Pop, girls, pop!

• • •

Make it a year of justice, too.

• • •

Here's hoping Prosperity don't stumble and break a leg.

• • •

That which was done yesterday will not be forgotten to-morrow.

• • •

When the war is finally ended every mother's cuss will yelp "I told you so."

• • •

Why is a babbling tongue like soft mud? Wise up, and answer it yourself.

• • •

No spinsters in sight this year. Every one is adorable and of marriageable age.

• • •

The most prized and priceless of Oriental rugs are those that fall to pieces while you look.

• • •

Be a sport; give your wife her own way. Even at best she probably got the worst of the deal.

• • •

A writer avers that "in the divine symphony of love your soul sings an aria, while—" oh, bugs!

• • •

"Coming events cast their shadows—" But ring off! We've had too many shadows the past year.

• • •

The "U"-boats might well be called "Do"-boats, for they do about everything they run up against.

• • •

Press reports inform us that Belgium is still in need of financial aid. So are we. Kick in with the coin.

• • •

The most startling thing that we have to report locally this week is the fact that there's nothing startling to report.

• • •

Those golden locks Belinda wears will gag you just as quickly as any other hair when fished out of the soup.

• • •

Our dimpling maidens who prance around with a black splash sticking on their faces, should add another dab of mud in honor of Leap Year.

• • •

It is rumored that our confirmed old bachelors have formed a defensive alliance and that the answer this year will be "too young to wed."

• • •

We wish you long life and much happiness, dear reader in 1916, and it won't be our fault if we don't grab off just a little more than you get.

• • •

That settles it—Ford's financial manager is no gentleman, and not even a sport. He refused to put up the cash for new gowns for some of the fair dames of the peace party.

• • •

When a dashing young man begins to tell her of his castles in Spain it generally ends in cooking three meals a day, scrubbing the kitchen floor and making over her last year's dresses.

• • •

Now, when a man calls his wife a "she cat," and she whacks him over the head with the rolling pin, how in heck are they to obey the scriptural injunction and dwell together in harmony?"

• • •

"United States Prepared to Act to Stop Killing at Sea," reads a scare head in a daily paper. But who is going to do it, and how are we going to do it, and what are we going to do it with?

• • •

"The President's wife is a happy woman," warbled one who would like to be. Bah! Ours has been delirious with joy ever since we popped, and it hasn't created even a ripple on the social waves.

CARD OF THANKS

To all kind friends and neighbors who tendered assistance or sent flowers during the illness and burial of our loved one, we wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation.

WHAT OF THE PEOPLE?

In all the political parties the self constituted "leaders" are casting around to determine who "they" will select to make the race for president and vice president of the United States at the next election.

Senator This and That and Congressman So and So and Boss Somebody Else are getting their heads together in an effort to hit upon some likely person who will be acceptable to "them," and at the same time hoping and praying that the political lightning may strike themself.

The people! Pooh! They don't count. All they are expected or allowed to do is to trail along to the polls and vote as they are told to do. They are not supposed to think, because they are not credited by the leaders and party bosses with possessing any brains to say nothing of rights.

When the "great ones" of the parties set their seal of approval or disapproval upon this man or that man, do they first go to the people of their district and ascertain who THEY want for president?

Not a bit of it!

For what do the "people" know of politics? What do they know of men and of the affairs of the state? Who are they that they should even presume to have a voice in the selection of a standard bearer for a great political party?

At least, so reason the "great" and "mighty."

But some day there will come a change. Some day the man of the people will come into his own and the "great" and "elect" will bow down to his wishes and crawl for his favor.

Some day this country will be a nation of the people and will be governed by the people, and their will will be a law unto itself.

Speed the day when the people are something more than just "the people."

EYES, EARS AND BRAINS

The cultivatiten of a judicious use of your eyes, your ears and your brains—especially your brains—is very commendable.

They are instruments through the medium of which you will achieve success or failure in life.

Use your brain to-day by resolving that you will do your utmost for the upbuilding and expansion of Andover—after you have resolved devote your time in doing it.

Remember that the business interests of Andover will prosper and thrive only as they are supported by the people themselves.

And bear in mind that the values of your own holdings is determined greatly by the prosperity of the town and the country side surrounding us.

Never lose sight of the fact that the money sent to other places will not enrich this town. It is a seed planted in unproductive fields.

Keep always before your vision the necessity for keeping every possible dollar in our own community, and gathering in as many more as possible.

Use your eyes in reading the advertising columns of the News. They will tell you what and where you can buy to best advantage to yourself and the community. There will be many choice opportunities offered in these columns the coming year.

