CLARKE REUNION

The fifth annual reunion of the Clarke family was held Aug. 5, 1913, at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Greene at Independence, N. Y.

After a bountiful dinner which was served to about one hundred, a very pleasing program was rendered by some of the younger members. After the election of officers th time was spent in good old fashioned chats.

We keenly felt the sorrow caused by the absence of so many of our older members, six having passed away since our last meeting, among them Aunt Caroline Greene, who was the oldest member of the Association.

A vote of thanks was extended to the host and hostess for their hospitality.

W. D. Clarke was made committee on arrangements for the ensuing year

Secretary.

During the next month advertise your store as effectively as you secretly WISH you had been able to advertise it the past month. It's an experiment for a stout heart and brain.

Affairs at Washington

Current News of the Week and Events of Importance in Which the Empire State Figures

A MCLEAN, LEITER, HEARST STORY

Washington, D. C., August 9th—For many years the Washington Post has been the property of John R. McLean, who used to run for Governor, Senator, and a few other things out in Ohio. Falling in these undertakings the great McLean came to Washington, bought into and controlled the gas company, and was having a nice time with the property until "Joe" Leiter, erstwhile king of the Chicago wheat pit, decided he wanted a few playthings about Washington, and thereupon took the gas concern away from McLean. McLean has numerous other possessions left besides a few millions in cash, and these include two beautiful homes in Washington, a son with a penchant for fast horses, and a mania for expensive jewelry. It is this son who gave his wife the famous "Hope diamond," and who is the father of the million dollar baby. But then young McLean married the daughter of Thos. Walsh, the great Colorado miner, so it is not all of dad's money that he is blowing. Now the latest chapter in the story is that the Washington Post has grown so yellow, particularly in its treatment of the Mexican question, that Washington is discussing a rumor that will not down, which credits William Randolph Hearst with having acquired control of the Post. The rumor is denied in some sources, but if it should prove untrue, then Washington will still be at a loss to understand why the great newspaper that has been the perpetual mouthpiece of Presidents for many years, has been changed into an organ of so widely different a policy.

The Senatorial Talking Machine

The tariff debate drags on in the Senate, and it is one of the greatest discussions in history, even though a good deal of the Congressional Record shows choppy conversation, and a sort of potpourri of talk. Some of the Senators have almost wagged their heads off, and during the hot weather many of the fats and leans of that august assemblage are getting down to a mere frazzle. Even the most industrious of them make bad faces when it is suggested that they must pass a currency bill before they adjourned.

A Warning to Bogus "Colonels"

Attempts are being made to discover where Mulhall, the star lobbyist, got the title of Colonel, and in this particular case, there is the same absence of explanation that might lach to many other title claiers with the country. Such a measure in Congress would make all these bogus "Colonels" subject to prosecution for hajeling out false stands, it may be that the number of plain Misters may in rease in some localities.

Another Opportunity to Acquire Public Land

A full million acres of land in Montana in the Port Peck Indian Reservation is to be sold under the reclamation plan this Fall. Other large portions in Nebraska and South Dakota are to be disposed of. Interested parties should inquire of the General Land Office.

"Pork Barrel" Will Not Be Tapped

It's touch on worthy public building enterprises, but the Democratic House, yielding to Representative Fitzgerald, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, has put an emphatic nolle on the plan to open the "pork barrel." Such legislation must await the regular session.

"Votes for Women" Favored in Senate

On a momentous morning recently, a delegation of women from different parts of the country called upon the United States Senate, and presented petitions praying for an amendment to the Constitution, that would permit them to vote. A good many Senators made speeches, in presenting the petitions from their States, but some of them dodged ungracefully. In the case of New York State neither of the Senators Were present. Lodge, Oliver, Burton, Stone, Myers, Kenyon, Penrose and Kern—all great and shining lights, merely formally presented the petitions. No one declared against the movement. Senator Clapp of Minesota, set the ball a-rolling, and observed in the course of his remarks that "the time is inevitable, when the American people will confer upon American womanhood the only peaceable weapon know to free government for her own protection." Apostle-Senator Smoot spoke in highest praise of the "greatest callings the Master intended for womankind," and declared that Utah became a State seventeen years ago that the women have "enjoyed the privilege of unrestricted suffrage, equal in every respect to that enjoyed by men." The Senator declared that "the logic of common sense has been the force that has removed prejudice against women to equal rights with men." Senator Jones of Washington, gave this testimony: "I came from a State where the right of suffrage has been extended to women, and the some of the prophecies of those who were opposed to it have been fulfilled, and that practically all the hopes of those who were in favor of it have been realized." Senator Thomas said that "woman suffrage in Colorado is no longer an experiment. It has been tried, and it has proven to the measure to the expectations of those who were originally its advocates." Senator Shafforth of the same State, added a speech bearing his fellow testimony for the women. Senator Works of California, said: "I am sorry to hear any woman demand the suffrage as a right or claim it as a privilege. I should rather hear her call for it as giving her the opportunity to perform a sacred duty sacred to her Country and State, an opportunity that will enable her to assist in raising the standard of politics of citizenship, and the purity of our civic life." Senator Ashurst of Arizona, said "that the granting of the elective franchise to women would add to the strength, efficiency, justice and fairness of government. I have not the slightest doubt, and this is especially true in the United States, where all power is vested in the people, with universal suffrage as the primal basis of its exercise." Senator Poindexter of Washington, appeared as a vigorous champion for the cause for which he marched, "fought and suffered" in the great parade of March 3rd. He said: "This movement for woman suffrage is a part of the general tendency of the age toward enlarging the participation of the people in the government. It is also a part of the marvelous rise of women from the state of servility and subjection which they formerly occupied in domestic as well as in political affairs." Even Gallinger of New Hampshire, declared in favor of suffrage, and Lane of Oregon, one of the States where women vote, made an address endorsing the movement, as did also his colleague, Mr. Chamberlain. Townsend of Michigan, said that "believing as I do, that women should have the same political rights as man, I shall cheerfully do what I can to secure such right for her." Mr. Smith, of the same State, gave an interesting testimony. He said: "I presume few, if any, Senators have had the distinguished honor which I have personally enjoyed of accompanying my mother to the polls as a full-fledged voter in the State of California. I did not feel that the dignity of the American people or the strength and perpetuity of the Republic were endangered by that course." Senator Owen of Oklahoma, declared that "the reasons for this requets on the part of the women in the country are overwhelmingly unanswerable." Pomerene of Ohio, gave favorable testimony. Senator La-Follette said he could not remember a time "when I was not in favor of extending the suffrage to women," and he added "that the civilization is best and most advanced where men and women co-operate and mutually respect each other." Senator Sherman of Illinois, made a favorable speech, stating that "I do not content myself with merely the idle presentation on my part of those petitions." Senator Crawford spoke of the situation in South Dakota; "I am satisfied that the demand for it has grown steadily and widely throughout the State." Thus it appears from the above picked selections from addresses by America's great Senators that it is no longer unpopular to advocate woman suffrage in high political places.

EXTREME SUFFERING RELIEVED

Mr. C. T. Chamberlain, New Durham, N. H., writes: "I am a farmer by occupation and have worked very hard. In 1905, I was taken with inflammation of the bladder. I suffered for a few weeks and grew worse. The best doctors gave no permanent relief. I was so discouraged that I thought I would never get well. About this time I met a man who had been greatly benefited by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I dropped my doctor's medicine and began taking it. I have taken over three bottles. I obtained relief soon after I began its use. It has also greatly helped my rheumatism with which I was troubled for years." Write Dr. David Kennedy Co., Rondout, N. Y., for free sample. Large bottles, all druggists.
