winter season.

FIRE SWEPT

Forty Thousand Dollar Loss by Fire Monday Morning All Loss Partiall Covered by Insurance.

Early Monday morning our town was alarmed by the cry of fire, when it was discovered that the Coston Company's big store was on fire. The fire was first discovered in the grocery department and soon the whole block was a raging mass of flame. The fire soon caught in the large brick store of Carney & Hendee on the south of Coston's and adjoining the same, and there was a great hustling to get out goods from the burning buildings.

A great effort was made to save the hardware store of E. W. Plaisted but the flames caught in the cornice and it soon was apparant that the big store was doomed, and here again were witnessed active scenes in carrying out goods from the store, shops and warehouse connected with the same. Wagons, carriages, farming implements and goods were piled upon the adjoining premises. When the flames were gotten under control it was found that six business places had been entirely destroyed as follows.

The Coston Company's stores, four in number, one of which was occupied by Wm. Vanderhoof as a meat market; the Carney & Hendee store, the building owned by Mrs. M. D. Webster and the Plaisted store. Six smoking cellars are now all that remain of the splendid block that adorned North Main street. These goods, and the losses will be heavy for the owners over and above the insurance that they carried.

The losses are as follows:

The four Coston store buildings about $3,500.00, stock $12,000.00.

Carney & Hendee stock $10,000.00.

M. D. Webster building $5,000.00.

E. W. Plaisted building $3,000.00, stock $12,000.00.

Wm. Vanderhoof stock $500.00

Guy Plaisted furniture $500.00.

Mrs. A. P. Woodward, millinery stock $200.00.

There was insurance on part of the stock and on the buildings but the loss over the insurance will be heavy

Wm. Vanderhoof carried no insurance on his stock whatever. The origin of the fire is unknown as it got great headway when discovered. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Plaisted were aroused by the fire and escaped but without saving any of their furniture or goods.

Much credit is due to the people of the place for their energetic work in fighting the fire fiend and particularly to L. R. Hale., of the Greenwood Hotel, who started his engine and pumps and kept a big stream of water pumping on exposed property in reach of the flames.

Rebuilding is not being discussed at present and it is impossible to tell just what will be done in that line, but the inhabitants of the village and surrounding country are anxious to help in reconstructing our town The prospects are better for business now than when the burned buildings were erected as Greenwood had become a center of a large trade and business. The burned buildings were all new excepting Plaisted's store which was one of the land marks of the village. It was erected about 75 years ago, near the Parshall mill and moved to this part of the town over 50 years ago, and half been built over and enlarged until it extended over 200 feet back from the sidewalk. Mr. Plaisted had recently put in a plate glass front bringing the large establishment up to date. In fact every one of the six business places were well built with plate glass fronts and modern fixtures.

POULTRY

BY MRS. G. V. BAKER.

In this day of poultry raising for big profits one must need keep up with the times and look into the way in which the big poultry farms make their business pay.

Farmrs who have always kept hens but never paid very much attention to what they were, just so long as it was a thing that was covered with feathers. But now even the market man looks for a fine flock of fowls for his trade. There are a great many breeds of fowl to suit each and every need and want. Some that are kept for looks only. (peacocks) But those do not help the poor man's table much. There are fowl that are bred for eggs and those that are bred for meat, and then there are the kind that are bred for meat and eggs combined. The American class include the Wyandotte, Rocks and Rhode Island Reds. They are number one layers, bare close confinement and do well,

The smaller breeds are fine egg producers, of pure white eggs. But an egg of one breed is just as much of an egg as that of another. The color of the shell does not make any difference with the inside of an egg. City market men will pay a little more for a white shelled egg. But the private family trade are not so very particular to color, but want strictly fresh laid eggs.

Eggs of one color, nicely packed in boxes of from one to three dozen in a box and delivered to home trade, will always bring ready customers. Large sized fowl find a ready market in any town. There are so many different breeds for one to pick from, that a poultry raiser can soon find just what he would like for his own use. It is now a time when every one who wishes to have eggs will have to take a little extra care of their flock. All vegetables choped fine and fed once a day will help greatly to keep the hens in shape for laying. Be on the lookout for all places that lets the night air, these cold nights, blow direct on the hens. A hen that is let freeze its comb will not lay.

The poultry business is one of [illegible] they are bringing high prices in the market. Keep hens as long as possible and raise a few pullets from year [illegible]

To have lots of eggs hens must have all they can eat of food that will make heat and help with the egg production at the same time. Pulverised charcoal mixed with soft food aids digestion and is an excellent preventative of disease in all fowl.

Bone feed in some shape is absolutely essential for the hens as eggs cannot be produced without nitrogenous food.

Grit and gravel are their "teeth" and their "chaw." So be sure to look to that matter, for the ground will soon be frozen and covered with snow. Do not let hens out in the snow if you want egs.

It costs no more to feed thoroughbred poultry stock than it does to feed scrubs. While the former not only give far more pleasure to their owners, bu bring better prices on sales day.

It is asserted by experienced poultry men that a higher quality of fowls is produced by the double mateing than the single mateing system.

The farm poultryman, who is continually failing, should turn the management of the fowls over to the wife and daughter.

The benefit derived from making one's flock better is far better than the expense incurred.