Use your ears in learning of the satisfaction others receive from patronage given home institutions and in boosting for home and home institutions.

Don't wait for others to take the lead in progressive enterprises. Be a leader yourself and let others follow.

Your eyes, your ears and your brains were given you for good purposes, and if you live up to that purpose you will not only achieve success yourself, but will plant the desire for greater and better deeds in the breasts of others around you.

This is our home—your home. Let's make it a place worthy of being called "home."

* * *

As The Editor Sees It.

Let a handsome, sprightly and stylishly garbed woman walk down the street and every eye will be turned upon her. It is our instinctive recognition of that which appeals to us. The eye but obeys the will of the brain and of the mind.

And as we gaze in admiration of the wonders of womanhood, so it is when the brightest and the cleanest of nature and the works of man are opened up to us. We see, we admire, and we retain our impressions throughout the years to come.

Our town may be like the woman. It may be clean, spotless, sanitary, pretty and in full style and a thing of beauty, or it may wither and decay through negligence and indifference. It may be garbed in the beauties of the handicraft of man, or it may drift along in the tatters of obscurity. It may compel the admiration of other people and draw them to our fold, or it may be a place to be seen and shunned and forgotten. It is for us to say, for us to write the verdict of our future.

Now that the new state road is completed through the Southern Tier, more people will pass through Andover the coming year than have been here before in ten years. Their opinions formed of the town will do much to either enhance its growth or to help bury it.

Every man and every woman should be strong to make Andover the brightest and the most attractive spot in this whole section of the state. Nature has done her part in assisting us. We should all be striving with might and determination to convert a pleasant country town into a garden spot of beauty, with health, happiness and prosperity as the heritage of our daily life. It can be done if we want to do it.

Take a walk around the business section of Andover. It will compare more than favorably with the average town of its size. But it should not simply be on a par with other places. It should be the best of all towns of its class because our citizens have the ability to make it such.

There are many houses in Andover that have the appearance of age for the want of a coat or two of paint. They are homes and shelter excellent people, but the visitor from abroad passing through Andover gets the impression that the town is run down and is a good place to shun and his ideas are passed on to other people and we lose.

In many other properties the buildings and yards, are well kept up and present an attractive appearance, but there should be more of them. In fact they should all be that way. Every place should be kept in the artistic class, and then other people would talk and the talk would be to our credit. Tongues made for use and people will use them, and it is up to us as they use them when we are the subject of their conversation.

Let's give the old town a general overhauling in every this Spring and shove it right up to the head of the class.

And while we are in the housing mood we might find a vacant building and convert it into a rest room and reading room for our friends from the farms when they come to town. And we might even use it for a gathering place for our townsmen where we can hold our associational meetings and meet our friends and while away an occasional pleasant hour. But especially do we need something of the kind for the convenience of the farmers and their wives and daughters and sons when they are with us and have an idle hour or two before returning to their homes.

Whenever a town appreciate and provides for the convenience and accommodation of the farmers that town is on the high road to prosperity.

Let us be that town.

* * *

Too many of us are strangers to each other in this community, where we should all be brothers and dwell together in unity for the common good of all.

And that is because there are entirely too many cliques and sets with each immersed in its own self and never a peep at the light of outer day.

We need a common ground for meeting where neighbor greets neighbor and the stranger finds himself at home and among friends.

If co-operation is good in commercial affairs it would be of equal benefit in private and social life. It would afford as a more intimate knowledge of humanity and a broader perspective of life and the resultant spirit of good fellowship would be felt in a thousand ways.

A year of "getting together" will stamp a wonderful imprint upon the heart, the soul and the conscience of this community.

Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

Where one person achieves a place of eminence by the road of genius, a hundred arrive by the road of hard toil—diligence in business.

Diligence in business not only will give one a prominence in life, but it will give one kingship.

We long since have ceased to truckle to so-called kings whose priority is a matter of accident of birth or the result of political machinery. Still, it's always "hats off" to those who are masters. Wearing a crown and lolling on a throne and having a crowd of moles bowing and scraping may seem to some to be the right sorot of kingliness. Not so. He only is a king whose character is such that he is able to be the servant of people.

In the royalty of the Fellowship of Jesus the first is he who is able to use himself to the best advantage in the world in which he lives.

A kingly soul lays out his own program and sticks to it, hissed at or cheered. If his program is right he sticks to it.

A kingly soul in the fields of life scorns to gather where he has not strewed; will not take without giving equivalents of service.

A kingly soul insists upon justifying his particular life by over-measured contributions of his powers and possessions to the community in which he lives.

A kingly soul prefers being to having.

I have sought diligently for magic in this world and have always come upon—Law.

The more quickly we plan to work out the salvation (reconstruction) of the social order by the unfailing processes of sowing and reaping the more quickly Lord God will come a-walking in this Garden.

If we plant we shall reap; if we flame light people shall see; if we cry out people will hear; if we woo we shall win.

The task of Christ-visioned people is to proclaim a social relationship of friendship's linkin applied to every situation and condition.

We must show that the law of life is a program of relations. There are two that must be related, God and man; and Jesus is not an unnatural, inexplicable term in the equation, but the revealer of God to man, the revealer of the man to himself. Jesus is the true man and woman of our accomplishment. We shall achieve ourselves when the mind that was in him becomes our mind. He that has the Son's has the Son's life. There are no mechanics about salvation, only a new spirit.

Churches justify their existence in administering truth. If a church show the way to God and flame a path to everybody's house that church is fulfilling its mission.

What is Truth? That which ought to be.

We shall bulwark truth by being it.

If we desire to make Jesus a friend to our friends, friendship will be the best demonstration of him.

The simplest way of extending the Kingdom is to live with the King's marks upon us.

The most convincing preaching of Jesus is the Christ-life in us.

That has the love-marks, comrade.

—James Raplee has moved from the farm to his house on Grove street.

—Miss Grace Cheesman is home from her school duties at Alfred University seriously ill.

—Grant Sherwood is at Elm Valley doing carpenter work for Wesley Osborn this week.

—Dancing party at Harmony Hall, Monday evening, Feb. 7th., Bloss Orchestra. Everyone invited. Bill 75 cents.

—The 43rd annual session of New York State Grange, patrons of Husbandry, is in session, at Jamestown, this week.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Barrett are now nicely located in the McClure residence (formerly the J. C. Green property) on Chestnut street.

—Efforts are being made to construct an improved highway from Wellsville to Bolivar via Allentown, the coming Summer, a distance of fourteen miles.

—Ed Cotter recently lost a valuable cow, and upon examination found that her stomach contained a key, three nails, a number of stones and several buttons.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Richmond have moved from the Everett building on Greenwood street to Wellsville where Mrs. Richmond has opened a dress-making shop.

—Joseph Capitolin has moved his bakery from the Dan Me... building to the Williams store formerly occupied by Fred Franks as a grocery. He will conduct a resturant in connection.

—A tramp appeared at Almond last week and was so abusive to those at whose homes he asked aid that he was placed under arrest. Later physicians pronounced the man insane and he was sent to Willard for treatment.

—F. E. Franks has moved his stock of groceries to the cold storage building, the store formerly occupied by Henry Livermore as a harness shop. Mr. Franks will restock the store and conduct a first class grocery.

—Why don't President Wilson go to Whitesville and give one of his "preparedness" addresses? We should think he would charter a special train and start immediately for that town after reading the anti-preparedness articles in the News.

—There will be no pictures at the Auditorium next Wednesday evening on account of the Lecture Course. On Tuesday evening, Feb. 8th, Mary Pickford will be seen in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," the drama of Faith and Love by Frances Hodgson Burnett.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found the annual announcement of the Sweet Peas and Gladioli of Edgar A. Higgins, of Avoca, N. Y., an enthusiastic lover of flowers whose seeds and bulbs have been grown with such brilliant success by many thousands in nearly every state in the union. For years Mr. Higgins has made a careful study of these floral favorites and his patrons get the benefit of his long experience in selecting only the most beautiful and satisfactory varieties for his collections. He has published a beautifully illustrated four-page folder of both Sweet Pears and Gladioli which he will send free on receipt of request by postal. This paper guarantees that all who send him an order will be both justly and generously treated.

—Seven thousand ... tice medicine in the United States.

—Delos Remington informs the News that he has struck oil.

—The mail carrier on the new route found some of the mail boxes missing.

—If real estate investment chances are interesting to you, today's ads are important to you.

—The Five Hundred Club met with Mrs. Gertrude Burrows on Center street last night.

—The Hi-ess-Much will meet with Mrs. R. A. Pease, Friday evening, Feb. 4th, at 7:30.

—The bear saw no shadow in Andover Wednesday, Feb. 2nd. Now let's see about that warm weather prediction.

—Mrs. Christine Lewis of Belmont is in Andover drilling a company for a play for the benefit of the Lucy Stone Club.

—Mr. and Mrs. White of Hornell buried an infant daughter at Shinglehouse Monday. Mrs. White was formerly Miss Pearl Clair of this village.

—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Church of Voorhes Hill welcomed a fine new daughter, Muriel Erma, yesterday morning. Mrs. Grant Sherwood is with her daughter.

—A number of progressive farmers in this section tapped their sugar bushes during the recent warm spell and made maple syrup, some of it of excellent quality.

—Prof. Raymond Burdick of Allentown has resigned his position in the Allentown High School and moved to Rochester where he has a position in the East High School.

—Mrs. Minnie Leonard of Hornell, Vice President of the State Assembly, was in attendance at the meeting of Andover Rebekah Lodge Wednesday evening. The degree work was put on for her inspection.

—John E. Teiper, the young man that many believe was in some way identified with the murder of his mother and brother in Buffalo, was a student in Alfred University in 1908-10, and well known in this section.

—Don't you pity that poor bear that did not go back to his warm nest because he didn't see his shadow Wednesday? Poor fellow is quite likely to get cold feet if he hangs out in Old Allegany during the month of February.

—If the manufacturers of patent medicines are forced to place the formula upon the container of their medicine by an act of the Legislature, why not make all the physicians write their prescriptions in plain English, so all may read who sees.

—Rev. Leander C. Livermore, D. D. of Westerly, R. I., died Jan. 22nd, at his Winter home in Kissimee, Fla. Mr. Livermore, who was a minister in the Seventh-day Baptist denomination, was born in the town of Independence and was well known throughout this vicinity.

WOULDN'T WEAR GREEN CAP

Alfred, N. Y. Jan. 30.—A student of Alfred University, Brooker by name, was taken from a class-room to the old terra cotta plant and daubed with molasses and feathers, by a bunch of offended students, about 20 in number, because he would not wear one of those tom fool green caps.

WOMAN STRANGLES SELF

Olean, Jan. 31.—The dead body of Mrs. Charles Pierce of Maple Hill was found in her bed this morning. She had put a noose about her neck made from a cord from her underwaist, and hung herself to the bedpost, strangulation causing death. She bade her husband goodbye this morning as he went to his work and seemed as usual, though she had not been in good health. Mrs. Pierce was 55 years old.

M. G. STOUT DEAD

Ex-supervisor M. G. Stout died Thursday morning at his home in Fulmer Valley, town of Independence. Mr. Stout has been in feeble health for the past two years during which time he has suffered several slight shocks.

He has many warm friends in this vicinity.

SOLD INTEREST IN DRAY

...MONDAY-EVENING

...Famous Players in "Jim the Pen...man."

The Famous Players Film Company makes another valuable addition to its stellar forces by introducing the celebrated dramatic star, John Mason, to the screen in a thrilling photo-adaptation of Sir Charles L. Young's world-renowned drama, "Jim the Penman," the heart-gripping story of the great forger who sins for love and whose after-life is one of remorse and retribution. Mr. Mason portrays with great force and dramatic discretion the title character, the man whose clever pen works so much harm to even his most dearly loved, and which finally writes, with his heart's blood his own punishment. With overpowering motives and situations, and a series of tense climaxes, "Jim the Penman" is one of the foremost dramatic successes of the contemporary stage. The unqualified triumph which it scored throughout the entire world was a tribute to its dramatic power and thrilling realism. Its portrayal on the screen, with the added interest provided by the wide latitude of the camera, will not only repeat, but surpass, the success of the original production.

The unadvertised and sparingly advertised store-events, such as actual "price revisions downward" on considerable stocks of goods, were only half worth while—because only half-known to your patrons.

MISSING DRAFT FOUND ON HIM

Looks Rather Dubious For James Pierson of Perry, N. Y. Arrested After Robbery in Saloon.

Hornell, Jan. 31.—A man who gave the name of James Pierson of Perry, N. Y., will be arraigned before Recorder Fay P. Rathbun to-day charged by the police with having robbed Andrew J. McElroy of Dunkirk of a $200 New York draft and $80 in money.

The police say that the draft and $30 of the money was found on Pierson. According to the story McElroy told the police, he was asleep in the back room of a Loder street saloon, and when he awoke he missed his money and draft. While he was asleep the bartended noticed a man hovering about McElroy, and when he was told of the loss he supplied the police with a description of the man, and Pierson was picked up a short time later and the draft found on his person.

"Opportunity news" is always the most interesting news—and the ads in every issue of this paper are full of it.
